Our Next Auction Sale

We will hold our regular auction sale No. 152 on Saturday, May 28th. The Sale contains an unusual collection of stamps and should be observed by each and every collector. Our sales always afford a class of stamps that are needed by all collectors, and therefore every one of our catalogues should be gone over and your bids sent in at once. When our patrons receive our catalogue it should be examined at once and your bids tabulated and sent in without delay. This would greatly assist us in entering the bids and thereby give you better service.

Our sales are practically the only ones that afford the dealers an opportunity to fill in their stocks. We are always offering a line of wholesale lots that cannot be bought to any better advantage than in our regular Auctions. These are opportunities not offered the average dealer.

portraits, and the other four bear pictures of various events that play an important part in the history of "Our Lady of the Snows." The Prince and Princess are represented on one stamp, the King and Queen, Montcalm and Wolfe, and Cartier and Champlain on others. The pictorial stamps shew views of Quebec in 1700, its old town-hall, Cartier's arrival there in 1535, and a departure of pioneers for the West in 1600. Splendid material this for any teacher.

Newfoundland issued a beautiful commemorative set in honour of its discovery by Cabot, which combined pictures of this intrepid sailor with the views of the various occupations and industries of the isle—i.e., cod-fishing, mining, caribou-hunting, etc.

The issues of the Transvaal afford us a complete history of the colony. First we had rough, clumsy stamps bearing the crest of the South African Republic, with the inscription in Dutch; after the first British Occupation, in 1880, these stamps were overprinted Transvaal V.R. They were then superseded by stamps bearing Queen Victoria's head. After Majuba, the Boers, pending a new issue of their own, surcharged or overprinted these Queen's Head stamps with the initials of the state, Z. A. R.

During the Boer War of 1899-1902, the South African Republic's stamps were again overprinted V. R. I.; later, after the death of Queen Victoria, E. R. I. Then followed the present issue bearing the portrait of King Edward.

A study of the early French issues throws interesting sidelights on the many changes of Government—the First Republic, the presidency of Louis Napoleon, the Coup d'Etat, the fall of the Dictator, and the return of France to Republicanism once more.

The stamps of Chili, Peru, and Spain all shew the changes and revolutions that have taken place in their careers, while many stamps bear excellent views of places of interest. The farthing stamp of Malta bears a fine picture of Valetta Harbour; the penny St. Helena shews us Napoleon's prison and the Government House; while each of the present issues of New Zealand and Tasmania bear beautifully engraved representations of the various show-places of the colony.

Watermarks and varieties of paper—i.e., wove and laid—can form a good introduction to a lesson on paper-making, while the varieties of printing—i.e., engraving, lithography, and surface-printing—offer material for a most interesting lesson.

About three years ago I began to try to popularize stamp collecting in the elementary school in which I am engaged, and at the present time there are about fifty keen collectors among the boys, two of whom are now busily engaged in constructing a philatelic map of the world, the boundaries of each country being outlined in its own stamps. I am now able to give little lectures on stamps of various countries, and some short time ago set the following examination paper, which was very successfully answered:

Questions.

1. What is meant by commemorative issues? Name three such, and give details of what they commemorate.
2. What distinctions can you draw between a colony, a dependency, and a protectorate? Give examples of each.
3. Name any six stamps that tell you the productions of their country, and say what those productions are.
4. Trace the history of Crete from its stamps.
5. What country or countries rule in the following:—Sudan, Ivory Coast, Uganda, Morocco, Cuba, Java? and say how you know.
6. What countries use the following coins:—Mark, heller, gulden, peseta, kopec, anna, ore, para, millieme? Name another coin of each country, and give some idea of the value of both in English money.

I append a selection of answers to the above, given by boys whose ages range between 12 and 14 and feel that a very brief consideration of them will convince any teacher of the great educational value of foreign stamps:

Answers.

1. A commemorative issue is one that is printed to bring to a nation's memory some event, war, or person in that nation's history.

The Columbus issue of the United States commemorates the 400th anniversary of its discovery in 1492; the large Swiss stamps of 1900 call to mind the 25th anniversary of the establishment of the Universal Postal Union at Basle; while the large Spanish Pictorials of 1905 remind us of the 300th anniversary of the birth of Cervantes, the author of "Don Quixote."

2. A colony is a territory ruled by a country in which the majority of the inhabitants belong to the home country—i.e., Australia.

In a dependency the majority of the inhabitants are natives—i.e., India.

In a protectorate the native king still rules, under the guidance of the country that protects it—i.e., Zanzibar.

3. Bahama 1d, pineapples; Labuan 12 cent, crocodile skin; Liberia 1 cent, ivory; Guadeloupe 1 cent, bananas; Canada 1 cent, maple sugar; Perak 5 cent, tiger skins.

4. Crete was first ruled by Turkey, as Turkish stamps were first used there. In 1898 the Powers took the island from Turkey on account of her ill-rule, and Great Britain and Russia both issued stamps for use in Crete. In 1900 a new set of stamps was issued bearing a portrait of Prince George of Greece, who was called upon to rule the island. Last year all the Cretan stamps were overprinted with the word "Hellas" (Greece), and the island is now a Grecian colony.

5. (a) The Ivory Coast is ruled by France. Its stamps bear the initials R. F. (Republique Francaise) and the words "Cote d'Ivoire."

(b) Uganda is governed by Great Britain. The head of King Edward is seen on its stamps.

(c) Morocco seems to be under the protection of several countries, as stamps of Great Britain, France, Spain, and Germany have all been surcharged for use in Morocco.

(d) Cuba used to be ruled by Spain, as its old stamps bore the head of King Alfonso. After the American War, stamps of the United States were overprinted "Cuba." It is now a republic under the guidance of the United States.

(e) Java is a Dutch colony. Its stamps have on them the words "Nederlandsche Indie" and a portrait of Queen Wilhelmina.

6. Mark worth 1s, used in Germany. Other coin, pfennig, 1-10d. 100 pfennig worth 1 mark.

Heller worth 1-10d, in Austria. Other coin, kronen, 10d, 100 heller worth 1 kronen.

Gulden worth 1/2d, in Holland. Other coin, cent, 1-5d. 100 cents worth 1 gulden.

Peseta worth 10d, in Spain. Other coin, centime, 1-10d. 100 centimes worth 1 peseta.

Kopeck worth 1/4d, in Russia. Other coin, rouble, 2s. 100 kopeck worth 1 rouble.

Anna worth 1d in India. Other coin, rupee, 1s 4d. 16 annas worth 1 rupee.

Ore worth 1/2d, in Denmark. Other coin, krona, 1s 1d. 100 ore worth 1 krona.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—A. W. Dunning, who has been abroad during the winter months, has now returned and may be found at his old address, Newton, Mass.

—The Chicago Addressing Co., Chicago, Ill., is sending out advertising matter in an envelope printed in green ink. In a panel at the right is a figure of Franklin in the act of making an address, the head being supplied by means of the one-cent stamp with which the envelope is mailed. It is a unique conceit. Thanks to Franklin S. Smith for specimens submitted.

—Clippings received from Jno. F. Hinson, Hugo Kuenstler (8), A. A. Hyde, Henry MacConnell (4), David H. Brandt and Jas. D. Patterson.

—A Madison, Wis., correspondent submits a memorandum from the colonial postmaster at St. Vincent upon which the following notation is made:—"The only stamps without dot are the 1p and 6p. The 2 1/2p. has never been changed." Our friend writes:—"In view of the statement that appeared in your paper a couple of months ago to the effect that the 2 1/2p had appeared in the new type without dot, the above information from an official source will no doubt be welcome."

—We quote the following from a letter just at hand, but in doing so express the opinion that the method described is not an entirely new one:—"I have devised a method, original so far as my knowledge goes, of enclosing stamps between plates of glass by the use of passepartout tape. This is an extremely useful means of keeping and exhibiting delicate chalky paper stamps in blocks, and enables one to handle them with impunity. The watermarks can be nicely seen by holding stamps up to the light."

EDITORIAL.

A Coincidence—In one of the London newspapers that told of the death of King Edward, an item appeared telling of the proposed issue "in a few weeks" of a new British stamp, a seven pence, slate-grey, and particulars were furnished of the design. If the stamp really is issued to meet some urgent need, it will be a most interesting example of posthumous stamp. Should it be decided that it be issued with the portrait of King George, it will be the first of the new king's heads even though some delay must elapse before the selection of portrait and change of design can be made.

"A Pleasant Time Was Had"—From all reports, we judge that the second Philatelic Congress of Great Britain held in London recently was a success from every view-point with the possible exception of that of attendance of the public. In opening the congress, the Earl of Crawford said that he was acting not alone for himself but as the direct representative of H. R. H., the Prince of Wales, now the King of England. The social side was distinctly happy and no opportunity was neglected to make the congress an impressive one in all respects. Our readers have been given an idea of the reformatory measures that were passed and other work accomplished. As for the lighter aspects, the banquet was "brilliantly successful," says Alfred Smith & Son's Monthly Circular, to which nothing is sacred evidently, as it proceeds to say: "Even the discomfort of the inevitable flashlight photography and the strident bellings of that time-worn British institution, the toastmaster, passed almost unperceived."

from the office of the Mexican Ocean Mail and Inland Company, we notice the words: "We shall also establish a weekly line of steamers from New Orleans to Vera Cruz, (one steamer is now running there, and another now building;) and with the use of the new envelopes—when they appear—we shall actually afford a weekly line from New Orleans to San Francisco; and if the steamers on the Pacific could be arranged, we could make a daily line to San Francisco in sixteen days." The envelopes referred to were the first issue of the United States, 1853.

Old Postal Report—In the year 1839, George Plitt, special agent of the United States postoffice department was honored with a commission to visit Europe "for the purpose of collecting and reporting useful information in relation to the mail arrangements which long experience, as well as modern improvements, have introduced into the post-office establishments of the principal nations of the continent." In accordance with instructions, he sailed from New York on the 13th of June, 1839, and his return was made August 9th, 1840. During his period of absence, Mr. Plitt visited the postal departments of England, Scotland, France, Belgium, Saxony, Prussia, Austria, Bavaria, Wurttemberg, Baden, and the free Hanseatic cities of Frankfurt, Hamburg, Bremen, and Luebeck. In November, 1840, Mr. Plitt submitted his report to John M. Niles, the postmaster-general and a copy of this interesting document has come under our notice, and, as may be imagined, it contains much information for the philatelic historian of today. It is evident that Mr. Plitt was an excellent selection for the performance of the duties of his assignment as the data that he presented was compiled with unusual intelligence. Mr. Plitt had been an agent of the department for seven years before he started on his European mission and he was well versed in the business of a postal kind. He had visited the principal post-offices in the states and territories and the defects of the system of the day had been recognized frequently by him. After his tour abroad, his convictions that a decided reform was necessary in this country were freely and forcibly voiced.

Met Rowland Hill—It may be mentioned that Mr. Plitt was in Europe when Rowland Hill's penny post system was adopted and Mr. Plitt was generous in praise of the distinguished man who is the real patron saint of philately. He refers to Mr. Hill as one to whom he is especially indebted for courteous consideration; both Mr. Hill and Lieutenant Colonel Maberly, the secretary of the post-office of London, were named particularly as having granted him valuable information with marked kindness. However, Mr. Plitt says that without exception he was the recipient of attentions and favors from the heads of the departments in the different countries that he visited. In his report to the postmaster-general, Mr. Plitt placed specimens of the English stamps; and in this connection, it is said: "Stamps of one penny and two pence each were first introduced on the 6th of May, 1840; and since that period, there has been an increase of nearly 300,000 letters taking the week ending on the 26th of April and comparing it with the week ending 21st June. These stamps are a great convenience to the corresponding public as they can at all times be carried in the pocket, and, by wetting them slightly, they will adhere most closely to the letters upon which they are placed. Envelopes of half a sheet of paper are also in use. The price of these is 1/4d each; but they are by no means as convenient as the stamps. They have, however, been used as a medium of advertising, by many persons having their notices printed on the inside. When this is the case, they are sold to the stationers for ten and eleven pence per dozen."

* * *

The Benton Bill—To revert to the "Benton Post-Office" five-cent piece of scrip, "due the bearer, five cents payable in postage, 1838," that was illustrated in the Stamp Journal, and which was mentioned in this column in the preceding issue, the following explanation is in order. During the bank suspension of the years 1837 and 1838, "shin-plasters," as they were popularly called, were issued by many individuals, firms and corporations to replace the specie which sought a hiding-place at the first indications of panic. With the expansion of this irredeemable paper currency, coin attained a premium, and soon it had practically disappeared from ordinary commercial channels. Paper that in many instances became worthless was issued by the bale; it was not long before this inflated currency collapsed but for some time, it was the only medium available and so, it was generally used. The postmaster at Benton did not propose to pay out coin in change for shin-plasters; he used his scrip for protection and convenience and solely for postal business, as the absence of his name on the note would signify. However, we assume that the government would not accept shin-plasters from the postmasters; but that is another story. The curiosity has an admitted interest and our theory that the scrip in question was issued from Benton, Michigan, cannot be proved by any evidence yet at hand; and so, Benton, Missouri, may have the distinction, as the place of issue.

New Special Large Packet List Free.

A NEW BRITISH 2d POSSIBLE.

The 2d stamp now printed in green and carmine on chalk surfaced paper is very shortly to be superseded by a stamp of new design and printed in one operation in a curious tint of red-violet on unsurfaced paper with the usual Crown watermark.

The design for the new stamp is somewhat similar to the one it is about to supersede, but the words "Postage and Revenue" instead of being at the top of the stamp are in curved labels at the sides of the head which is in a circle with white ground and surmounted by a Crown as usual. The value is on a shield-shaped tablet at the foot with ornaments at each side, these giving an appearance of wings attached to each side of the shield. The margins between the stamps are plain as in the present issue and the margin line round the sheet is broken between the stamps as is now usual on all new De La Rue plates.

The design, in our opinion, is not as pleasing as in the present issue.

Since writing the above we learn, with regret, of the sudden death of His Majesty King Edward VII. It is consequently just possible, that although these new stamps have been printed and are ready for issue, that a further supply of the old green and red will be ordered and the new ones never placed in use. Of this, however, we have not had time to get any definite information.

7d Slate-grey.—This stamp has been placed in issue sooner than we expected; it was on sale at G. P. O. in London, on Wednesday, May 4th, 1910, but only very few were sold till May 5th, which is the earliest date which we have seen on used copies.—Marsh's Weekly Circular.

STAMPS AND REGISTRATION.

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT.

In the last issue of the Stamp Journal Mr. Chas. A. Nast raises a question which is of the greatest importance to collectors, dealers and philatelic societies. It seems that a case came up in which a United States gold dollar with a rare mint mark was sent by registered mail. The little package was lost and in settling the claim the post office refused to place a coin collector's valuation on the lost coin. The package contained a one dollar piece and the owner was reimbursed with one dollar. The postal regulations state: "Indemnity will be paid for the value of domestic first-class sealed registered mail matter, not to exceed $25 in any one case, which has been lost while in the custody of the United States Postal Service." Another regulation says: "In case of loss of registered mail for which indemnity is paid, application for indemnity should be made to the postmaster, etc." I have underlined a few words which indicate, in the first hand, that the indemnity is based on the value of the article lost and is not in the nature of a fixed insurance on which the premium has been paid. From the second regulation we are given to understand that indemnity is not paid in all cases, which means, that registered articles possessing no intrinsic value are not subject to indemnity in case of loss but are simply assured of a safer transportation and a more careful treatment than ordinary mail matter.

The vital question to every sender of approval selections, sales or exchange circuits is: will the Postoffice Department consider cancelled postage stamps as being possessed of an intrinsic value? Will the Department consider a package of unused U. S. stamps of more value than the total face value of the stamps? I fear not. Suppose a block of the current 13 cent stamp on blue experimental paper, of which only ten copies have been discovered, was sent by registered mail and lost. Would the Department be willing to consider its value to the owner and pay the maximum indemnity? I am afraid that 52 cents would be their limit.

With the registration fee raised beyond that demanded in any European country, and taking into consideration the great extent to which collectors and dealers are availing themselves of the registration service, I think American philatelists are entitled to a ruling on this important question, and to have their rights in the premises made clear. I believe that in a majority of registered shipments of stamps, the maximum indemnity, if paid, would only cover a part, and in many cases a very small part of the loss. I am not aware of conditions obtaining in other European countries but I do know, that in Sweden, Norway and Denmark a postal insurance system has been in effective use for about thirty years. In these countries, if you wish to mail a consignment of stamps valued at $500, you take it to the post office, state the value, and against the payment of a premium, which to us would appear insignificant, you obtain an insurance receipt which protects you against loss to the full value of the consignment. Why has the U. S. Post Office Department, or rather Congress, ignored this as well as many other features introduced by European postal administrations for the benefit of the people? Because they would interfere with the lucrative business of the private express companies. The lobby of the latter is too strong for our interests to battle against and we leave that to the people at large, but by united action we should prove strong enough to obtain a consideration by the Post Office Department of our commercial interests as far as the registration feature is concerned. As individuals we stamp collectors are undoubtedly the best customers the registry division of the P. O. Department has, and if we take into consideration the great number of us, to which must be added the large body of dealers, and the philatelic societies, it seems that we represent an interstate commerce, chiefly carried on through the agency of the postal service, that is entitled to all the protection and indemnity in case of loss, that we in good faith are paying for. The indemnity may seem small, and in the case of important stamp shipments it is insignificant but this fact has no bearing on the question of having the authorities recognize used and unused stamps in transit as articles possessed of a distinct and appraisable commercial value.

If any of our dealers or collectors have had any experiences bearing on the question in hand, it would be of interest to the entire philatelic community to learn the details, and if any action on the matter ought to be taken, the American Philatelic Society is pre-eminently the body to which it should be left to do so.

HONG KONG POSTMARKS.

By D. B. ARMSTRONG.

Almost from its inception in May, 1860, the Hong Kong Post Office has maintained branches for the receipt and despatch of letters, etc., and the sale of postage stamps in the various treaty ports of China which have from time to time been thrown open to foreign trade.

They were established in the interests of the British mercantile community in the far East, as at this period there was no organized postal system in operation in the Chinese Empire, and even when a few years later the Imperial Chinese Customs Post actually came into being, its ramifications were of a very limited extent and reliability; and as China has not up to now qualified herself for admission to the Universal Postal Union, they are still maintained, and have proved an inestimable boon to the European residents of the towns in which they are located.

All issues and most values of Hong Kong postage stamps have been on sale at these Chinese agencies, and may be readily recognised by means of their distinctive postmarks.

At first serial numbers consisting of a letter and a figure were employed, the following table furnishing a key to the various offices:

A1	Amoy.	N1	Ningpo.
C1	Canton.	S1	Shanghai.
F1	Foochow.	S2	Swatow.
M1	Macau.	Y1	Yeddo, or Yokohama, Japan.

The agencies which had been established by the British Post Office in Hankow and Kiungchow, China, and Hiogo (Kobe), Japan, were continued under the régime of the Colonial authorities, and made use of the obliterations served out to them by the British Post Office until the discontinuance of all except Hankow in 1879. The following must therefore be added to the list of serial cancellations to be found on the stamps of Hong Kong: D28 Kiungchow, D29 Hankow, D30 Hiogo. Upon those used in Amoy the cancellation D27 may be found as well as the "A1" postmark listed above.

Towards the end of 1885 these serial postmarks were replaced, by order of the Postmaster-General of Hong Kong, by ordinary circular date stamps inscribed with the name of the issuing town only, which served for both dating and cancelling purposes.

From that date onwards, therefore, the obliterations of the following Chinese towns may be found on the contemporary postage stamps of Hong Kong, Shanghai (or Shanghai), Canton, Foochow (or Foochowfoo), Swatow, Amoy, Ningpo, Hankow and Hoihow. Subsequently, offices were also established at Chefoo, Liu-Kung-Tau Island (Wei-Hai-Wei), Port Edward (Wei-Hai-Wei), and lastly Tientsin, and all of these cancellations exist on the current stamps of the Colony. At Port Edward a rubber handstamp struck in violet ink was first employed.

In the "United States Postal Guide, 1907," mention is made of agencies of the Hong Kong Post Office in Hai-ping and Hanoi, Tonquin, established apparently about October 1st, 1877. This is the only reference to these offices that I have been able to discover.

The work of these agencies has increased to such an enormous extent during the past few years that the amount of postal business transacted by them bids fair to outstrip that of the parent office. In fact, the current issue of Hong Kong with the cancellation of the British Post Office at Shanghai is as common, if not commoner, than with the postmark of the head office at Victoria, Hong Kong.

Hong Kong postage stamps bearing the cancellations of Japanese ports, Bangkok, Singapore, Honolulu and towns in China where there is not a regular agency of the Hong Kong Post Office are taken from "Ship Letters," and have no particular philatelic interest.—Stamp Lover.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Albert R. Moore reports having seen the current 2c stamp, with the line under "Cents" broken.

Edward Wintermute reports having found on a package of cigarettes bought in New York, one of the current "20" cigarette stamps of the United States, surcharged "P. I." in purple; but whether it is a part of the obliteration, or printed separately to distinguish the stamps used in the Philippines, we are unable to say.

The postal authorities seem to be experimenting with the new post cards. Naturally enough, they do not appear to have been at all satisfied with the first printing, and this has been twice modified since. On the first card issued, which may be called No. 1, the printing is very dark, the background around the head is heavy and the collar is shaded. In No. 2, the printing is better done, the background not so pronounced, and the collar is not so heavily shaded as No. 1. No. 3 has the whole stamp re-engraved, the lined background around the head has been removed, and the ink used gives a clearer, brighter impression. The figures of value are shaped differently, especially in the slope of the ceriph at the top, and the points of the collar do not come together, as was the case with the first design. There has also been added a frame line within the oval containing the head. We are indebted to Henry A. Mears for information regarding No. 2, and information has also been kindly sent us by William Norwood, Charles R. Morris and others. Mr. Morris informs us that official opinion at Washington is that the latest card looks worse than the others, and that there is liable to be another change soon. The quality of the stock is also being severely criticized, for though the Government is paying more for these cards, there is still difficulty in writing upon them, as the pen tears up the card, unless the writer is very careful.

Howard C. Buttermore reports having found the current special delivery stamp with the date added to the plate number, thus: "5244—09."

George S. Chapman reports finding specimens of the current 2c envelope, No. 5 size, with a line connecting the "W" and "O" of "Two."

BRAZIL.—Hermann Focke writes to say that he has noted with interest the item in No. 1011, regarding the finding by Mr. Phillips of the Stanley Gibbons Co. of the stamp issued to commemorate the meeting of the Pan American Congress at Rio Janeiro in 1909 and which Gibbons' Weekly heralds this as a wonderful discovery. This stamp, which by the way was described in No. 977 of MEKEEL'S, and was fully described and illustrated in a number of French and other European papers last year, is now coming to this country on mail from Brazil, and Mr. Focke reports it as having been seen on a number of letters from Para, showing that it has been admitted to the International mails, and was not limited to an interior postage, nor suppressed, as stated by Gibbons' Weekly. Mr. Focke shows a cover bearing two of these stamps, and reports seeing at least 15 other copies which were used on letters, all paying postage on letters from Para. Mr. Focke says that as these stamps were used on a letter from Para dated as late as May 3, 1910, their place in the catalogue is assured. By the way, Gibbons' Weekly made a curious error in reporting the stamp as issued on account of the opening of a "Medical College." "The gods do sometimes nod!" This is the stamp which has the portraits of the six worthies,—Jose Bonifacio, Washington, San Martin, O'Higgins, Hidalgo and Bolivar.

BRITISH SOLOMON ISLANDS.—Three higher values have now been issued in the new set, and have been shown us by the New England Stamp Co. The stamps are printed on multiple paper, with the watermark sideways, and according to the new color scheme, or rather the supplementary list as printed in No. 1003.

COSTA RICA.—The C. E. Hussman Co. has shown us another value of the new set. The design is quite different from the previous stamps, the values and the "U. P. U." and "1909" inscriptions being worked in to the corners. The portrait is that of Eusebio Figueroa.

ERITREA.—Ewen's Weekly says that pending the arrival of the new pictorial issue, the current 25c Italian stamp has been surcharged "Colonia Eritrea" in black.

FRANCE.—The Postage Stamp says that all the postal issues of France prior to 1876 are shortly to be demonetized.

GIBRALTAR.—Gilbert W. Emerson also sends us information regarding the new 2sh stamp chronicled in No. 1012.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Almost simultaneously with the death of King Edward the British Government put out the new 7d stamp, which had been announced for June or July. This is the first time this value has appeared on the stamps of the Mother Country, and as it is likely that this will be last of British stamps to appear with the portrait of King Edward VII, a melancholy interest will attach to it in the minds of many collectors. The stamp is of the usual size, the design being apparently a combination of the Nyasaland and Somaliland stamps. The value is shown on small shields in the upper corners, with the crown between and surmounting the oval containing the portrait. Like the Somaliland stamps the oval has wreaths at the sides, but like the Nyasaland design, the inscription, which in this case reads "Postage & Revenue," appears in a curved tablet around the bottom of the oval. The lower corners are filled with a floreate design. The stamps are printed on unsurfaced paper, the arrangement of the sheets being the same as the other stamps of the same size in the current set. The new value will be largely used for foreign letters weighing three to four ounces, for inland parcels, weighing between five and seven pounds, or registered inland parcels weighing between two and three pounds. The stamp will also be of use in the telegraph service. The Frank P. Brown Co. was the first to show us the new stamp, but we are also indebted to William Ward and others for information regarding it.

HONDURAS.—W. A. Sisson writes as follows: "I have just received a very interesting cover mailed to one of our wholesale firms from Jegucigalpa, Honduras. The postage necessary was 15 centavos, so the sender used two 6c stamps (No. 123) and a 2c (No. 120) and the upper left diagonal half of 2c (No. 120) as a 1 centavo. The letter was mailed Apr. 10, 1910, and regularly postmarked. Whether or not there was a shortage of the 1c stamp on that date am unable to say, but that this was used with the knowledge of the postal authorities on an ordinary business letter, there is no doubt."

William C. Royle also reports finding a similar split provisional made from a 2c stamp, while E. B. Cookson reported in No. 1003 having found a cover with a 10c stamp similarly treated. In all cases, this difficulty was to make up 15 centavos postage.

INDIA.—Cochin.—Mr. Schachne sends us the latest from this Indian state, consisting of a reply card of same type and size as the former issues with one card having "Reply" in English and native.

MEXICO.—Referring to the note in No. 1010, Gibbons' Weekly reports that the 2c, 4c and 15c of the current set have received the new official surcharge, as well as the 3c, there noted.

NETHERLANDS.—Mr. Schachne shows us a revised form for the 5c card noticed in No. 966. The changes are: (1) The headlines are "Briefkaart" in large block capitals and "Carte Postale" in smaller; (2) "Aan" above "A" instead of "A" before the first address line and (3) "Afzen-

SALVADOR.—The C. E. Hussman Co. has shown us a new value of the set now being issued, the design being the same as those previously chronicled. All the stamps of the new series have the frames printed in a peculiar grade of ink apparently full of varnish, which give the stamps a smudgy, dirty appearance. The stamps are printed in the National Printing Office and evidently the printers are not equal to the treatment of engraved stamps of this class.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Post Office Department is to be congratulated on the improved quality of the new postal cards it is furnishing to the public. The picture of McKinley in the upper right hand corner is not all that could be desired by any means, but hurried correspondents who find they can write on the cards without having their pens catch and spatter them with ink will forgive any pictorial defects.—N. Y. Sun, clipping from MARCEL E. TALLER.

—"I note some papers are describing the new issue for the Azores as having a 'flying dove' beneath the portrait. Inasmuch as the name 'Azores' translated into English means 'hawks' it is fair to presume that the bird represented is undoubtedly a hawk, and as such is symbolic of the 'Hawks Islands'.—C. A. HOWES.

—"I wish to express my appreciation of the beautiful token in your issue of May 14 regarding the passing away of our dearly loved King Edward VII. I am sure my feelings are shared by all your other subscribers who were born under the British flag and no doubt by many others. I thank you."—A. W. WHITTEN.

favorably on the application of A. W. Claflin, 70 So. Main St., Prov., R. I., and he was duly elected to membership.

Mr. Mason, for the Rubber Stamp committee, reported the stamp in question had been secured and turned over to the librarian.

R. F. Chambers exhibited his 1500 variety collection of Confederate States War Envelopes, which without doubt is one of the best north of the "Dixie line".

Voted that the secretary frame the photograph of the old Society group, presented by Walter Baker.

It was decided, after some discussion, to hold a meeting in June, that all might have an opportunity to be present, prior to going away for the summer. It was voted to hold the next meeting the second Wednesday in June (June 8th) instead of the 3rd Wednesday.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322, Tremont Bdg., 7.30 P. M.

BOSTON, MASS., May 17, 1910.

The 226th (regular) meeting was held at the Club Room this evening. President Wylie presided and 36 members and friends were present.

The Preliminary Com. on 20th Anniversary reported a tentative plan for banquet and exhibition of stamps as main features, and recommended a permanent Com. of seven with the President to have full power to arrange and carry the celebration through. Passed. Com. appointed:—Messrs. Batchelder, Wylie, Rothfuchs, Howes, Green, Bartels and Nevin.

It was announced that our fellow-member, Mr. Henry J. Crocker of San Francisco, "hym that found the Hawaiian Isles", would be here on the 25th inst., and the Governing Board had called a special meeting of the Society for that evening at the Parker House to greet him.

It was voted to have a spring lock put on the Club Room door.

The Secretary announced that the Seybold library was packed and ready for shipment to us.

The following applications were posted:—Mr. F. C. Koehnle, Mr. Thos. B. Stillman, Mr. Edward F. Coffin, Mr. Alfred C. Sampson, Mr. Willard B. Savary.

The following were elected members:—No. 526. Alpheus B. Slater.

No. 527. Thomas W. Doster.

The amendment to the Statutes adding a third member to the Library Com. was passed and Mr. A. W. Batchelder elected to fill the position.

The exhibition of United States stamps included two fine collections, one being entered in classes b and d (general issues 1847-75 and departments) and two in class c (general issues 1879-1900). The ribbon was awarded to Mr. Geo. C. Gilmore.

Business meetings 1st Thursdays, exchange meetings 3rd Thursdays, each month, at Victoria Hall, 641 Lexington Av., 8 P. M. Initiation fee $1. Dues $2 yearly. Visitors welcome. All communications are to be addressed to the Secretary.

NEW YORK, May 19, 1910.

The meeting was called to order at 8.45 P. M., with 15 members present. A letter of sympathy, regarding the loss of our late president, Frank J. Wilford, was received from the Richmond County Philatelic Society. The exhibition of Porto Rico will be held on June 16th and it is hoped that a goodly number of members will exhibit their collections of this popular United States colony. An exhibition of the Philippines has been decided upon for September. The subjects of auctions, attendance and new membership were discussed. The rest of the evening was devoted to exchange. Next meeting June 2nd.

NATIONAL AND CONTINENTAL.

By W. T. SMITH, JR.

I note with interest in your last issue the query of Elliott Perry as to the difference between the 24c of the National and Continental printings.

In 1901 I bought an unused copy of the 24c Continental, which was then catalogued at $25.00. Later on I bought a copy of the National, also unused.

Sometime in the early part of this year I got the copies mixed while changing my collection into another album and now to save me I cannot tell which is which. Up to this time I had been very particular as to keeping each copy on its original auction card so that I could tell them apart, but since taking them off the cards and mixing them I am at sea.

I have taken a chance and as one copy is of a much deeper color than the other I call it the National. In his article on these stamps Mr. Luff gives the following secret marks: "Twenty-four cents—The star at the extreme right of the semicircle above the medallion five lines have been much deepened and two others slightly so" (see A. J. of P., Vol XI, page 179). Now an absolutely mint copy might show these marks but such copies are very rare and I have never seen a copy so perfect that one could tell the different printings by such secret marks. The copies which I have are to my mind as fine as I have ever seen but even under a powerful glass the stars refuse to give me the desired information.

And while you are on this particular issue why not say something about the 3c also? I venture to say that this stamp is difficult to a great number of collectors as it was for a long time to me. I have in my possession now an approval selection from one of the largest dealers in the country which selection contains a 3c of both National and Continental printings (supposedly). As a matter of fact both copies are of the same printing. The illustrations of the secret marks on the 3c as given in the catalog are of no use whatever to the ordinary collector, in fact, there is practically no difference in the illustrations.

I trust that some one will come forward in our time of need and elucidate on these matters.

were appearing on paper watermarked 1903. Mr. J. M. Bartels has a letter from the Department stating that they had allowed the contractors to purchase white paper which the previous contractors had left, permission being given to use this paper for printing the 1c, size 13, and 2c, sizes 5 and 13. No attention appears to have been paid to these restrictions as this watermark has been found on nearly all sizes.

Die:—The following description of the die varieties of this issue, formulated by the American Envelope Society seems to the author to be the most accurate and concise statement of the distinguishing points, so far published, and is therefore copied without alterations.

CUT 8

FOUR CENTS (black). Die A, "F" and figure "4" 1mm. apart. Wide "U" in "FOUR" (see cut 7). Die B, "F" and figure "4" 2mm. apart. Narrow "U" in "FOUR" (see cut 8).

FIVE CENTS

CUT 10

FIVE CENTS (blue). Die A, "F" over 2 1/2mm. long (see cut 9). Die B, "F" less than 2mm. long (see cut 10).

Color:—The 1c stamp is found printed in light and dark green. The 2c appeared first in brown-red (not red-brown as the color is sometimes erroneously called); later in carmine, both of which vary somewhat, principally in depth of color. The 4c comes in black and the 5c in dark blue. The 2c is sometimes found in a pale carmine which might be called pink.

Gum:—Regarding gum, probably all that can be said is that one variety, 2c S. 13., die C on blue is known ungummed, in error. Size 8, 1c white and amber can now be furnished gummed.

of the envelope, known as linotype setting, because set up on a linotype machine. In the regular form of request the different lines are centered one under another, while in the linotype setting, all begin under one another at the left (see cut 11). The principal interest in this setting is that it indicates the earliest printing, having been used for a few weeks only. It was soon replaced, so many complaints having been made against it.

Errors, Albinos, Etc. This issue is prolific in errors, due to carelessness or inexperience on the part of the contractors. The most collectable of these are, in the opinion of the author, albinos, that is, envelopes which have received the embossed impression, but no color. All varieties of the one-cent have been found albino, except sizes two on white and amber, six on white, and eight on amber; and all the two cent sizes except two on amber, blue and buff, three on buff, and fourteen on amber. No four or five cent sizes have been seen except the four cent size seven on white, and five cent, size five on white.

Freaks:—Of freaks there seems to be no end, and it would be useless to try to list them, as hardly any two are alike, and many of them are very minor varieties. Among the kinds of freaks which may be found, are double envelopes, that is, one envelope folded inside the other, sometimes both having the impression in color, and sometimes only the outer one; triple envelopes;

PHILADELPHIA STAMP COMPANY,

PERCIVAL PARRISH, PRESIDENT, 1204 CHESTNUT STREET, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

CROCKER'S $5000 STAMP IS ADMIRER.

(A rare privilege has been afforded the members of the Boston Philatelic Society through the visit of Henry J. Crocker of San Francisco to this city. Mr. Crocker arrived in Boston Tuesday, May 24, and on that evening through the courtesy of the New England Stamp Co., met a number of the members of the society at the Boston City Club. A very enjoyable occasion resulted, those present being given the privilege of an inspection of Mr. Crocker's celebrated Hawaiian collection, after partaking of the bountiful hospitality extended by the hosts of the evening. A pretty souvenir of the occasion consisted of a half-tone illustration of the entire upon which are three 13c "Missionaries" as found in his collection. Mr. Crocker expressed his great appreciation of the courtesy extended him. The dinner and reception tendered on Wednesday evening by the Boston Philatelic Society were both highly successful and to show the attention that it received from the press we quote the following article from the Boston Herald, the same being accompanied by a portrait of Mr. Crocker. The genuine philatelic enthusiasm displayed by Mr. Crocker, coupled with his pleasing personality, will make his visit to Boston one long to be remembered.—Ed.)

A bit of paper, nothing more than a postage stamp, and valued at $5000 was the piece de resistance at the special meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society, held last evening (May 25—Ed.) in Young's Hotel, in honor of Henry J. Crocker of San Francisco, to whom the stamp belonged. If this was the thing of greatest interest there were many other rarities in the specialized collection of Hawaiian stamps exhibited by Mr. Crocker.

At 6 o'clock a dinner was given in Mr. Crocker's honor, Willard O. Wylie, president of the Boston Philatelic Society, presiding. Among the leading philatelists present were L. L. Green, C. A. Howes, A. W. Batchelder, C. F. Rothfuchs, E. M. Carpenter, C. K. B. Nevin, J. M. Bartels and others of this city, W. C. Stone of Springfield, Freeman Putney, Jr., of New York and others.

At the conclusion of the dinner a special meeting of the Boston Society was held and the greetings of the society were extended by President Wylie.

In his reply to the welcome accorded him Mr. Crocker spoke at length upon the stamps of the Hawaiian islands. His collection was exhibited, the value of it being estimated from $35,000 to $50,000.

The first American missionaries arrived in Hawaii in 1820. To them is due the introduction of the printing press in 1822, the publication of native newspapers in 1834, the establishment of the first newspaper in English in 1836 and the introduction of postage stamps in 1851. It is thus that the first Hawaiian stamps here come to be known as "missionaries", no less than 18 being found in Mr. Crocker's collection.

The rarest of these missionary stamps is the 2-cent value, of which Mr. Crocker has one, and only 12 are known to exist. One is in the museum at Honolulu, one in the Postal Museum at Berlin and two in the British Museum. The remaining copies are in the collections of H. J. Duveen, London (2); George H. Worthington, Cleveland (2); M. Ferrary, Paris (2); while the remaining copy is in a celebrated Boston collection.

Mr. Crocker began stamp collecting in 1871, and from the beginning had a predilection for these stamps, for which he has become famous. Not only has his fame spread throughout this country, but he is known as one of the world's most famous philatelists. In the San Francisco earthquake and fire 11 of his 43 stamp albums were destroyed, his greatest loss being a superb specialized collection of Japan, the finest of that country ever brought together.

Mr. Crocker's visit to Boston has provided the Boston Philatelic Society with one of the finest exhibits it has ever been privileged to make.

envelopes with misplaced stamp, which stamp may be anywhere on the envelope, front or back; envelopes which are very much torn or damaged; partial albinos; big heads, due to worn dies, or dies which have spread; and impressions with spots of color, or spots of white, which spots may be anywhere on the stamp. One of the most interesting varieties is a watermarked envelope which has no impression of any kind on it, either embossing or color. This has been found in sizes three and five on white; of course there is no value. A few envelopes have been found on horizontally laid paper. This occurs generally on size eleven, the square size, and is due to the paper having been improperly fed into the machine. It has occurred on other sizes.

EDITORIAL.

King George Stamps.—In due time, the head of King George will replace that of the departed King on the postage stamps and the coinage. From the English newspapers, we gather the following information: "The designs will be submitted to the King—who is an authority on stamps—and will afterwards be set out in a royal proclamation. Upon the coins, King George will look to the left, as Queen Victoria did, instead of the right, as in the King Edward coinage, as the position alternates in succeeding reigns. It was eleven months after the accession of King Edward before the proclamation concerning the new coins was issued."

Who Knows?—On the flap of an envelope bearing a five-cent, 1847, that was sent from New York to Philadelphia, an impression is noticed that may be described as follows: The wood-cut is well executed and is printed in dull blue; it is circular in form, 32 mms. in diameter, and has sharp serrations around the edge. At the top in colorless letters is: Message Bird Office, and at bottom: 233 Broadway, N. Y.; the central design is a carrier pigeon flying above the clouds, with a letter in its claws. We are told that envelopes with this marking are found occasionally and we are curious to know what the significance is of the imprint. Is it the impression of the stationers who sold the envelopes to the public at a period in the '40's when envelopes were somewhat of a novelty? Or has it reference to mail facilitation undertaken by the Message Bird Office? Perhaps, the Message Bird was a publication of some kind.

natural attractions of the city will be amply fortified through the intelligent effort of the local philatelists. The combination is one to ensure a large and representative attendance; and the opportunity that will be presented for philatelic work and play will be one that really should not be neglected. The reports that have been received of the recent London congress of philatelists whet one's desire to participate in the coming American convention.

As Advertised.—The United States Automatic Vending Company will market about June 1st, their Junior Model stamp selling machine and with the addition of this pattern, the company says that their line of machines is complete. The new type of machine will have two mechanisms, one for the one-cent and the other for the two-cent stamp and the vendor may be fastened to counter or shelf or attached to the frame work. The Model Junior is offered at a low figure to postmasters and in all likelihood it will be in some popular demand; at least, it is safe to predict that the stamp-selling machine will soon be no novelty even in the isolated sections of the country. The company says that their product is recommended as dispensing with the services of an attendant in selling stamps and as allowing the public to purchase stamps when the office is closed. The large machines of this company selling, one, two and five cent stamps are seen in many of the large cities; the stamps are imperforate at sides.

A Few Quotations.—A reader has sent us several letters that were received from Niue and Northern Nigeria, respectively, some years ago, from each one of which, we take a sentence. The Resident Commissioner, Niue, says: "With regard to Niue postage stamps, no cancelled stamps are obtainable here; the unused stamps may be purchased from the Post Office to value of remittance by M. O. and the stamps will be cancelled if desired." The Secretary to the Administration, Zungeru, Northern Nigeria, says: "I regret that it is not possible to supply you with cancelled stamps of the higher denominations as they are only used for legal documents and payment of certain fees." In the instance of Niue, the stamps would be canceled if desired, said the officer wishing to be accommodating. We suppose that there are comparatively few countries where a person of some standing could not succeed in having unused stamps canceled "to oblige." As for Northern Nigeria, while the use of the higher denominations for fiscal purposes is common, yet the growing postal demand for them cannot be controverted.

of the Thomasville locals, the existence of a ten-cent as well as a five-cent provisional having been proved through the courtesy of Thomas Semmes, Jr., vide issue of May 14th. Mr. Roessler says: "Mr. Semmes, Jr., states the facts correctly when he says that the Thomasville locals bear the address of Mrs. Wm. H. Hall of Milledgeville, although I believe that a few were addressed to a relative of the same name, a judge. Mrs. Hall told me that she had only one of the 'Ten Paid.' In her first letter, Mrs. Hall stated that she had originally eighteen of the provisionals, so that Mr. Semmes' surmise that there were eight in the lot he received is reasonably correct. The Scott Company lists only the second issue, Thomasville, the circular type, on white, although I have one on orange."

Cards in Sheets.—The departmental order has been issued that the new one cent postal card will be made in sheets of thirty cards each instead of sheets of sixteen cards as announced several months previously. The sheet cards will be packed in cases of 12,000 cards, says the announcement, and requisitions should be drawn for that quantity or multiples thereof. The cards are valid for postage only when they are cut to regulation size, 3¼ by 5½ inches. The new card seems to be meeting with a favorable reception; a condition that is the exception to the rule in the case of our postal card issues.

Pleasant People.—A new interest will attach to the stamps of British New Guinea and Papua in the mind of the collector who reads "Wanderings Among South Sea Savages," by H. Wilfred Walker, F. R. G. S., who went to Papua in search of rare birds and butterflies, not stamps. Of the Papuan cannibals, the author says:

"The Papuans, as a rule, do not torture their prisoners for the mere idea of torture, though they have often been known to roast a man alive, for the reason that the meat is supposed to taste better thus. . . . But this Dobodura tribe had a system of torture that was brutal beyond words. In the first place, they always try to wound slightly and capture a man alive, so that they can have fresh meat for many days. They keep their prisoner tied up alive in the house and cut out pieces of his flesh just when they want it, and we were told, incredible as it seems, that they sometimes manage to keep him alive for a week or more, and have some preparation which prevents him from bleeding to death."

A gentle, airy bit of description. Evidently, the softening influence of the postage stamp still has its task to perform in Papua; in fact, a perfect avalanche of issues might be needed to refine the playful Papuans to the needle-point of perfection.

QUERIES AND COMMENT.

Edited by C. E. SEVERN.

Our readers are cordially invited to ask the editor for any information desired concerning stamp collecting. Should a personal reply be desired kindly enclose postage. This department is for the beginner as well as the advanced collector. Address, C. E. Severn, 721 Oxford Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

C. B.:—Our correspondent submits three stamps for examination. One is a 5pf., Germany, 1889, in a slate color, instead of the usual green; it is a good example of changeling, inasmuch as the reaction was so unforced as to show no traces of the change in the ink or paper. The second stamp is the 25c, France 1903, with a circular blank space the size of a pin-head between the figures 2 and 5; the minor variety enthusiast would welcome this curiosity to his collection. The third stamp is the 25c, France, 1870-71, that is a decided creased paper oddity; the blank space where the paper was stretched is one millimeter in width; it ranks well with some of the creased paper varieties of the civil war period, United States revenues.

O. W. H.:—This reader says: "I have a two-cent United States Express Company stamp, black on blue paper. The impression measures 52 1-2 by 30 millimeters; no picture; across top, 'Two Cents,' with figure 2, at either side; below, 'Prepaid.' 'Two' in large letters at bottom is crossed by 'T. C. Platt, President.' Printed by New York Bank Note Company. Can you give the history of this stamp?" This specimen is akin to that issued by some of the other express companies; such stamps are of different denominations and are used as a convenience in the transaction of express business. Little attention is given them, as they are not postage stamps, and we know of no lists of these labels.

E. G.:—"Why is not an unused stamp without gum worth as much as a used copy? For instance, in the catalogue, Hawaii, No. 34 is priced $2.50 unused, $1.25 used and 50 cents, unused without gum." In the case of the Hawaiian stamp named, the gumless stamps were stuck together in sheets and were marketed after they had been separated by soaking; consequently, the gum disappeared and the color shows traces of the immersion in water and the paper is generally tinged with pink.

R. W. S.:—This subscriber says: "I have two varieties of Wells, Fargo & Co. franks, 'Paid, Wells, Fargo & Company. Through our California & Atlantic Lines,' and 'Wells, Fargo Express, Sonora,' respectively. The franks are impressed on ten-cent green envelopes, 1853, die 4, with red and green ink, respectively." The latest list of western franks of which we know is that compiled by H. B. Phillips and published as a part of "Mekeel's Complete Catalogue," 1895. The use of United States stamped envelopes by the early express companies was ruled obligatory by the government, which thereby compelled the payment of the government fee by the private carriers, who charged variously for the envelopes which bore their franks. There are so many different franks that the collecting of them may be made a very satisfactory specialty.

T. B.:—The progressive series of numbers on the backs of the Spanish stamps are impressed for the purpose of protecting the use of the stamps and discouraging counterfeiting.

By CHARLES E. JENNEY.

In the Postage Stamp of April 16th, Mr. Melville begins an article designed to interest the general public by presenting the noteworthy stamps and the leading events of philatelic history in such compass and in such a way as to command attention. It gives those main facts that should be at the end of every collector's tongue for the information of the uninitiated. It is so illustrated as to add to the interest.

In the April Philatelic Journal of Great Britain the leading article is Mr. Pemberton's on the 1867 issue of Egypt. It is illustrated with good cuts. He claims, from die proofs, in his possession, that the stamps were first engraved on metal and then transferred to stone, instead of being drawn directly on the stone as has heretofore been held.

The May Stamp Lover opens with an interesting and painstaking article on the first type of Holland. Among the illustration is noticed the "horn on forehead" variety. Both the imperforate and the perforate issues are dealt with. Verily the day of the specialist is at hand and it is doubtful if in any other line can so complete a record of the least details of the past be brought to light as is shown in philately.

Gibbons Stamp Weekly of April 30th opens with an article on Heligoland more interesting for its geological and historical description than for anything new philatelically. Had Heligoland continued an English colony till now it would undoubtedly have a view of itself for the design on its stamps, the little island about a third of a mile square adapting itself readily to such pictorial representation, as will be seen by a glance at the illustration in aforesaid Weekly. This country holds a unique position both philatelically and geologically. In the first case, almost overwhelmed by the flood of reprints it has almost been lost sight of by the average collector; and in the second case, almost overwhelmed by the waves of the Baltic, it is rapidly disappearing from sight forever, according to statistics. Some of us may live to look back upon Heligoland as a myth.

The May 7th of the foregoing paper continues Heligoland, having some excellent illustrations of pairs and blocks and giving some detailed varieties.

The thoroughness of our Masters of Philately is well illustrated in the article on the Native Indian state of Sorouh by Maj. E. B. Evans. Not only are all the post-offices in the state listed but the different mail routes and the salary of the postmaster and his assistants down to the last peon. All this trouble about a country whose stamps he cannot even decipher the characters on. He describes the first issue as hand-struck in water colour. Those specimens I have seen seemed rather done in oils, at least the coloring matter applied gave the paper an oiled-paper effect.

I don't want to arouse a post-office scandal in asking the following conundrum: what British colony once permitted the engraver's name to appear a prominent part of the design, in large letters and one of the most noticeable parts of the whole design?

The Postage Stamp of the 7th of May contains the account of the opening of the Second Philatelic Congress of Great Britain under the auspices of the Prince of Wales, now King of England. The Earl of Crawford made the opening speech and was a prominent figure throughout. His collection was exhibited to the delegates at his home and we notice that his United States stamps were contained in 42 volumes. How many American specialists can boast such a display?

The list of British postmarks in Gibbons Stamp Weekly is carried to 1099, which is the highest number used, and begins on the lettered series, many of which were used in the colonies. Jamaica A 01 to A 83 are listed according to the towns. When this list is completed it should be bound separately or published in book form for it is of greatest interest to careful collectors of Great Britain and her colonies.

The J. W. Scott Co., Ltd., 36 John St., New York.REMARKS OF MR. CROCKER.

(Parlor 12 of Young's Hotel was none too large to accommodate the members of the Boston Philatelic Society and their friends who on Wednesday evening, May 25, gathered to enjoy the privilege of seeing the great Hawaiian collection of Henry J. Crocker. No less than eighteen "missionaries" were displayed, including one of the exceedingly scarce 2c value. In numerals there was a bewildering array. Page after page showed these stamps plated to a nicety and Mr. Crocker proved his claims to being a true philatelist by his knowledge of his philatelic possessions. Just prior to the exhibit of the evening Mr. Crocker made a few remarks, which we give herewith.—Ed.)

I echo your chairman's sentiments, and I think you all ought to join the Boston Philatelic Society, because the people of California, the collectors out there, all look up to Boston people. They like to get from them their sheets and their stamps. The San Francisco collectors have a reputation, I think, of being rather keen collectors. Some of the best men of the business have gravitated from San Francisco, people like John N. Luff, who used to be our leading collector in San Francisco, and Mr. Sellschopp of Hamburg, who is considered very strong in Europe.

I think you people would rather look at stamps than hear speeches, but if you will allow me, I want to make a few remarks about the Hawaiian stamps, which I am sure will interest all of you. The stamps of Hawaii have never been thoroughly understood, because there were no postal data kept of the government regulations from 1851 to 1866, and after collecting some twenty years I started in to write about Hawaiian stamps, that is, a little over twenty years ago when I made my initial attempt to tell what I knew about Hawaiian stamps, and within the last year or two published a book on the early Hawaiian stamps, and intimated that the later stamps were also of absorbing interest.

The later issues of Hawaiian stamps, that is, take the 1875 issue, are very interesting. You can buy many of those stamps from 20c up to 75c, and the 6c green, 2c rose and 18c rose have a rather interesting history which I do not think is generally known.

The first orders were placed with the National Bank Note Co. and issued in 1875 and later on, I think, in 1885, the American Bank Note Co. had the plates turned over to them. Now the plates were originally engraved by the National Bank Note Co. and when they were turned over to the American Bank Note Co. there were some of those plates sent to the American Bank Note Co., which were somewhat worn and at least three of the plates went to the engraving department of the American Bank Note Co. and in some cases the re-engraving shows very plain. The American Bank Note Co. in order to designate those plates placed their name, using the monogram, ABC. If you have collected an 18c rose and if you find in your collection that you have what you might call two shades you can be almost sure that one is a re-engraved stamp. Furthermore the American Bank Note Co. printed some of those on a coarse wove paper. Anyone who finds a 12c Hawaiian stamp on this coarse paper of the American Bank Note Co. has a good thing and we are just as liable to pick one up for 10c as for $50.00.

In regard to some of the local dealers, they claim when they get caught that they simply throw out a little bait. I like the bait when they send me a $30.00 stamp for 30c. That's what we like about collecting stamps,—that is the keenness of getting a collection together, and I have seen many a collector show his collection and point with pride at a stamp he picked up at a certain time at a low price.

After the earthquake our society disbanded, or rather scattered. A lot spent most of their time getting their worldly goods together instead of collecting stamps.

We have now got our people together out there and I am sure they are going to hear with great interest of the beautiful welcome you have given me tonight. And in return if I can give you any pleasure in showing you this collection that I have worked on for over thirty years, it will please me to do so. I am very much obliged for your attention.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Evidently our correspondents are beginning to study their 2c Columbian stamps, for we have received several notes this week, pointing out defects or so-called "secret marks", in various parts of the stamp. Some of these discoveries may not be of great philatelic value, but they are all interesting, and some of them may point the way to really valuable errors. For instance, William Borgerding has found a copy which has the outside vertical line at the right lower corner missing for 2 mm., or as far as the top of the tablet containing the inscription "Landing of Columbus."

Referring to the note from the Economist Stamp Co. regarding a cap on the "2" of the 2c Columbian, D. Rainey writes that he has found a colorless line over the "2", but with a line of color between the figure and the white mark. It is very distinct over the left figure, but scarcely perceptible over the right figure. Mr. Rainey also reports having found the same stamp with the tail of the left "2" broken where it joins the rest of the figure.

Charles M. Breder shows us a curious specimen of Paid Permit, Chicago No. 251, four different permits having been printed on the envelope. Three of these have been obliterated by closely set rules, the upper right corner permit twice. Two of the permits were for 1c, and one 2c, and the fourth, which has not been obliterated, is for 2c. All are numbered "251." The envelope was used by James Clow & Sons, Chicago, and possibly some of our Chicago readers can explain the curious combination.

John S. Barnholt reports having found the 13c of 1902 on vertically laid paper.

George O. Greene shows us a copy of the 2c Columbian envelope, with a perfect "C" in place of the "O" in the word "of." As the "A", "E" and "R" in "America" are also imperfect, it is possible that some accident happened to the plate,—but the "C" is perfectly formed, with the break even and in the proper place.

Louis K. Stam sends us a label, "Barker's City Post", of which we can find no record in any of the catalogues. It is not on the cover, nor has it been cancelled, so that it is impossible to say in what city it was intended for use. It is printed in yellow green on cream paper, with very little margin. The inscription, "Barker's City Post" is arranged in a circle enclosing a picture representing possibly any one of a score of objects,—such as a beehive, a Napoleon chapeau, a rat trap, or an old-fashioned fly cover,—suspended in the air, with "Paid" above and the top of a building without windows below. In each corner is a figure "5". Can any of our readers shed a little light upon this conundrum?

FRANK P. BROWN COMPANY,

339 Washington St., BOSTON, MASS.

The Philadelphia Stamp News reports that the current stamps are being printed on a chalk surfaced paper, a chalky wash being used to assist the drying of the ink after printing. This wash is applied at the time of moistening the paper, as is done to print from engraved plates. It not only assists in drying, but also helps to decrease the shrinkage of the paper. This makes four papers,—the original white, the blue experimental, the so-called "China clay" and the new chalk surfaced.

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Stamp News says that the design of a portrait bust of Lincoln, which has been adopted for the new 1c postal cards, size 3x5 inches, for filing purposes, will also be adopted for the regular size card now in use, as the McKinley head has not been an artistic success. This portrait head of Lincoln is similar to the picture on last year's commemorative stamp, except that the head does not incline downward, and no clothing is shown. It is a very good likeness of Lincoln, and should satisfy the most fastidious.

BERMUDA.—The Bermuda Royal Gazette prints the official correspondence regarding the new design for the postage stamps of the colony. If approved by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, the new stamps will show a ship of the 17th century under full sail, flying the Cross of St. George. The representation of a ship is not an innovation, but a revival of the design appearing on the reverse of the local copper coinage known as "Hog Money", and on other coinage which was current up to the end of the 18th century. A ship of the period was incorporated in the Arms granted to the Bermuda Company in 1619 in the Company's seal which was in use for the first 65 years of the Colony's existence. Certainly in the latter case, and probably in the former also, the ship was intended to commemorate the "Sea Venture", in which Sir George Somers was cast away near St. George's in 1609. The adoption of this emblem for the permanent stamp issue of the Colony will therefore be peculiarly appropriate on the tercentenary of Bermuda's discovery by its future colonists.

GREAT BRITAIN.—A. A. Kelson also kindly submits a specimen of the new 7d stamp, previously noted. Even's Weekly says the new stamp was placed on sale in London, May 4.

NICARAGUA.—The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. shows a couple of blocks of the 20c claret of 1907, Waterlow imprint, surcharged "B—Dpto. Yelaya", one stamp having a "D" in place of "B". Although the blocks submitted have each 10 stamps, we are unable to give the location in the sheet of the error.

NYASSA.—Ewen's Weekly reports that the 2 1/2r, 5r and 10r have been reprinted, the frames being in slate black, instead of black, and the shades of the centres also differ slightly from the earlier printing. By the way, the note in No. 1013 on the new provisionals should have been credited to the Frank P. Brown Co.

PARAGUAY.—A new set of stamps from this country has been shown us in unused form by the New England Stamp Co. and we are also indebted to the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. for a specimen of the 20c used, on a cover with two of the "1909" surcharges. One design is used throughout the set, the value being printed in figures in a large transverse oval, evidently arranged to be changed easily. The design is an adaptation of the 1887 issue, Scott's A12, with material variations in the arrangement of the arms, which now appear in a circle in the upper part of the stamp, no part of which infringes upon the oval containing the figures of value. This circle contains a rayed star, with "Republica del Paraguay" in small letters around the inner line of the circle. The curved line containing the word "Centavos" now touches the bottom line of the stamp. Curiously enough, the lion and pole supporting the liberty cap nowhere appears on the stamp. "Union Postal Universal" is printed in the same manner as the 1887 issue, and the corner ornaments are also very similar. The new stamps are all printed on thin white wove paper, and are perforated 11x11 1/2. They are slightly smaller than the late issues.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—E. B. Power, manager of Stanley Gibbons, N. Y. city, was a recent caller at the WEEKLY office. Mr. Power expressed himself well pleased with the past year's business, a handsome increase being reported. He informs us that a South American branch of the Gibbons firm will shortly be opened at Buenos Ayres.

—Clippings received from Russell L. Stultz, Hugo Kuentler, H. A. Wahlborg, Marcel E. Taller, D. D. Berolzheimer, C. Davidson, M. E. Barzelay (2), Alfon J. A. Stark, M. A. Lesser, Marcel E. Taller (2) and G. de Lachasse.

—T. H. Hinton favors us with a specimen of the souvenir issued in connection with the Second British Philatelic Congress. It is a large, handsomely engraved label bearing the imprint "Perkins, Bacon & Co.," which is of itself a sufficient guarantee of merit. It is printed in a fine carmine and shows a profile of Queen Victoria as she appears upon the Victoria 1854-60 1sh, except that she is facing to the right instead of the left.

The above half-tone shows a superb unused block of five of the rare Mauritius 2d "Post Paid" showing the error "PENOE". It will be of interest to all philatelists to learn that it represents one of the most recent purchases of His Royal Majesty King George V. It represents a gem of exceptional interest and rarity, falling to the lot of D. Field to supply the block for the King's collection.

The regular quarterly meeting of the District of Columbia Branch No. 36, A. P. S., was held on May 11, 1910, in Room 210, Corcoran Building, which room will hereafter be used as a club room for the Branch.

The president, Mr. Morris, announced the death of Theo. F. Sheckels, former secretary, and a resolution passed by the Columbus Collectors' Club, expressing their sincere sympathy for the District of Columbia Branch on account of the loss of their recent secretary was read and ordered incorporated in the minutes of the meeting.

The Branch then proceeded to the election of a new secretary and F. B. Wheaton, vice president of the Washington Philatelic Society, was elected.

in six blocks, two of which were used on front, and four on the back of a 28 oz. cover from U. S. to England. The condition is very fine, and is the first setting as used for the imperforate stamps and very much rarer than the subsequent setting for the perforate. The catalogue value of the 100 stamps singly is $150.00. The price is much under catalogue for the stamps as single specimens. The size of the 6 blocks are as follows: 20, 20, 6, 24, 15 and 15. The cancellation pieces together so there can be no doubt as to their being the same sheet. Interested parties should write.

A. P. S. HISTORICAL NOTES.

By H. A. DAVIS, Pres. Col. Branch No. 22.

Year 1909, 24th Annual Convention.

A charter was granted the Wichita Stamp Collectors' Club, Wichita, Kans., in January. In February the Österreichischer Philatelisten Klub elected the A. P. S. a corresponding member. February 13th Secretary Adair dropped 178 members for non-payment of dues, leaving a total membership of 1448.

On May 8th the following nominations for Board of Directors were published in the official journal:

By Philadelphia Branch No. 18—President, Henry N. Mudge, Ill.; Bd. V. Pres., J. A. Steinmetz, Chas. Beamish and A. F. Henkels, all of Pa.; Sec., H. S. Adair, Ohio; Treas., H. G. Smith, Minn.; Int. Sec., Julian Park, N. Y.; Directors, A. H. Weber, Calif., Gen. C. A. Coolidge, Mich.

By St. Louis Branch No. 4—President, Henry N. Mudge, Ill.; Bd. V. Pres., F. R. Cornwall, A. Strauss and Chester Myers, all of Mo.; Sec., H. S. Adair, Ohio; Treas., Dr. W. P. Wherry, Neb.; Int. Sec., L. Harald Kjellstedt, Pa.; Directors, A. H. Weber, Calif., Gen. C. A. Coolidge, Mich.

June 1st, President Luff announced the call for the 24th annual convention to be held at Atlantic City, N. J., on Tuesday, Aug. 24th.

It was announced through the official journal in June that the British Guiana Philatelic Society had elected the A. P. S. as a corresponding member.

In a communication to the stockholders of the A. P. S., dated June 1st and published in the official journal, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, June 5th, President Luff announced a mail vote on three different amendments, having been presented with three petitions signed by over 100 stockholders of the Society. The ballots were counted July 15th.

The Board of Vice Presidents made their report as follows soon after the 15th of July, as follows:

1st Amendment: To Arts. VII and X (Quarterly Amendment). The amendment was carried by a vote of 649 yeas to 75 nays.

2nd Amendment: To Art. III (Proxy Amendment). They were to be assigned to the Credentials Committee, who alone should have power to vote them, acting in accordance with instructions). The amendment was lost by a vote of nays 270 to yeas 455.

3rd Amendment: To Art. III (Exchange Supt. and Editors of official journal not to hold proxies). The amendment was lost by a vote of nays 202 to yeas 505.

The membership at this time numbered 1700, number of ballots necessary to carry, 567.

The Board of Vice Presidents published in the official journal a notice to the effect that they would propose an amendment at the 24th annual convention, removing the ban on the Board of Directors holding proxies. (This amendment was proposed and defeated.)

The 24th annual convention was called to order by President Luff at the Hotel Rudolph, Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 24th. Mr. J. A. Steinmetz of the Philadelphia Branch made an address of welcome. There were 79 members, 32 visitors present and 925 represented by proxy.

The Secretary's report showed the total membership to be 1757, a net gain of 243 members for the fiscal year. 180 were dropped for non-payment of dues, 15 deaths, and 3 were expelled. Two new branches were formed, Wichita, Kans. and Binghamton, N. Y. The Scranton Branch was dropped for non-payment of dues.

The Treasurer's report showed receipts to be $2088.42; disbursements, $2612.12; Gen. Acct. overdrawn, $480.24; balance in Stock Acct., $3387.66; Insurance Acct., $1411.38; Exchange Acct., $49.60.

The Sales Supt.'s report showed that total amount of value of stamps received to be $94,399.76 from which sales were made to the amount of $11,227.62.

Detroit, Mich., was selected as the seat of the next convention, on the acceptance and adoption of the committee's report on place of next convention. Invitations were received from Chicago, Saratoga Springs, Milwaukee, Put-in-Bay and Detroit. None but Detroit however was nominated. This was the first instance in many years when a proxy vote did not determine the convention seat for the following year.

The contest for official organ waxed warm, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS was an easy victor by a vote of 675 to 243 for Redfield's Stamp Weekly.

The ticket as nominated by the St. Louis Branch was elected. $50 was appropriated for binding books in the library, and if necessary $100.00. Minors to be noted in the membership list by an asterisk. Responsibility of reference of applicant for membership to be certified to by proposer.

The matter of the priced catalog which had been much talked of and written about and for which Secretary Adair had received subscriptions for 238 copies and $283.00 pledged, was placed in the hands of a special committee.

The Publicity Committee was changed in name to the Educational Committee; $50 was appropriated for its use.

The convention attendants were entertained by the Philadelphia Branch at Philadelphia. There were sight-seeing trips to Carpenter's Hall, Independence Hall, U. S. Mint, Memorial Hall, etc. At Atlantic City there were bathing, sailing, auto, trolley and board-walk parties, etc. At the end of the year the total membership was 1839.

In accordance with Article IX of our By-Laws, the Board of Vice Presidents invite offers from the various philatelic publications concerning the publication of official matter commencing from and after September 1st, 1910, for the ensuing year. All offers must specify the conditions of the contract and in what manner it is proposed to satisfy the present ruling of the post office department concerning the delivery of papers to members. All offers must be in the hands of the Board of Vice Presidents not later than June 10, in order that a synopsis thereof may be printed on the official ballot.

DETROIT BRANCH No. 25.

The twentieth regular meeting was held at the home of C. F. Heyerman, May 13th, at 8.30 with President Coolidge presiding. O. S. Hart, Edwin C. Wilson and W. H. Barnum as visitors and twelve members present.

William F. Cornell and Edwin C. Wilson duly elected to membership.

A letter from MEKEEL'S was read in regard to a Detroit number and a committee appointed to attend to the same.

Reports from the local Convention committee were received and all have their matters well in hand.

Meeting adjourned at 9.30.

Mr. Hart exhibited his famous collection of N. Y. 5's and two volumes of his U. S., proving of much interest to all present. An unanimous rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Hart for the pleasure he had given the Society.

Refreshments were then served.

A Rare Find in Hawaiians.

Since my book on Hawaiian Numerals was published I have been in receipt of many letters from various portions of the globe; many containing congratulations on my establishing the status of the so called reissues of the 1853 type.

Many of the letters are very interesting and there are incidents arising from the publishing of this book which may prove interesting to my readers.

I received one letter which I quote, "I have just come across three plates of the Hawaiian Numerals, if you are interested in them they will be for sale at the best offer," etc.; I answered asking for a chance to inspect the plates and they were forwarded.

The plates of the one cent numeral consisted of two horizontal rows of five each, a solid electro of ten reproductions of one die they all being placed closer together than our U. S. postage stamps. The two cent numeral plate consisted of three horizontal rows of five stamps each and are made up the same as the one cent.

The five cent numeral plate consisted of one horizontal row of five stamps and the plate is made up the same as the preceding two. As will be seen by the illustration in my book, all Hawaiian numerals were type sets and a plate consists of two vertical strips of five each; hence these faked plates proved of little interest to me. I have had, however several stamps printed from these plates submitted to me for my opinion and would advise any person issuing them to cease at once (or the matter will be exposed).

Another experience nearly gave me heart disease for it was almost too good to be true. It came about as follows: Mr. H. M. Whitney was the first Postmaster of the Hawaiian Islands and was the man who issued the rare Missionary stamps. He also designed and had engraved in Boston the 5 cent and 13 cent issued in 1853, on thick white paper; now catalogued at $50 and $18 respectively. In the ordinary course of events his son became the possessor of his estate and amongst other things, of his early correspondence and papers young Whitney made up a bundle of them and sent them to San Francisco for sale; and, his agent knowing of my great interest in these things brought them to me and I soon effected a purchase to be closed on inspection. Glancing through the various envelopes bearing old Hawaiian stamps I found one with no stamp on it but bearing the following inscription "One complete sheet all genuine not to be cut."

Inside the envelope were the twenty stamps and the following document.

Hawaiian Islands. } S.S.
Island of Oahu. }

Personally appeared before me, H. M. Whitney of Honolulu, on the Island of Oahu, Republic of Hawaii, who being duly sworn deposes and says:—That the thirteen cent Hawaiian postage stamps annexed hereto are genuine stamps of the issue of 1853, and that the same have been in his possession for over forty years, and are part of the first edition issued of the said stamps.

H. M. WHITNEY.

[Seal.] Subscribed and sworn before me this 19th. day of June A. D. 1897.

W. J. FORBES.

Notary public for the First Judicial circuit.

This unique sheet now graces a page in my collection but notwithstanding the instructions of the old man, someone had cut the sheet into ten pairs; even in this condition the sheet is unique. Then I came across a package of envelopes each bearing a copy of the two cent Lithographed of 1861 on both the horizontal and vertical laid papers, catalogued from $5 to $15 each.

I selected the finest and added another magnificent page to my collection. These envelopes were all addressed to H. M. Whitney but in some cases the natives spelled the name H. M. Wini; that being their pronunciation of the name. I then found an envelope endorsed as follows:

"Old Stamps Used and Unused not cancelled.

Sent some of the oldest to

G. D. Gilman and sold well.

Not used or assorted. Rare old 13 cent very valuable Hawaiian stamps. H. M. Whitney.

This envelope contained one copy of the 2 cent Missionary a copy which recently sold in Paris for $4,600. Four copies of the 13 cent H. I. & U. S. Postage Missionary worth $1,000 each and one copy of the 13 cent Hawaiian Postage worth $800. How my eyes glistened and my heart beat as I gazed on this magnificent lot. I will refer to them later on.

Another lot of stamps consisted of a set of six each of the 1871-76 issue in mint condition. The best on each sheet being the 5 cent blue, bluish, catalogued at $1.50 and the 18 cent rose $2.50. There were ten of these cards.

Then there were two envelopes addressed to H. M. Whitney, Boston, with Pomeroy's Express stamps on them in fine condition.

Another envelope contained some fractional currency issued in 1863 and the balance of the bundle was an assortment of various used stamps of later issues than those mentioned.

A second look at the missionary stamps showed me that they were printed in black on thin white paper and I became convinced that I had before me the original proofs of these rare stamps, but a careful comparison with my original copies convinced me that Mr. Whitney had probably received them from some party in early days who desired to get his opinion as to whether they were near enough like the original to stand muster or that they had been made for illustration purposes. To those familiar with the genuine stamps these forgeries could be easily detected but to the inexperienced, they would have proved dangerous. I do not remember of having seen any other copies of these dies except in the Descriptive Catalogue of the Postage Stamps of Hawaii published many years ago.—Hobbyist.

THE UNION OF SO. AFRICA.

PRETORIA, May 31.—The royal proclamation of the single dominion constituted by the Legislative Union of the British colonies of Cape Colony, Orange River Colony, Natal and the Transvaal, was read at the Assembly House here where just eight years ago today the leaders of the Boers signed the British terms of peace which brought to an end the war in South Africa.

The occasion was made a holiday and celebrations were general. Following the reading of the proclamation Viscount Gladstone was sworn in as Governor-General of the Union and General Louis Botha, the Premier, and other members of the new Ministry, took the oath of office.

By the act of federation recently adopted by the respective Parliaments the four Colonies of Cape of Good Hope, Natal, the Transvaal and Orange River become provinces of The Union of South Africa. Each province will have its own council and send members to the Union Parliament, which will consist of the Senate and House of Assembly, Cape Town will be the seat of the Legislature, and Pretoria the seat of the executive government.

Viscount Gladstone, who before his elevation to the peerage—one of the last ennobling acts of King Edward—was plain Herbert Gladstone, resigned the Home Secretaryship to become the first Governor of United South Africa. It was a most politic move on the part of Great Britain, inasmuch as the Viscount's father, the Right Hon. William Edward Gladstone, was greatly venerated by the Boers on account of the retrocession of the Transvaal after the British defeat of Majuba Hill in 1881.

The Gladstone appointment was also very politic in its social aspect, as the Viscountess is a very charming woman in character and person, and as the First Lady of the new Federation will materially strengthen the good will of the Federalists toward the Imperial government.—N. Y. American.

NOTES ON THE LOCALLY ENGRAVED AND LITHOGRAPHED ISSUES OF MAURITIUS, 1848-1859.

A Paper Read Before the Royal Philatelic Society.

By M. P. CASTLE.

The study of the formation of the locally engraved and printed plates of the first issues of Mauritius has not presented so many difficulties as in the case of analogous productions in other portions of the globe. In the instances of New South Wales and Philippines, for example, the first issues of which were all hand-engraved, hundreds of specimens, each differing in type, are necessary for the reconstruction of the sheets as printed, while in the present case but fifty specimens are requisite to complete the several plates of the engraved stamps. Moreover, the design is very bold, and, particularly in the early stages of the existence of the plates, the differences are so marked as to be capable of ready discernment by any collector. Beyond this there has been, as regards the engraved issues, no complication caused by retouches or partial freshening up of the original designs. The plate of October, 1859, known as the "Large Fillet," was, as is well known, re-engraved on the almost vanished lines of the 2d of 1848, but is to all intents and purposes a fresh engraving.

During his residence in Mauritius, Major E. B. Evans was enabled to gather from official sources practically the complete history of these very interesting stamps, and it is largely due to the energy and philatelic ability of our fellow member that the story of the stamps of Mauritius has been enabled to be presented in such a satisfactory manner. The papers that embodied the result of Major Evans's researches were published in the Philatelic Record for 1880 (Vol. II), and were revised and read before the Philatelic Society, London, on May 22 and December 11, 1896, and January 8, 1897. These papers will be found reproduced in the Society's work on the Stamps of the British Colonies in Africa (see Vol. II, pp. 120 to 152). As this work is available to every student of philately, it will hardly be necessary for me to do more than epitomize in the briefest manner the information therein given. The information acquired by Major Evans is, as I have stated, very full and, except in one instance, very precise, and I shall therefore be able to impart but slight additional points of interest as regards the engraved stamps. In the case of the lithographed stamps of December, 1859, the history of these stamps is but briefly given, and there is still something to be learned thereon.

The Native issues—to use their time-honoured cognomen—of Mauritius consisted of the following issues:—

(1.) 1d and 2d. September 2, 1847.

Inscribed with the words "Post Office." Engraved by Mr. J. Barnard.

(2.) 1d and 2d. May (?), 1848. Inscribed with the words "Post-paid."

Engraved by Mr. J. Barnard.

(3.) 2d March, 1859. Head of Queen, with small fillet. Engraved by Mr. J. Lapirot.

(4.) 2d October, 1859. Head of Queen, with the large fillet. Reengraved on the 1848 2d value by Mr. Sherwin. (The 1d value was prepared but not issued.)

(5.) 1d and 2d. December, 1859. Head of Queen, with Greek border. Lithographed by Mr. Dardenne.

ISSUE I. POST OFFICE.

The fame of the first issue of these stamps, the celebrated "Post Office," is world-wide, and they undoubtedly stand, if not for actual rarity, by general consent, as the two most important stamps of the British Colonial Empire. Their history is too well known to require restating at my hands: in the society's work on British Africa (Vol. II, pp. 152-159) an interesting article is given by Mr. E. D. Bacon, giving an account of them and the number of the copies then known (twenty). Since that period several copies have been found, and, subject to correction, I believe the total number now known to exist is twenty-five or twenty-six. Among these is the superb unused copy of the 2d, sold at auction by Messrs. Puttick and Simpson a few years since, and I am confident that we all rejoice to know that this, the finest specimen in the world of this great rarity, should be in the collection of our honoured President, H. R. H. the Prince of Wales.

My study of the Mauritius stamp has practically been confined to the issues of 1848 to 1859, and, failing the discovery of any little nest of these rarities, or the spontaneous presentation to me of copies by generously-minded brother philatelists, I have been reluctantly—for reasons that I cannot disclose!—been compelled to confine my collection of this issue to photographs of those in the hands of more favoured collectors. I now submit those illustrations that I have been able to get together, and I venture to hope that the Royal Philatelic Society will also be ultimately able to acquire for their collection a complete set of photographs of all the known copies.

ISSUE II. POST-PAID.

These two stamps remained in issue about eleven and a half years, and, as is well known, during this lengthened existence they betrayed the most remarkable divergences in their printings. I do not think there is any parallel case of such long-continued use and absolute deterioration of the plates in the issues of any other country. The nearest approach thereto is in the instance of the 2d Sydney View, but this stamp was only in use about a year and a half, and the successive re-engraved plates had each only a life of a very few months, while the other two values of that issue do not present anything like the wearing out of the plate that is found in the case of the issue of Mauritius now under consideration. The population of that island is of course but small, and the quantities used were, compared with New South Wales, relatively insignificant, which will doubtless go far to account for the long period of the existence of these two plates. My object in taking up the collecting of these stamps was to endeavour to trace out and—to use the modern word—specialize the various successive states of the Plates of this issue, as when I started on their pursuit, some six years since, I did not remember to have ever seen any "highly specialized" collection of these stamps or one wherein the same care had been bestowed as in the case of the stamps of other well-known countries. I have now, however, had the advantage of seeing Mr. H. J. Duveen's superb collection of these issues which has been recently remounted, and forms a pleasing exception to the rule above referred to.

It goes without saying that in dividing up these stamps into their different phases of existence, and the wear of the plates being gradual, there can be no broad line of demarcation, so that one group necessarily leaves off where the next begins. I think, however, for the purpose of the specialist, and even for the general collector, that this issue may be divided up into five periods of existence. The catalogues give but three states of the plate, but nowadays, when so much consideration is devoted to the smallest variation of perforation or the most minute differentiation in a surcharge, I think that even the collector "according to catalogue" may well extend his list of wants to these ten varieties of the 1d and 2d of the first issue of these remarkably interesting stamps.

The design consists practically of three leading features—the Head of the Queen, the inscriptions, and the background, and in all these three there occur, with the use of the plate, consistent deterioration of the dies. I find, however, that the best test of the state of the plate, or the one generally adopted, is that of the presence or absence of the diagonal and vertical lines of the background, and I have therefore divided my specimens in accordance therewith—as follow and as exemplified by the specimens that I submit for your consideration:

State I, 1848-53.

Background composed of full vertical and diagonal lines.

State II, 1853-55.

Background showing portions of vertical and full diagonal lines.

State III, 1856-57.

Background showing no vertical lines and diagonal lines practically full.

State IV, 1858-59.

Background showing only diagonal lines partially.

EDITORIAL.

Long a Puzzle—The discussion regarding the differences between the 24-cent, 1870, National, and the Continental, 1873, United States, that has been revived recently by a correspondent is engaging the attention of many collectors who are perplexed to locate with certainty the elusive points of distinction between the issues. The inquiry as to whether actual, tangible differences exist between the two printings is one that arises periodically and the resulting findings are not without instructive interest. On the last previous occasion when the question was advanced, we wrote to John N. Luff, the highest tribunal on the subject, for judgment and it was not long before we were enabled to present his opinion on the query propounded. It was asked how to distinguish between the two stamps, 24-cent of the National and Continental printings, respectively, particularly in view of the supposition that it was reasonable that there are shades in the colors that were employed by the National and Continental companies, which would complicate the question of distinguishing between the printings by the color contrasts.

Again—We quote Mr. Luff, making a few minor changes from his words, as previously published; his statement substantially was as follows: "Your correspondent seems to think that there should be more shades in the 24-cent, 1870-73 than we find. He appears to base his expectation on the fact that he does find many shades of other stamps in the series and also in the issues of 1860 to 1866. There were fewer printings and chances for shades in the 24-cent than in the cases of the lower values of the same issue; and in the years, 1860 to '66, the rates of postage were higher than in 1871 to '73 and more printings of the 24-cent denomination were used at that time, and more printings which are productive of shades were necessary. I do not know anything other than the color to distinguish between the two stamps. The stamps were printed from the same plates; we know that a secret mark was placed on the die of the 24-cent Continental but no new plates were made from the altered die. Therefore, there can be no differences of engraving. There might perhaps be some indications of wear, but they are so very slight that I do not think that anyone but professional printers and engravers could detect them."

* * *

The Test—Proceeding to the heart of the subject, Mr. Luff says: "There is no distinctive feature by which the ordinary collector can positively identify the 24-cent 1871 from the 24-cent, 1873. The color, with some assistance from paper and gum, is the only thing. Certainly, there are more than one shade of each of the two issues but in a general way, the shades group themselves. That is to say, in 1871, the 24-cent has much red in the ink, in 1873, it is darker, as if it had a little black. There are slight shades of each of these." It is admitted that the stamp presents a problem to the trained philatelic mind; and it follows that the average investigator has a task that he is almost discouraged to press. Mr. Luff says that there are no type differences between the two issues, only a color distinction, and one not too pronounced at that.

English Specialist's View—From our English correspondent whose inquiries concerning guide-lines of recent United States issues resulted in illuminating explanations of the varieties through the investigations of Chas. R. Morris, Washington, we have received some interesting observations on the stamps under view, as follows:

"In No. 1011 of the WEEKLY just to hand, I am pleased to read the opinion of the veteran dealer (Mr. Rothfuchs) re the 24c U. S. Continental print 'which cannot be told with a certainty unless one saw it taken from the Continental Co.'s press."

I have National copies on 3 separate covers in very fine condition as regards colour, and as they are as deep as any, and deeper in colour than the majority of the specimens shown to me by dealers and collectors as Continental I do not think I have a Continental among my little lot of 8 loose copies.

Since I became the possessor of Mr. Luff's book 'Stamps of The U. S.' about a year ago I have been satisfied in my own mind that a very large proportion of the 24c stamps shown as Continental are really National prints. From the schedules in the book I extract the following figures which refer to 24c value only:

Printed and Delivered to Stamp Agent:

1870, May to Dec.,	122,000
1871, Jan to "	229,450
1872, " to "	299,625
1873, " to April,	135,975
April to Dec., nil.
1874, Jan to Dec. nil.
1875, " to June,	*365,000

Distributed to Postmasters:

July 1870 to June 1871,	238,000
" 1871 to " 1872,	278,250
" 1872 to " 1873,	281,000
" 1873 to " 1874,	285,375
" 1874 to " 1875,	271,775

*The only printing by Continental Co."

An Estimate—"In each of the years 1872-3 and 1873-4 there were distributed to Postmasters 280 odd thousand, so it is fair to assume that at least one-half of the distribution of 271,775 was made July to Dec., 1874. This would leave only 136,000 (in round numbers) possible distribution of Continental printing, and it is unlikely that it would be so much, as, for instance, stamps printed Jan 1st or 2nd could not be distributed same day.

From the above figures the daily average distribution 1874-5 would be about 850, so for every day required for manufacture and delivery to Stamp Agent deduct 850 from the above 136,000.

If this be approximately correct, the 24c Continental print would appear to be about six times as scarce as the 10c of 1847, and if $2.50 be a fair price (it is certainly low enough) for a good copy of the latter, the 24c Continental is cheap at present catalogue price if with guarantee,—BUT can anyone guarantee one, unless they saw it taken from the Continental Co.'s press?"

A Claim—Several weeks after we had published the remarks of Mr. Luff, as reproduced on this page, we received from a student in New York City, the following information: "On April 26, 7 A. M., 1906, I discovered a difference in the type of the 24-cent; it appears like a notch in the head, diagonally down, from between the letters a and g of the word 'postage.' However, it is not a notch; the lines in the background, the fourteenth line from the top, makes the break and the fifteenth line is shorter. A very good glass and a very good eye are necessary to see the difference." This gentleman again writes us referring inquirers to his description; he says further that two years ago he sorted the stock of a leading New York firm, classifying the stamps as National and Continental, respectively; he adds that is why the Continental is priced in the catalogue. This gentleman whose address we hold would probably be willing to help our readers for a fee; we hold his address. If there is a type difference in the Continental stamps, the alteration must have been made on the plates. None of the 24-cent that we have examined show this "notch" in an unmistakable way. Our informant says that he found on an average one Continental print to every six National.

First King George Issues—According to the London newspapers, Canada and Newfoundland will have the "distinction of using the first postage stamps issued for the new reign, King George having approved the half-cent stamp design for the former colony and the five-cent stamp for the latter. Both stamps were ordered to be printed and issued immediately."

* * *

Amalgamation—United South Africa is now a fact as on May 31st, 1910, the British colonies of Cape Colony, Orange River Colony, Natal and the Transvaal were constituted a single dominion by royal proclamation; the negotiations began some time ago were completed at Pretoria where the union became a national entity. It is remarked by the ARCHITECTURE ON POSTAGE STAMPS.

By NORMAN THORNTON.

A considerable and highly interesting collection could be made of stamps showing the styles of architecture of many ages and lands from the very earliest times. Let us start with one of the earliest known efforts of man in placing one stone upon another, and for this we take the 3d of Tonga, 1897, which shows us a prehistoric trilith, such as is to be found upon Salisbury Plain at Stonehenge. The setting up of these huge masses of stone, weighing hundreds of tons, is one of the most remarkable proofs of the ingenuity and, indeed, mechanical ability of primitive man, especially when we consider that they are found not in one district alone, but in many places scattered over the face of the earth, so that the same ideas must have occurred to, and similar means for carrying them out employed by, entirely independent individuals. These erections are generally held to have had connection with religious ceremonies in which human sacrifices almost certainly had some part.

The civilization of China is admittedly the oldest in the world, and the Chinese Pagoda, therefore, comes next upon our list; this, however, is only to be found on some Chinese local stamps, the best illustration being upon those of Chung-king, 1894.

The next step brings us to ancient Egypt, and, perhaps, the most interesting and wonderful of all subjects portrayed on stamps, the Pyramids and Sphinx, monuments of years of patient toil. Many legends have been invented to account for the existence of these pyramids, one of which was that they were the store-houses which Joseph caused to be built for the storing of the grain which was to tide Egypt over the seven years of famine. We may, however, regard them, in the light of actual evidence, as the tombs of bygone Pharaohs. The next addition to our collection shows us a bird's eye view of the Acropolis of Athens, crowned by the Parthenon, recalling all the beauty and hero-worship of the Greek mythology.

Recent excavations point to the fact that the temple, of which the ruins now remain standing, is the last of three successive edifices upon the same spot: first the ancient Temple of Athena, burnt by the Persians in 480 B. C.; secondly, the old Parthenon, or Parthenon of Cimon, begun after the departure of the Persians and never completed; and lastly, the present, or Parthenon of Pericles, built between 454 and 438 B. C., on the foundations of the preceding. In the sixth century the Parthenon was used as a Christian church, and in 1460 the Turks converted it into a mosque, and subsequently in 1687, when besieged by the Venetians, into a powder magazine, an explosion then occurring, cutting the building in two. For an example of Roman architecture, we must take one of the new stamps of Tunis, which gives an excellent illustration of the ruins of Hadrian's Aqueduct; this was a wonderful piece of engineering work, built in the first century, and conducted water to Carthage across eighty miles of desert.

The medieval style is represented by the Castle of Wenden on the stamps of that province, and more importantly by the view of the Kremlin on the 10 kopeks, 1905, of Russia. The Kremlin comprises a collection of buildings, palaces and churches, of which the most important are the palace Teremnoy-Dvoretz (1487), the Cathedral of the Assumption (1474), the Cathedral of the Annunciation, begun in the fourteenth century and rebuilt in 1483; the church of Saint Michael containing the remains of many of the Tsars. The Kremlin did not share the fate of the rest of Moscow, during the fire of 1812, but Napoleon was nevertheless forced to abandon it on account of the great heat caused by the burning of the city.

We may also include here the Montenegro issue of 1896, showing the monastery near Cettinge, used as a royal mausoleum.

For the Moorish style we have on the 1c, 1906, Tunis, the mosque of Kairouan, and an excellent idea of Arab building is shown by the mosque of Tadjourah on the stamps of French Somali Coast. Perhaps one of the best representations of architecture on stamps is that of the Cathedral of Mexico on the 5 peso of 1899; it is in the Doric style, and surmounted by two fine towers; here lie the remains of Ferdinand Cortez, the conqueror of Mexico, and other Mexican viceroys.

It is naturally impossible in a short article to deal in detail with every building shown on stamps, and this kind of device has become very popular with designers of later years, so that only a few of the most striking and important can be included. One curious example is the little view which looks like a small fort on the 1894 issue of Belgium; it constitutes the arms of Antwerp, and is apparently meant to represent that city.

Very fine examples of modern buildings are shown on the 1900 issue of Germany and 1903 issue of Sweden, giving the General Post Offices of Berlin and Stockholm respectively, whilst some of the stamps of Hayti give an idea of architecture adapted to the tropics.

Guatemala has several architectural stamps showing the Museum, Temple of Minerva, Cathedral, Columbus Theatre, School, and very magnificent artillery barracks, reminding one rather of Somerset House from the Embankment.

Two fine examples of modern work are to be found on the $2 of 1898, and the 5 cents 1901 of United States, the first showing the bridge over the Mississippi at St. Louis, and the second the bridge over Niagara Falls.

Stamps of the British Colonies do not include many pictures of buildings; but in conclusion we may make mention of two, both being somewhat out of the ordinary.

On the new stamps of Brunei is a view on Brunei River, giving an excellent idea of one of the oldest known methods of building known to man, namely, huts built on piles driven into the bed of the river, in the same style as those found on some of the Swiss lakes.

The other is the Life Insurance Department stamps of New Zealand, and represents also a building in the midst of waters—to wit, a lighthouse.—Gibbons Weekly.

A SCHEME TO FOUND A UNIVERSAL PHILATELIC UNION.

By WILLIAM WARD.

(At the recent British Congress a paper with the above title was read by Mr. Ward and we are pleased to publish its salient features as being of interest to society members in the United States. Mr. Ward in opening his paper enumerated the benefits to be derived from a union of this nature, laying special stress upon the need for protection against the sale of forgeries and the wiles of unscrupulous dealers. He also contended that a society of this kind would mean a stronger fraternity of stamp collecting interests. We quote that portion of the paper dealing directly with the plan of organization.—Ed.)

Let each philatelic society in the world elect one member as its representative or delegate to the Universal Philatelic Union.

Divide the delegates into sections of a country or nation.

That is, in Great Britain there would be a section of about forty representatives. The delegates of each country would then elect from amongst themselves one or two to be the national corresponding secretary, or secretaries. It would be necessary that both gentlemen should possess the knowledge of at least one standard language other than his native tongue—that is the choice of French, German, English, or Spanish. That would not be a great difficulty amongst philatelists. From among themselves again the national secretaries would elect two gentlemen to take up the position of International Secretary and Assistant International Secretary respectively, who would conduct practically an exchange between the national secretaries of the world.

They would require to be able to correspond in English, French or German.

There will of course be necessity for funds, but I will give particulars shortly of how I propose to provide these.

Each month every national secretary would make a report obtained from information supplied by the various delegates of his country, or in case of necessity—as any dangerous forgeries—the postal tactics of a government—any postal change—dangerous traders—or any matter of philatelic importance—he would make a special report. These reports would be sent to the International Secretary, who would form them up into an international circular letter to all the national secretaries. Of course some means would have to be resolved to check unnecessary information, but that is a detail easily settled. National secretaries would re-hand their international notices to the various delegates to communicate to their societies. Resolutions of international philatelic welfare—as the resolution passed at the First British Congress in relation to the disposal of a deceased member's collection by the society—would become of universal utility.

Some may say rightly that the philatelic press notices such matters, but the various societies seldom take official notice of what appears in the press as having been done by another society. When each and every society has a share in the world's philately among themselves as societies, they will at once become mutual.

I further propose that in the event of my scheme taking form that every philatelist who belongs to a society—and we cannot extend help to those who do not help philately by joining any society—shall have his or her membership card stamped or endorsed with the words "Union Philatelic Universelle" in red—a colour at once distinctive.

At some future date a badge might be resolved upon by international agreement, but for the present the overprint I have mentioned would be quite sufficient to bind every philatelist the world over.

It would indeed be a means of reference could every society come to an arrangement to assure itself of its members, as does the American Philatelic Society. Anyway its social value would be great, both at home, and for those philatelists who have occasion to visit other countries.

Who will be found to provide the expense necessary to properly manage such an office as that of International Secretary?

My suggestion is that it should be self-supporting, and yet the claims so minute as never to be felt individually.

I hold that if each philatelic society of the world pays 5 centimes, or one half-penny, per head of its members per annum that the working funds could be readily assured. I think you will agree with me on a very rough calculation that the very lowest number of collectors belonging to the philatelic societies of the world must be between 100,000 and 200,000.

Many gentlemen essay that the number of society members is nearer 500,000. Anyway my estimate will produce at least $1500.00 or $2000.00 per annum for working expenses of the Union International Secretary, who would only have direct communication with forty or fifty different national secretaries.

Some may think that a great society would object to having only one delegate or representative elected and be on the same footing as a small society. My scheme is not to benefit individuals or individual societies, but philately universally.

As I previously said, this Union will have no power of interference in the business of any society, nor can it undertake to settle differences—its uses will be confined to the matters I have outlined. The society will by paying the large important sum of one-half penny, be doing a service to its members and to philately in general—the hobby I suppose is the cause of its existence. Should any society be so parsimonious—then it can levy its members one-half penny extra above its regular dues.

Of course a fixed rate, or $1 per 100 or part of 100 members, would mean a further additional revenue to the Union.

I have no decided rate to offer. Provided I can find philatelic societies to give my scheme due and proper consideration such details could be worked out to mutual satisfaction by co-operation.

It is of course highly necessary that no possibility of any individual gain shall present itself—other than of course some remuneration for conducting the International Bureau.

The election of one member from every society as a delegate, and the election of a delegate from among his fellows as National Secretary should not present much opportunity for any illegitimate working. All these officials would be subject to a yearly election—but could be reelected. A president and vice presidents could also be elected, but I should propose that no president or vice president could be reelected, or that any country could be represented in the presidency more than once in a cycle of years. Thus no international jealousy or ill-feeling could be promoted.

UNITED STATES.—J. M. Bartels sends us the following copy of an official document recently issued by the Postoffice Department:

"Office of the 3rd Asst. P. M. Gen'l, "WASHINGTON, May 19, 1910.

"Postmasters are notified that the Department is now prepared to furnish 1 cent plain and special request stamped envelopes on what is known as the 'open end' pattern, intended for the mailing of third-class matter.

"In this envelope one of the side flaps instead of the top flap remains unsealed. It is well adapted to the mailing of circulars. The unsealed flap admits of ready examination of contents. The opening is smaller than in envelopes with top flap unsealed, affording less chance of loss of contents in transit.

"The Nos. 5, 6, 8 and 13 stamped envelopes of the several colors are supplied in the open end pattern.

"To secure the new envelopes requisition must be made on Form 3201 for plain and on Form 3202 for special request with the word 'open end' plainly written on the same line.

William Norwood, in a recent letter, describes the following freaks and novelties of the current stamps and post cards:

(a) The current 2c carmine stamp in two sizes, 22x25 mm. and 20x25 mm., both unused.

(b) The same stamp, very poorly printed, very few lines of the background being whole.

(c) The 1c McKinley card, previous issue, an unused copy, with the "O" of "One" completely filled in.

(d) The new postal card, with the wreath around the head of McKinley only partly printed.

(e) The current 4c and 5c stamps, imperforate horizontally, and both with wide margins.

E. M. Carpenter has shown us some labels issued as a takeoff on the recent discussion of the claims of the rival North Pole explorers. The stamps resemble the Hudson-Fulton stamps in size and general appearance, and are inscribed "North Pole Post", with the figures of value in large ovals and in words between. The first purports to have a value of "One Tusk" and is inscribed "Peary Land" at the top, and shows a large walrus on an ice floe, with icebergs in the distance. The second is for "Two Bones" and has "Cook Land" at the top, and shows the midnight sun, with an Esquimaux sledge and dogs in the foreground. The third and last of these labels is for "Five Skins" with "Nobody's Land" at the top, and shows two men in furs fastening the American flag to the North Pole, which is badly iced up. The background is formed by the Aurora Borealis. The colors correspond to those of the 1c, 2c and 5c stamps.

ARGENTINE.—Just as we go to press we have received a new stamp of the Argentine Republic, presumably the first of the set previously announced to be issued in honor of the first Centenary of Argentine Independence. The stamp is of large size, about the same as the official set of 1901. The design is a handsome one, the portrait being contained in a large oval in the upper part of the stamp, with "Republica Argentina" in a curved line above, placed directly on the background. The figures of value appear in the upper corners, placed diagonally in pretty, though small, shields. Below the portrait appears the name, "Saavedra" and the dates "1810-1910", on a ribbon crossing a handsome wreath of laurel, which extends part way up each side of the portrait oval. A tablet across the bottom of the stamp has the value in words. The stamp is printed on white paper, watermarked sun with rays and is perforated 11 1/2.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—The 4d has been shown us in a new shade, by the New England Stamp Co., the olive color having more of an olive yellow cast than has previously been the case.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Arthur W. Line kindly submits specimens of the new 7d stamp, which were mailed from Birmingham, England, May 11. His correspondent says: "The boys tell me that the stamps enclosed are sure to be scarce, for the new issue had only been out about ten days before the King's death."

Marsh's Circular says that the color of the new 4d stamp is unsatisfactory, owing to the color being likely to be confused with the 1d under artificial light, and therefore it is likely to be soon changed in shade, or into a new color entirely. Possibly the change will not be made until the issue of stamps with head of King George takes place. The first sheets of the new design 2d stamp, to be issued in red violet, were printed April 11. The first sheets of the 7d stamp were printed April 25. They are printed in sheets of 480 stamps, though issued in sheets of 240 stamps.

PAPUA.—The following from the Australian Philatelist will be of interest as supplementing Mr. Focke's letter in No. 1001:

"We have before us a letter written by the Chief Postmaster from Port Moresby, 24-1-10, as follows: 'With reference to paragraph in your letter re new issue, I would inform you that when writing to Mr. Focke, it was expected that the stamps about to be issued would be of one colour only, but when issued they were of two colours, and therefore similar to the old issue. You will therefore see that no new issue has eventuated.'

"In reply to further enquiries we have received the following official letter:

"Territory of Papua,

"The Postal Department,

"PORT MORESBY, Feb. 21, 1910.

"Gentlemen,—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 17th January, relative to postage stamps, and to state as follows:—

"1. Some little time ago the Stamp Printer pointed out that it would be more economical, and would save time, if the stamps of the Territory were printed in one colour, instead of two, and asking that if in future this might be done. This Government intimated that it had no objection, and in ordering the new printing of stamps at present in use it was anticipated that they would be printed in one colour. This, therefore, would have meant a new issue. As a matter of fact, however, the stamps were printed in two colours, the same as before, so that there has been no new issue—nor is any further issue contemplated.

"2. The question of a new issue is decided by the Lt-Governor in Council.

"3. Nothing is known here of the rumour that the Commonwealth issue of stamps overprinted 'Papua' will be used here.

"4. It is not possible to purchase Papuan stamps outside the Territory.

"I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,

"Your obedient servant,

"(Signed) W. H. CHAMPION,

"Chief Postmaster.

"Messrs. Fred. Hagen, Ltd.,

"182, Pitt Street, Sydney."

"When the order for the last supply was received at the Melbourne Printing Office, it was found that there was not sufficient time to permit of electros being made to produce them in one colour, by the electro-process—consequently it was decided to use the lithographic stones from which the first supply was printed, when it was discovered that the 1/2d stone had been cleaned off, which necessitated a fresh transfer being secured and placed on another stone. This may account for the word Papua being slightly smaller, but our informant is at a loss to know why it should be, as the word was originally engraved on copper, and the transfer was taken from the same plate. The inking of the rollers may have had something to do with it, and all may not be alike. We understand that the stamps referred to in the Chief Postmaster's letter of 21.2.10 were the second order. All future printings will, according to present intentions, be from electros, and in one colour. This may be justly termed a new issue. As to when it will appear, will depend upon the action of the Papuan postal authorities.

"The question arises how often are fresh supplies printed, and how frequently are they sent to Port Moresby. On the 15th December a fresh supply was received (the present one), and it is only natural to assume that requisitions would not be sent more frequently than once in six months, if so, it may be six months from 15th December before the new issue in one colour sees the light of day, i. e., 15th June. It may be sooner or perhaps later, but time will tell.

"It is just possible that the 2sh 6d value may not appear in one colour for a long while."

QUEENSLAND.—The New England Stamp Co. has now shown us the new 5d stamp chronicled in No. 1006, and we find that it is printed in a very much darker shade, almost black brown.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.—The 4d stamp, long form, has been issued in orange, instead of red orange, a copy having been shown us by the New England Stamp Co.

Adhesive.

4d orange.

The same Company has also shown us the ½d, 1d and 2d stamps, small size, in new shades, though the differences are slight, except in the case of the ½d, which seems to have been retouched.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the new 50c, printed in the new color scheme.

Adhesive.

50c black on green.

TRINIDAD.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the ½d and 1d stamps of the 1907 issue, surcharged "Official" in small square Gothic capitals.

VICTORIA.—The 9d has been issued in rose instead of rose brown, according to Gibbons' Weekly, the new printing being perforated 12½.

State V, 1859-60 (early).

Background showing diagonal lines quite gone in parts, notably bordering on the inscription.

In dividing up the different periods which denote these relative states of wear, I can of course only claim this arrangement as tentative and as being supported as far as possible by dated copies. I have allotted the longest period to State I for the reasons, that the design, being deeply cut, did not for some time show any appreciable wear, and that in the earlier days their use was at first doubtless far more limited than ten or twelve years later. This is abundantly borne out by the relative scarcity of the specimens of the earliest and early states of the dies.

The earliest impressions of all were undoubtedly printed upon a thickish soft yellowish wove paper, similar to that used for the Post Office issue, and not found on any stamps except those in the very earliest state of the die. There are impressions of the twopenny in a very heavy dark slaty blue, which present almost the appearance of a solid background, and show the head and neck of the Queen deeply shaded. These are known among collectors as "premières gravures," and are deservedly classed as very rare stamps, especially unused. I am, however, inclined not to consider these impressions as indicating any earlier stage of printing than those I am showing as State I. If these 2d only were the undoubted first impressions, there should be a corresponding 1d which I have never seen quoted, or described in a collection, and I am inclined to believe that the richness of the impression is practically due to the colour and quantity of the ink used in the process of printing. These dark blue stamps are, however, assuredly as early as any Post-paid, and are very desirable and rare specimens, but I do not think that they can be separated from the other specimen of the first state of the plate except under the designation of "dark blue—heavy impressions." I show one copy almost in this colour which I have compared with the splendid specimens in the collection of Mr. Duveen, and as regards the state of the plate it is absolutely identical with his copies. I may say that I consider the 1d far more difficult to find than the 2d, especially in fine condition, while unused it is of the greatest rarity. Mr. Duveen, it will be remembered, showed at the London Philatelic Exhibition a matchless block of four of the 1d, unused, a photograph of which is shown in my collection.

I should add, in support of what I have said on the question of "earliest state," that it will be seen by stamps shown in a later issue, how very materially the redundancy of ink may affect the apparent state of the wear of the plate. State I of these stamps also, in my view, includes those which immediately followed the preceding, but were printed upon a slightly bluish and harder paper varying in substance. This paper undoubtedly did not absorb the impression so readily as the soft yellowish paper, but, allowing for this, I am of opinion that the specimens practically represent the same entirely undeteriorated state of the plate. A specimen of the 2d on a cover, dated September 1, 1853, in my collection will be found to corroborate the opinions previously expressed.

States II to V are found printed upon similar paper to that last mentioned, ranging in shade from whitish to greyish and bluish, and varying in texture, especially in the later stages, when the paper is found frequently quite thin and more bluish. Specimens in all these stamps may be found on yellowish white paper, though relatively scarce; they, however, in my view, only denote variations in the colour of this presumably locally produced paper, and are of course entirely different from the soft yellowish paper found in the earliest stage.

It will be seen that there are several varieties of obliterations, the latest used being a circle containing the word "PAID," but I do not pretend to have made a special study of this point, although I fully recognize its interest. I should add that pairs of the 2d are always scarce, and that, except the latest stage of the 1d, unused specimens of both values are rarely to be met with. The variations of the types are well known and will be found fully noted over the specimens on the sheets now submitted.

ISSUE III. MARCH, 1859.

This stamp is generally held to be the greatest libel upon her late Majesty Queen Victoria's portrait that has ever been perpetrated, and is, in fact, known to our neighbours across the Channel as the tête de singe issue. Mr. Lapiro's work is far inferior to that of Mr. Bernard, and, moreover, the lines are far less deeply cut. The plate hence wore out very rapidly, and, as suggested by Major Evans in his article, it was probably due to an appreciation of this fact that the preceding 2d of 1848 was re-engraved as a stand-by.

As before, I have adopted the background as showing best the dividing stages of wear, which I classify as follows:—

- (1.) Design showing full, horizontal, vertical, and diagonal lines.
- (2.) All lines partially worn away.
- (3.) All lines defective and disclosing spaces that are practically bare.

As regards the paper, it is generally thin and is found in two shades, grey and blue; but specimens may be met with in the former colour that are appreciably thicker in texture.

There are two notable varieties in the plate, i. e. No. 9, which has a circle in the centre of the ornament in the lower left corner (this variety is mentioned in British Africa), and No. 8, which has the letter "N" of "PENCE" reversed—i. e. the central stroke slants upwards from the lower left: the outer line of the right-hand corner ornament is also duplicated. A similar variety also occurs in No. 12 as to these lines, but they are more distinct.

The earliest impressions of these stamps are rarer than is generally imagined, while the latest impressions, if with small margins, as is frequently the case, are probably the commonest of the native-printed stamps. I call attention to a pair of these stamps, the left-hand one of which, owing to defective inking, presents the appearance of at least one more stage of wear.

ISSUE IV.

This stamp, known as the large fillet, printed from the plate re-engraved by Mr. Sherwin, was undoubtedly but little used, and was most probably prepared to supplement the preceding plate pending the preparation of the following issue with the Greek border. The stamp has always been rare, nor have I ever seen any specimen with any traces of defect beyond slight imperfections caused by partially inadequate inking. The paper is uniformly of a thinnish, blue nature. The only type varieties are those with the period as described in British Africa.

ISSUE V.

"Lithographed locally by Mr. Dardenne upon thick white to yellowish laid paper, the laid lines being horizontal and wide apart." Except a description of the design this is the only information given us in British Africa, nor can it be said to err on the side of redundancy. I understand from Major Evans that he was unable to ascertain the size or formation of the sheets, or in fact any further information as to this issue; we shall hence have to supplement our knowledge of this issue by the study of the stamps, and the principal point of these notes is to call attention to the paucity of our knowledge hereon, and to endeavour to indicate on what lines inquiry should be made. One point on which all information is lacking as to this, and indeed all native-produced issues of Mauritius, is the numbers of impressions struck off, and it would be especially interesting with regard to Mr. Dardenne's handiwork to know what was the proportion of 2d to 1d. It was probably ten to one, as the penny is immeasurably rarer in used condition, the reverse being the case as to the unused as regards the normal shades. There is no indication of the number of specimens on each sheet, but I believe it must have been considerable—possibly twenty-four, but more probably twice that number. I have measured ten horizontal pairs and found the measurements between the stamps different in nine cases, while of vertical pairs I have measured seven, six of which differed. I show moreover a vertical strip of four and seven varieties having varying but permanent defects in the lithographs, by aid of which the "types" can be distinguished. Beyond this, owing to defective wiping of the stone at a later period, blots of corroded ink were allowed to remain, and by the aid of these further "type" varieties can be identified. It is therefore fairly evident that there was a considerable number of specimens on each sheet. In default of larger blocks I have been unable to elucidate the matter further than this. The margins are so wide between each stamp that I have not been able to fix upon those most useful aids in reconstructing a plate, i. e. outside stamps. It will require the accumulation of an enormous number of unsevered specimens to prove the formation of the sheet; but other equally difficult tasks have been accomplished in the philatelic world, and now that attention has been called to the fact I am in hope that some future student may accomplish what I have but commenced.

I am enabled however to mention one point that I think is entirely novel, and I am confident will be deemed of philatelic importance and interest as regards this issue, viz., that the plate, or rather stone, has been retouched. I present for inspection two singles and a pair of the twopenny value, which clearly show that the designs have been retouched in two marked variations; and I further show four other specimens having less important—but still, to my mind—unmistakeable retouches. These are all illustrated, being Nos. 1, 1a, 2, 3, 3a, 4, and 5.

No. 1 has white lines at the back of the neck continued to the base and on the right upper side of the head, while the shading of the neck has been redrawn at the back. The first stamp (Illustration 1) shows a large white space at the back of the neck; this, however, apparently is caused by a flaw in the paper. It still leaves, however, visible portions of the white line, the neck shading, and the white stroke upon the head. The illustration does not show these details so clearly as the stamp itself, but there is no doubt but that 1 and 1a represent the same "type" on the stone.

No. 2 has a white line at the back of the neck, marked, but differing from No. 1, as it is not continued to the base of the neck. The shading of coloured lines on the neck has been redrawn in coarse lines.

No. 3 and No. 3a have the nostril redrawn; there are also short vertical white strokes above the back of the neck, and the coloured shading of this has also been apparently touched up.

No. 4 has an irregular faint wavy line extending for about three-quarters of the distance at the back of the neck.

No. 5 has a faint white line extending from the hair to the base of the neck at the back.

There are possibly other varieties of these retouches, but these are all I have been enabled to find despite my most strenuous search for a number of years past. The specimen (Illustration 6) of this value is a defective impression arising doubtless from over-inking of the stone, making the hair and crown into nearly a solid mass of colour. I have not found any retouches of the one penny value, and, as before mentioned, the use of this value was relatively small, and the stones probably did not therefore require any retouching. Illustration No. 7 shows, however, a distinctly defective transfer, the lower left portion of the stamp being cut away. Illustration No. 8 shows a heavy impression somewhat resembling the 2d (No. 6), though not so much inked; the shading on the neck and hair has, however, a very bloomy appearance. As to the order of issue I place these stamps thus:—

- 1d.
- (1) blood-red.
- (2) rose-red.
- (3) vermillion.

Both the former are immeasurably rarer than the latter, and in unused condition are as rare as almost any native-produced stamp.

- 2d.
- (1) slate-blue.
- (2) blue, pale to bright.

The slate-blue is far the rarer of the two, and as I have found none with the ink spots or retouches before mentioned, and further, as the design is more clearly and distinctly printed than the normal blue shades, I have no hesitation in assigning it priority of issue. I have never seen it unused.

It will be seen that this lithographed issue affords good ground for philatelic research, and I shall be a grateful recipient of any information from my fellow students which may help us to elucidate what is practically the only unsolved problem in connection with the remarkable issues of stamps engraved, lithographed, and printed in the island of Mauritius—London Philatelist.

NEW YORK, June 2, 1910.

Meeting called to order at 9 P. M. by President Skinner and was well attended. Several communications were read and received due consideration. To make the competitive exhibition of Porto Rico at the next meeting June 16th more interesting, a paper on the Postal Emissions of Porto Rico will be read by Mr. Isenstein. There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned and the rest of the evening devoted to exchange and sale of stamps.

PHILATELIC NEWS FROM SWEDEN.

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT.

Imperforate Stamps.

The Swedish Postal Department has never issued any imperforate stamps, and consequently the imperforates that are known came on the market unintentionally and without the knowledge of the authorities. Some of these imperforates are very scarce and several are real rarities, but heretofore no data have been available as to existing varieties or their relative values. In the April issue of the S. F. T. Mr. Harry Wennberg, the prominent Stockholm dealer, furnishes an exceedingly interesting article on this subject, and as no writer on the stamps of Sweden could write with better authority or wider experience, his statements are well worthy of being rendered into other languages, thereby securing a wider circulation.

No imperforate stamps of the issues of 1855 and 1858 are known. It is said that the 12 öre of 1858 exists imperforate but it is difficult to state if it is a real imperforate or only a copy with the perforations incomplete. Mr. Wennberg has at present in his stock a 12 öre of 1858 which only is perforated on three sides. It should be observed that the stamps of Sweden are never issued with straight edges like those of our own issues. The imperforate edge on Mr. W.'s copy is very broad, indicating that it is a part of the margin of the sheet and that the marginal row of perforations was accidentally omitted.

The most interesting find of imperforate Swedish stamps was made years ago by the Swedish dealer Brose. He found an imperforate pair of the 30 öre of 1877. This, the only known pair of an imperforate stamp of the older issues, was purchased by Dr. Astley Levin of Stockholm and was included in his collection of Sweden which received the 1st prize, a gold medal, at the London philatelic exhibition. Of single imperforate copies of the 30 öre of 1877 there are probably about 20 in the market and the prices vary from 21 to 27 dollars.

The 20 öre of 1877 occurs with incomplete perforations. Apparently imperforate a closer examination will reveal marks from the perforating needles although the paper has not been penetrated. Copies of the 30 öre value are also found in the same condition. These traces of perforations were undoubtedly caused by too many stamp sheets having been put under the perforating machine at the same time. The needles were unable to penetrate the bottom sheets, leaving them either imperforate or incompletely perforated. There is no doubt that many of the imperforate Swedish stamps have originated in that way.

The 6 öre of 1877 also exists imperforate and in connection with this, Mr. Wennberg relates an interesting story. Many years ago there was on Linné str. in Stockholm a little stamp business run by a kind old lady generally called "the white dove." From 1880 to 1890 "great" stamp transactions were closed in this little shop and many a 3sk banco was sold for 25 cents, although the old lady considered it nearly a sin to charge that much for a postage stamp. Many stamps were left by collectors with "the white dove" for sale and one day a customer found a beautiful imperforate copy of the 6 öre of 1877 priced 3 cents. As he was no specialist he hesitated in taking it but at last made up his mind and bought it. Five years passed and in the meantime the customer mentioned had laid his collection aside. One day the flame began to burn anew and his steps took him to "the white dove." He looked through one book after another. Suddenly his eyes bulged from astonishment. There was his 6 öre imperforated again for sale at 3 cents. How had it come there? He could not remember having either sold it or given it away. He buys it again, comes home, and finds that he now has two copies as like each other as two berries. These imperforate 6 öre stamps are now worth $53.00 per copy.

Senf's catalogue lists the 5 and 12 öre of 1877 as existing imperforate, and Mr. Wennberg states that he has seen one imperforate copy of the 12 öre, but has never seen the 5 öre. Of the 1886 issue he has seen one imperforate copy of the 3 öre, one of the 6 öre, and three copies of the 10 öre. All of these are great rarities.

Of the official stamps and the postage due stamps the one krona values are found imperforate. The official one krona stamp sells for about $40, and the postage due for $7. About 100 copies of the latter are known. All of the older imperforate postage stamps are absolutely unknown in unused condition which proves that their appearance was entirely accidental and in no way connected with speculative motives. For the specialist they will always prove valuable curiosities.

Attendants at the Atlantic City convention last year were all pleased to meet Alvah Davison, who with Mrs. Davison added a great deal of life to the A. P. S. meeting. We present herewith a half tone of Mr. Davison's beautiful home in Brooklyn, though we confess the picture does it scant justice.

In 1892 or 1893 the 5 öre (dark green) came into the market imperforate and unused to a number of from 200 to 300 copies. Overlooked at the postal supply division they were sent out to one of the post offices in Stockholm. A firm which sent to this office for a few sheets of 5 öre stamps happened to receive these imperforate stamps and—promptly returned them with the statement that they did not have the time to cut them apart. The post office clerk exchanged them for perforated stamps and bought them himself and sold them afterwards to the late Mr. Lichtenstein, a Stockholm dealer. At present these stamps are valued at 6 or 7 dollars each.

About the same time the 1 öre value appeared imperforate. A bank official (and philatelist) in the city of Lund mailed all bank notices with 1 öre stamps and consequently bought a great number of sheets of this value at the post office. One day he found in a lot of sheets just bought, 4 sheets in imperforate condition. These stamps are now selling at from $1.30 to $1.60 each.

In 1900 the first imperforate 10 öre stamps were found. In a lot of about 200 perforated 10 öre sheets received at one of the Stockholm post offices not less than 23 sheets were imperforate. The clerk bought all these sheets himself and sold them to Mr. Wennberg. During several months no other imperforate 10 öre stamps were in existence but suddenly, in the following year, large lots came in the market, selling at from 15 to 25 cents per copy. The postal supply division had blundered again and this time at least 100 sheets must have come out. They were offered for sale by one of the postmasters as well as by the Lichtenstein firm.

The great number of imperforate 10 öre stamps offered in the market looked suspicious to the postal directorate and the secret service was called upon to find out if there was anything wrong going on. It was soon found that the sheets had been sent out unintentionally to various post offices and that the postal department had received their full value. The postmaster, mentioned above, got into trouble because he had himself offered and sold the stamps at his post office at prices exceeding the face value of the stamps.

The color of the first 10 öre imperforates, which came out in 1900, is considerably darker than the color of those which appeared in 1901. It was on account of these imperforate 10 öre stamps that the post department issued a circular in 1901 which states, that any imperforate or erroneously printed stamps which by some means have been, or may be issued after the date of the circular will be considered nonacceptable for franking purposes.

New Stamps Rejected.

The 4 öre value of the new Swedish stamp series has already appeared. The next new value expected is the 10 öre of which the printers, Jacob Bagge's Bank Note Co. of Stockholm, recently submitted 4 proof sheets to the General Postal Directorate. The Directorate has now announced that it is unable to approve the stamps submitted. In order to find out the cause for this action the Swedish Daily News interviewed the superintendent of the stamp division and this gentleman furnished some very interesting information.

He stated that there are no remarks to be made against the plates for the new stamps. These plates had been ordered from Vienna by the Postal Directorate and it was hardly possible to conceive of better executed engraving. From these plates other plates are made by galvanic process and it is the latter plates which are used for the printing. For some reason all the fine lines in the original engraving did not appear on the printed sheets and this fact certainly indicated a defect. The fault is nevertheless so slight that it can not be discovered with the naked eye. The use of a magnifying glass is necessary and then it will be seen that a number of the fine lines have failed to print. The General Postal Directorate had not been alone in rendering the rejecting decision but had called in several experts who insisted upon that the fine lines on the original engraving must appear on the finished stamps if the latter should be considered correct.

The Bagge's Bank Note Co. requested permission of the Postal Directorate to have the plates more deeply etched but this request was refused by the Directorate.

An interview with the general manager of the Bank Note Co. brought forth that the company had previously pointed out that the engraving on the original plates was altogether too fine. It is made in such a manner that it is simply impossible to obtain impressions on which the finest lines come up. A number of experts had declared that such a fine engraving was simply unsuitable for printing in such large quantities as are required in the case of postage stamps. Besides there were some of the proofs, which accompanied the original plates from Vienna, on which the finer lines had not printed. The jubilee stamps of the Australians, with which naturally great care had been taken, did in some cases show the same defects which now had caused the General Postal Directorate to reject the Swedish proof sheets.

The manager stated that there was no fault connected with the manufacture of the printing plates as the establishment had just installed for this purpose a galvanic department with the most modern machinery. The company had always been the printers of the Swedish postage issues and no complaints had been heard heretofore.

On the inquiry if the original plates for the current issue also had been made in a foreign country, the manager stated that heretofore all postage stamp plates had been made and engraved in Sweden. He could not state for what reason this practice was no longer adhered to.

These news items seem to indicate a deadlock between the Post Department and the Bank Note Company which may last for some time.—Svensk Filatelistisk Tidskrift.

THE GENEVA CROSS SOCIETY.

The Official Gazette of the 17th August, 1886, published a decree authorizing the above Society in Portugal to use for its official correspondence a special stamp, which, being well known, needs no further description. It, as well as all the other private stamps, bears no value, and serves to frank letters, circulars, pamphlets, etc., irrespective of weight.

At first it was printed in carmine-red and black on thickish paper, perforated 12½, in sheets of twenty-eight stamps. At the beginning of 1909 a fresh printing was used where the paper is thinner, the colour vermilion-red and black, and the perforation 11½.

THE CIVIL RIFLE CLUB.

A decree of the 16th July, 1894, authorized this Club to use its own stamps for official correspondence, but the first stamps were not used till 1899. For no other apparent reason than as making varieties for stamp collectors—for the stamps are on sale whenever they have been superseded by a new issue—the colours are changed for use on the 1st of July in each year. They are in sheets of thirty. The following are the varieties:—

- 1899. Centre red, frame green, ordinary paper, perf. 11½.
- 1900. Centre green, frame brown, ordinary paper, perf. 11½.
- 1901. Centre orange, frame blue, ordinary paper, perf. 11½.
- 1902. Centre pale yellow, frame red, ordinary paper, perf. 11½.
- 1903. Centre orange, frame green, ordinary paper, perf. 11½.
- 1904. Centre red, frame grey brown, ordinary paper, perf. 11½.
- 1905. Centre blue, frame chocolate, ordinary paper, perf. 11½.
- 1905. Centre blue, frame chocolate, chalk-surfaced paper, perf. 11½.
- 1906. Centre buff, frame ultramarine, ordinary paper, perf. 11½.
- 1907. Centre yellow, frame brown, chalk-surfaced paper, perf. 11½.
- 1908. Centre blue, frame red, chalk-surfaced paper, perf. 11½.
- 1909. Centre pale green, frame dark blue, chalk-surfaced paper, perf. 11½.

THE GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY.

The decree authorizing the use of the stamps is dated the 1st July, 1903. The design was designed by or under the direction of a former President of the Society, Senhor Luciano Cordeiro, and they are printed by a private company, the "Lithographia A Editora." They are in sheets of forty-two and perf. 11½. The first stamps were in red, blue, and black, with a background of horizontal red lines. On the 6th of March, 1909, the Society began to use a stamp of the same design, but the red lines are substituted by a solid yellow background.

THE SOCIETY FOR ASSISTING CONSUMPTIVE PATIENTS.

This Society is under the direct patronage of Queen Dona Amelia, who takes a great interest in all charitable work. Two stamps have been prepared for official use, one for letters and the other for printed matter, but although they can be purchased, I cannot discover that they have ever been employed for postal use, so they come under the same category as our own Hospital Stamps.—London Philatelist.

COLONIAL AND FOREIGN OBLITERATIONS ON U. S. STAMPS.

The colonial and foreign obliterations which are to be found on the recent postage stamp issues of the United States present, as regards English collectors at least, a practically untitled field in philately.

Until in 1882 the Hawaiian Islands were admitted to the Universal Postal Union, contemporary postage stamps of the United States were kept in stock by the Honolulu Post Office for the purpose of franking correspondence consigned out of the islands themselves, and exist on entire used concurrently with most early issues of Hawaiian postage stamps. Since August 16th, 1898, when these islands were formally annexed to the United States, the issue of separate postage stamps for use there has ceased entirely, and ordinary unsurcharged United States postage stamps are now the only kind obtainable in the group.

United States postage stamps were sold at the American Consulate at Apia, Samoa, previous to the establishment of the German Postal Agency there in September, 1886, for use in franking letters conveyed to America and elsewhere on board of American vessels. They are still current in the islands of the Samoan group which were assigned to the United States at the partition of the group in 1899. All issues subsequent to that date may be found with the postmarks of Pago-Pago and Tau on the islands of Tutuila and Manua respectively.

For many years a postal agency has been maintained in charge of the U. S. Consul-General at Shanghai, in China, at which postal business of every description is transacted. No special issue has been at any time made for this office, and contemporary United States postage stamps without distinguishing mark, excepting their obliteration, have always been in use there. The postmark employed consists of a large single-lined circle, inscribed, in small capitals round the circumference, "United States Postal Sta. Shanghai, China," with the date in the centre.

There is only one post office on the island of Guam, one of the Ladrone group, which was acquired by the United States as a coaling station after the Spanish-American War. It is at Agaña, the capital, and since the exhaustion of the special surcharged issue prepared for use in this island, ordinary unsurcharged United States postage stamps have been current there.

There are today 125 post offices making use of United States postage stamps in the territory of Alaska, which was purchased from Russia by the United States Government in 1867.

During the Spanish-American War military post offices were established to deal with the correspondence of the U. S. troops engaged in Cuba, Porto Rico, and the Philippines. The offices in Cuba were attached to the New York Post Office, those in the Philippines to San Francisco, and those in Porto Rico to Washington. The military post offices were abolished about the spring of 1899, and all the post offices in these countries were placed under civic control.

Since 1901, when Cuba was granted a constitution, United States postage stamps have not been available for the prepayment of postage in that island, excepting at the United States naval station at Guantanamo Bay, where there is a post office at the town of Bagley making use of ordinary unsurcharged United States postage stamps.

In the island of Porto Rico, which was captured from Spain, the regular postal issues of the United States without distinguishing overprint have been current since May 1st, 1901, when civil government was established in the island.

The territory purchased by the U. S. Government from Panama in 1904, and known as the Canal Zone, is the only U. S. possession in which ordinary United States postage stamps are not valid for the prepayment of postage.

Previous to October 1st, 1903, unsurcharged United States postage stamps were accepted in prepayment of postage at the post offices in the Philippines, but since that date they are no longer available.

Military post offices using unsurcharged U. S. stamps were established at Pekin, Tientsin, and Tougka, in China, during the military operations in China consequent on the Boxer Rising of 1900. They were in operation from August 2nd of that year to August 1st, 1901, and special cancellations were employed.

United States postage stamps used on Ship Letters may be found with the cancellations of Yokohama, Kobe, Hong-Kong, and a number of other Asiatic seaports, and also with that of St. Thomas, Danish West Indies.

This completes the list of extra-territorial obliterations that are known to the writer. It can without doubt be greatly extended by those in possession of reliable information on the subject, and the publication of the results of further investigations along these lines would, without doubt, be most acceptable to a very large number of philatelists.—Stamp Lover.

Editor MEKEEL'S WEEKLY:

Having recently returned from a five months' sojourn in Europe, I find an unfortunate controversy going on between Mr. Kendall of Winnipeg and Mr. Clark of Chetopa, Kansas. Efforts have been made to enlist my sympathies by both parties to the dispute. In my official capacity as president of both the "Metropolitan Philatelic Association" and the "Hobby Club", I feel that I may be considered responsible for the questionable actions of one or both disputants. Only where such actions affect the "M. P. A."—and then only if proved—will I accept any responsibility. This statement of my position is made necessary by attempts to draw me into the controversy and to gain my assistance in the collection of certain debts said to be owed by one or other of the disputants. Despite my name, I do not run a "Collection Agency"! Sincerely yours,

EDITORIAL.

On Tour—Henry J. Crocker, San Francisco, one of America's truly great collectors has been making a triumphal tour. When he began his journey east, Mr. Crocker had little thought that what he believed was to be an informal trip would develop into a succession of philatelic festivals. Mr. Crocker told us that when he started from San Francisco his idea was that the trip would be for business combining some philately but it proved to be one for philately with some business. Conditions were innocent enough until he reached Boston and there the philatelic spark blazed forth; a most fitting and effective setting was provided for the display of Mr. Crocker's Hawaiians. The thought of the honors done him at Boston certainly sustained Mr. Crocker until he reached Cleveland, where at the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club, he was the lion of the evening. The Cleveland men, postmasters in the art of philatelic entertainment, achieved a record in delightful deportment, with Mr. Crocker as guest. At Chicago, H. N. Mudge, President of the American Philatelic Society, Henry Ades Fowler and C. E. Severn, thanks to a telegram from Iver R. Johnson, Chicago, who was at Cleveland on Crocker night, met Mr. Crocker, who had a stay of three hours in Chicago, between trains. On a few hour's notice only a small number of Chicagoans could be brought together. Mr. Crocker regretted that he could not allow the members of the Chicago Philatelic Society in a body to view his collection and it is needless to say that he was not alone in his regrets.

A Grand Sight—At Chicago, Mr. Crocker's time was limited and as custodian of a party of charming traveling companions, he necessarily had to devote himself to their comfort and pleasure. Mr. Crocker somewhat pleasantly perturbed the delegation of three by saying that he would resign his stamps into their hands so that they might inspect them when and where they elected, while he was otherwise engaged. So, the fortune in stamps was carried through the streets by the three, none of whom had met Mr. Crocker before, to a convenient office where the stamps were viewed at leisure. In this way, the Hawaiian collection and other rarities that were not destroyed by the fire were deliberately gloated over. A good many years ago, Mr. Crocker's Hawaiians were shown at a meeting of the Chicago society but since that time, the collection has been much amplified. Mr. Crocker's highly specialized collection of Japan which was destroyed in the San Francisco catastrophe had been the subject of a "Japanese night" at Chicago some years before its destruction. Mr. Crocker's Hawaiian holdings are unique in their range and richness and they deserve the laudatory notices and distinctive honors that have been lavished on them. They have been admired in Europe as well as this country; and abroad, America's philatelic prestige has been greatly advanced by them.

His Studies—Mr. Crocker is a keen student of Hawaiians and his recently published monograph, one of the most sumptuous of philatelic productions is a masterpiece. It embodies research of the highest order and will stand as a monument to his close analysis of the puzzling details of the Hawaiian issues of which there are no available official records. Since the appearance of the book, Mr. Crocker's studies have been reflected in the philatelic press and his recent contributions to the sum of knowledge of the stamps will soon be supplemented by information of an important discovery in a later issue of the country. We expect to be enabled to give our readers particulars in good season by the courtesy of Mr. Crocker.

Precanceled Envelope—A reader has sent for inspection what evidently is a precanceled United States envelope stamp. It is the one-cent wrapper, blue on manila, 1870 issue, canceled by two diagonal lines crossing in the center, printed by rules. The envelope impression is torn from the wrapper irregularly but above the stamp is the printing, "Burlington," and what evidently are the bottom parts of the letters "I" and "O" of Iowa. The history of this precancellation, as it surely must be, would be interesting, as the stamp antedates the one-cent adhesive, 1879, precanceled for use by the Lancaster Watch Company, that has been described in this column. Another reader has shown us the one-cent, 1879, canceled by a large five-pointed star in green, containing fine horizontal lines, printed by press. As the stamp is not on the envelope, it could be accepted only on faith.

Their Business Boomed—Some figures that convey an idea of the magnitude of the business transacted by the private post companies in New York City in the days when conditions were most favorable to the development of the enterprises is gleaned from statistics that were submitted in 1854 by an investigator and postal reformer who advocated the collection and delivery of letters by carriers at that comparatively early date. The proprietors of the two principal or, at least, most popular posts said that they collected and delivered, or deposited in the city post-office, an average of about 10,000 letters per diem, each. One of the posts maintained over two thousand receiving boxes for letters, distributed throughout the city; and employed forty-five carriers. The second post engaged the services of twenty-five carriers and rented 350 boxes at four dollars a year in its private post-office. It was estimated that the numerous posts in New York City were collecting at the time, no fewer than 25,000 letters daily, and that, consequently, in one year, the aggregate number would be 9,125,000. Nearly ten times as many letters were carried by the private posts as were dropped in the New York post-office. The loss to the government of postal revenue in the local carrying business had become so enormous that the startled attention of the authorities was directed to the drain, and though fully aware of the condition, seemingly, they lacked the force to institute methods of aggression that would have removed the private competitors from the field.

Stamps in Variety—In those distant days, it was the complaint of the citizen that he had to keep on hand a variety of postage stamps even for domestic correspondence. First, he bought the private stamp from the local carrying concern; if he placed a "drop" letter in the post-office, a one-cent stamp was affixed; three cents were charged for passage through the mails for a distance of not over 3,000 miles, and over that, a ten-cent stamp was required for carriage. The rates for foreign postage were complicated almost beyond understanding; in some cases they were really prohibitive, as over a dollar was charged for the half-ounce weight; and in those days, a dollar meant more than it does to-day.

GOOD WORK.

While rummaging in an old trunk that had not been opened for nearly half a century, a farmer of Annapolis County came across a large bundle of the old Mayflower Nova Scotian stamps. He had an idea that these were valuable and he determined to ask a friend their worth. This he did and the obliging friend offered him $100 for the lot. Overjoyed the farmer closed with him. Two weeks ago the friend sent the stamps on to Boston for valuation and on Wednesday received a report regarding them. The firm to whom he had submitted them said that they were worth $200 and offered to pay that price. The young man at once wired to "send the cheque and keep the stamps." The farmer is kicking himself now. However, he says he has another old trunk that should also contain old letters, and he hopes to find a gold mine in this. It may be mentioned that this find is the largest find of Canadian stamps since the discovery in a cellar in Halifax a few years ago, of letters on which were old Canadian stamps valued at $9,000.—Nova Scotia Newspaper.

U. S. U. S. U. S. U. S.

An extensive purchase from abroad. The largest and finest lot of U. S. ever bought by our firm.

We offer these stamps in three grades. I are the finest copies, centered, lightly cancelled, the unused have full o. g. II are good copies, generally not so well centered, the imperis may be a trifle short on one side, the unused may have gum, if not, they are fine copies. III have some very slight defect, such as a minute tear or only a straight edge, or thin spot. They are fine looking copies.

CONTRACT FOR POSTAGE STAMPS.

Bureau of Engraving and Printing
Hopes to Save $180,000 a Year.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Postmaster General Hitchcock has approved a contract with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, for a period of four years beginning on January 31, 1911, for the manufacture and printing of adhesive postage stamps and books of stamps.

A private corporation submitted a bid for the production of the stamps that was $17,000 lower than the bid of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, but as the bureau has in view the adoption of methods which will save the government $180,000 a year in the expenditure of $625,000 on the manufacture of stamps, the contract was awarded to it.—Press Clipping.

1910 DIE VARIETIES OF ENVELOPES.

By J. M. BARTELS.

In the issue of May 28th, V. M. Berthold described eleven new dies of the 2c carmine current envelope. The one uniform characteristic of all new dies of the 1c and 2c is the much broader letter S wherever it appears.

Two new dies of the 2c have recently appeared and now four of the 1c are also known. It is improbable that more of the 2c dies will be found though we may not yet have seen the end of the 1c.

Die 9 was incorrectly described, so we will take up this die once more. For the sake of completeness to date several new paper varieties are added to the list.

Known: S. 5 White.

S. 13 White (open end).

1c Var. 1. 1 and 0 near; U appears to be above N; T's in upper inscription have short top bar; UN strongly divergent; NI parallel and close.

Known: S. 6 Manila.

1c Var. 3. Lettering heavy; c more closed than in other dies, quite heavily drawn; U and S near 1; STATES nearer outer frame line; NI parallel.

Known: Wrapper.

1c Var. 4. Top of head far from inner oval; c very wide open; CE and NT wide; T above N; TE also wide; nose pointed; U far from 1; second T in STATES has long top bar.

Known: Wrapper.

2c Var. 9. O and C at bottom very wide apart; lower inscription near outer frame line; ST near; T's of STATES have long top bars; ES widely spaced at top.

2c Var. 12. D very far from E at top; OC very far apart; U almost horizontal; final S of STATES far from 2; c elongated; T's in STATES have long top bars; TE in UNITED parallel.

Known: S. 13 White.

2c Var. 13. U extremely near 2; o poorly drawn, too thin at lower right, near w; D poorly shaped; TWO nearer inner oval.

Known: S. 7 White.

S. 7 Blue.

Additional new envelopes:—

2c Var. 1, S. 13 Blue.

2c Var. 8, S. 5 Amber.

2c Var. 10, S. 13 White.

The total number of new envelopes and wrappers described to date is 4 of the 1c and 32 of the 2c. So far with two exceptions (1c Var. 1 and 2c Var. 4) each die has appeared on one size only.

The new 1c open end envelopes have just come to hand. The knives are the same as formerly. The top flap is partly ungummed on the left side and the left flap is entirely ungummed. The idea is evidently to enclose the circular in the regular way and seal it up for mailing. After this is done, the contents can still be inspected as the left side has remained unsealed.

We have so far seen the following:—

1c die A, size 5, white, knife 81.

1c die A, size 6, manila, knife 81, (watermark '07B).

1c die A, size 8, white.

1c new die, var. 1, size 13, white.

NEW ZEALAND NOTES.

By IRWIN FARIS.

"DUNEDIN" PERFS.

The Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, in commenting upon my statement that I hold a 2d blue full-face apparently perforated in part by the "13" machine and in part by the "12½" machine, expresses the fear that I have discovered "a mare's nest."

I never pose as an oracle, but merely record such facts (or seeming facts) as come under my notice, adding my personal opinions and theories in connection therewith. The latter may or may not be based on correct premises, and may or may not coincide with those of other collectors; but as Philately is not an "exact science" (I have heard it referred to in much less complimentary terms!) it is only by the free and bold expression and discussion of theories and opinions that we, its devotees, can hope to arrive at a common understanding of its more intricate details. With regard to the statement under review, I believe the fact to be as stated, and see no reason to alter my opinion regarding the cause.

I hold a 2d blue, Star, full-face apparently partly perforated 13 and partly 12½, or (to be a little more precise than previously) perforated 12½ on three sides and 13 on the other; the latter being smaller and more clearly cut than the former. It appears reasonable to assume that the two different chimes, and that the two machines were the "Dunedin 13" and "Official 12½" seeing that no others existed within the Colony.

My reviewer says: "To have one of these stamps with compound perforations would mean that some partly perforated sheets were sent from Dunedin to Auckland and perforated by an out of date machine, a most unlikely contingency."

It is, indeed, most unlikely that stamps, whether partly or wholly imperf., would be (officially) sent from Dunedin to Auckland, seeing that Auckland was (until Oct. 1864) the Capital (seat of Government) of the Colony, and was (from 1856 to early in 1865) the centre at which N. Z. stamps were printed (at office of Postmaster-General) and from which other centres (including Dunedin) drew their supplies.

It does not, however, follow that a sheet partly perf. 13 must of necessity have been "sent to Auckland" in order that the imperf. rows should be perforated 12½, because the 12½ machine was there only six or nine months and was then (early in 1865) removed to Wellington, the new seat of Government from Oct. 1864. Consequently, if 12½

OFFICIAL STAMP (Stanley Gibbons, type 81.)

Probably many collectors beyond the Dominion are unaware that the letters "P. A. S. D." in the corners have a special reference to the issuing department. They are initial letters and represent "Printing And Stationery Department." The two stamps, S. G. types 81 and 82, were the only adhesive official stamps issued prior to 1907 (S. G. type 83), the "O. P. S. O." issues (S. G. 630/642B), being hardly such. The latter were not used within the Dominion, but only for over-sea correspondence, and almost exclusively by the Postmaster-General and the Heads of the Postal Department. They bore hand-printed impressions of the letters "O. P. S. O." signifying "On Public Service Only" the usual inscription found on all Departmental envelopes, etc. The latter has now been altered to "On His Majesty's Service."

I am unable to state definitely, but believe that the "O. P. S. O." stamps are not now used, having been superseded by the "Official" overprints.

Several forms of Departmental "square cuts" similar to types S. G. 81 and 82 exist, but none were adhesive stamps, but imprints on envelopes or wrappers, or on adhesive address-labels. I shall send a set for illustration later on.

CLEAN-CUT AND ROUGH PERFS.

I mentioned in a previous note that it was noticeable that whereas some of the sheets of 1d current have very clean-cut perfs., others are rough cut. This also occurs in the ½d current. On looking over a bundle of sheets of 1d recently I found that the rough perfs. occurred on every alternate sheet. It is evident that both clean and rough are from the same machine, the difference being probably due to the perforation of two sheets at once instead of each singly; the uppermost sheet getting clean-cuts and lower sheets rough cuts.

AUTOMATIC FRANKING MACHINES.

Some collectors beyond this Dominion may have been puzzled to find on letters from New Zealand ordinary postage stamps affixed above (and covering) automatic franks; and wondered why both were necessary. They were not. The explanation being that these franks were not available for over-sea postage; therefore when letters bearing such were found in the Post, the Postal Officials placed over each frank its equivalent in ordinary adhesive stamps. The department of course recovered the value of the stamps in the form of the payments for the franks. The franks are, I understand, now being accepted, the system being under trial for a time.

UNITED STATES.—W. D. Grout writes: "Referring to the Barker City Post Label, I beg to state that Barker succeeded Cheever & Towle of Boston but he used only a hand stamp. I glean the above information from Coster's work on U. S. Locals from which I quote: 'I wish to make allusion to a number of fantastical things due to the counterfeiters, who not satisfied with swindling the public with 'reproductions' (as they call them) have exercised their ingenuity by producing labels purporting to have emanated from companies which in reality had for the most part not even an existence, or in a few instances where they did exist, never issued any stamp whatever.' As the Barker City Post is particularly referred to after the above article I think it is clear that the label found by Mr. Stam is one of the productions above referred to."

J. H. Houston sends us specimens of the Pan American and 1902 2c stamps, showing wide differences in the shades of carmine. The specimens of the Pan American submitted show especially strong differences, one being almost a vermilion, while the other is a very deep carmine.

Miss Amy L. Swift writes: "In connection with the 'discoveries' of Columbian issue varieties, as mentioned in your notes for the current WEEKLY, permit me to state that the defects noted are very old history, many having been described in our publications while the issue was in use. The one with broken line at outside right lower corner was among the varieties thus mentioned, and a specimen has been in my album over since. It is very common, for every 100 will generally yield a dozen or more. The 'Barker's City Post' is not likely to take rank as a rarity with the P. O. Mauritius! I think our old friend, S. Allan Taylor, could relate its biography if he were willing!"

E. F. Coffin writes: "Referring to the label which you mention in the current issue of MEKEEL'S, marked 'Barker's City Post', I take the liberty of submitting the following facts which may throw some light upon the subject. In Coster's catalogue of U. S. Locals appears this paragraph among an enumeration of non-genuine varieties: 'Barker's City Post. Barker succeeded Cheever & Towle in Boston but he used only a handstamp.' Also this significant paragraph in another portion of the same work: 'Boston does not appear to have been the home of many genuine locals though of the counterfeit article it has furnished its full complement.' I think it may be reasonably inferred that the label sent for your inspection is related to the local post above mentioned and that the presumption is against its being entitled to recognition as a genuine local unless facts can be adduced to create that belief."

ARGENTINE.—Just too late for the last number, Hermann Focke kindly sent us nine more values of the new Argentine set, the 5c value of which was noted last week. As noted last week, the 5c was an upright stamp of large size, 20x32mm., but all the other values we have seen, with the exception of the 50c are horizontal oblong in shape, though the size is the same as the 5c. The 50c is upright, and in two colors, and the latter is true of all except the 3c, 5c, 12c and 1 peso. With one exception, the stamps present the portraits of Argentinian worthies, or reproduce scenes of historical interest in that country. The 12c gives a picture of an imposing public building, with a large dome, but the specimen we have is so heavily cancelled that we are unable to read the inscription. All the horizontal oblong stamps have the figures and words of value at the bottom, with "Republica Argentina" in a curved line at the top, and the dates, "1810—1910", in the upper corners or at the ends. Five of the stamps have double portraits, like the Quebec Tercentenary stamps. The 5c and the 50c have the figures of value in

The new set is a decided improvement over the San Martin set which it displaces, temporarily, at least. By the way, the credit for showing us the first value of the new set should have been given to Mr. Focke last week. We are also indebted to the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., for information regarding the new set.

Philip Wolff reports the 1/2c and 1c stamps, but as we have not seen them we can give very little information about them except as below. Probably the 1c is in the style of the 20c and 30c values, while the 1/2c is probably an upright oblong, as it shows a monument.

BAVARIA.—The cards 5pf and 10pf with their doubles and the letter card dated for 1910 are reported by Mr. Schachne. No change except date.

BERMUDA.—The first of the new "Hog Money" stamps has appeared, a copy of the 1/2d value having been shown us by the New England Stamp Co. Though rather florid as to ornamental work in the frame, there are few inscriptions, and the picture of the galleon is a spirited one. The vessel is sailing towards the West, with all sails spread, the picture being contained in a large oval, surmounted by a curved tablet containing "Bermuda" in colorless letters on a colored ground. At the bottom an irregular shaped tablet breaks into the oval and has "1/2d" in color on a white ground. Conventional ornaments, plentifully bestowed, make up the balance of the frame.

DUTCH INDIES.—Hermann Focke sends us a pair of the 15c brown Dutch Indies, surcharged with two horizontal lines in black. This is an error, so to speak, as the stamp should have the surcharge "Java", which for some reason is missing. In 1909 when the stamps of Dutch Indies were surcharged "Java" and "Buiten Beitz", the 15c value was surcharged in addition with two lines, in order to distinguish it from the 50c value printed in a very similar color. The pair shown us has only the lines and is consequently an error which deserves listing. Mr. Focke has the 1/2c, 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 12 1/2c and 25c values with surcharge "Java" inverted at top of stamp.

ERITREA.—Champion's Bulletin chronicles the first of the long promised pictorial set for this Colony. The stamp is a horizontal oblong like the current Hayti or the peso values of Paraguay, and shows a picture of the Government Palace at Massaua. We are not able to give a very good description from the picture in the Bulletin, but the salient features, outside of the picture, are two HAYTI.—The Frank P. Brown Co. has shown us the first values of a new set, the designs being the same as the 1906 set, except that the portrait of A. T. Simon replaces that of Nord Alexis, and the colors are changed, all being in two colors with the centres. The 1c is "Centime de Gourde", the others being "Centimes de Piastre". QUEENSLAND.—George S. Chapman has shown us the 1d of 1896, on which the tail of the "Q" has been carried upward and curved over to the left, until it is nearly twice its normal length.

RUSSIA.—New cards have been received by Mr. Schachne, but the change is only in the headline of two words, which on the former issue began and ended with an "O". These begin with a letter similar to "N" and end with "A".

WE HAVE SEEN WORSE.

CHICAGO, June 9.—[Editor of The Tribune.] Is it not time our postoffice department withdrew its present 1 cent postal card pattern? I will not call it a design. Stamp collectors will confirm the opinion that it is easily the worst postal card now issued by any government. The oval picture of an eagle under thirteen stars at the left would make a wretchedly poor label for a beer bottle. If the United States bureau of engraving and printing cannot beat this had it not better go back to the old Benjamin Franklin profile?—ALFRED EMERSON.

We desire again to call the special attention of members to the splendid line of stamps now circulating in the Sales Department and to suggest that all those who are not receiving circuits make application to the Superintendent to be placed upon the circuit. Prices are very reasonable, and the selection of stamps sent out is larger and better than that which the average dealer sends. By reference to the above report, it will be seen that there are 2756 books in circulation priced at $52,226.02. This represents a catalogue valuation of over $100,000 and covers a wide range of stamps both as to country and as to price.

We have already begun work upon our annual report, which will be made July 1st, and we should be very glad to note any special activity in purchases during the current month.

Respectfully submitted,

PERCIVAL PARRISH, Sales Supt.

REPORT OF COUNTERFEIT DETECTOR.

BOSTON, May 28, 1910.

Cuba.—A number of forged surcharges of the 1903 1c on 3c purple have been submitted for examination from different sources during the past two weeks.

These are: Double surcharge, one of which is forged, the other genuine; Forged inverted surcharge; Forged misplaced surcharge.

Collectors should be exceedingly cautious in accepting specimens of these varieties without having them carefully examined. Most of the specimens seen are used, without legible date.

Respectfully submitted,
J. M. BARTELS, Cft. Detector.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322, Tremont Bldg., 7.30 P. M.

BOSTON, MASS., June 18, 1910.
The 228th (regular) meeting of the Society will be held at the Club Room on Tuesday evening, June 21st, at 7.30 o'clock.

The entertainment will consist of a competitive exhibition in two classes, (a) Commemorative Stamps of all Countries, (b) Foreign Post Cards, Letter Sheets and Wrappers. This will give opportunity to some of those who collect "side lines", and it is hoped that a number will be found to make entries. Remember that even if you do not get a ribbon you may help the other fellow to get one! And then additional exhibits make it much more entertaining for those present.

The following applications will be voted on:—F. C. Koehnle, Thos. B. Stillman, Edward F. Coffin, Alfred C. Sampson and Willard B. Savary.

This is the last regular meeting of the season; come and make it a big one!

Those remaining in town will meet as usual at the Crawford Café, 13 Brattle St., for supper at 6 o'clock.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., June 3, 1910.

We beg to announce the resignation of G. C. Cuenod of Galveston, Texas, as Exchange Superintendent and the appointment in his place of A. A. Hyde, 1030 East Lamar St., Sherman, Texas. Mr. Hyde is connected with the Washington Iron Works, where he holds a responsible position, and is a collector and dealer of stamps of long standing. He is highly qualified for his new office and all members are requested to participate in his department. If you have no stamps to sell, you can at least be placed on the buying list.

Mr. Cuenod has consented to retain his position as Secretary-Treasurer, re-elected, in which he proved himself a most popular and capable official.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Bulgaria, by Bertram W. H. Poole, published by D. Field, 4 Royal Arcade, London, Eng. This is No. 5 of the series of philatelic hand books reprinted from the West End Philatelist. Mr. Poole has dealt with a difficult country in a very able manner, putting into concise shape a great deal of information about the stamps of Bulgaria. It is well worth the price asked, 12c, and is published in the form that will make it very acceptable to the library of any philatelist.

PENNY-IN-THE-SLOT MACHINES.

A new machine is at present working at the G. P. O. Wellington. I have not yet seen any of its issues so cannot give particulars but hope to do so in next notes and send some copies for illustration. It is called the "Dickie machine," and is considered a success. A Post Card machine is also in trial and is likewise considered successful.

The 1d is now issued in form of booklet, overprinted on dotted die, issue of 1904 (Stanley Gibbons No. 303) with two varieties, viz., feet of figure to foot of page, and head of figure to foot of page; stamps are perf. all round excepting at foot of page, thus giving two stamps on each page imperf. at either head or foot.

OVERPRINTED ON "DOMINION" TYPE.

The "Official" overprint has now been applied to the 1d stamp of the "Dominion" type.

HEAVY POSTMARKS.

In connection with used stamps, it is noticeable to all who handle many, that of late the Postal obliterators have been much heavier than those of a few years ago. Not 5 per cent. of the stamps I handle may be termed "lightly marked," whilst a very large proportion is rendered useless for collection purposes, which, by preventing copies from becoming common and cheap, may be a blessing in deep disguise.

The ½d and 1d copies (which few want) being usually on letters and newspapers do not receive such severe treatment, especially such (on letters only) as pass through machine obliterators, but the higher values being used on book-packets, parcels, or on tags attached to the foregoing, present either a soft, yielding body into which the steel date-stamp sinks, or in which it slips about smearing the stamps, or a hard, unyielding body upon which the date-stamp gets full play, leaving a bounteous supply of ink and probably cutting into the stamp.

Yet even now, matters in this respect are not as bad, philatelically, as they were in "the good old days," say 18 to 25 years ago, and before then, when "obliterators" were in use in addition to date stamps, the former being used for the cancellation of the stamp, and the latter only for recording the date. The principal offices used a combination of both, the obliterators portion falling upon the stamp and the date stamp portion on the envelope. The ink sent out to offices was unthinned and soon became of the consistency of molasses; inking-pads accumulated dust and fluff, and as the brass obliterators gathered up all greedily, little hope was there of fair specimens for the collector, from letters posted at other than large offices. Moreover, "non-permanent" sub-offices (i.e., post offices established in sparsely populated parts, and in charge of non-departmental persons such as storekeepers, settlers, &c., who, in consideration of the convenience to the district, attended to same for a nominal remuneration—perhaps none) were not provided with either of the before-mentioned instruments of destruction, so, naturally, invented, or adopted, things, and means much worse!

Such offices, also some of the less important "permanent" or departmental offices, were required by regulation to cancel stamps by writing the name of office and date upon each with pen and ink. This was a tedious task, so many officers carved in wood rough imitations of obliterators and used them with compounds of various kinds in lieu of obliterating ink! Others less ingenious (or with less diabolical inventiveness!) used the ends of round office rulers, the head of a wooden clothes peg, the section of a broom handle, or the mail bag seal!

HALFPENNY, QUEEN'S HEAD.

I consider 'it doubtful whether any "no watermark" issue existed, i.e., on genuine unwatermarked sheets. If it did, the paper was probably that of 1872 Stanley Gibbons 100/102) which, however, had only a short life, having been superseded during the same year by paper watermarked N. Z. (S. G. 103/104) and the lozenge "Invicta" (S. G. 105). Probably the "No Wmk." halfpenny specimens (S. G. 109/111) are from sheets watermarked N. Z., it being noticeable that the perfs. are identical (compare S. G. 106, 107, 108 with S. G. 109, 110 and 111 respectively). Prior to 1868 there were (excluding the unauthorized "Dunedin perf." 13) only two Colonial perforations, viz., perf. 10 and perf. 12½, with their compounds, but of latter I have seen only one, viz., 10x12½, no specimens of Nos. 93/95a, 108 or 111 in 12½x10 having come under my notice. The catalogue appears to be in this respect, misleading as regards Nos. 108 and 111. Doubtless the 12½x10 exist, but I doubt their being the more common.

To return to watermarks. The 1872 watermark N. Z. paper was designed for oblong stamps about double the size of the rose halfpenny, which would account for a large number of the latter falling entirely on the unwatermarked portions of the paper. If this paper was used, pairs should exist consisting of watermarked and unwatermarked specimens; and vice versa if entirely unwatermarked sheets was used, blocks should exist without watermark. Possibly both papers were used?

Specimens of unwatermarked halfpenny are also obtained from margins of the 1874 issue, taken from between, or from ends of, the words "New Zealand Postage." These, of course, are all perf. 12½, and are often treated (wrongly) as being S. G. No. 110. They are easily distinguishable, being of a very bright rose colour, whereas S. G. No. 110 is of a much duller shade. These marginal no watermarks were very frequent in the pictorial issues of 1902/1907, but personally I attach little value to them. They are, however, not as common as might be imagined, as owing to perforations varying in position, very many sheets contained no specimen quite clear of both the lettering and watermark (S. G. 12a or 14).

Regarding the "Star" perf. "nearly 12" (S. G. No. 113) and shown as issued in 1875, it seems probable that this stamp is shown in wrong place. It may have been issued in 1875, after the "large Star" issue of 1d and 2d, but is evidently from the comb machine, "11x11½," of 1878 and should, think, be shown therewith. This machine gauged 12x11¾, 12x12, 11¾x11¾ and 11½x11½.

There was no other machine gauging under 12, excepting the perf. 10, which latter need not be considered.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE PROVINCE OF SCHLESWIG-HOLSTEIN, 1851-1852.

A PAPER READ BEFORE THE ROYAL PHILATELIC SOCIETY, LONDON.

By H. M. HANSEN.

The stamps of these two provinces have, like so many other issues of postage stamps, quite an historic interest, apart from their philatelic value. They show us clearly the much-debated history of the two Dukedoms from 1850 up to 1866, and although there are no stamps of very great rarity nor any great number of varieties, yet they do undoubtedly possess considerable philatelic interest, not least because they, in common with many of the other stamps of German States, possess the virtue of finality, for no fresh issues of stamps are likely to take place for these provinces, unless under circumstances which would necessitate a re-arrangement of the map of Europe.

Although the Revolutionary Government was established as early as 24th March, 1848, no issue of stamps was made until November 15th, 1850. An order was issued by the Provisionary Government dated Kiel, 2nd April, 1850, authorizing the issue of stamps for the province of Schleswig-Holstein. The officials had already on the 26th March, 1850, applied to an engraver by the name of Wiener, in Brussels, and an essay was sent by Mr. Wiener to the Schleswig-Holstein authorities, but this essay is unfortunately quite unknown. It did not prove acceptable to the officials. A further essay was made in May, 1850, by a printer's apprentice at Kiel, but proved likewise unsuitable.

Negotiations were then entered into with the firm of H. W. Köbner and Lehmkuhl in Altona. Various essays were produced by Messrs. H. W. Köbner and Lehmkuhl—of which I possess an almost complete set—finally resulting in the acceptance of the design, for which contract was entered into for the production of 2,000,000 stamps, and these were delivered as follows:—

10th Nov., 1850	80,000, 1 schilling, blue.
" " "	40,000, 2 " red.
25th " "	20,000, 1 " blue.
" " "	20,000, 2 " red.
24th Dec., "	100,000, 1 " blue.
" " "	100,000, 2 " red.
14th Feb., 1851	1,100,000, 1 " blue.
" " "	540,000, 2 " red.

In all 1,300,000 1 schilling, blue, and 700,000 2 schilling, red.

On the 15th November, 1850, these stamps were issued to the public, but only for use in the Dukedom of Holstein, as the Danes had already by that time reoccupied the whole of Schleswig. From the books and accounts still in possession of the postal authorities at Kiel, it appears that in all 8000 stamps at 1 schilling and 4000 at 2 schilling were issued. These 12,000 stamps were used to pay the postage on 8701 letters, which will fully explain the rarity of used specimens of these stamps. The small quantity used of these stamps is further accounted for by the short time they were in actual circulation, as well as by the circumstance that the use of stamps at that period was quite strange to the ordinary public. This is clearly shown by the fact that whereas from the 1st of January until the end of August, 1851, 1,158,092 letters went through the post, only 6589 were actually posted with the new stamps on, the remainder being either paid for across the counter or by the recipients. The balance of these stamps were transferred to Copenhagen after the Danish reoccupation of the two Dukedoms in 1852. Some of these found their way into the hands of Copenhagen stamp dealers, but a large quantity went back to Kiel in 1864, and were sold there at face value, but not for postal use. This ends the first period of stamp issue of these provinces.

The next we hear about postage stamps in connection with Schleswig-Holstein was an essay printed in Copenhagen in 1860. The first printing consisted of 700 stamps on rather thick paper, and in 1862 a further 1200 were printed. In the last printing the blue net-work is more noticeable and the brown color is much clearer than in the previous printing. I have marked these essay printings 2 and 3, as it is stated that this essay was already in existence in 1850, and that three stamps were then printed of each design on thin paper. I have never seen copies of this first printing. There is nothing very remarkable about these essays. The first one has the head of King Frederick VII, and the second the head of Mercury. It is said that the features of Mercury were made to resemble the Countess Danner, the morganatic wife of King Frederick VII.

After the reoccupation of Schleswig-Holstein by the joint armies of Prussia and Austria in 1864, the first issue of stamps was made by the German Federal Government on March 1st, 1864, printed by H. W. Köbner and Lehmkuhl, Altona. Of this issue three printings or types exist. These stamps were produced in sheets of 100 each, and as soon as the printing of each issue was completed the stones were destroyed, thus necessitating a re-engraving when further orders arrived. Hence the distinct variety of the three printings. These stamps were used for the Province of Holstein only. All three printings were used imperforated, but a rouletted variety exists of the first issue. When used it always bears the postmark "127" inside three circles, which indicates the town of Oldenburg in Holstein. This rouletted variety correctly postmarked is somewhat rare. There are numerous forgeries of this stamp unused and used, with other postmarks. Of the three types, type 2 is distinctly the rarest. Type 3 is quite common.

The first issue of stamps for the Dukedom of Schleswig was made on March 10th, 1864. The first value printed was the 4 schilling, carmine, issued jointly by Austria and Prussia, and printed at the Prussian State Printing Office in Berlin. Of these the following quantities were printed:—

On the 7th March, 1864,	10,000
14th " "	100,000
21st August, 1865,	100,000
In all 210,000.

In spite of these considerable issues this stamp is not at all common in used condition. This is accounted for by the fact that the last 100,000 printed on the 21st August were never issued to the public, but passed mostly into the hands of dealers, as did also the remainder of the previous printings to the number of 99,994, thus leaving only about 10,000 stamps actually sold over the postal counter.

The next value, the 1 1/4 schilling, green, was printed in April 1864. Of this value no less than 2,000,000 were issued. After the 30th December, 1864, these stamps became also available in Holstein. This issue is known to have been used bisected in Holstein, but was never available in that condition in Schleswig.

A further issue for Holstein was made in May 1864. Also of 1 1/4 schilling, but of different design—roulette 8. This stamp was used provisionally, bisected, from June 1864 until April 1865. I show a copy of this on original letter, and also two copies of the complete stamp with the Bergeford postmark, which is rather difficult to obtain.

In 1863, after the occupation of both the Dukedoms by the armies of Austria and Prussia, a further joint issue was made by the occupying Powers, and printed in the Prussian State Printing Office in Berlin. The first value was printed in February, namely, the 1/2 schilling, rose. Of this issue there were delivered in all 3,990,000 between the 15th February and the 13th December, 1865, but no more than about 585,000 of these stamps were issued to the public up to the 31st October, 1865, when they were withdrawn from use, but from November 1866 they were again made available both in Holstein and Schleswig.

In June 1865 a further value was issued, namely, the 1 1/4 schilling, green, of which altogether 3,407,500 were printed. Of these only about 1,300,000 were sold across the counter up to the end of October 1865, when they were withdrawn from use. These stamps were likewise made available again from November 1866 until the 31st December, 1867.

The next issue, the 1 1/2 schilling, lilac, was made in August 1865. Of this issue 1,500,000 were printed. This stamp was only in use two and a half months, and not more than 250,000 to 300,000 used. Of this number a good proportion were used on postal orders to Prussia, and therefore destroyed with these. This stamp is therefore not very common in used condition. This issue was made available again from November 1866 until December 31st, 1867.

A further value was issued on the 18th August of the same year, namely, the 2 schilling, blue. One million seven hundred thousand were delivered by the printers in four separate parcels. It is estimated that from 260,000 to 300,000 were used, mostly on letters to Denmark. The last value of these series, namely, the 4 schilling, brown, was issued on the 10th September, 1865, and the sale of this stamp was discontinued on the 31st October in Schleswig and Holstein, and on the 31st December in the small Dukedom of Lauenburg. Five hundred thousand of these stamps were printed, and the printers had a further stock in hand at the time when the same ceased to be used. It is pretty certain that no more than about 50,000 were ever sold, and probably less than this.

 This stamp is therefore uncommon in used condition.

The next series of stamps was made after Prussia and Austria had quarrelled with regard to the possession of the two Dukedoms which had been torn away from Denmark. This issue was made on the 1st of November, 1865. The stamps were produced by Messrs. Köbner and Lehmkühl in Altona, and consisted of the following values:

1/2 schilling, green,	500,000 printed.
1 1/4 " lilac,	{ 2,000,000 "
	{ 1,500,000 "
2 " blue,	{ 700,000 "
	{ 500,000 "
1 1/2 " rose,	1,000,000 "
4 " light brown,	1,000,000 "

The paper on which this issue is printed is somewhat coarser than that utilized for the previous issue. These stamps were made for use in Holstein, and issued on the 1st November, 1865, and they were current until the close of 1867. They became available in Schleswig also from November 1866, but were rarely used in that Province.

A separate issue for the Dukedom of Schleswig was made on the 1st November, 1865, in the following values:

1/2 schilling, green,	500,000
1 1/4 " lilac,	5,000,000
1 1/2 " rose,	500,000
2 " blue,	500,000
4 " brown,	500,000

The 1 1/4 schilling value in this issue occurs in various shades, from red-lilac to almost grey. Most catalogues mention the 1 1/4 value under two headings, namely, in the lilac and the grey colour.
 In reality there were two printings of this stamp. The lilac one was rouletted 11 1/2 to 11 3/4, whereas the grey was rouletted 10. The second printing was undoubtedly made in the same colour as the previous one, but the gum used was different to that used on the pre-vicious issue, and absorbed the lilac colour and left the stamp distinctly grey.

In February 1866, a further stamp for use in Holstein was issued, namely, the 1 1/4 schilling, violet, printed by Messrs.
 Köbner and Lehmkühl as before. It is estimated that about 2,500,000 of these stamps were printed. They must have been used very extensively, and unused stamps of this value are not common.

Another value was issued in the beginning of July 1866, namely, the 2 schilling, blue. It is estimated that only 200,000 of these stamps were printed, but the figure is not authentic.

The issue of stamps for these Dukedoms finally ceased after the termination of the war between Austria and Prussia, when the Dukedoms were taken possession of by the latter Power, and the stamps of Prussia and the North German Federation took the place of the former separate issues.—London

FORGER OF POSTAGE STAMPS.

According to the evidence at the Old Bailey on Thursday of Detective-Inspector Neil, who with two other detectives paid a surprise visit to a house in the Hornsey-road, Holloway, he found in an oven in a room occupied by Thomas Cole, alias Palmer, three moulds for making florins, and in the room itself eight other moulds for making half crowns, florins, and shillings, a counterfeit half-crown, 120 counterfeit florins, 275 counterfeit shillings, and a number of other unfinished coins. Also an envelope containing fifteen unfinished forged penny postage stamps, a die for printing the stamps, and a large quantity of material used in making coins and in printing stamps. When charged with possessing forged penny stamps, Cole said, "That's very handy. It saves one going to buy a stamp when one is wanted."

Cole, who was described as an artist, was convicted as an habitual criminal.
 He had undergone two terms of five years' penal servitude, a sentence of ten years, and one of three years.

The Common Sergeant sentenced him to three years' penal servitude, and five years' detention as an habitual criminal.

DEATH OF C. WITT.

While a news gleaned elsewhere notes the death of Mr. Witt we deem it proper to quote the following from A. Krassa, received just as we are going to press:—

"Mr. C. Witt of Yonkers, N. Y., died at his home suddenly on June 14 at 2.30
 A. M. He was in his 67th year and was a charter member of the A. P. S., his membership number 17.

Philately lost in him one of the staunchest friends, he was one of the fold school and kept his love for stamps to the last.

He has been for many years superintendent in the German hospital, one of the great institutions in N. Y. City.

He left many friends (both here and in the old world) who feel his death keenly.
 He made friends wherever he went and his helping hand has been always ready.

He leaves a widow and three boys, two of whom are minors."

ZULULAND, 1894-96 ISSUE.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

The stamps were printed in sheets of 120, arranged in two panes of 60 (10 horizontal rows of six), placed side by side. The panes were separated by a space of about 10 mm., and around each was a continuous jubilee line. Above the 2nd and 11th stamps in the top row and below the corresponding stamps in the bottom row, the plate number is shown on the margins. All these marginal details are, of course, in the same colour as the main portion of the design printed from the head plate.

The plate number consists of an un-coloured figure "1" or "2" on a solid circle of colour with a ring around.

The first supplies of all values, except the 2s 6d, were printed from plate
 1. The 2s 6d and supplies of the 1/2d and 1d printed in 1896 were produced from plate 2.

In the case of the 1/2d, 1d, 2 1/2d and 3d denominations, the value is shown in uncoloured figures on a ground of horizontal lines, while in the higher denominations the value is in colour on a plain tablet.

The lettering in "ZULULAND" does not appear to be exactly uniform on all the values. In the 1d the "D" is distinctly narrow as compared with the other stamps of the set, while in the 1/2d the whole type seems a trifle larger than usual.

The duty-plates were so constructed that only one pane of sixty stamps could be printed at a time, so that each sheet had to go through the press twice before the value and name were inserted on all the stamps. This fact can be easily proved on comparing a few sheets or blocks torn from the middle of a sheet so as to include parts of both panes, for the value tablet and name on the left-hand pane will generally be found quite out of alignment with the corresponding portions of the stamps on the right-hand pane. Again the shades on both panes are sometimes quite distinct, and further there are tiny defects in some values which occupy precisely the same position on both panes.

These defects are usually small, but they are of importance, as helping to prove this point in connection with the manufacture of the stamps. For instance, on stamp number 7 (first in second row), on each pane of the 1/2d there is a distinct nick on the right side of the first upward stroke of the "N"; on stamp No. 21 (third in fourth row) of the 1d, the top of the "Z" is thinned and bent downwards. This latter is quite a distinct variety, and one easy to identify.

In most values shades may be found, especially as regards the colours of the values and name.

The stamps were printed upon white wove paper, and were watermarked with a crown over the letters "C.A."

The stamps did not have a very long life, for before they had been in use for five years the territory of Zululand was annexed to the Colony of Natal. This fact was announced in a Proclamation by Sir W. F. Hely-Hutchinson, which appeared in the Natal Government Gazette for December 29th, 1897, and in

EDITORIAL.

Roosevelt Collected—The newspapers are not losing sight of King George's philatelic penchant and in consequence, philately is gaining a publicity that is very acceptable. Many allusions are being made to the King's liking for stamps and usually, the items have a quaint or humorous turn. One, appropriately illustrated, that appeared in the Chicago Daily News read: "King George, who is an expert stamp collector, may have entertained Mr. Roosevelt for the purpose of learning something that he didn't know about stamps." The paragrapher probably did not know that Roosevelt, as a boy, was interested in philately. When C. J. Phillips, of Stanley Gibbons, London, was introduced to President Roosevelt, the introduction having been obtained through the courtesy of Senator Lodge, on the occasion of a visit to America by Mr. Phillips, President Roosevelt's expressions were such that it was apparent that he was no stranger to stamps; and he told Mr. Phillips that in his younger days he had been engaged in collecting them.

Good Work Again—The members of the American Philatelic Society have reason to feel proud of their Educational Committee. The committee has just issued a second folder, illustrated by stamps themselves, and in all respects, it is a worthy companion to the first publication which was so heartily extolled. The subject of the second folder is Australia, and illustrating "A Brief History" are a map; and a stamp from each of the states, as follows: New South Wales, Western Australia, South Australia, Victoria and Queensland. The text is in excellent measure and tone and charmingly affords a setting for each of the stamps. Accompanying the stamp folder is the second "Talk with the Boys and Girls," contributed by H. N. Mudge, president of the society, and it is every whit as compelling and en-thrilling as the first one, which was a triumph of its kind. The scheme of distribution of the folder was enlarged upon when previously we noticed the first issue; and suffice it to say that the returns that have followed the circulation of the folders and the tracts telling of the pleasant lessons learned from stamps are a hearty vindication of the wisdom of the method of procedure. No boy or girl, or adult, unlettered in philately, can examine one of the committee's packets without being favorably impressed, whether they have the philatelic instinct or not. The subject of the third folder will be the Empire of China and so many stamps will be used that the Educational Committee will ask dealers to submit bids, in all probability. No doubt a contribution of a small sum to the missionary work would be acknowledged by the sending of one of the folders; or perhaps, ten cents would bring one from the committee.

Penflip Assents—We have had a misunderstanding with Parnassus Penflip, who, it may be remembered, was so kind as to offer a prize recently for the first correct answer to a question propounded by Louis G. Barrett. None of our readers was able to solve the problem and so the award was not made. Thereupon, without consulting Penflip we said that inasmuch as many answers were received even though none was right, it was possible that the renowned Penflip would be pleased to confer upon each of the contestants, a memento in the shape of a stamp. This delicate course would conduce to good feeling all around, we thought. Nothing was heard from our genius for a time and we wrote calling attention to the tactful offer made in his behalf. We then received from Penflip a letter that caused us the most poignant pain; it bristled with pungent Penflipian periods that were better left unsaid. We quote some of the milder lines of the letter. "Your liberality with other people's stamps and money is touching. . . . Why not, since you are so free with suggestions extend that spirit of generosity to your own stamps?" Suspecting that the great Penflip was irritated over the fact that we have not paid him for his brilliant lucubrations contributed in the past, we wrote soothingly to promise payment so soon as possible. Parnassus Penflip was mollified and taking advantage of a favorable opportunity, we asked if he would again offer his prize in another contest conceived in the fertile mind of Louis G. Barrett. Penflip said: "Please accelerate remittance. I shall again offer an honorarium in the shape of a British colonial stamp of a facial expression of not less than five shillings, unused, to the student of research predilection who is the first to answer correctly the following question. predicated by that profound philatelist, Mr. Barrett of Boston. you send check by the first; I have a note to meet on that day?" Those who have written asking what had become of Penflip are referred to this explanation.

Prize Question—Here is Mr. Barrett's question, for the answer to which the Penflip prize is offered: On what British colonial stamp, now obsolete, was the denomination shown in two conflicting terms of the same currency; and without resorting to a surcharge? Study the terms of the contest and notice the words, "two conflicting terms of the same currency," under this restriction, Canada and Prince Edward Island, for instance, are ineligible, as "currency" and "sterling" were not the "same currency." Send in your answers on postal card or otherwise not later than July 15th; address the WEEKLY, as it might be deemed presumptuous by Parnassus Penflip, if one addressed him personally.

The Right Spirit—We are pleased to make a copy of the following letter for presentation in this column:

"P. M. Wolsieffer, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:—I see you are Chairman of the Educational Committee of Philately so I thought I would write to you for a little assistance in that line. I am one of the Trustees of the Carnegie Free Library of Clinton, Iowa, and have wanted to have books in that line placed on the shelves for several years, and a couple of years ago I had Miss Mulaney, our Librarian, order a few books and a catalogue and she told me they were always in use and hardly ever could be found in the Library, showing there are plenty interested.

Last night the Board had a meeting and the matter of buying books from an old Library of a collector who had given up the pastime was brought up; in fact I had been working for this purchase for several weeks (A. L. Schuyler of Clinton having volunteered his assistance) but I met strong opposition by several members of the Board who could not see any good in them and could not see where the educational part came in; but when it came to a vote there were three against the purchase and four for it, carrying by one majority.

Dr. E. L. Martindale, the new postmaster and a member of the Board, was very strongly in favor of it; Mrs. W. I. Hays, wife of our late Congressman Hays, of the second District of Iowa, also a member of the Board, talked strongly in favor of it and voted for it, and G. W. Phelps, another member of the Board, also Secretary, and a leading attorney and a member of the School Board, had the casting of the last vote and voted in favor of it, so now we have a start at last. An appropriation of $60.00 was made for the purchase of the books, which drained our Treasury so that we cannot for the present use any more money for that purpose, but will later on.

Now do you know any one who would be willing to donate some books or papers for that purpose? Miss Mulaney, our Librarian, is very handy and willing to place a bulletin board in the Library or do anything that will help the matter along and we have a city of 30,000 inhabitants, among whom I believe there are quite a number of philatelists, if there was a possible chance to get them interested in our library in that way.

Mr. Hecker shows an interest in his chosen hobby that should stir some of us who are prone to follow the course of least resistance in proclaiming the virtues of philately to enterprising endeavor. Through a disinterested desire to see philately prosper, Mr. Hecker is willing to do a bit of fighting for his faith. It is our belief that Mr. Hecker is entitled to distinguished consideration and that donations of papers and books would be worthily bestowed. The Educational Committee may be said to refer Mr. Hecker's letter to the members as a whole for action.

FASCINATION OF PHILATELY.

(Under the above heading there recently appeared in the Boston Christian Science Monitor the following editorial. We reprint it as showing the attention now being paid philately as compared with former years. Clipping from F. D. Goodhue.—E.D.)

The recent dinner of the Boston Philatelic Society in honor of Henry J. Crocker of San Francisco, who exhibited a single postage stamp of a small denomination valued at $5000, once more calls attention to the charm that large numbers of people find in stamp-collecting. Mr. Crocker is famous in the philatelic world and has probably expended $50,000 in gathering rare postage specimens. There are collections of stamps both in this country and abroad far exceeding that sum in cost, but these are the exceptions, and thousands of collectors take delight in collections representing but a few hundred dollars' outlay.

The insight that one gets into past and current history of the different countries, nations and governments of the world is one of the incidental benefits derived from a study and pursuit of philately, if, indeed, not the chief one. Rulers' heads usually comprise the main portion of the face of a stamp, changing with new dynasties, of which the collector must keep track. New issues of stamps are not infrequently made by heads of some of the smaller and poorer governments for the profit arising from the sale to the eager philatelists. Switzerland is putting out a new stamp that will bring it considerable revenue. It represents a tax or surcharge on postal packets, of which millions are annually forwarded from all over the world to visitors in the land of the Swiss.

The gathering of used stamps opens a very pleasant field to young folks, and they can enter it to considerable advantage with but slight expense. Its historical feature may make more interesting to them a branch of study which often they do not find attractive as commonly presented.

ITEMS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

By CHARLES E. JENNEY.

Gibbons Weekly of Mar. 21st presents as a frontispiece a detached mezzo-print of King Edward VII, which should be mounted by collectors at the beginning of their "king's heads".

In an article on the 3kr postage due of Bavaria, translated from the German of Dr. Erich Stenger, appears the felicitous phrase, "the classical period of philately", applied to the days when errors and misprints were errors and misprints and not intentional fakes for speculators. The author shows how this stamp comes to have the only vertical silk threads shown on any Bavarian stamps, being printed on the same paper that was used for the square, numeral type, but sideways. By the way, this is a rather hard stamp to pick up.

In the April West End Philatelist we find an article by Bertram W. H. Poole on Sierra Leone. Those who have never seen the first issue type in blocks have failed to realize that the cut away corners form an eight-pointed star in the centre of each block of four. This gives an unusual and attractive appearance to a sheet or block, not evident in the single stamp.

The same magazine displays on its cover a block of five Mauritius 2d Post Paid, the odd stamp having the scarce error "penoe".

The editor has an article on Acknowledgement of Receipt stamps.

There is not much of interest in the May 21st number of the Postage Stamp. Mr. Melville's genius seems to have been concentrated on his series of booklets to the neglect of the magazine. There is an article on Prince Edward Island but with little new information about this already much written-up country.

In the May 14th issue of the same magazine is a brief outline of the more important epochs in King Edward's career, so arranged as to be of special interest to the philatelist.

It is to be noted that a paper read before the Isle of Thanet Philatelic Society on April 30th bore the title of "U. S. Abroad" and dealt with our foreign or colonial post offices. I fancy there might have been considerable interest of interest to U. S. collectors as it is along a line that has lately been attracting attention here.

An enterprising English dealer is already advertising stamps with the portrait of George V, probably referring to the Newfoundland or Canada stamps of his Prince of Wales days.

In the Postage Stamp for May 28, Cornelius Wrinkle quotes extensively from the British press criticisms of the current stamps and the calls for a more artistic issue. King George V's philatelic relations are expected and called upon to bear fruit in a high grade of art. Curiously, a Scottish paper, the Aberdeen Journal, and an Irish one, the Irish Times, both call attention to the defect of there being no name of the country of origin on British stamps, almost the only exception, and this too in a country whose stamps circulate most widely abroad. One would have supposed this feature would have first been marked upon nearer London. I have more than once had friends tell me they had some Irish stamps and on my correcting them, produce the proof, the stamp bearing no name of country but the postmarks being Dublin and Cork, and begorra, they were right.

Gibbons Weekly of May 28 presents a summary by Chas. J. Phillips of the Buenos Ayres stamps contained in the five largest collections of that city, about a thousand in all, and furnishes some interesting comparisons of scarcity.

WOUNDED DIGNITY.

The path of the importer of new issues is not strewn with roses, especially where the dealings are directly with post office officials. A case has very recently been brought to our attention that aids us in reaching this conclusion.

A Boston firm sent to Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic, for some sets of the new issue and the closing portion of the letter accompanying the stamps furnishes interesting reading:—

"We beg that you will not persist with further requests, since such action upon your part shows painful ignorance of the high consideration due to the Director of Mails and Telegraphy in this Republic, by asking of him that which by its nature belongs to the duties of a commission merchant."

This is really refreshing.

STAMPLESS LETTERS.

The postmaster general of Germany is experimenting at Munich with the stampless letter post. Instead of a stamp attached to a letter by mucilage the post-office accepts cash for every letter handed in. The receipts and authority for mailing is represented by a machine stamping automatically the envelopes in different inks to designate the amount of postage paid.—Clipping from J. M. Overfield.

Where is this wave of Taft prosperity that was promised about election time? You are paying so much for living expenses that you don't have much left for stamps. You may be going to vote the Democratic ticket next time but you might as well buy your stamps of me and get more for your money now. 400 of my 200 mixed packets have already been ordered. These are 12 cents each. Don't get left. F. P. BUTMAN, Wakefield, Mass.*

Good stamps at low prices. I have over 10,000 varieties of stamps largely 19th Century, mostly obtained from old collections and auction lots which I will sell at low prices.

Stamps are marked net and prices range from 1/4 to 1/2 cat. except in the case of some of the scarce and hard-to-get varieties. General selections only.

I can offer special inducements at present to a few good buyers, especially general collectors with from 2000 to 10,000 vars., who are building up their collections, and who will buy with reasonable liberality.

My stamps are very few of them the cheap remainders and "made to order" stamps so often offered and which are obtainable in unlimited quantities. They include nearly all the older issues of medium grade, many of which are so hard to get.

Such countries as Austria, Argentina, Belgium, Barbados, Brazil, Norway, Netherlands, and many others nearly complete.

I can supply nearly everything in the cheaper and medium U. S. Postage, Depts. and Revenues and will be glad to receive want lists.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

AUSTRIA.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the new 25h postage due stamp, chronicled in No. 1015 and we find it is on unsurfaced paper, the other stamps being on paper very highly coated.

ARGENTINE.—The French papers are coming to hand, and we find that the new set extends to the 20 pesos. The 1/2c stamp has the "Commemorative Pyramid" while the 12c has the Hall of Congress. The "Commemorative Monument" appears on the 10p, there being no conflict between this value and the 1/2c. San Martin is distinguished by being placed on the stamp of highest value. We chronicle below the values not previously chronicled, taking the list from L'Echo:

Adhesives.

4c blue and green; Fort and Palace of the Viceroy.
5p orange and violet; Junta taking the oath.
10p orange and black; commemorative monument.
20p blue and black; San Martin.

BELGIUM.—The J. M. Bartels Co. has shown us the new charity stamps announced in No. 1011. There are two designs, the 1c and 5c being of Type I and the 2c and 10c of Type II. The stamps are large, like the Brussels Exposition, and the Sunday coupon has a single lined border, but the arrangement is different, each language being in two short lines with a line between. The French is at the left and the Flemish at the right. The two designs are very similar, both showing St. Martin on horseback, in the act of dividing his cloak with a beggar. The value is in a square in the lower left corner, and the word "Caritas" extends across the stamp under the picture. "Belgique" "Belgie" extends across the top at each of St. Martin's head, and Type II has the date "1910" under "Belgie". Type I has the inscriptions in colored letters on a colorless background, the background of the picture is shaded and partly cut out. Type II has a solid background of color for the picture, all the inscriptions are in colorless letters. The figures of value are in colors on all values, but on Type I the figures have a shaded line, while the others are plain. On Type II there is a colored line between the two lines of each language as well as between the two languages. The stamps are sold at double face, except the 10c which is sold for 15 cents.

Adhesives.

1c gray.
2c red brown.
5c blue green.
10c carmine.

CANAL ZONE.—S. G. Williams reports finding Scott's No. 24, with the "C" and "A" of "Canal" 1/2 of an inch apart, or about twice as far as the other letters.

CHINA.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the two new values chronicled in No. 1011. They are both odd shades, the 3s being slate green and the 7s a peculiar deep red brown or brown carmine.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—A. W. Dunning sends us three values of the current postage due set, on watermarked paper. The 4c, however, is the only new one in the lot.

Postage Due Adhesives.

Watermarked Cross and Rings.
2c brown olive.
4c brown olive.
10c brown olive.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Lemaire's Journal says that it was planned to issue a historical series of stamps, after the style of the current Austrian set, with portraits of the most noted of the Kings and Queens of England, but that this project has been abandoned, owing to the death of King Edward.

The current 1/2d, 1d and 2d are to be issued in the type of the 7d, just issued, the 2d to have its colors changed, as announced in No. 1015.

HAYTI.—Regarding the four new stamps chronicled, A. W. Dunning sends us the following from a correspondent in Hayti: "I enclose herewith some of a new issue that have been lying in the Post Office since December last, and would have been placed on sale some weeks ago, but it was found that the same old plates have been used in printing the new issue, bearing therefore the same year (date 1906). There have been changes made in only the 2, 5 and 20 cts., where the portrait of President A. T. Simon replaces that of Gen. Nord Alexis, and these values are printed in two colors. I am told that there has been a change of colors in the other denominations, but whether or not to put them on sale has not yet been decided."

HONDURAS.—W. L. Kinkead reports finding another of the split provisionals chronicled in Nos. 1013 and 1003. In this case the cover has two 6c stamps, one 2c and half another 2c cut diagonally, thus making up the 15 cents necessary.

HUNGARY.—A competition has just been held and prizes awarded for designs for the new series of stamps shortly to be issued.

ITALY.—L'Echo says that though the Garibaldi stamps continue to be sold only in Sicily, their use throughout Italy has been authorized by the Government. Another commemorative series will be issued in 1911, of four values. The designs have been selected from competitive drawings.

JAVA.—A. W. Dunning reports having this set without the period after "Java".

MEXICO.—This country, like Argentine, is to celebrate its centenary by the issue of a commemorative series of stamps. L'Echo says the colors and values from 1c to 20c will have portraits of heroes and heroines of the War of Independence, and the three higher values will present historical scenes.

The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. has shown us the current set with the new "Official" surcharge.

NETHERLANDS.—Lemaire's Journal says that the color of the 17 1/2c is to be changed to blue and gray at the next printing.

RUSSIA.—The 1r value has now been issued on the plain wove paper, with varnished lines over the face. The colors are the same as before, a copy having been shown us by the New England Stamp Co.

TURKEY.—Recent changes in the postage charged on newspapers and periodicals in the Ottoman Empire indicate the early issue of stamps of 2 and 4 paras.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings acknowledged with thanks from Hugh M. Clark, Karl B. Stickley, J. M. Overfield (2), Chas. R. Burger, Cleveland Bundlie, A. McKechnie and Hugo Kuenstler (2).

—W. D. Burroughs has written a new stamp story for The Educational Committee of the A. P. S. It deals with King George, his stamp collecting proclivities, and future prominence upon the stamps of Great Britain and colonies.

—Information has reached us from several subscribers of the death of C. Witt, a well-known New York collector. Mr. Putney, of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. writes us that he was "one of the oldest and best known collectors. He has been in poor health for a long time, but had no immediate serious illness, passing away with little warning at his home in Yonkers, Tuesday, June 14. Mr. Witt was sixty-nine years old."

—E. C. Dodd, LaGrange, Ill., will make his annual stock buying trip to New York City, the latter part of July, where he may be seen at the Hoffman House, by a pointment.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.

INDEX TO VOLUME XVI : 1902.

NOTE.—Regular features, to be found in almost every issue, are not indexed. These include: Editorial, Chronicle, Weekly Review, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Washington Notes, "As in a Looking Glass," "In a Few Lines" and Society Reports. Items of special importance, however, which occur under these headings, have been indexed by their subject matter. References in general are to subjects rather than in the exact form of the titles.

The first number of this volume was paged consecutively from the previous volume. Pages 477-484 should therefore be pages 1-8; and both numbers are given in the index—the former in parentheses.

To the President and Members of the A. P. S.:—

This is the third report of your Board of Vice Presidents, which as heretofore has held weekly meetings to transact business of the Society coming before it.

As usual, many members have sought to use the Board as a collection agency, and we have been forced to repeatedly request that charges preferred by one member against another must be substantiated by an affidavit, under Section 2, Article II of our By-Laws.

The ballot has been prepared and sent to the Secretary to be printed, containing the nominations for officers for the ensuing year as made by the Washington and Cleveland branches respectively; and in accordance with Article IX, we invited offers from the various philatelic publications to serve as official organ of the Society and publish its official matter. The recent ruling of the Post Office Department appears to have the effect of discouraging publications from favoring members in the way of low subscription rates, at least nothing of this character has been suggested. It is proposed, however, to publish the Society's matter free of charge, the subscription price for the publication being

Yes, Business With Us Is VERY GOOD Indeed

We are just as busy as we can be and our office force is practically the same as during the so-called "busy" season! Wonder will there be any dull season for us this summer? It does not look that way now!

a personal matter between each individual member of the Society and the publishers.

It has also been suggested to the Board that the Society publish its own official organ, but as this is a matter which could not under our By-Laws be submitted to the members by ballot, we presume that it will be urged at the Convention, and we suggest that if it is desired by the members to have the Society publish its own organ, that such could be indicated on the proxies of those who now expect to be present in Detroit.

Respectfully,

MINUTES OF CHICAGO BRANCH.

June 8, 1910.

The 286th regular meeting of Chicago Branch No. 1 of the American Philatelic Society was held in Room 1108, 100 Washington St., on the evening of June 8th, 1910. President Whitaker called the meeting to order with the following members present: Baldwin, Bloss, Clark, Dahl, Fowler, Lindquist, Mizera, Mudge, Rogers, Roterberg, Severn, Whitaker, Wolsieffer. After discussion the minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read.

On motion of C. E. Severn, President Whitaker appointed Mr. Fowler a committee of one to investigate the matter of transportation and hotel accommodations for the Chicago delegation to the A. P. S. Convention at Detroit and to report at the next meeting.

The balance of the evening was given over to informal discussion of various topics. Meeting adjourned at 10 P. M.

Next meeting July 13th.

HUGH M. CLARK, Sec.

SURINAM PROV. REVENUE.

We are indebted to Henry J. Rack, A. P. S. 3291, for information in connection with a provisional revenue issue June 1 in Surinam.

The regular supply of 15c revenue stamps having been exhausted, pending the receipt of a new lot from Holland a provisional revenue was created, something never before known in Surinam.

Adhesive stamps of the 25c value, current issue, have been surcharged in black with the word "PLAKZEGEL" (revenue stamp) across the top. At the bottom

"15 cent" obliterates the original value.

The overprinting was done in one of the local Surinam printing offices, the same one that in January 1909 printed the provisional 5c adhesive and at the present time prints the registration stamp.

Twenty thousand of these provisionals have been printed, and they will remain in use until the arrival of a new lot from Holland.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

ancient land, for two years later a new design was prepared by F. Hoff of Hirschberg Silesia. Some, in fact all articles dealing with Egyptian stamps say that Herr Hoff drew them on "stone." To those acquainted with processes of printing, it will be quite apparent that they were not lithographed! Anyway it is on record that the plates were consigned to Egypt, and the stamps printed from them by the firm of Penasson in Alexandria. They were printed upon paper of unknown manufacture, watermarked with the Turkish Star and Crescent. The original matrix without a doubt consisted of a block of four stamps, prepared from a blank die—the value being inserted in each matrix for the respective values, for proofs and die proofs of these exist. This issue also consisted of the same values up to the five piastres, but included none of ten piastres. The inscription along the top tablet of the 1867 issue reads "TAMGAE POSTE MASRIE" in Arabic—or literally "Stamp-postage Egyptian."

Like the first issue good specimens in mint or used condition are by no means common or well represented in value by the catalog.

The last issue of native rule occurred in 1872, and was entirely represented by its record of Egyptian skill and talent. These were lithographed under "Government" (save the mark!) supervision at Cairo, and curiously bore the words in Roman characters at the foot in Italian, who perhaps had caused the Government of the day less trouble than had the British and French. The value in a word at the right side is also given in Italian. In 1874, the stone bearing the drawings of the 5 para value was broken and rendered useless. A transfer was taken from one of the other values, leaving the corner tablet for figures of value blank. The gentleman who was allotted the task of re-drawing the figures 5 in the corners, evidently previous to so doing had dined well but not too wisely with the result that he tackled the stone upside down, or the border piece for inserting the figure, upside down. The life of the earlier 5 paras was so short that they are much scarcer than the errors of inverted figures—or as often mis-described inverted "centers". It has been stated that the firm who printed the 2nd issue also did this, but is of course incorrect as was printed in the Government buildings at Cairo.

In January of the ill-fated year of 1879 (for Ismail Pasha), the stones of the 10 paras and 5 para "error," values had become in such a state of disorder, and in view of the large stocks of the now seldom used 2 1/2 piastre value, the authorities overprinted a quantity of the latter with a new value of 5 or 10 paras. Why the 10 para is always priced more than the 5 para I can never understand because they are always seen together in pairs, and moreover exactly 170,000 of each value was surcharged. Tête-bêche pairs of the overprint are known.

Only last year I noticed a contemporary writer states with regard to the issue of 1879 "Messrs. De la Rue of London having been successful in securing the contract, supplied a new set of stamps." Had the writer studied Egyptian History a little more he would have seen that previous to this issue by a few months, that Egypt had become under the domain of Great Britain, and that by letters of monopoly, that illustrious firm print all British Crown Colonial stamps. Easily recognized as the work of De la Rue, this new issue was of the regular size of British stamps but oblong rectangular in shape instead of upright.

Curiously this issue, as before bore the inscriptions in Arabic and French!

Under the circumstances of this period, this is strange because France did not feel inclined to take up the responsibility of Egypt, and withdrawing, left Great Britain to administer affairs until such time as matters would be safe for the future government of the country.

Great Britain still "administers affairs," and even though the great Roosevelt advises it, Egypt of today is nothing less than a British Protectorate! Some may dispute this, but I can but refer to the Agreement of 1904, where the Republic of France declares that it will not obstruct the action of Great Britain by occupancy of Egypt, but will recognize.

This means, that no matter whether Germany, Russia or any other European power casts envious eyes on the Eastern Key to the Mediterranean, the two greatest European Powers are ready to squash any attempt. The latter issues are short of much philatelic interest, unless it be in regard to the official issues of 1907 and the ordinary issues on chalky paper in 1902.

RETIREMENT OF C. F. ROTHFUCHS.

It will come as a great surprise to most of our readers as they read the announcement on page 3 in Mr. C. F. Rothfuchs' space. This veteran dealer has sold his entire stock to the New England Stamp Co., whose advertisements will sooner or later reflect the merits of the purchase.

Mr. Rothfuchs has sold not only his stock, but his private collection and good will, and will remove to Seattle, Wash. We cannot begin to express our regrets in the severance of business relations that have extended over many years, during which time he has been thoroughly upright and honorable in his dealings and not a single complaint of unsatisfactory business relations has ever been reported to this office. Not only will Mr. Rothfuchs be missed from the columns of the WEEKLY, but leaving Boston will make a wide gap in the B. P. S. of which he was an active member. He had served the society two years as president, besides filling many other positions of trust, and his stamp collection was always at the service of the society. The value of this service will be appreciated by those who know the extent of Mr. Rothfuchs' splendid collection of United States stamps.

We feel sure that this important purchase by the New England Stamp Co. will be duly emphasized in our columns and it only adds another achievement to the many business successes that the firm has carried through.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Clippings acknowledged with thanks from H. A. Wahlborg, C. W. Stutesman, James H. Houston and F. R. Albrecht.

—In our issue of June 18 the trade advertisement of Chas. Wright gave for address Willow Junc., Iowa. It should have been Wilton Junc. We regret the error.

—The price of the packet of hinges offered by the Manhattan Stamp Co. last week should have been 12c, the figure "1" failing to show itself in the printing of a portion of the edition. No doubt the mistake was so self-evident as not to give the firm much extra labor. We regret

BUSINESS CHANGE IN PHILADELPHIA.

Business changes are coming thick and fast this week. The latest is the taking over of the stock of the Bogert & Durbin Co. by the United States Stamp Co., as per announcement on page 1.

At this writing we are unable to give anything more than the bare fact as contained in the previous paragraph.

INFORMATION WANTED.

Mr. A. B. Slater, 274 Mass. Ave., Prov., R. I., is preparing an article on the Providence postmasters' stamps which will be published in the WEEKLY and later issued in book form, handsomely illustrated. Mr. Slater wishes to cover all the counterfeits of these stamps and is especially desirous of corresponding with those who have used originals on covers.

Will those of our readers who are interested in these stamps and can aid Mr. Slater in his quest for information kindly communicate with him at the above address?

FALKLAND ISLANDS.

By P. L. PEMBERTON.

In an article on Falkland Islands just concluded in The West End Philatelist, Mr. B. W. H. Poole gives some most original information, the result of very careful and minute study of entire sheets. The information which is of most importance may be summarized under three heads:—(a) The manner of printing, (b) The flaws and the constant marks on the stamps, (c) The question as to whether Messrs. De La Rue printed any of the Queen's Head stamps.

With regard to the first of these questions, Mr. Poole raises doubts as to whether the stamps really were produced by the line-engraved process, as has always been supposed. That there is some reason for the doubt is evident from the curious facts which Mr. Poole brings to light. The most remarkable of these is found in a comparison of entire sheets of the 4d and 1sh values, which are found to be exactly alike, even to the reproduction in each value of minute flaws found on different parts of the sheet. For instance, on the first stamp on the sheet in both values there is a small coloured dot below the right-hand end of the ornamental scroll in the left lower spandrel. On the seventh stamp in the top row there is a small line on the oval below the F, and smudges on right lower spandrel. In all, Mr. Poole describes flaws appearing on fourteen identical stamps in both values.

This remarkable uniformity is too faithful, as Mr. Poole says, to allow of any other supposition than that one plate was reproduced from the other in some way, which is quite incompatible with all that we know of the manner in which steel plates were manufactured.
This, coupled with other incongruities which I shall refer to in connection with the constant dots and marks, raises a very interesting question. It is inconceivable that a roller could have been employed large enough to take the impression of the entire sixty designs at once, and yet this seems to be the only method by which all those minute imperfections could be transferred in the line-engraved process.

In his study of the small constantly recurring dots, which I termed secret marks when I mentioned them in my recently published article, Mr. Poole has discovered several that had escaped me.
It will be remembered that in my article I mentioned a small dot on the E of ONE, and another in the left lower spandrel immediately to the right of the central curl, both dots occurring on all stamps except those in the bottom row.
Mr. Poole found that the dot in the spandrel occurs in the same way on the 4d and 1sh values, and is also missing from the stamps in the bottom row. He also points out that these three values all have a dot just above the tip of the uppermost leaf in the left lower spandrel, this dot appearing on every stamp on the sheet, though in some instances it is exceedingly indistinct.

The 6d stamp shows none of these dots, but it also has a characteristic, found only in the stamps of the bottom row. In these ten stamps the lowest curve of the scroll in the left lower spandrel is broken in the part between the two little projections. This peculiarity is almost impossible of explanation if the stamps were printed from line-engraved plates made in the ordinary way. It is easy to add marks on a plate (before it is hardened) which would show in colour in the printing, but next to impossible to delete a mark, or, as,

in this case, to make a break in a line.

The plates of the 4d and 1sh stamps being, as we have seen, practically identical with the exception of the value labels, one would naturally expect that the one penny plate, which is so like them in the arrangement of the dots in the spandrels, as well as in other respects, would also be a replica, but this is not the case.

Mr. Poole wisely does not attempt to speculate upon the way in which the plates were prepared, and is satisfied with hinting that he preserves an open mind on the subject. At any rate, he has raised a very interesting problem, which might well occupy the attention of experts in stamp printing.

The dots on the 1/2d and 2 1/2d values, seen in the centre of the uncoloured oval behind the head, are shown to be engravers' guide marks. I incautiously called them "secret marks," classing them with the dots in the spandrel and elsewhere on the 1d, 4d and 1sh values, but it is quite evident that Mr. Poole's explanation is the correct one. The original die from which a plate is constructed has a small dot on one side of it, and when an impression is made on the plate this dot leaves a mark which serves as a guide for the placing of the next impression. As a rule, in the case of the Falkland Islands, the dot was covered by some part of the design where it would not show on the stamp, but in the 1/2d and 1d it happened that the dot fell on an uncoloured portion of the design, where it is visible. On the right-hand margins of the sheets the dots can be seen distinctly. I have an entire sheet of the 1sh in front of me as I write, but curiously enough there is no sign of the guide-line in the margin opposite the ends of the first and last rows, though it is very prominent opposite the four middle rows. On none of the other sheets and blocks of any value that I have seen does the guide-mark show in the margin of the bottom row.
This is another peculiarity which requires some explanation.

The third interesting point which Mr.
Poole makes is the demolition of the theory that Messrs. De La Rue & Co. printed the issues of the Queen's Head type on Crown CA paper. He shews conclusively, to my mind, that the original printers, Messrs. Bradbury, Wilkinson and Co., continued to print the stamps until the introduction of the current issue.

His reasons for thinking so are so evident and convincing that I am ashamed to think of the blind way in which I have always taken the old theory for granted. The first of these is that the perforation, which is from a single-line machine gauging about 14 1/4, is unlike that of any machine ever used by Messrs. De La Rue. The popular error has arisen through supposing that the CA issues are perforated 14 like other De La Rue stamps. As a matter of fact the perforation is the same as on the first issue, and never altered,

In support of the contention, Mr.
Poole omitted to bring forward what seems to me to be equally strong evidence that Messrs. De La Rue did not print the stamps. This is that the colours employed, especially for many shades of the 1d value, are totally different from any used by Messrs. De La Rue for other colonies. When we remember that colours were used again and again for different colonies by Messrs. De La Rue, and that there is hardly any colour which was not repeated, this argument appears to settle the matter.—Phil. Jour.

EDITORIAL.

Why Not?—A suggestion has been made by P. M. Wolsieffer that a proposal be offered to have the convention of both the American Philatelic Society and the American Numismatic Association held in the same place each year at approximately the same time. We believe that this idea has not been broached heretofore, though it seems to be so logical and inviting that surprise is occasioned that it has not been advocated. The advantages to be derived from this community of interests are such as to form a strong argument in favor of the plan. We know that the American Numismatic Association typifies the most important and advanced influence in coin collecting as the American Philatelic Society does in stamp collecting; and the combined attractions of the two meetings will exercise a stronger force than either would singly. The individuality of either organization would not be weakened by the action in concert and while the line of demarkation between the two bodies and their transactions would be drawn sharply, as is proper, the opportunity would be provided to attend both conventions at a minimum of expense. Those who are members of both national organizations, and they are not few in number, would heartily welcome the innovation, we should say, while it would not be without appeal to those who while primarily philatelists are interested in numismatics; and vice versa. The similarity of aspects of both pursuits is traditional; in fact, in one or more instances, encased postage stamps, for example, the two studies merge into each other; and in the public mind, stamp collecting and coin collecting are closely associated. The benefits that would accrue from the two meetings would not be monopolized by either body but would be shared mutually. The publicity that the conventions would ensure would be a factor not without weight. We believe that the objections to Mr. Wol-

Worth Attention—Elliott Perry, Wayland, Mass., has written us as follows to advance a theory that is novel, if nothing more; and we are not prepared to say that it is not worth serious consideration:

"I am very grateful for the information regarding the 24c National-Continental which you have so kindly gathered and published and wish to thank you for the interest shown.

May I be permitted to ask another question which has occurred to me since writing before? It is, what proof—if any—or reason for belief have we that any of the 24c stamps printed by the Continental Co. were ever issued?

Unfortunately my copy of Mr. Luff's book is not at hand so I am obliged to rely upon memory for the following statement, but I think the figures are substantially correct:—soon after the discontinuance of the 24c stamp (in 1876?), a large quantity of old issues were destroyed, among them about half a million 24c stamps. The records do not state what issues comprised this lot; may it not have included all the 365 thousand Continental stamps? Your English correspondent argues well that 136 thousand is probably the maximum number of Continentals issued and his figures agree closely with the ratio found by the New York student, but I wish the former had gone a little deeper into the printing and distribution figures.

I find 777 thousand total National prints delivered to stamp agent and that before any Continentals were printed 1,082 thousand 24c were distributed to postmasters; that is, the stamp agent distributed 305 thousand more 24c than he received and by halving the next year's distribution this number is increased to 440 thousand probably distributed before any Continentals were printed. What were these stamps if not old issues carried in stock by the stamp agent? If the printing and distribution figures for the previous ten years are available it may be possible to determine just how large a hole this 440 thousand made in the stock of old issues, but certainly unless the old stock was very large it must have been greatly reduced by the time the Continental printing was made.

Now what conclusion is to be drawn from the fact that the stamp agent was distributing old stock at a rate of about one in three—does it indicate that some 90 thousand, (two thirds of 135,000), Continental 24c were issued, or does it indicate that he was putting out all the National Co.'s product and that the half million left on hand and later destroyed included all the Continentals?

I do not think that the few grilled 24c

A Fiji Bit—H. D. Curtis, Manlius, New York, writes: "I append a little extract that I happened upon which I think will be of interest to philatelists. I have been reading with interest 'At Home in Fiji' by C. F. Gordon Cumming, published by A. C. Armstrong & Son, 714 Broadway, New York. She is a most interesting writer and in her letter dated Nov. 1, 1875, from Levuka, Isle of Ovalau, Fiji, she speaks as follows about quaint postage stamps:

"Among other peculiarities of this small colony, our postage stamps would amuse you. They were struck by the Government which crowned Thakombau* king, and bear his initials, C. R. (Cacobau Rex). In the present necessity for rigid economy no new stamps are issued, but the letters V. R. partially obliterate the C. R., or rather, blend with them."

*In the Fiji language one of the sounds the letter "c" has is that of "th," another rule is that before "b" an "m" is always pronounced, so Miss Cumming has spelled Cacobau phonetically as Thakombau, and that is the way it is pronounced. Miss Cumming spent years in Fiji with Sir Arthur Hamilton Gordon and his family while he occupied the position of first Governor of Fiji. If you will look on the map you will see that the large island is called Viti Levu. In that language Levu means large and Viti means Fiji, the word Fiji as we now have it being a Tonganese garbled attempt to pronounce Viti (Veetee). So much for what C. R. and Fiji mean.

Misrepresenting a Candidate—Nearly two months ago, a paragraph was published complaining that it was unfair to call Chas. R. Morris, Washington, candidate for secretary of the American Philatelic Society, a "hireling" of the WEEKLY. This explanation seems to have had some effect for these charges are not pressed now with the spirit of truculence that marked them at first. We said: All that Mr. Morris has ever done from a news-viewpoint has been done gratuitously and with no expectation or desire for remuneration, we sincerely believe. A contemporary challenged this statement and said that it was evasive because the expression "news viewpoint" was used. If the words are to be so closely analyzed, the remark will be made more embracing; and we now say that all the items and articles that Mr. Morris has contributed were included under the classification. Clearly, Mr. Morris is under no obligation to the WEEKLY.

From our estimate of Mr. Morris, we think that he would be absolutely impartial in his conduct of office should he be elected and the WEEKLY chosen official journal; by no means would he favor the WEEKLY without warrant nor would this paper ask undue or special privilege for itself. As secretary, Mr. Morris could not direct the choice of official journal, even though he desired to do so, under the new system of balloting whereby the paper is chosen by vote; he has only his personal vote the same as the rest of us. Mr. Morris seeks the office and does so knowing full well the amount of work entailed and the comparatively small remuneration for the services; if elected and he neglects the affairs of office—a contingency too remote for consideration in our opinion—the future of this ambitious man will be clouded. Regarding the issue selfishly, the election of Mr. Morris would mean that he would be forced to curtail if not wholly discontinue his writings for this and other papers, in all probability, as his time would be so wholly claimed by his A. P. S. work. It is poor policy to attempt to misrepresent Mr. Morris in this way; it is noticed that no attacks are made upon his fitness for office.

Real Colors—At a meeting of the Birmingham Philatelic Society held several months ago, a daylight session was held at the residence of one of the members to discuss the color question. Some of the standard colors were shown and also the same with different ratios of white, not to mention compound colors or hues; and these colors were in the form of dry color in boxes to the number of one hundred. In his minutes the secretary said: "Although perhaps not convenient for the ordinary collector, they would form the ideal 'colour chart' for the specialist or a society." Further, the various colors were exemplified by the stamps themselves; one member had purple and allied shades, another green; a third, blue; a fourth, red, while the mixed colors were assigned to other members. The exhibition of the actual colors with varying ratios of white must have been instructive as we believe that in their wish to be precise in their color designations, some of those who describe stamps overshoot the mark. Roughly a tint or tone is produced by a dilution of white but a shade is a mixture of black with it. A standard red may be given a range of tones all of which may still be described as red but there is a tendency to deviate from it on the score of precision by not a few of the philatelic writers. This nicety of description confuses rather than assists the reader to an understanding of the exact color or compound.

All dealers in stamps and editors of query departments in stamp papers have frequent causes for laughter in the odd requests received from novice collectors but there are few men who have more odd requests along stamp lines than the man at the stamp window of a large post office, some from collectors who ought to know better, some from persons who are buying for collectors and some from the general public who know a stamp only as the piece of paper that takes their letter or parcel to its destination. A few illustrations of these different classes may be amusing.

A lady whose aunt was going abroad for the first time asked the retail clerk for some English, French, German and Italian stamps so that she could write to her aunt while she was in those different countries.

"A 'condition crank' from Chicago (this is hard on Editor Severn's home city) wrote to the Postmaster at Washington for a full sheet of the Hudson-Fulton Imperforates and closed with 'I wish them well centered or not at all'."

Speaking of the condition crank reminds me of another who sent for five sheets of the Lincoln stamps but as they were not centered as he wanted them he stuck the sheets together in various places so that they would not be returned to him but as the Post Office Dept. don't take back stamps even if the centering isn't to the liking of the collectors, he had the fun of soaking them apart again before he could use them for postage.

During May of this year the Postmaster here was requested to send a full sheet of each of the Special Delivery stamps from the first ever issued to the present ones with the '09' added. The letter was apparently from a boy who wanted to go into business as it ended with "If you can't send all, send what you can and I will remit upon receipt."

A society lady of Washington sent her maid to the Post Office here with a piece of her note paper of a delicate lavender shade with request for one hundred note size stamped envelopes to match. If she was the kind of a lady who had had her own way about everything as a girl, there were probably doings at her house upon the maid's return.

A request received the middle of last December reads "ples too send me a ful set of the alaska Pacific centenal comemarative stamps from one cent too 15 cent. I want them with the label at top of the stamp and the price down below."

THE PACIFIC STEAM NAVIGATION CO.

By A. B. CREEKE, JR.

Although the Postmaster-General of Peru received authority early in 1851 to provide postage stamps for the prepayment of correspondence, it was not until the latter part of 1857 that the necessary rules and regulations were published, and a supply of stamps ordered to be provided.

For some reason or other—perhaps, to make a trial of the new system without incurring the expense of printing stamps—the regular Government issue did not take place until March, 1858, the stamps which we are about to consider being used to bridge over part of the interval, viz., from 1st December, 1857, to the end of the following February.

The postal authorities had evidently been in communication with the representative of the Pacific Steam Navigation Company, because a suggestion was made in November that a trial should be made by using a supply of this Company's stamps, which could be obtained for nothing, and had not been, and might not be required by the Company.

The design of these stamps, which are oblong (26 mm. by 21 mm.) in shape, consists of a steamer, within a wide elaborate engine-turned oval border, in a rectangular frame; the weight of the letter ("½ oz." or "1 oz.") is shown in white on the upper part of the oval band, and the postage ("1 Rl" or 2 Rls) in a corresponding position below; and at the four corners of the stamp are the initial letters of the Company's full name—"P," "S," "N," "C." The vessel is steaming to the left on the lower value, and to the right on the Two Reales.

The dies were line-engraved, the work being of excellent quality, and the stamps which are imperforate were printed direct from the plates.

M. Moens says that the Company used these stamps in 1858 and 1859, and this opinion is quite consistent with the agent's statement that they had not—i.e., in November, 1857—been in circulation, but is opposed to the assertion by the South American Philatelic Society, in its works on the Stamps of Peru published in 1887, that the Company never used them at all.

The stamps are known in the following colours: 1 real, in blue or bluish wove, in carmine on white laid, and in blue, carmine, yellow and green on white wove; 2 reales, in red on bluish wove, in blue on white laid, and in blue, carmine, yellow green and brown on white wove paper.

It is stated that all these varieties, except the yellow and green stamps, have been seen with genuine obliterations denoting actual use; but Mr. T. W. Hall—to whose researches, as embodied in a paper written by him some years ago, I am indebted for the greater part of my information—doubts the (philatelic) authenticity of all but the two on bluish paper. This paper was evidently not bluish originally, but has become blued from the same causes as those which affected all early printings in red and blue, by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., whose work (in the absence of evidence to the contrary) I may be forgiven for believing these stamps to be.

However, one thing is certain, that the two stamps on coarse blued paper—1 real, blue, and 2 reales, red—were employed by the Peruvian Government as a provisional issue, pending the manufacture of a supply of the regular stamps; and it is definitely stated in the Peru Handbook of Moens that these, and these two only, were used either by the Company or as provisionals, all the other impressions being essays.

It seems to be admitted now, that some of these stamps—that is, the two on blued paper—were used by the Pacific Steam Navigation Company, and copies are known cancelled with that Company's mark, "an oval, 19 mm. in depth by 25½ mm. in length, composed of three straight lines and one curved line top and bottom, two curved lines at each end of the oval surrounding a figure in Roman letters (probably the distinctive number of the carrying vessel)." Evidently, as can be seen by inspection of this cancellation, the word "Roman" is a slip of the pen for "Arabic," the particular figure noted being "6"; a postmark with figure "7" is also known.

The usual cancellation of the Peruvian Post Office, however is "LIMA" in Roman capitals, in an oval surrounded with dots; also sans serif "LIMA," with date, enclosed in a circle. "CALLAO" is known surrounded with dots, but without the frame; and, no doubt, "CHORRILLOS" exists as well. Either stamp genuinely cancelled is rare, the 2 reales especially so.

Naturally the forger—and from a very early date too—has tried his hand with these stamps: I remember seeing lithographed counterfeits—wretched things they were!—forty years ago; but times have improved since then, and there are doubtless well-executed imitations in existence, but even these, unless from line-engraved plates, should be easy of detection even apart from actual comparison with one of the beautifully finished originals.

These stamps are of a class which may, strictly speaking, be termed "Locals," though that is a word which nowadays is somewhat condemnatory, applied, as it generally is, to those gaudy and ephemeral emissions solemnly "decreed" by some wretched little office, which does little beyond issuing the stamps, situate in some out-of-the-way corner of the globe unknown to everyone who is not a stamp collector—I cannot say "philatelist" if he collects such trash.

The Pacific Steam Navigation Co.'s stamps, "locals" though they are, stand on a very different footing, because not only were they printed in anticipation of a bona-fide use by the Company, but they actually became the first issue of an important State in South America, though their franking powers were, as being part of the experiment, confined within certain limits.

If philatelists were to take strict views regarding the franking power of stamps, as to whether beyond the country of origin or not, many issued would be relegated to the "local" division, as not having carrying power into foreign countries, and an immense number of stamps would be "disfranchised"; happily, however, the somewhat opprobrious term "local" is reserved, as I have hinted, for stamps doing duty along a strictly defined route, not served by the Government, and which are the outcome of a private enterprise, often bona-fide established to meet a real want in the means of communication—an enterprise which would be just as successful postally, if payments were made in cash and not by stamps.

Pacific Steam Navigation Company stamps are, however, above every suspicion, and are as collectable as the "Fiji Times Express," "Samoa Express," or similar issues; and far more so than the great majority of the speculative labels, such as "Don Quixote," "Prince Henry," "Centenary," and other rubbish, even if their franking powers extend beyond the country which foists them upon collectors.—*Griebert's Phil. SIAM.—The new set, with values in satangs has made its appearance, and two values have been shown us by Fred C De Jesus. They were put into circulation in Bangkok, May 15. The values are 2, 3, 6, 14 and 28 satangs. The design, the same for all values, was designed by M. Tamagno, an Italian, Superintendent Architect of H. S. M.'s Public Works Department. The stamps were printed in Leipzig, Germany. The design represents some fabled deity, with wings, and talons holding two dragons, supporting a circular frame having a portrait of the King, facing to the left. URUGUAY.—This country has joined the ranks of the Spanish American countries which are to celebrate the Centenary of Independence by the issue of a series of commemorative stamps. Two values of the new set have been shown us by the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., both being of the same striking design. The stamps are a large upright oblong, and show a centaur holding aloft his broken chains, the background being formed by the rays of the rising sun. This is contained in a large oval, the centaur forming the dominant figure. "Uruguay" appears in a curved tablet above the oval, and the value appears on a tablet thus, "Cinco 5 Cents," below the oval, and suspended by chains hung over the oval. The dates "1810" and "1910" are in the lower corners and in the upper corners, crowns and various insignia. The stamps are printed on white wove paper, watermarked large lozenges, with "O S" in script capitals in each lozenge, and perforated 11½. The Scott Co.'s correspondent says they were issued May 23, and would only be available for postage until May 29.

HOW TO ARRANGE A STAMP COLLECTION.

A Paper read before the Northampton Philatelic Society March 9th, 1910.

By W. NICHOLS.

In writing a paper giving a few general hints as to the arrangement of a collection of stamps it is necessary to look at the matter from three different standpoints, viz.: that of the beginner, the general-collector and the specialist.

Most stamp-collections are begun when at school, and on obtaining his first hundred or so specimens the young stamp collector will probably invest in one of the numerous types of albums on sale for beginners in the hobby and will most likely get one on the principle of the well-known "Lincoln" or "Strand" Albums in which the pages are ruled with blank spaces of varying size and a certain number of pages allotted to each stamp-issuing country according to the probable requirements of the collector at this stage.

Of course, with albums of this type, there is not sufficient room for any fancy scheme of arrangement but as far as possible the stamps should be mounted in chronological order, and in many cases a line of space might be reserved for each issue or more if necessary. Naturally more room should be left for modern issues and common stamps than for the rarer early issues of which, at this stage, the collector is not likely to possess many specimens.

It is, I presume hardly necessary to point out that stamps should be mounted by means of properly prepared hinges, obtainable from all dealers; the days when collectors stuck their stamps tight down to the album pages, with glue or similar preparations, have happily now gone past forever.

Where the collector possesses a set of a particular issue, they should be arranged in order of value, and not mixed up with those of other issues, as is so often to be seen in the albums of young collectors; the first specimens obtained of a particular country being stuck in the first places on the page, and others following on in the order in which they are obtained, not, as should be the case, in order of issue and value. Catalogues, simplified or otherwise are now within the reach of every collector, so that there is no excuse for arranging (?) a collection in such a crude manner, and it is a matter for congratulation that the majority of small collections are now certainly much more neatly arranged than was the case a few years ago, and the proportion of damaged copies to be found in the average collection is also smaller. Damaged specimens should never be placed in one's collection, as a blank space looks far better than a portion of a stamp put in just to fill up. Heavily postmarked copies should also be weeded out as opportunity occurs, and replaced by more lightly canceled specimens, if obtainable. As the collection gets larger the owner will have to remove it to a larger album, and will now have to choose between the printed albums, giving spaces for all varieties, or a series of blank albums. A very large proportion of collectors with say about 3000 specimens and upwards use these printed albums, by which, I mean, those on the principle of either the well-known "Imperial," giving spaces for all varieties, or the "Standard" and other albums, which exclude minor varieties of shade, watermark and perforation.

The chief advantages of these albums are easy identification and quick arrangement as there is usually a catalogue on one side of the page and numbered spaces to correspond on the other. As regards arrangement, there is no scope here for individual taste, the stamps merely requiring to be mounted in the proper spaces as marked out by the album publishers.

The resulting effect is usually quite artistic and satisfactory, when the page is filled up, but until this desirable state is reached, it is apt to have a somewhat patchy appearance for a very long time as in many cases spaces are provided for stamps which are practically unobtainable except by the expenditure of very large sums of money. Another disadvantage of this type of album is that unless you care to go to the expense of duplicate volumes you cannot conveniently collect both unused and used specimens, you must take either one or the other or else mix up used and unused, which is not desirable.

Undoubtedly the most satisfactory albums for the medium and advanced collector are those on the blank loose-leaf principle which are now obtainable at most reasonable prices in a variety of styles.

With these albums naturally it takes longer to arrange a collection, as constant reference to the catalogue is necessary and a certain amount of particulars as to date of issue, etc., need to be written in; but the result is far more satisfactory, and as new issues come out fresh pages can be inserted just where required so that your album grows with your collection.

The pages of these albums are usually about 11 inches square and are generally printed with a fancy border with bracket for name of country, leaving a space for mounting stamps of about 10x9 inches. This usually consists of faint quadrillé ruling by means of which it is easy to mount the specimens absolutely evenly and at equal distances apart. A page will hold from 12 to 25 stamps, according to size, without overcrowding, but a wide spacing, if practicable, is always much more effective than in any way crowding your stamps.

A very good plan is to allot a page to each issue and if collecting both used and unused to put these on separate pages, although with a short set of say 6 to 8 values, unused might be at the top of the page and used at the bottom or vice-versa.

When mounting up a large general collection on loose leaves it is, of course, practically impossible to give as much space to each issue as is done with a special collection of a group of, or possibly only one country; otherwise the space taken would tend to make the collection very bulky and unwieldy.

An arrangement similar to the printed albums might in many cases be used: i. e. about five rows of four or five stamps each to page, alternate rows having one more or less than the preceding one, as a series of rows each containing exactly the same number of stamps is apt to give the page rather a too mathematical and stiff appearance. Low values up to 1s or equivalent value could often be mounted in say, two rows and the higher values in two more below, but of course the arrangement depends very much on the number of stamps in a set so that is difficult to lay down any hard and fast rule.

In cases where the lower values are uncoloured and the higher ones printed in two or more colours, these should be separated and arranged in different rows and this would also apply to where a set consists of two or three types, perhaps varying in size or shape, with three or four values in each type, as is the case with many recent French Colonial Issues.

Among many British Colonials now appearing under the new Colonial scheme, some values are printed on white, and others on coloured papers, and these should, I think, be kept separate when arranging, except when such arrangement interferes with the order of value, as may sometimes occur.

With both the general and the specialist collector there is often some difficulty as to the best arrangement for shades when mounting up an issue in which these occur.

Some say arrange all shades that are catalogued on one page and any others you may possess on another one, but the drawbacks to this rule is the great difficulty of allotting a shade to the particular colour-name by which the compiler of the catalogue is pleased to call it, and as there is unfortunately no recognized standard of colour-names, what one man calls bistre another would call light-brown or one describes a stamp as vermilion and the other scarlet, and so on.

A fairly satisfactory way when there are shades in practically all values of an issue, as for example in the first rectangular issue of the Cape of Good Hope, or in the 1885 issue of Malta, is to allot a line to each value and arrange all the different shades you may possess along this, working from the deepest at one end to the lightest at the other, and you will probably find that you are showing all the shades catalogued and perhaps a few more, although you may not be able to identify them with the particular colour-name given in the catalogue. If necessary, of course, more than one line could be given to each value, but except in very exceptional cases you will not find more than about five distinct shade varieties of a particular stamp.

All the foregoing remarks are intended to apply to single stamps, but many collectors, more especially specialists, go in largely for pairs, blocks, or in some cases whole sheets of their favourite countries, which of course require somewhat different arrangement to single copies. With regard to pairs, not more than 12 should be placed on a page and an arrangement similar to that for single specimens can advantageously be followed. The most usual form in which blocks are taken is the ever popular block of four, and undoubtedly the most effective arrangement for these is five to a page, one at each corner and one in the middle, and in some cases a very good effect may be produced by filling up the gaps between the blocks with single stamps, as I will show you when I pass round a few specimen pages of various schemes of arrangement. Generally speaking, however, it is better to give separate pages for singles, pairs, and blocks than to mix them up together. Where the collector takes large blocks, panes, or sheets of stamps, of course a separate page is required for each one and in most cases sheets would require folding even then, except where the stamps are printed in small sheets of from 12 to 20 specimens as is the case in certain countries, for example—Nevis, Gambia, early Labuan, etc.

The same applies to stamps on entire original envelope; when these are collected you cannot put more than two on a page at the outside, and if you go in largely for these, your collection will take up a lot of room, and unless the envelope is required to show a special postmark, or use in some uncommon way, I do not see that there is very much advantage in this form of collecting.

A most important item as regards the arrangement of a specialized collection is the writing in of particulars of issue notes, etc. to each page. Neat and legible handwriting is most necessary for this, as no information at all looks better than untidy and carelessly written notes. A great deal of information is not required, but date of issue, watermark, and perforation, should most certainly be given and particulars as to where and by whom printed, method of producing, etc. are very acceptable when looking through a collection, but care should be taken not to put down anything of which you are not quite certain, in doubtful cases, only absolutely reliable authorities should be quoted, and not one's own personal opinion which may or may not be correct.

General information in regard to a particular issue is usually more effective when written at the top of the page, but particulars of a minor variety or error should be written against the particular specimen to which you wish to call attention, otherwise doubt may arise as to which stamp is referred to, as you cannot expect other people to be as well acquainted with the varieties of your favourite country as you may be yourself.

In conclusion, I might say that a good collection of stamps is well worthy of a really good album, and that even a small collection with practically no rarities, presents quite an imposing appearance when well arranged in a neat and suitable album which need not necessarily be very expensive.—Stamp Collectors Fortnightly.

Mr. Howes gave an idea of the extent of the Seybold bequest, and Mr.
Batchelder announced the gift to the society of new book cases for its reception and a new book plate for use with it. Mr. Carpenter said that upon amalgamation with our own it would place us in the front rank in regard to Messrs. A. W. Batchelder, W. O. Wylie,

F. S. Cook, C. A. Howes, L. L. Green,
E. M. Carpenter and C. K. B. Nevin.
Mr. Batchelder reported that the committee had begun work already.The resignation of J. M. Bartels as International Secretary because of removal from the city was received. It was voted to ask its withdrawal, and Mr. Bartels consented to serve the year out.The following were elected members:
No. 528. F. C. Koehnle.
No. 529. Thos. B. Stillman
No. 530. Edward F. Coffin.
No. 531. Alfred C. Sampson.
No. 532. Willard B. SavaryThe following applications were posted: Mr. Charles R. Higbee, Jr., Mr.
Michel A. Yaremddji, Capt. Arthur H.
Bryant, U. S. A.Mr. Rothfuchs made a farewell address to the Society as he is retiring from the stamp business and is removing to Seattle. President Wylie replied, expressing the regrets of the Society at losing the active support of one who has for so long been identified with it, both as a member and in various official capacities from President down. It was voted to have suitable resolutions prepared to present to Mr. Rothfuchs.After adjournment Mr. Green exhibited some of his original covers and Mr. Morse some of his rarities in postal cards.

June 9. Eighteen members and sixteen visitors were present. The invitations of Messrs. Johnson, Whitney and Morris to meet at their homes in July, August and September, respectively, were accepted. The Librarian reported that a bookcase had been purchased. It was decided to continue the present practice of sending papers and magazines to the members. Messrs. H. Hammelman, M.
G. Metz, A. N. Caudell and Frank A.
Loeffler applied for membership. A special program was presented by the Committee on Entertainment. Mr.Strasburger gave an interesting talk on "A Trip Through the West Indies and Canal Zone by a Stamp Collector". Mr.
Adams "A Plea for Esperanto". Mr.
Sahm read extracts showing amusing requests of Stamp Collectors. President Johnson spoke about "The Washington Philatelic Society" and Mr. Morris outlined some plans for future entertainments. Refreshments were served and a vote of thanks tendered those who assisted in making the meeting a success. The verdict of all was that it was an exceedingly pleasant evening.The next meeting, July 13, will be held at the home of President Johnson,

The meeting was called to order by President Skinner at 9 P. M. with 18 members present. The minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read.
Several communications were received and acted upon. The rest of the evening was devoted to the exhibition of Porto Rico which proved a truly rare treat. A very interesting paper on this subject was read by Mr. Isenstein. Mr.
Schlesinger showed his magnificent general collection. Don't forget the auction at the next meeting, July 7th. Mr. Isen-graded lawns and miles of perfect drive-ways, the upper or eastern portion of the island has been left with all its wealth of gigantic forest growth, its trailing wild flowers and its sweet woody smelling retreats. At this point in the river there is nearly a half mile of clear water on either side of the island. While from one end you look out on the beautiful waters of Lake St. Clair, at the other your gaze, as far as the eye can reach, takes in the towers and spires of the great city.

There are so many recreation features on the island that it is difficult to decide where to begin to enjoy them. Admission to this and to every other park is absolutely free.

Right where you leave the steamer there is a boat livery owned by the city and row boats and canoes may be secured at a slight rental. Detroit is one of the greatest canoe centers in the world and Belle Isle, with its miles of artificial lakes and canals, is the ideal place for this delightful sport. On pleasant afternoons and evenings there are hundreds of the graceful craft drifting lazily along—an ever changing kaleidoscope of life and color. The fascinating vivacity of the scene reminds you, in a way, of the famous Henley regattas.

Belle Isle is the people's property, controlled absolutely in all its departments by the city. Do not lose sight of this fact. The few restrictive rules add to the rational enjoyment of the masses.

In the woods, along the canals and little lakes, as well as on the shores of the great river itself, there are countless picnic parties. Entire families come to the island by the boats, or, if it seems preferable, they can walk by means of the substantial iron bridge on stone piers which connects it with the city. This bridge is a little more than a half mile long—just a pleasant walk. Should you wish to ride across, however, you can take a phaeton or a motor bus for three cents (1 1/2d). A trifle more will secure you a ride around the entire island—something over five miles.

Note the picnic parties with their lunch baskets, spending perhaps the entire day. See the groups of laughing children romping and playing on the swings, see-saws, merry-go-rounds and other machinery for youthful enjoyment, or driving the little pony carts.

Now you come upon a very wide, level, open space where the city maintains a number of baseball diamonds, tennis courts and football fields.

Do you take an interest in flowers? One of the finest horticultural buildings in America is located here. We have an aquarium, than which there is but one larger in America, where everything from a tadpole to a seal may be noted. The zoological gardens are well stocked with levies from the animal kingdom—herds of deer and buffalo, ostriches, monkeys; indeed the full equipment of a menagerie.

The city of Detroit recently opened on the island one of the best bath houses in America, only to find it entirely inadequate to the demands made upon it by our citizens. Plans have already been drawn to double the capacity of this imposing structure. By paying the small fee of ten cents (5d) you can secure a private dressing room, towels and a swimming suit. On warm days upwards of 4000 men, women and children take a plunge in the cool waters of the river at this point alone.

Except for the special privileges, such as riding across the bridge or using the facilities of the boat and bath houses, everything is free for the asking—the use of the various adjuncts of sport being regulated only by the priority of request.

But where shall we stop in our talk about this the most unique and beautiful park in America? We have not mentioned the band concerts given five or six times a week during the summer by a splendid organization in the employ of the city. We have not mentioned the casino, an architecturally beautiful building, so located as to spread before one seated on its broad verandas the ever changing panorama of the commerce of the Great Lakes. Suffice it to say that the people of Detroit regard Belle Isle as a priceless possession. They show their love for it by flocking to it in thousands every day; yet the island is so large that there is never any crowding. Nature has bestowed her gifts with a lavish hand. They are genuinely appreciated and most liberally used.

In these few words regarding the island, we might seem to have neglected the possibilities of the river itself, but this should not be forgotten. Rowing is a sport of never failing popularity on the Detroit river. The course off Belle Isle is one of the finest in America and on regatta days the shores are lined with thousands of people cheering their favorite crews.

The water is dotted with all kinds of crafts. There are the palatial yacht and numberless catboats, running from 16 feet in length upwards. There is the fast motor boat cutting through the clear waters at 20 or 30 miles an hour—adding a spectacular touch to the exhilarating sport which is a part of Detroit's life.

All these things, of course, mean races and regattas without number. There is a friendly rivalry between Detroit men and the crack oarsmen and sailors of Canada, which results in international contests each summer.

The winter season in Detroit is brief, but it brings with it outdoor sports galore. Perhaps the swiftest sport of all, unless it be flying machines, is ice boating. Lake St. Clair offers clear and uninterrupted stretches of miles for these white-winged flyers. But the most popular cold weather fun in Detroit is ice skating. Particularly at Belle Isle, where the canals and small lakes are kept in perfect condition by the city, which also maintains a pavilion for the comfort and convenience of the people.

ice skating is at its best. Remember, too, that admission to the pavilion and to the ice is entirely free.

Then, vacant spaces in various parts of the city are flooded by the fire department for use as skating parks when the weather is propitious. There are usually 30 or 40 of these places, conveniently located, where old and young enjoy the delights of "glare ice and steel runners."

Do not suppose that the outdoor possibilities of Detroit are exhausted when we have described Belle Isle. Palmer Park, to the north of the town, is one of Detroit's most important and attractive possessions. It is a densely wooded tract of 140 acres, reached by tram cars from any part of the city for five cents (2½d). Like Belle Isle, it is a favorite resort for mothers and children.

The city owns in all 29 parks and parkways, with a total of 1,199 acres, judiciously distributed throughout the town so that each neighborhood or community has the benefit of at least one of these breathing spaces. Wherever possible athletic grounds, wading pools, swings and "teeters" have been introduced, and there is no restriction to wholesome play. Some of the public school grounds are equipped with athletic and amusement devices and competent instructors are in attendance to guide the children in their play and training during vacation periods. These play grounds afford a happy solution of the problem of keeping the youngsters from running wild during the weeks that school is not in session.

Detroit's location permits numberless river and lake rides on the many commodious excursion steamers having this city for their point of departure. The rates of fare for an all-day outing on the water are very moderate. One may leave the city in the morning, spend the day on the Detroit river and Lake Erie, with a few hours for the picturesque and vine-clad islands of the lake, where blue water lies all about him as far as the eye can reach, and return home by nine o'clock in the evening.

Another favorite ride is across lovely Lake St. Clair, at the far end of which we find a unique natural phenomenon in that the silt from the swift-flowing St. Clair river which here empties into the lake has spread over the lake bottom for many miles. This occasions an area of shallows or shoal water, popularly known for many years as "The Flats," but more properly designated

"The Venice of America." Here there are hundreds of modest summer homes, club houses and hotels, extending indeed beyond the confines of the lake up the shore of the St. Clair river as far as the bustling city of Port Huron.
 The waters teem with fish—bass, pike, perch and the like. People come here from all over America for their summer outing. A trip to this region and beyond to Port Huron may be made in a day and represents to and fro a journey of about 125 miles, with an hour or so to spend in Port Huron.

Down the Detroit river to Lake Erie there are a number of beautiful islands which are favorite resorts for pleasure seekers and those who enjoy the beauties of nature, seeking a day's recreation at little expense. There is no admission fee to any of the islands near Detroit, the only cost being the fare of the steamer, which is exceptionally low.

But why seem to limit our good times to the water? While the contour of the land in and about Detroit is very level a tram car ride of 15 miles will bring you into a most picturesque country, up hill and down dale, dotted with innumerable lakes of varying size. Radiating from the heart of the business section these electric interurban tram cars make a special appeal to those who seek a day in the woods, a stroll along the country roads, or perchance sailing or angling. The highways along which most of the electric tram cars operate are old military roads built with reference to connecting Detroit with remote posts, since grown to thriving cities.
 Originally built to make it impossible for the savage Indian to have any of his "fun" they contribute vastly to the fun of the white man who has displaced him.

A ride of a few miles brings one in touch with the most fertile and attractive rural districts in all this section of the country. The wooded tracts and prosperous farms alternate with bustling little villages and larger cities—a panorama of peace, of intense activity, and of thrift and prosperity.

In all this little writeup we have excluded mention of the entertainments and amusements common to large cities, such as the theaters, admission to which varies in price here as elsewhere, the libraries, the art museums, etc., which are free. We must not neglect to speak of the Y. M. C. A. building, the largest in the world devoted exclusively to the work of the Young Men's Christian Association, with an immense gymnasium, perhaps more fully equipped than can be found elsewhere. If we speak of this it naturally suggests the Y. W. C. A., which also occupies a fine building in the center of the town and affords just about everything which the young woman, whether she works or not, would like to find in such an institution.

Being a border city many of the sports popular in Canada flourish here.
 Although baseball is the national game, cricket is played, and in the winter time curling is quite in vogue. There are, too, the usual clubs, large or small, for golf, tennis and the rest.

The city is enclosed by a boulevard 12 miles in extent, forming three sides of a rectangle, the river itself being the fourth. Beginning at the western terminus and following the smooth, hard driveway kept free from dust by the use of oil, we eventually reach the Belle Isle bridge approach, which may be considered the eastern end of the boulevard itself.

In our description of the good times which sensible men and women (children, too) may have in Detroit we call particular attention to the fact that they are enjoyed by the masses, that they are clean, healthful, and can be had at a price so modest as to be within the reach of all.

A MILLION ECUADOR COMMEMORATIVES SOLD.

L'Annuaire Timbrologique states that a German stamp dealer has just purchased for 40,000 marks one million of the stamps of the triangular series of Ecuador, issued in 1908 to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the opening of the Guayaquil to Quito railway.
 The stamps were engraved and printed by Messrs. Waterlow & Sons, as every purchaser is informed by the prominent imprint which figures on every stamp.
 As the set is catalogued at over 7s 6d it will be interesting to watch the effect of the deal on catalogue prices.—Postage Stamp.

EDITORIAL.

On to Detroit—The eyes of the faithful are now centered on Detroit and the WEEKLY varies the regular routine of its service with an issue that calls attention to the convention city and its multitudinous charms. The convention will be held during the third week in August and coming as it does in the vacation month should secure a large attendance. We bespeak for this city the consideration of every philatelist who can possibly make a vacation trip to the beautiful city of Detroit. The local committee is planning a hearty welcome to all visitors and a good time is assured.

Savings Stamps—The adoption of the postal savings bank law will have a philatelic effect if, as it is proposed, a set of distinctive stamps is issued for the purpose of registering the savings of fractional parts of a dollar. As we understand the plan of operation of the banks, no account may be opened for less than one dollar but to encourage the accumulation of smaller amounts, the prospective depositor may purchase a postal savings card, in the spaces on which the specially prepared adhesive stamps may be affixed. An enormous number of the cards and of the postal savings stamps must be prepared. It will be within the province of the postmaster-general to formulate the regulations for the issue and cancellation of the stamps. In a list of the larger cities, the savings banks will be established first under the most careful supervision but even under these circumstances, it is felt that some defects probably of a minor nature will become apparent. It is expected that the system will soon be perfected for general use, however, and then, the small depositor, feeling amply protected will have every incentive to save. A correspondent says that the postal savings stamps will be superb productions in view of the interest manifested by Pres-

Chicago in 1911—Chicago, having proclaimed its desire to be given the privilege of entertaining the convention of the American Philatelic Society in 1911 awaits the verdict of the Detroit convention with a sanguine expectancy that augurs well for the proper fulfillment of the pleasant task that, no doubt, will fall to its lot. For many years, Chicago has been no active solicitor of the preferment but this fact gives the wish that it now expresses, all the more earnestness. The experienced philatelists of Chicago have a full realization of what a convention means and a becoming pride in this regard will not allow them to fall short of successful accomplishment. Almost so soon as favorable action is taken at Detroit, Chicago's preparations will be under way.

Follow Instructions—The first batch of answers in the Penflip competition has been received and we hope that we violate no confidence when we say that none of them is correct. We repeat our injunction to study the terms of the contest as without exception, those who have answered up to this time have not observed them literally. For instance, "2/6" and "half a crown" on the Falkland Islands, 1898, are not conflicting terms of the same currency; either amount is equivalent to the other. In Heligoland, as a British colony, "mark" and "shilling" are not of "the same currency." In the former Penflip contest, the "one florin" and "two shillings," type A3, Victoria, 2 shillings, was the stamp that embodied the right answer but in the present puzzle, this stamp is ineligible as the two terms are not "conflicting." While the entente cordiale between the great Penflip and ourselves has not been established again in its former fullness, we assure our readers that under what he considers the most galling provocation, Parnassus Penflip will not withdraw his prize.

Friction—We say with sorrow that the distinguished donor of the Penflip prize has again displayed a burst of temper. We wrote him that much to our regret, we were unable to send him his check on July 1st and that it pained us to say this more than it would him to hear the words. Thereupon, he wrote: "Principle is a heaven-ordained attribute. Evidently, your abode will never be in the realms of etherality. Do not ask that I report the social side of the coming Detroit convention unless you send my money, and immediately. Use a Merry Widow special delivery stamp in forwarding." We have sent Parnas-sus, an unused three dollar Columbian, without gum, and with a rather grave thin spot, to apply on account.

Getting Even—As a genius, Parnassus Penflip is allowed a license that persons so transcendently endowed are given by common consent, yet with due regard for moods of temperament, we cannot but reprobate the sordid tendency that he has developed latterly. It was not the intention to revert to the following but as the great Penflip does not hesitate to reprimand us publicly, we print a letter that he sent in answer to a request for his opinion on the proposed Academy of American Philatelic Immortals that is favored by several of our esteemed contemporaries. He wrote: "The idea is superabundantly satisfactory. Is it the popular wish that I head it? I should allow myself to be persuaded to permanently preside over this institution of the august. What emolument may I expect? Surely one that will be in keeping with the grand scope of the plan."

* * *

Bad Business—We readily believe a reader who says that one or more stamp firms that cater especially to the boy trade are distributing even at this late day, the so-called military frank stamps that made their appearance during the time of the Spanish-American war. These labels were the product of an enterprising individual and had no official standing whatever; in fact, they were distinctly repudiated by the war department for whose convenience ostensibly they were issued. For only the briefest period was there any uncertainty about the character of the labels; almost immediately, these "army franks" in red, blue and brown, respectively, were assigned to the category of trash. Today, an occasional inquiry is made by correspondents who write for information about these labels, which, it must be admitted, are not without some plausibility on their face. Now that the Educational Committee of the American Philatelic Society is devoting so much effort to the encouragement of philately among the young, the practice of distributing these frauds to beginners is particularly reprehensible. Ill-advised methods of dealers have their effect in neutralizing the good that is accomplished by the unselfish efforts of those who give their time and funds freely for the work of advancing philately among those of impressionable age. It need not be pointed out that the weeds of philately have a demoralizing influence in the philatelic garden; and it should be the duty of all, dealers and others, to protect the uninformed rather than impose upon them. Philately must grow substantially and if it is to retain all those who hear its call, their paths must be made pleasant and disappointment must have no place in their world.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Franklin S. Smith favors us with an article "Postage Stamp Pictures", from the Strand Magazine. While interesting, it is not of a sufficiently philatelic nature to warrant our reprinting the same.

—Wanted: A copy of the issue of the WEEKLY dated May 1, 1909. It will complete a file. Who can favor us?

JOHN KAY.

It is with considerable pride that Detroit points to John Kay as one who has been devoted to our hobby for more than fifty years, without any lagging of interest or enthusiasm.

Mr. Kay was born in Canada in 1851, and as a boy of six gathered the varicolored bits of paper that were used at that period.

Two or three years later he discovered that others were interested in the hobby, and, a friend of his father's residing in Toronto, sent him a small price list issued by Young & Stockholm of Liverpool, England.

He immediately opened a correspondence with them and remembers sending them large quantities of the half, three and six d Canadians in exchange for common stamps then in use on the Continent.

For the half penny value, he received a shilling a thousand in exchange, no distinction being made between the imperforated and perforated varieties.

In 1870 Mr. Kay came to the United States, going first to New York. A few years later he came west to Indianapolis and finally settled in Detroit in 1881.

His present collection contains some of the first stamps that he gathered as a boy, and he lays claim to the distinction of having collected continuously since 1857 surely a record to be proud of.

His collection is a general one of such splendid proportions that its owner has not attempted a recapitulation for years. It is especially strong in United States and British Colonials, many of the rarer varieties being represented in blocks and on original covers.

For genuine enthusiasm and Philatelic activity, many of the younger generations will have to take their hats off to this Dean of the Detroit fraternity.

Mr. Kay is head of the firm of John Kay & Co., jewelers and diamond importers, and is counted one of the foremost authorities on diamonds in this country. His business connections abroad require his spending several months of each year on the Continent, so that his opportunities for amassing a representative collection have, perhaps, been better than some of his less fortunate brothers.

THE DETROIT PROGRAM.

We find ourselves unable to give in this issue the program of convention week as plans have not sufficiently materialized so to do. We shall no doubt be able to publish the same in an early number.

GEN. C. A. COOLIDGE.

Those who have attended the last conventions know the General and can see in him a royal good fellow, whose position and accomplishments blended with his love of philately place him among our foremost collectors.

A few words about Gen. Coolidge's life may not be amiss. He was born the year before the five cent N. Y. made its appearance and at the age of 18 enlisted in the 16th U. S. infantry, serving all thro' the Civil War.

In 1864 he was promoted to lieutenant of the Seventh infantry and while a member of this company was wounded in the Battle of the Big Hole, Montana, against the Nez Perces Indians.

He became captain of the Seventh in 1877 and it was at this time he started his first collection, a "general" collection (no harm intended).

He enlisted in the A. P. S. on its organization and was an enthusiastic collector until 1894 when he disposed of his first collection.

Gen. Coolidge served in the Philippine campaign and in the Boxer campaign, about whose stamps he wrote articles in the WEEKLY last year. He was made Colonel in 1901 and Brigadier General in 1902, being retired in August of that year.

After his military ambition had been realized he once more turned his attention to stamp collecting and joined the San Francisco Society in 1903.

The earthquake however caused the General to retreat for the first time in his life and he moved to Detroit, "Where Life is Worth Living."

Thro' his efforts and those of Mr. Alan R. Fernald, who, by the way, is the real "Philatelic Incubator," the Detroit Society was formed and the General became its first president.

It is such men as Gen. Coolidge that make philately worth while and it's a treat to see the pleasure he takes in adding a well centered specimen to his collection of U. S. and colonies.

Gen. Coolidge enjoys the distinction of being one of the few officers to wear every one of the government war medals, and those who attend the convention this summer will find him the royal good fellow that he is.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

ARGENTINE.—The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly waxes facetious over the new Argentine stamps, and with its admirable insular delight in using archaic words calls them "chest-plaisters." The term does not appear to be either true or wise. The Centenary observance of the independence of so important a nation as the Argentine Republic is certainly as worthy of note as many of the events already similarly signaled by the various British Colonies. Students of history, and even now and then a stamp collector, recognize the value of commemorative issues, at least from the national or patriotic standpoint. Why not broaden out a little and treat fairly a handsome and valuable addition to the list of historical stamps? We venture the prediction that this set of stamps will do more to popularize Argentine history, than a multitude of dry-as-dust text books.

AUSTRALIA.—According to the Australian Philatelist, further delay is likely to be experienced in the issue of a uniform series of stamps for the Australian Commonwealth:

"From what we had read in the daily press re the financial agreement, we concluded that the ratification of the arrangements made between the Prime Minister and the Premiers of the various States was a matter of foregone conclusion, but events have proved otherwise, a majority having voted against the proposals, and the decision as to a Commonwealth issue has been set back until such time as fresh financial arrangements are proposed and accepted. It is thought in some circles that the matter will be fixed up before the end of the present year, and that in the meantime steps will be taken to prepare for the new issue of stamps, but it is at present dangerous to forecast anything in this connection. We believe, however, that the new Government is just as anxious to see a Commonwealth series of stamps in existence as its predecessors were, but as economy is an important feature of its policy, we think the idea that the new stamps will be printed from engraved steel plates may be abandoned. We have, however, confidence that no matter how they are produced they will be a credit to the country. Up to the present no official announcement has been made re invitations to send in designs."

BRAZIL.—O fie, Mr. Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly! the six portraits on the new Pan American stamps are not all Brazilian notables, the Argentine Republic, Chili, Colombia, Mexico and the United States all having representatives among the six worthies on the stamp.

BRITISH GUIANA.—Ewen's Weekly says "there is considerable variation in the size of the words 'Postage and Revenue' on some of the values of the current issue, and this variation appears to have been going on for a good many years. It is only quite recently, however, that we have noticed the variation in the case of the 1c green with multiple watermark. Those recently received have the words smaller and thinner. The shade of green has also been changed, both shades occurring with the thin letter. We also have new shades of the 12c, 24c and 72c."

BRUNEL.—The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly notes the issue of the 2c value of the current set in a new color.

Adhesive.
2c black brown.

FALKLAND ISLANDS.—Ewen's Weekly reports that two values of the current set have been issued in new colors.

Adhesives.
2d gray.
6d purple.

FRANCE.—G. de Lachasse reports having received from France a pneumatic letter card, value 30 centimes, purple on light blue, with another card of the same value enclosed for the answer, in the same style as the ordinary 15c letter card already known. Both the cards have the usual advice in 16 lines, the printing on the answer being of course of a much smaller type. Mr. Lachasse has also received new smoking tobacco stamps from France, with a surcharge in different types, showing the increase in the price of tobacco, amounting to about 25 per cent. There is no surcharge for the cigarettes, the new value, 75c instead of 65c, being printed on the wrappers, which are on pink paper.

GOLD COAST.—Regarding registration envelopes, the Colonial Office Journal says: It may be of interest to note the advantage of indicating by means of one stamp the fact that postage has been paid as well as Registration fee.

The cost of a new embossing die where a Registration die already exists is somewhat prohibitive, but when a new one is being ordered the combined stamp, as used by the Imperial Government can be adopted without extra expense.

Another way of producing a combined stamp at a nominal cost is by means of an electrotype obtained from the King's head postcard die, as in the case of Gold Coast.

It is worthy of note that it is impossible to produce a satisfactory electrotype for printing a combined stamp from a postage stamp die owing to the wording which appears thereon and which would cause confusion.

A few Colonies have not yet adopted the newer form of Registration Envelope, the flap of which fastens in front. This is particularly suitable where a combined stamp is used. Such an envelope has the advantage of displaying all the evidence of prepayment on one side, and the change can be made without expense.

ICELAND.—Gibbons Weekly notes a newly discovered error in the 1902 overprint "02-02", instead of "02-03". The error "03-03" has been previously noted.

NEW ZEALAND.—The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly reports that the current 6d stamp has received the new official overprint.

ROUMANIA.—Tete-beche varieties of the latest postage due stamps are reported by Gibbons Weekly. The use of the pink tinted paper has been discontinued for these stamps, the paper now used being white unwatermarked and the printing in a paler shade of green than formerly.

SPAIN.—Gibbons Weekly reports having seen the current 15c stamp in imperforate condition.

TRENGGANU.—Regarding the report that a set of stamps is to be issued for this new member of the Malay States, a correspondent of Ewen's Weekly writes that the regular issue of this State will not be preceded by a surcharged issue. Strict instructions are in force in the Federated Malay States that no surcharging is again to be done and public convenience is to be allowed to suffer rather than that a small minority of loud-voiced stamp-collectors should be offended. A surcharged issue for the States recently taken over from Siam would we venture to say have been enormously popular with collectors, but apparently the kill-sports are to have their way this time.

It is quite on the cards that Kedah, Kelantan and Perlis may also have their own sets, and when the authorities have gone so far, they may decide to accord equal privileges to Perak, Selangor, Negri Sembilan and Pahang. Also, why not separate sets for the Settlements of Singapore, Penang, Malacca, Province Wellesley, Labuan, Christmas Island and Cocos-Keeling Islands?

Trengganu has just signed a treaty with Great Britain, states our correspondent, so that very soon now Post Offices will be established. The fact that there were no Post Offices before must be put down to the lack of push on the part of the present Sultan.

VENEZUELA.—A new card is just received from Mr. Schachne called, in the lower frame, the issue of Nov. 1909. It has the same appearance as the card of 1908 but the work is done by a new company, which evidently could not secure the former plate, so were obliged to make a new one of the same design. The result is not to the credit of the later contract, for the work throughout, including the stamp and arms, is much coarser both in design and printing.

VICTORIA.—Some changes are noted in the stamps of this state by the Australian Philatelist: The 1/2d and 1d stamps have been issued in a booklet, the 1/2d being perf. 12 1/2. The 1d stamps are now being issued printed from a new plate inscribed on the margin CA within a double-lined circle and CB in a similar circle, as already on 9d plate, and on the Postage Due. The shade has also been slightly altered and the impression is clearer, the hair over the ear being now very conspicuous and on some impressions quite white.

The 1 1/2d brown on yellow, with postage, watermarked V Crown, has been found perforated 11 all round, 11 at top and 12 1/2 on other three sides as well as 12 1/2 all round.

The 1d stamp of 1887 has been found in two very distinct shades of pink and red; also a variety of the 2d laureated, wmk. V Crown, without frame at foot, the "TWO PENCE" resting on nothing, evidently due to wear of the plate; also the current 1d stamp perforated 12 all round.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.—Gibbons Weekly announces that the current 10d red has been issued on Crown A paper.

PARCEL POST STAMPS.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

The parcel post, as it now exists, is a comparatively recent development of world's great postal system, and though we, in Great Britain, enjoy exceptional facilities for the despatch of parcels through the medium of our Post Office to almost every part of the globe, the inhabitants of other countries are not so fortunate. For instance, there is no parcel post in connection with the Post Office in such an important country as the United States, and the same applies to many other places. Facilities in this direction are, however, gradually being extended, and probably the time will come when it will be as simple a matter to send a parcel to any part of the world, as it now is to send a registered letter.

In some countries where a parcel post is established, special stamps are issued for the prepayment of these packages, and these are quite distinct from the labels used for ordinary postage. It will be our endeavor in this article to tabulate these varieties, and to give a short account of each. Neither Great Britain nor any of her colonies have found it necessary to issue special stamps for the prepayment of postage on ordinary parcels, but the series of specially surcharged labels, issued in our own country for use on official parcels, are certainly worthy of some mention here. The first of these appeared in 1883, and they all have the same type of surcharge—"GOVT. PARCELS" in block letters in two lines. Prior to 1883 the parcels posted from the various Government departments were either franked by an official signature or by means of ordinary stamps, the cost of which was reimbursed at the end of each quarter. This, in some instances, involved officials in a heavy personal outlay, which, though temporary, was often inconvenient, and to obviate this the specially overprinted stamps were introduced. At first only the 9d and 1s values were surcharged, but other denominations were added from time to time, until altogether seventeen different varieties were issued. These, in common with all other departmental stamps, were withdrawn from use in 1904, and at present, we believe, all official parcels are merely stamped with an "official paid" postmark of some kind or other.

In Belgium the parcels post, though under the administration of the Government, is worked as a branch quite separate from that of the ordinary post, and parcels had, and we believe still have, to be sent from a railway station. In fact, all the stamps are inscribed "CHEMINS DE FER" (Railways), and the State Railways are responsible for the sorting, despatch, and delivery of the parcels. Prior to 1879 the cost of carrying parcels varied according to distance, and as this somewhat hampered trade, especially in goods of no great value, a number of petitions were sent to the Legislative House praying for the establishment of a uniform rate for any distance within the confines of the country.

In April 1879 the Department of Public Works promulgated a scheme by which it was possible to send small parcels at a uniform rate for any distance, and stamps were issued, presumably under the authority of this department, for the prepayment of the requisite fees. Later on the system was extended, and the printing of the stamps was undertaken by the Belgian Government itself. Altogether, four different designs have been used for these Belgian parcel post stamps, and while the earlier emissions had the inscriptions in French only, those issued since 1895 have been inscribed in both French and Flemish. The equivalent for "Chemins de fer" being "SPOORWEGEN." It should be understood that these stamps are not attached to the parcels, but are affixed to the despatch notes accompanying the package. These despatch notes are stored by the Records Department for a time, and every now and then they are sold in large lots to waste-paper dealers. The purchasers cut off the stamps, and sell them by weight to stamp dealers; hence, in used condition, these parcel post stamps are fairly common.

Two years after the issue of its ordinary postage stamps, the Congo Free State entered into an arrangement with the Belgian Government for the establishment of a parcels post service. It was mutually agreed that parcels must not weigh more than five kilogrammes, and that prepayment should be indicated on Belgian parcels by means of the parcel post stamps, and on those from the Congo Free State by the ordinary postage stamps of the territory. Notwithstanding this stipulation, the 5 francs stamp was overprinted "COLIS-POSTAUX FR. 3.50," and used for this purpose, the surcharge being made by means of a rubber handstamp. The 5 fr. stamp of 1887 was similarly overprinted, and in 1889-92 the surcharge was improved by the addition of a border, this later handstamp being made of copper. These provisionals were replaced in 1898 by two handsome picture stamps, neither of which however, had any inscription to indicate the particular purpose for which they were issued.

Italy employed parcel post stamps for a very limited period. Four values were issued on July 1st, 1884, and two more were added to the set on May 1st, 1886. These stamps are of extra large size, and are inscribed "PACCHI POSTALI" (parcel post) above the portrait of King Humbert. The stamps were withdrawn from use a few years later, and in 1890 the large remainder stock were surcharged "Valevole per le stampe" (good for printed matter) and "CMI 2."

The 10c Indo-China of the 1892-96 type is known surcharged "Indo Chine

—timbre—colis postaux" in three lines. This stamp was used on parcels, but as it seems to have been affixed in addition to the ordinary postage stamps, its use was more fiscal than postal.

Another French colony—Ivory Coast—furnishes us with an appalling number of provisional parcel post stamps. These were all issued during the period 1903-5, and they consist of the ordinary postage due stamps of the French Colonies overprinted with the name "Côte d'Ivoire," "Colis Postaux," or "C.P.," and, usually, with new values as well. The catalogue list of varieties embraces no less than 57 stamps, and the specialist could easily lengthen this list.

Martinique is another French Colony that has allowed itself the luxury of a parcel post stamp. This was issued in October 1903, and consists of the 60c, postage due stamp of the 1894 French Colonial set, surcharged "Timbre Poste—5F—Martinique—Colis Postaux" in four lines. This stamp was in use for a limited period.

Although Persia has been particularly active in the matter of issuing stamps, it is, perhaps, a matter for congratulation that only three have been specially issued for use on parcels. These appeared in 1908, and consist of the 3, 6 and 26ch of 1907-8, surcharged with the words "Colis Postaux."

In June, 1908, a set of six parcel post stamps was issued by the Peruvian Government. These are of extra large size, and are plain type-set labels with numerals in the centre, "Porte de Conduccion" at the top, and "CENTAVOS" at the base, the whole being enclosed in an ornamental border. In 1900 the 20c value of this set was provisionally surcharged "UN CENTAVO," and in 1905 the 50c and 10c were reduced in value to 1c and 5c respectively by means of similar surcharges.

Since 1905, Roumania has had a special 25 bani stamp for use on parcels. This exists in various shades, with and without watermark, and in several varieties of perforation. The design is similar to that of the postage due stamps, but with the inscription "TAXA DE FACTAGIU" at the top. This stamp does not indicate the postage paid, but represents a special fee charged for delivery.

Among the American stamp-issuing countries Salvador is the only one which has indulged in the issue of parcel post stamps. These were issued in 1895, the set consisting of five different values. The stamps are handsomely designed and are of diamond shape.

Again we have to turn to the French Colonial Empire for our last example of stamps specially issued for use on parcels. In 1896 Tunis issued a set of ten different values for this purpose, the stamps being of extra large size, printed in two colours, and inscribed "COLIS POSTAUX."

Thus, if we eliminate the wearisome series of provisionals inflicted on a long-suffering philatelic public by the Ivory Coast, the group of special parcel-post stamps is not an extensive one, and, we think it will be agreed, a group containing several interesting varieties.

In conclusion we append a list of the inscriptions found upon the parcel-post stamps referred to above, with their equivalents in English, and a table of the countries issuing them.

CHEMINS DE FER (Railways).—Shown on all the issues of Belgium.

COLIS POSTAUX (Parcels Post).—Congo, Ivory Coast, Martinique, Persia, and Tunis.

C. P.—An abbreviation for "Colis Postaux," shown on some of the stamps for the Ivory Coast.

FARDOS POSTALES (Parcels Post).—Salvador.

PACCHI POSTALI (Parcel Post).—Italy. PORTE DE CONDUCCION (Portage for carrying, i.e. charge for conveyance).—Peru.

TAXA DE FACTAGIU (Charge for portage).—Roumania.

SPOORWEGEN (Railways).—The Flemish equivalent for "Chemins de fer," shown on Belgian stamps issued since 1895.—West End Philatelist.

MATTERS PHILATELIC IN URUGUAY.

By A. H. DAVIS.

It has been decided to hold a South American Postal Convention in Montevideo next year, and the 6th January has been fixed as the opening day.

In looking through your publishers' catalogue, I see that a note at the foot of the 1900-1 issue says, "The above stamps were reissued in 1907." This is not quite correct, as only the 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, and the 20c (No. 270) were reissued, and they can all be easily distinguished from the original printings, as they are very much lighter in shade.

In view of the increasing popularity of Uruguayan stamps, I append a few notes which I have obtained at various times, and which I hope will prove of some assistance to dealers and collectors. In quoting numbers I have taken Gibbons' Catalogue as a guide. Judging from the number of imperf. copies of Nos. 144 and 145 which have passed through my hands at various times, there must be a good many floating about. No. 148 is full of interesting varieties of surcharge, and there are numerous trials of this surcharge on the local market which are being bought by collectors as varieties. Of Nos. 280, 281, 282, 283, and 284 there are a good many pairs and blocks imperf. on one side; the rarest is No. 280 and the commonest is 283. This last, and also No. 290, are full of varieties. Of No. 283, I once saw a specimen on watermarked paper, but I forget what the watermark was. Nos. 293 and 294 should prove a good investment, as comparatively few have been sold and they are now called in. The 7c value is to be discontinued, on account of the altered tariff for foreign correspondence. I have seen specimens of all the low values supplied by Waterlow imperf. on one side. If imperf. copies of Nos. 220/230 and 232/234 appear in London at any time, I think it is well to mention that they are from the proof sheets supplied by the printers for selection by the Government for the 1895 and 1897 issues. There are from four hundred to five hundred copies of each value in existence, and I believe they are being sold as imperf. varieties, and are fetching big prices. No. 253 does not exist, and No. 254 exists with surcharge omitted in pair with normal. There are about ten copies in existence, and I sent one to Mr. W. H. Peckitt, of London. There are several sheets of Nos. 235/237 and 249/252 with inverted surcharge, and they sell for $4 per set. I have come across these on several occasions during the last few years.

Of all the peso values No. 229 is the rarest; it is much sought after, and fetches the best price. Of the Official stamps the 1905 and 1907 issues fetch ridiculous prices, because scarcely any appear to have been placed on the market; but there is no doubt that a good stock exists, not only in one but in several quarters, and the holders are merely holding on to force up prices. Collectors of Uruguay will have noticed that the last two or three issues of Official stamps have two diamond-shaped holes punched in the stamp. A great stamp robbery took place some years ago, and there was a large stock of Officials among those stolen; to prevent these being sold over the counter the authorities had holes punched in the stamps to distinguish them from the stolen stock.

Warships from every nation in the world will soon be arriving in Montevideo to take part in the Argentine celebrations, and in order to give the seamen every facility the Postmaster-General has created a provisional Post Office for their exclusive use, and has arranged for interpreters, to be in constant attendance there.—Gibbons Weekly.

CHICAGO BRANCH No. 1.

SPECIAL MEETING, JUNE 29th.

CHICAGO, June 27, 1910.

We, the following members of Chicago Branch One, American Philatelic Society, request that a special meeting be called at 7 p. m., June 29, 1910, to consider the report of the special committee on accommodations at Detroit.

C. E. Severn, Iver R. Johnson, Henry Ades Fowler, John E. Lord, F. E. Farnham.

To L. C. Whitaker, president, Chicago Branch.

Meeting place to be room 1622 Masonic Temple.

In accordance with the above call, the meeting was called to order by President Whitaker with the following members present: Herzstock, Johnson, Whitaker, Van Order, Clark, Rogers, Severn, Baldwin, Farnham, Fowler, Lord, Dahl, Bloss and Wolsieffer.

Reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was dispensed with.

The report of Mr. Fowler as the committee to investigate the matter of transportation and hotel accommodations at Detroit was read and accepted. It was then moved by Mr. Severn and seconded by Mr. Van Order that inasmuch as three different Detroit hotels are accredited headquarters of the delegates to the convention, the Chicago members accept the proposition of the Wayne Hotel. Carried.

On motion of Mr. Johnson, meeting adjourned at 8.00.

HUGH M. CLARK, Sec.

CLEVELAND BRANCH, No. 30.

The regular quarterly meeting was held June 23rd, 1910. Owing to the extreme heat but eight members and two visitors were present.

Campaign Committee reported progress. Convention plans were discussed and six of those present signified their intention of attending the Detroit convention. Messrs. Rhodes and Whitaker exhibited their collections of U. S. Revenues and the former also displayed his magnificent accumulation of the 1847 regular issue.

Meeting adjourned at 9.30 p. m.

As soon as your name has been published as an applicant you will probably have unsolicited selections of stamps sent you on approval. As a great many collectors object to this the Society desires to break the practice up. Please aid us and help protect yourself and others against further imposition, by holding such selections without purchasing therefrom until sufficient funds have been received from the sender to enable you to return the stamps to him by registered mail. Also please report to the Secretary of the Society the name of the dealer sending such unsolicited selections.

A GREAT PHILIPPINE COLLECTION.

It has been quite generally known that the Philippines collection of Major F. L. Palmer of Atlanta, Ga., is a noteworthy one. The purchase of the Lombard collection of the stamps of this country will give it special prominence and our readers will be glad to have a general idea of this great collection, no doubt the best of its kind in the world.

The catalogue value is about $7,000, and it is especially valuable as a "reference collection" through the very large number of used copies and covers, full sheets, or top margins with one or more rows of stamps attached (showing manner of printing, number of panes or stamps to sheet, position of varieties, &c.).

Everything catalogued by Scott is represented in finest condition, either used, unused, or both, except Nos. 38, 90, 112, 318 and 319, while nearly all Scott's sub-varieties are there, with many not catalogued. For practically all I have unused and several used (various shades or cancellations), and, in many cases including rarities, covers also. There is a fairly complete collection of plate-numbers of all the U. S. issues, though only in single copies. All U. S. issues, and some 150 or more of the Spanish issues, are in blocks of four, generally mint. All the printed O. B. are there also, except a few of which only one (or very few) exists. Have a very fine collection of handstamped O. B. issues on original covers, as well as a collection of the various types, handstamped, in singles not on cover.

The envelope collection is practically complete; post cards lack a very few; revenue collection of Spanish issues is large and quite complete; some U. S. issues also; also have large collection of stamped paper stamps, dating back to 1836; collection of original telegrams, showing postal cancellations on the stamps used, as well as the various telegraph cancellations, &c., &c.

Specially worthy of note are the following:

1854: No. 1, 9 used, 1 on cover, No. 2, 3 unused, 5 used; No. 3, 1 mint, 1 used, 1 on cover; No. 4, 27 used, including "CORROS" in block of four and also in vertical pair, various shades No. 5, 20 used, 2 mint, various shades.

Above are practically all different plate numbers, for I am plating this issue. 1855: No. 6 mint, used (1 each) and 1 on cover; No. 7, 2 used, shades; No. 9, 3 used, and 1 on cover; No. 11, full mint sheet, 56 stamps; No. 16, mint and used; No. 17, mint; No. 32, 1 used; No. 33, mint and used (1 each) with inverted surcharge; No. 84, single and block of four; No. 93, punched block of four; and singles; No. 97, singles and punched block of four; No. 104, singles, used and unused, and block of four, unused; No. 115, mint; No. 114, two types each mint and used (singles), each inverted, and 1 on cover; No. 127, 1 mint, 1 pen-cancelled; No. 133, punched; No. 317b, mint single; No. 320 singles used, unused, and block of four; No. 321, singles used, unused, inverted, double, blocks of four normal and inverted; all U. S. issues (including all dollar values) in mint blocks of four, &c. Have a fine used pair of No. 322 (very rare), and the only copy I know of of the uncatalogued No. 322b, with black surcharge only; this is postally cancelled.

It can be readily seen that Major Palmer has "some" Philippines.

HIS MAJESTY THE KING AND THE ROYAL PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

The announcement contained in the present number that His Majesty the King has graciously consented to be Patron of the Royal Philatelic Society will arouse the liveliest feelings of gratitude and satisfaction among collectors throughout the entire world. The premier Society has indeed long been singularly favoured by royalty, but it fully recognizes that His Majesty's patronage is not bestowed on that Society solely for its own merits, but rather as a recognition that Philately, which it represents, has developed into a scientific pursuit whose existence makes for the advantage and pleasure of a vast number of people throughout the world. The feeling of gratification that the King's accession to the throne of the British Empire should not have weakened his sympathy with Philately will therefore extend to almost every country in the world, and cannot fail to give a solidity and permanency to the pursuit of stamp collecting that would otherwise have been impossible of attainment.

His majesty's continued interest in the Society over which he has worthily presided for so many years has been further evinced by his command that the Earl of Crawford should be elected President in his stead. It goes without saying that the King's wishes and those of every Fellow of the Royal Philatelic Society absolutely coincided in this respect, and that the election by acclamation of His Lordship to the Presidency was a foregone conclusion. Lord Crawford's services to Philately are too numerous and too patent to require any recital, and every member of the Royal Society will feel that no more popular or suitable choice could have been made. We trust also that the re-election of the writer to his former position of Vice President will not be deemed unacceptable to the Fellows and Associates of the Society.

The note elsewhere on the collection of the Royal Society further reveals the pleasing fact that King George's gracious patronage is not limited to words only. It will be seen that His Majesty, through the courtesy of H. M. King Manuel of Portugal, has presented to the Royal Society one of the exceedingly interesting and valuable series of reprints of the stamps of Portugal and colonies which are known as "the King of Spain reprints." This series of stamps, which includes several hundreds of specimens, includes representations of practically every stamp issued by Portugal and its colonies, many of which are originals and others reproductions of great beauty. These reprints are in some cases so faithfully close to the original as to be calculated to deceive the collector, but fortunately the number printed is so limited that they are probably rarer than the originals, and are therefore not likely to agitate the soul of the ordinary collector. It is however, self-evident that the possession of such a set of reprints must be of great usefulness to a philatelic society, and this gift of His Majesty is exceedingly welcome, as it represents exactly that class of stamp which should be best available for the purposes of identification and comparison, and for the instruction of the community at large. We trust that His Majesty's thoughtful initiative may be widely followed, so that the Royal Society's Reference Collection may ultimately develop into one of high importance.

The very important and interesting donation of the stamps of the Indian Empire and the Feudatory States presented by the Indian Government to the Royal Philatelic Society represents a highly valuable recognition of the aims of the collection that it is impossible to esteem too highly. The grateful acknowledgments of every member of the Royal Philatelic Society are tendered to the Director-General of the Posts of India for his valuable presentation.

Now that this precedent has been so happily set, we have every reason to hope that the other Governments of the British Empire will follow suit, so that, at least from the accession of King George V, the Royal Society's Reference Collection will be absolutely complete. Every effort will be made by the Collection Committee of the Society to secure a result so desirable, and we trust that we shall be able, ere long, to make announcements of similar gifts from other portions of the British Empire.—London Philatelist.

EDITORIAL.

King as Patron—Stamp collectors throughout the world have been keenly anxious to learn what relation will exist, in view of King George's accession to the throne, between the King and the body which he honored by presiding over, as Prince of Wales. Authoritative information is now available; in the London Philatelist, the Monthly Journal of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, the announcement is made that "His Majesty the King has graciously consented to be Patron of the Royal Philatelic Society. . . . The Premier Society has indeed long been singularly favoured by royalty, but it fully recognizes that His Majesty's patronage is not bestowed on that Society solely for its own merits, but rather as a recognition that Philately, which it represents, has developed into a scientific pursuit whose existence makes for the advantage and pleasure of a vast number of people throughout the world. The feeling of gratification that the King's accession to the throne of the British Empire should not have weakened his sympathy with Philately will therefore extend to almost every country in the world, and cannot fail to give a solidity and permanency to the pursuit of stamp collecting that would otherwise have been impossible of attainment." His Majesty has commanded that the Earl of Crawford be elected President in his place and this expression of the King was one that conformed most agreeably to the sentiments of the members of the Royal Society and by acclamation, Lord Crawford was elected. M. P. Castle, J. P., was chosen, and deservedly, for another term as Vice President.

retary of the society, we take the following data: There are 280 Fellows and 5 Associates on the register. The library has been largely increased and the reference collection augmented by numerous and noteworthy contributions. The Government of India donated a set of the adhesive postage stamps and en-tires of India and its component states and there has been presented to the Society in His Majesty's name, a complete collection of "the so-called 'King of Spain' reprints of the stamps of Portugal and the various Portuguese Colonies." It is explained that His Majesty had a short time ago planned to secure these stamps for the collection of the Society and that they were handed to the King personally by the King of Portugal when on a visit recently to England. It has been remarked that the King's manifestation of Philatelic friendliness at a season when the cloak of sadness pressed heavily on all is a remarkable tribute to the ascendancy of philately; and one that must touch and quicken with gratitude, philatelists everywhere.

Liberian Reminders—From a reliable source it is learned that efforts are being made to market a huge lot of unused Liberian stamps in this country. The stamps are of the issues "before 1890" it is explained and number eight varieties; there are from 14,000 to 87,600 of each denomination. It is needless to say that the knowledge of the existence of so large a quantity of reminders will have its effect on prices; and when the stamps are marketed collectors will find that abnormally large discounts will prevail. Similarly in the latter part of 1893 a large parcel of Liberian stamps was peddled around to dealers for offers.

* * *

An Old Story—A gigantic fraud is reported from New York, whereby nearly $2,000,000 is given as the amount of the loss suffered by the state of New York through the operations of "a widely organized gang of stock transfer stamp thieves." Details which will be given shortly in the newspapers will show that three hundred men and boys have been found to be implicated. It will not be a surprise to learn that messenger boys connected with some of the prominent Wall street brokerage offices are involved in the swindle. When fiscal taxes are in force the government loses great sums of money through the fraudulent use of the revenue stamps; and the officers are well aware of the leakage. Soon after the introduction of revenue stamps during the civil war period, the attention of the department was centered on the problem of preventing the cleaning and re-use of the stamps; and old official correspondence reveals that many plans have been suggested to checkmate the designs of the swindlers. Not a few of the revenue issues of this country were occasioned admittedly to defeat the machinations of the stamp crooks.

Rest in Peace—With painful feelings, we have to record the sad intelligence that on July 8th, the wife of Henry N. Mudge, President of the American Philatelic Society, passed away at her home in Chicago, after an illness extending over many months. Mrs. Mudge, through an attendance at different of the conventions of the American Philatelic Society had become endeared to many members; and the large number of philatelists that through the honors bestowed upon her husband came within the sphere of her gentleness were genuinely impressed with the superb womanliness and beautiful character of Mrs. Mudge. Mr. Mudge has sustained a staggering loss and though it is one from which he will never wholly recover, we trust that the thought that he has the heartfelt sympathy of the great number of philatelists who have unbounded esteem for him will not be without a benign influence. Mr. Mudge and his wife were all in all to each other and the singular sweetness of their relations was an inspiration to the friends of the two, who are now so mysteriously parted. The Chicago friends of Mr. Mudge grieve with him and those local philatelists who rather intimately knew the happy household are sorrowfully oppressed. Funeral services were held at the Mudge home, Saturday, the day following the death; and on Sunday morning, Mr. Mudge started on his sad, solitary journey with the casket to Marblehead, Mass., where Mrs. Mudge is to rest in ground consecrated by a sterling line of ancestors. A handsome floral tribute from the Chicago Philatelic Society had its place among the dozens of sweet mementos from a host of friends; and a delegation from the society numbering Messrs. Wolsieffer, Fowler, Farnham, Clark, Gilbert and Severn were at the services. Other members so soon as they heard of Mrs. Mudge's death came to offer their condolences. It is Mr. Mudge's expectation to return from the east within a week or so; and we trust that his brave spirit will uphold him in his saddest of trials.

BRITISH "MIGHT HAVE BEENS."

The Issue of the 2d Violet Definitely Abandoned.

A correspondent informs us this week with regard to the new 2d violet stamp which has been announced as about to be issued, that he has been informed officially that "no alteration is being made with regard to the 2d or any other stamp pending the issue of a new series bearing the portrait of the present King."

Consequently although the stamp has been printed (in what quantities we are not at present aware) it will have to be relegated to the list of stamps "prepared for use but never issued."

We wonder whether and when copies will see the light of the philatelic day.

Other stamps of Great Britain which come within the same category as having been prepared for use but never actually issued are:—

1. The 1d black V.R. prepared in 1840, resembling the ordinary 1d black stamp of that year but having the letters V.R. in the upper corners in place of the small star ornaments. This V.R. stamp was designed for the use of Government departments, but although specimens were sent out to the post offices, the stamp never came into use. The V.R. stamp is known with various cancellations, some of the specimens sent out to the post offices having apparently been used, but most of the cancelled copies found are obliterated with trial marks used for experimenting with various cancelling inks.

2. The 1 1/2d lilac-rose was prepared in 1860 to meet the requirements of a proposed postage rate which however did not receive the sanction of Parliament. The 10,000 sheets (of 240 stamps to the sheet) which were printed in this colour were disposed of as follows:—

1 sheet for the imprimatur in 1860.
1 sheet for the Paris Exhibition, 1867.
1036 sheets distributed to postmasters, collectors, etc.
8962 sheets destroyed in 1867.

10000 sheets (Total) or 2,400,000.

The plate [1] from which this stamp was printed was of course used in 1870 for the issued 1 1/2d, and the well-known error of lettering which occurred in the plate, viz., OP-PC (in lieu of CP-PC) is consequently found in both colours.

These are the two chief examples, though numbers of other stamps might be included. Many of them probably got no farther than the proof stage and were not actually printed in large supplies ready for use. An exception may be made to this statement in respect of some of the 1/2d to 1s denominations in use prior to the issue of the unified series of 1884. At that time when the 3d and 6d stamps were printed in purple and overprinted with large figures of value, it was intended that all the values up to the 1s should be printed in the same colour and overprinted with the value. Copies of all were so printed but only the two denominations were actually issued though copies are known of these and of other values with the value surcharged in black.

Plate 1 of the 8d of 1876 was registered and at first printed in purple-brown though issued in orange.—Postage Stamp.

SALVADOR "15 SEPTEMBRE 1909."

We have previously made reference to the fact that this surcharge has been extensively counterfeited. Henry M. Wichman of Springfield was the first to give us the information referred to.

Mr. Wichman has been in correspondence with a responsible party in Salvador and now submits for our consideration letters that have passed between his friend and the Director-General of Posts.

The letter to the Director-General called for specific information and the nature of the questions will be indicated in the reply, from which we are permitted to make extended extracts.

We quote from the reply as follows:

(a) The four stamps submitted by you for inspection are not originals.
 (b) This surcharge was printed on 5,000 specimens of the current 1c stamp, on wove watermarked paper. The usual supply was furnished to the U. P. U. at Berne and the remainder placed on sale on Sept. 15 only, at the post office of the city of San Salvador, the only office which used them.

(c) Petitions for reprintings have been denied.

The Director-General very kindly accompanied his letter with impressions from the rubber stamps used for cancelling the above stamp. They are two in number but so poorly made as to be easily imitated.

There is no question but what genuine originals of this stamp are worth much more than the prices being charged, and the WEEKLY must decline further advertising pertaining to the same unless we are assured that the stamps are what they pretend to be.

DINNER TO C. F. ROTHFUCHS.

On Tuesday evening, July 5, a goodly number of members of the Boston Philatelic Society assembled at the City Club, Beacon St., in attendance upon a complimentary dinner to Mr. Rothfuchs who is to leave Boston shortly to take up his residence in Seattle, Wash.

A. W. Batchelder presided, Mr. Rothfuchs being seated at his right and Willard O. Wylie, president of the B. P. S., at his left.

A very interesting souvenir of the occasion was a neat card showing a portrait of Mr. Rothfuchs:

Tuesday Evening, July 5, 1910

After enjoying the very excellent dinner, some post-prandial exercises of an informal character were indulged in. Brief addresses were made by Messrs. Batchelder, Wylie, Carpenter, Green, Drew, Howes, Putney and Sawyer. Mr. Rothfuchs responded expressing the feeling of regret that he had in leaving Boston and assuring those present that he would always

Mr. Howes presented to the guest of the evening a set of resolutions ordered prepared at the last meeting of the B. P. S. and these resolutions we are pleased to reproduce in the columns of the WEEKLY:

WHEREAS, in the course of changes that Time brings to us all, it has happened that our fellow member, has deemed it advisable to lay down his activities as a veteran stamp dealer, and enjoy a well earned rest from the strenuous competition of business life, and

CHARLES FREDERICK ROTHFUCHS

Whereas this includes a change of residence to the far side of the continent, which necessitates a break in the intimate and active relations with the Boston Philatelic Society, which he has so long maintained, therefore be it

Resolved, that we deem it fitting to recite, and hereby put on record in accordance with an unanimous vote of the Boston Philatelic Society, passed at the meeting of June 21, 1910, the following:

Mr. Rothfuchs joined the Society as member Number 209 on October 19, 1897. In 1902-3 he served us as Vice President, and in 1904-5 as President, an office which he filled with dignity and ability. During 1906-7 he served on the Governing Board, and since 1906 has been a member of the Expert Committee. He also served as a member of the Entertainment Committees of 1902 and 1909.

In addition to his official duties, all of which have been conscientiously and ably performed, Mr. Rothfuchs has been a constant and active attendant at our meetings, always ready to put his shoulder to the wheel in any good cause. In consideration of the foregoing, therefore, be it

Resolved, that in taking Mr. Rothfuchs' name from our active membership list we express our appreciation of his loyal and constant support, of his untiring service in the duties of the offices he has filled, and of his probity and worth as a man; and be it further

Resolved, that we wish him God-speed in his journey to the Pacific, and peace, happiness and a well-earned rest from business cares in the enjoyment of his new home. We, here, shall miss him.

WILLARD O. WYLIE.

President.

Secretary.

The hearty well wishes of a host of WEEKLY subscribers will go with Mr. Rothfuchs as he takes up his residence in the far west.

ITEMS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

By CHARLES E. JENNEY.

The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly of May 28th in its department of "Philatelists of Today," pictures and tells of one of our old-time correspondents, Mr. Herbert Clark of Angmering. He is one of the collectors of philatelic literature who has turned his hobby to good account by absorbing a vast amount of knowledge of the postal workings of the world.

An article by Fred Edwards on the Steamship Company Stamps gives some interesting information about this odd class of stamps and recalls some almost forgotten issues.

In Gibbon's Stamp Weekly for June 4th, Chas. J. Phillips' paper on Persia, Peru, Salvador and Switzerland, read before the Herts Philatelic Society appears the most interesting part of which, not having his display before us, is that dealing with Peru and the distinctions between its genuine and forged stamps.

G. S. W. of June 11th presents a variety of the portraits of Edward VII, with a criticism on them as works of art. It compares the early examples of the Newfoundlands portraying him as Prince of Wales with the current issues to the considerable disparagement of the latter. A widely voiced opinion is expressed when they say "We believe that it is universally admitted that the postage stamps of recent times are no improvement upon those of earlier date," which is indeed putting it mildly. Illustrations of the Newfoundland 4c and the Quebec anniversary 1/2c stamps are shown as examples of a basis for a handsomer new issue for the new reign.

In the South American letter we notice the statement that Uruguay does not charge the public for the cost of stationery in its stamped envelopes, wrappers or stamp booklets, a custom that might be imitated in this country with general satisfaction (except perhaps to the stationery dealers). The figuring of the cost of the different sized envelopes at government schedule is a task not liked by postal employees.

Organ in accordance with Art. XIII of the By-laws, the following proposed changes in the By-laws of the Society which will be necessary of adoption with slight modifications, before the publication can be carried into effect and second class postage rates secured from the postal authorities.

WILLIAM SAHM,
PHILIP H. WARD, JR., No. 2234.
R. KOEHLER.
BURTON G. COWLES.
FRANCIS B. WHEATON.
WM. A. JOHNSON, No. 1047.
CHAS. R. MORRIS, No. 2629.

Proposed amendments to the By-Laws of the A. P. S. to enable it to publish the American Philatelist as its official organ and to secure second class postal rates thereon.

ARTICLE IX. Official Organ.

Section 1. The Official Journal of the Society shall be the American Philatelist, to be published by the Society.

ARTICLE X. American Philatelist.
Sec. 1. The American Philatelist shall be published monthly on or before the first of each month.

Sec. 2. Each volume shall begin with the issue for September and the issues shall be numbered from 1 to 12 beginning with that month.

Sec. 3. In the first possible number of each volume shall be printed the By-laws as last amended, the rules of all departments which may not be included in the general By-Laws, and a full report of the proceedings of the last annual convention. Every number shall contain a list of the names and addresses of the officers of the Society, a list of the several committees with the names and addresses of the Chairman of each and a list of all the Branch Societies with the name and address of the Secretary of each Branch. The January issue each year shall contain a list of all active members, arranged alphabetically, numerically and geographically. Every number shall contain a list of applicants for membership received by the Secretary up to the time of going to press and a list of such applicants as have been accepted into membership, changes of address and other changes affecting the membership list together with such other reports of officers and Branch Societies as may be proper.

Sec. 4. The subscription price of the American Philatelist to members of the Society shall be 40 cents per year or 10 cents per quarter, all subscriptions of members to date from the quarter in which the member is accepted and to run to the end of the fiscal year. The subscription price to other than members of the Society shall be 75 cents per year. The price of single copies shall be 10 cents each. No free copies to be sent to other than advertisers, exchanges and such Libraries as shall be approved by the Board of Directors.

Sec. 5. All matter for publication other than official matter shall be edited by the Editor. All official matter shall be edited by the Secretary.

Sec. 6. Advertising matter shall be accepted for publication subject to the approval of the managing editor at a rate to be fixed by the Board of Vice-Presidents, but said advertising shall not exceed in space, the amount devoted to reading matter.

Sec. 7. The contract for printing the American Philatelist shall be let by the Board of Vice-Presidents after inviting competition in whatever manner they deem advisable and said Board shall have the right to any or all bids at their discretion.

Sec. 8. All money received for advertisements or subscriptions shall be held and accounted for by the Managing Editor and from this fund he shall pay all expenses incident to the editing, printing and mailing of the magazine. In case the receipts do not equal the expenses, the balance shall be paid from the General Fund but in case they exceed the expenses, then the balance remaining at the end of the fiscal year shall be paid over to the Treasurer for the General Fund.

In case the foregoing two articles are adopted in whole or in part it will be necessary to also change some other sections of the By-Laws and the following are proposed.

ARTICLE II, Sec. 1 (In part). The Secretary shall cause the name, age, occupation and address of each applicant and the names of his references and bondsmen to be published in the next issue of the Official Journal following receipt of the application.

(Also in second paragraph, same section.) In case the Secretary is advised that objections to an applicant have been received by the Vice-Presidents, he shall publish said applicants' name in each issue of the Official Journal under the title of "Application Pending" until he shall have been advised by the said Board of final action upon the application.

ARTICLE II, Sec. 3 (First paragraph). The annual dues shall be 80 cents, payable in advance on the first day of September, when the fiscal year shall commence; Provided, that every new member for any unexpired portion of the first fiscal year after his admission to membership shall pay at the rate of 20 cents per quarter or fraction thereof from the date of his application.

ARTICLE II, Sec. 4 (Second paragraph). Change the figures "$1.20" to "80 cents".

ARTICLE V, Sec. 3 (Duties of Secretary). Add the following paragraph. He shall also be managing editor of the American Philatelist and in that capacity shall solicit and edit all advertisements, collect all subscriptions, arrange the matter for publication and attend to the mailing of the magazine. For this service he shall be paid $25.00 per number which amount shall not become due and payable until the issue has been mailed to the subscribers.

ARTICLE VII, Sec. 6 (Editor). The editor shall edit all reading matter, shall invite literary contributions from any source and prepare all such literary matter for publication. For this service he shall be paid $5.00 per page for editorials of his own writing and a lump sum of $10.00 per issue in which there is other reading matter that he shall prepare for publication.

BUFFALO COLLECTORS CLUB, BRANCH 37.

The tenth regular meeting was held Thursday evening, June 2nd, at 1025 Fidelity Building. Five members and one visitor were present. No business was transacted at this meeting. Circuit books were examined. Meeting adjourned at 10.30 p. m.

SCHACHNE, Purchasing Agent, Masonic Bldg., Chillicothe, O.; Ex. Com. Pres. and Vice Pres. ex-officio, PAUL LAZARUS, H. E. DEATS and ALFRED E. FRITZ.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

New Members: 206, Sensow, John F., La Porte, Indiana. 207, Powers, C. F., Dorchester Centre, Mass.

Application for Membership: Victor Nessland, Jamestown, N. Y., age 38, bookkeeper. References: Siegfried Schachne and C. A. Okerlind. Proposed by President Schachne.

Resignations: Dr. J. H. Cowell, H. A. Croghan and Alfred Fischer.

Dropped for Non-Payment of Dues: W. D. Arnold, Walter Clarke Bellows, Rev. A. Kinell and Wm. Sellschopp.

Dues received from 18, 72, 99 and 110; from applicant, 40 cents; total, $4.90.

One report of the secretary appears to have been lost; so this report covers from April 30 to date.

The secretary is endeavoring to collect obsolete catalogues of and literature on postals and letter cards to form a library for the free use of members of the society. Several volumes are now on hand through purchase and contribution. President Schachne is entitled to the thanks of the society for valuable contributions, thereto. If other members have anything of interest to this branch of philately to contribute they will be gladly received.

ARGUSVILLE, N. D., June 30, 1910.

BOSNIA'S NEW DIGNITY.

A news item in the papers during the past week which may probably turn out to have a change of stamps in store for the philatelist, is the announcement that Bosnia and Herzegovina are to be raised to the status of a kingdom, the old kingdom destroyed by the Turks in 1463 being thus re-established. The aged Emperor Franz Josef has been visiting the provinces in state and got "an imposing and cordial" reception from the people, who are evidently enthusiastic over the prospective change. Whether their enthusiasm will find an outlet in adding some of the symbols of their new national dignity to their postage stamp photo album or not is a matter for time to decide. But we have the precedent of Wurtemberg's pride in its title of kingdom being displayed by the overprint of 1906 to commemorate the centenary of Wurtemberg's being raised to a kingdom.—Postage Stamp.

—The second contribution auction of the Philadelphia Stamp Club took place on the evening of June 21st. In spite of the hot weather and a thunder shower thirty members were present, who bid up the 242 lots to a net result of almost $70.00. A number of desirable lots were offered and bidding was spirited at times.—A. F. HENKELS, Auction Mgr.

GOOD STAMPS AT LOW PRICES!

LOOK THIS LIST THROUGH CAREFULLY.

While I can supply several copies of many of the stamps offered, in some cases I have only one so an early order is advisable. Stamps specially noted are carefully described in the usual auction terms. When no description is given good copies to be expected.

Stamps will be sent on receipt of price and money promptly returned if unsatisfactory or stamps are sold. A small supplementary order will be appreciated. Registration extra on orders under $3.00. Remit by M. O. * Unused. Orders prepaid with Alaska or Hudson imperforates.

July 13, 1910.

The 287th regular meeting of Chicago Branch, No. 1, of the American Philatelic Society, was held in room 1108, 100 Washington St., on the evening of July 13th. Vice President Dahl called the meeting to order at 8.25 P. M., with the following members present: Bloss, Clark, Dahl, Farnham, Fowler, Lindquist, Lord, Roterberg.

On motion of Mr. Lindquist, the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was dispensed with and all business postponed to the August meeting.

On motion of Mr. Lord, seconded by Mr. Roterberg, the meeting was adjourned at 8.35 as an expression of sympathy for our national president, Mr. Mudge, in his recent bereavement.

Next meeting August 11, 1910.

SAMPLE NEWSPAPER STORY.

The new King of England is a stamp collector and has a collection said to contain 500,000 specimens. Enthusiastic stamp collectors believe that this taste will lead King George to make Britain's colonies the subject of special attention.

The reason for this belief lies in the fact that a large proportion of the postage stamps of the world have been issued by Britain and her colonies. As a collector from early youth George V could not help being interested in his British colonials, as philatelists call these stamps, and reading the history of the colonies in his stamp albums it would be only natural for him to be thus led to study the resources, needs and conditions of the colonies themselves.

Stamp collecting is no schoolboy affair. It necessitates keen attention to minute details. The history of the British colonies is placed in shadowy outline before the eyes of the assiduous stamp collector. George V as he went from one stamp dealer's shop to another in the West End of London, examined specimens of greater or less rarity and picked up his old Ceylons, Cape of Good Hope woodcuts, or perhaps British Guiana emergency two centers, could not help but have had the association of ideas between the date of issue and the colony itself create a corresponding desire to know more about that colony.

It is recalled that when the Boer delegates came to London to be received by the late King Edward, Prince George asked the Boers questions bearing minutely on South African conditions, and pleased them by his knowledge of the Transvaal, Orange Free State, Natal and Cape Colony. Who shall say that his rare triangular wood block errors, of which he has a large collection, didn't lead him to follow up all knowledge of South Africa that he could?

A stamp collector who discovers a new variety of stamp, feels the same joy that an astronomer feels who has discovered a new star. Stamp collecting is an exciting game that requires close attention and an eye and memory trained for color. To put it right up to the reader, the common everyday two cent stamps used in the United States were recently printed on bluish paper instead of the ordinary paper. Also some were printed on ribbed paper instead of the smooth paper ordinarily used. These stamps passed through the mail many times. How many would you notice? George V, stamp collector, would pick them out nearly as swiftly as a bank cashier could pick out counterfeit bills from a pack of banknotes.

The hobby of being an advanced stamp collector is exacting on the memory. George V must keep his whole collection of 500,000 specimens in his mind's eye while he buys. Its condition, color, variety, worn or new condition of plate from which it was printed and half a dozen other things must be remembered in the case of each stamp in the collection while he is examining new specimens to replace the ones he has to fill in old blanks.

When Prince George, representing King Edward in a tour of the Dominions Beyond the Seas and India, was in Toronto, a magnificent collection of the rare Canada twelve pence errors was temporarily collated from among the rich stamp collectors of the Dominion for his inspection. The Prince was delighted. He pored over the little black specimens of the stamps that were only used a single day in the '50s because they had been lettered "twelve pence" when they should have been lettered "one shilling" and were withdrawn. He passed nearly two hours over the two dozen squares of paper, valued at from $750 each up to $1,500 for the finer specimens. Attendants fumed over delayed appointments of a purely formal nature while he talked twelve pence errors, showing full knowledge of the condition of upper Canada and lower Canada, now Ontario and Quebec, at the time of their issue.

The collection of postage stamps started at school by the young son of the Prince of Wales may have had a potent influence in building up the character of King George and may have helped to make him an imperialist rather than a little Englander. The colonies may loom large in the activities of the new King, for his entire empire is spread before him in his morocco bound volumes of history holding postage stamps.

DETROIT—A CITY OF TODAY.

The metropolis of the state of Michigan has a population of about 500,000 people, the twelfth city in size on this continent, and is considered by travelers and tourists as one of the most beautiful and attractive cities of the United States. It is one of the real old cities of the continent, being founded in 1701 by Cadillac at the head of a small colony of French settlers, although the place was visited a third of a century earlier by white explorers.

The Indians had always called the place Yon-do-ti-ga, "a great village"; but the French first give it the name of Fort Pontchartrain in honor of their colonial minister. However, the colonists insisted on calling their new home Detroit, the "City of the Straits," and this name it has retained for more than two hundred years.

Detroit is one of the few American cities that has been under three flags, and two of them twice. The French flag waved until 1760, when the English became masters and with the defeat of Tecumseh at the battle of the Thames they were firmly established and remained until General Wayne conquered the region for the new American republic in 1796. It again passed under the control of the English in 1813, but the occupancy was very short, as the victory of Commodore Perry on Lake Erie gave the whole northwest territory to the United States.

Detroit has never been known as a boom town, its growth and development being steady and permanent decade after decade for going on 210 years. Before the coming of the railroads, its magnificent river made it an important shipping point, and it so remains today, only more important than ever.

During the past two or three decades Detroit has been increasing in importance as a pleasure seeking point—the metropolitan resort city of America. Half a million or more people visit the "City Beautiful" annually, one-half of whom come to attend conventions, for

EDITORIAL.

Approaching—When Detroit was selected as the convention city for the American Philatelic Society in 1910, the enthusiasm that acclaimed the choice was construed as an augury of a very large attendance at that city. While we cannot say that developments have discouraged this hope yet we abjure all those who are in a position to do so, to dwell upon the importance of a good numerical showing at Detroit. The more preliminary advertising that the convention receives the better attended it is likely to be; and with the natural attractions at Detroit and the presence of a band of hospitable local philatelists, the city may fairly be starred as an ideal convention seat for the A. P. S. It is devoutly wished that those who regularly attend the yearly festival will be present in force this year; but the new faces are the ones that should have the warmest welcome. We verily believe that the trip to Detroit will well be worth while. The convention sessions may develop some points of engrossing interest; action may be taken on ambitious projects; philatelic work of a serious character may be started; and the convention's social side gives promise of being ably handled.

Strong Showing Wanted—The wish for a large attendance at Detroit is based on several reasons. One of the advantages of membership is the privilege of meeting together annually; and we want every member to derive the maximum of benefits. Outside of this consideration there is one that may be strongly emphasized; and that is the moral effect of a strong numerical body on outsiders. The influence of numbers is well known to those who have studied the art of impressing the outside public; and a largely attended national convention will be accepted on its face value and as indicating the strength of philately. The day has passed when philatelists can afford to affect a careless disregard for public opinion as to their pursuit. It is now our aim to impress the public by a display of the strength of philately.

What Are They—A newspaper despatch tells of the seizure at Montreal, Canada, by the federal authorities of "Labrador postage stamps with a face value of $400,000 on suspicion that they are forgeries. The stamps are in 25 cents, 50 cents and $1 denominations." Are these labels the bogus issue of Labrador mentioned previously in the stamp papers or an altogether new concoction?

* * *

Too Hard—The problem propounded by Louis G. Barrett, Boston, for the correct answer to which the illustrious Parnassus Penflip offered a prize has not been solved; and for the second time, Mr. Barrett has achieved the distinction of having asked a philatelic question that has proved invulnerable to the mental sallies of our readers. The question is repeated: On what British colonial stamp now obsolete was the denomination shown in two conflicting terms of the same currency; and without resorting to a surcharge? The following is the answer as submitted by Mr. Barrett: The Victoria "Too Late" stamp, Gibbons No. 351, Scott No. 451, has SIX PENCE in lower label and ONE SHILLING in the background directly over the lower label. Mr. Barrett observes: "This is proof that the 'Registration' stamp, Gibbons No. 361, Scott No. 401, was engraved first, having the words ONE SHILLING engraved in the background, as well as appearing in the lower label. The stamp being printed in two colors, rose and blue, necessitated a separate plate for the inscriptions 'Registered' in the upper label and ONE SHILLING in lower label. The plate for the body design of this stamp was afterwards used for the same purpose for the Too LATE stamp, the inscription in the background evidently being overlooked. A new plate reading Too LATE for upper label and SIX PENCE for lower label, on being used with the former background plate thus produced the stamp with the conflicting values."

Details—The ONE SHILLING inscription above the SIX PENCE on the Victoria Too LATE is in minute colorless letters; "one" at left and "shilling" at right. Even the keenest eye may not detect the words when the specimen is canceled and the Too LATE stamp is excessively rare unused; and so, the glass becomes almost indispensable to properly illustrate the peculiarity. Consulting an authority on the stamps of Victoria, we find the information: "The Too Late were printed from the same block as the Registered stamps. In each case the denomination and value were impressed by means of metal type, and the border to the one shilling was also of metal. This was done by a second printing. . . . The sale of the Too Late stamps was very small, being only about half a sheet per diem. As their designation denotes, they were used for payment on letters posted after the usual time for closing the mails. . . . The Registered and Too Late stamps were printed in sheets of 100 on white wove unwatermarked paper."

It Was This Way—The terms of the contest were such as to debar the different countries that naturally would be the first to come to the minds of collectors in this connection. Heligoland, as a British colony, had stamps on which two different currencies were expressed, and not the same currency. Canada and Prince Edward Island with their "sterling" and "currency" systems become ineligible on the count just cited. Falkland Islands, Victoria, Western Australia, with "Half-a-Crown" and "2/6" or "Eighteen Pence" and "1/6" do not show conflicting terms. None of the contestants, and there was a host of them, named the stamp nominated by Mr. Barrett and so, for a second time, fate decrees that the Penflip prize is not to be awarded. Perhaps, it is better that such is the case, as at present the great man is sulking in his tent, to all appearances; at least, he has not acknowledged the receipt of the unused three-dollar Columbian, without gum, and with thin spot, that we sent him to apply on his account against us. Should the prize have been won, Parnassus Penflip, because of our recent discord, might refuse, in a burst of petulance so often indulged in by those grand creatures who are all temperament, to award the prize. Then, we suppose that it would be expected of us that we give the prize of a stamp whose facial expression would not be less than five shillings; of course in that event we should have had to announce a raise in advertising rates for the near future.

Chinese Change—Another change of currency is proposed for China; and if the new standard is adopted, the American system of units will prevail. The following section of the imperial decree covers the changes:

"It is commanded that the unit of national currency shall be the yuan or dollar, and the standard be temporarily silver. The dollar shall be the principal currency and shall weight 7 mace and 2 candareens. The subsidiary coinage shall be three silver coins of 50, 25 and 10 cent denominations; the nickel coin, or 5 cents, and four copper coins of 2 cents, 1 cent, 5 cash, and 1 cash.

The values of the dollars, 10 cents, cent, and cash shall be in decimal proportion and permanently fixed. It shall not be permitted to raise their relative values or to depreciate them. The ministry shall direct the mints to mint new coins according to the standard weight, purity and design, and to issue them gradually for currency."

After one year from May 24th, 1910, the date of the decree just quoted, all payments of stamps and other government charges must be made in the new currency.

JUST AUTOS IN DETROIT.

It is hardly necessary to mention the fact that Detroit is known as the automobile center of this continent; in fact, of the world. More than a score of large automobile plants are located in this city and as many more accessory concerns. It is estimated that about two out of every three machines manufactured in America hail from Detroit. The total capital invested in this one industry in Detroit exceeds thirty million dollars and employment is given to more than 30,000 people and their finished product for 1910 will value $170,000,000. This is one of the industrial sights that attracts thousands of strangers to the "City Beautiful."

In a garage the other day
I thought I heard an auto say,
"I'm from Detroit, old pal. And you?"
The other said, "Why, I am, too."

Then all the cars that stood around Spoke up and said with coughing sound,
"Why all of us have come from there—
Are any autos made elsewhere?"

Then coughed a car with visage glum,
As though its spark were on the bum:
"I didn't come from there, but Gad!
I wish to thunder that I had!"

CHAS. R. MORRIS FOR A. P. S. SECRETARY.

The Managing Editor of the WEEKLY has had very little to say in regard to the campaign for the secretaryship of the A. P. S. Editor Severn, in several editorials, has made it understood that the WEEKLY believes in Mr. Morris' candidacy, and the Managing Editor wishes to place emphasis upon the splendid qualities possessed by Mr. Morris, who is an ideal candidate. Our vote will be cast for him and we take especial pleasure in recommending his candidacy to every member of the Society, and especially those new members we have been privileged to introduce to Society membership during the past three years. Have your ballot read for Chas. R. Morris!

SOME ONE-DAY TRIPS FROM DETROIT.

One of the most popular features of Detroit is the fact that it is surrounded by so many beautiful and interesting spots, places that can be reached by boats or trolleys, away in the morning and back in the evening. Some place new to go every day and all different is the way it has been expressed a million times.

Put-In-Bay, historic and beautiful island located in Lake Erie; fine bass fishing, bathing beach, boating, etc. Reached by Steamer Frank E. Kirby from Detroit.

Sugar Island, at mouth of Detroit River overlooking Lake Erie; reached by White Star Line steamers from Detroit and Toledo. Fine picnic park, bathing and numerous summer attractions.

Bob-Lo, popular and attractive island in Detroit River, reached by D., B. I. & W. steamers. Athletic field, bathing, boating, dancing and modern cafe; no liquors.

Tashmoo Park, a beautiful summer spot at the Flats, reached only by White Star Line steamers; athletic field, picnic grounds, boating and fishing.

Fort Wayne, United States army post, located on river just below Detroit; reached by city cars.

Mt. Clemens, year round health and pleasure resort, just twenty miles from Detroit and near Lake St. Clair; reached by two trolley lines of D. U. R. and Grand Trunk railroad. Good auto roads.

Monroe Piers, an ideal Summer place midway between Detroit and Toledo and overlooking Lake Erie; fishing, bathing, boating, etc. Reached by electric line or motor boats.

Amhurstberg, a quaint old Canadian town near mouth of Detroit river, overlooking Lake Erie; reached by the D., I. B. & W. boats and electric cars from Windsor; also good auto roads.

The Flats, called the "Venice of America," about forty miles from Detroit and the finest water ride in the world; paradise for fishermen; reached thrice daily by White Star Line boats; fine motor boat trip.

Kingsville, an Ontario resort place of note, is on Lake Erie, and can be reached by the W., E. & L. S. electric line from Windsor, giving strangers a beautiful ride through Canada.

Ann Arbor, the home of the University of Michigan, forty miles from Detroit; reached by interurban cars and Michigan Central. Good auto roads.

Cedar Point, on Lake Erie, noted for its bathing and numerous summer attractions; Steamer Kirby from Detroit.

region, finest fishing in Michigan. Dozens of good hotels and hundreds of cottages near the shores of fine lakes, and only two hours from Detroit by two trolley lines. Fine auto roads.

Port Huron, overlooking Lake Huron, five hours from Detroit; White Star Line and D. & C. steamers; Grand Trunk and D. U. R. interurban.

Chatham, Ontario, thriving Canadian city; superb boat ride from Detroit up the beautiful and picturesque Thames river.

River Riding is one of the summer pastimes at Detroit, the D., B. I. & W. Ferry Company operating the finest fleet of excursion steamers on fresh water in the world; hours and hours, up and down the river, just enjoying life.

TO USE 20 PER CENT. MORE STAMPS.

Press Clipping from HARRY GRIFFIN.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—In order that the Treasury Department may have information upon which to base its contracts for paper, ink, etc., for the printing of postage stamps for the present fiscal year, Postmaster-General Hitchcock has submitted an estimate of the needs of the postal service, which shows an expectation of the usual annual increase of the mails. The estimate is for stamps in quantities from 15 to 20 per cent. greater than were actually used during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1910.

Of 1 cent stamps 4,024,000,000 are estimated for, the number of 2 cent stamps called for is 5,322,300,000. For use in slot machines provision is made for the printing of 29,900,000 1 cent and 59,200,000 2 cent stamps. Of the total number of stamps, 169,800,000 of the 1 cent denomination and 330,800,000 of the 2 cent denomination will be put up in book form.

BEWARE OF WALTON.

H. W. Walton, giving his address as Box 3034, Boston, Mass., applied in March to the Ouilmette Stamp Co. for an approval selection. The reference offered was the Stanton Collection Agency, Boston, Mass., and concerning Mr. Walton the Agency replied, "In regard to H. W. Walton of Boston, Mass., would say that I have known him for some time and have always found him competent in every way."

This certainly was not a very good recommendation as to Walton's financial responsibility and upon the strength of the above no approval selection should have been sent him. A selection of stamps to the value of $5.00 was mailed Walton and since that time he has shaken the dust of Boston from his feet and departed to camps unknown.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

AUSTRIA.—According to Die Post a commemorative set is to be issued Aug. 18, on the occasion of the 80th birthday of the Emperor Francis Joseph. There will be two types, one for the values from 1sh to 1kr, and the other for the 2, 5 and 10kr values. All the stamps will bear the dates, "1830-1910." The quantities to be printed, says Die Post, will be limited to 10,000 copies of each value.

BERMUDA.—Ewen's Weekly says that the new 1/2d stamps are printed in sheets of 120 stamps in 10 rows of 12, instead of divided into panes of 60 stamps, as has hitherto been the invariable custom of De La Rue & Co. The margins are plain and show no plate numbers.

BOLIVIA.—Lemaire's Journal notes that the 10 and 20c and 2b values of the commemorative set chronicled in No. 987, have been seen with inverted centres.

CHILE.—A correspondent of Ewen's Weekly sends the following notes regarding new postage due surcharges:

After the previous Postage Due stamps were done away with, letters were hand-stamped with a horizontal oval inscribed "MULTADA" at top, "VALPARAISO 1" (or as may be) at foot, and "Cts" with space in the centre, the amount being filled in with ink or pencil after "Cts."

The "Valparaiso 1" is now being used to overprint all the stamps in current use (vertically, in black, reading up or down).

The set just received is as follows: Postage Due Adhesives.

With hand-stamped overprint in black. (A) Reading up "Multada—Valparaiso 1." (B) Reading down "Multada—Valparaiso 1."

(C) Reading up "Multada—Correo."

10c grey and black (A).

15c violet and black (A).

20c brown and black (A).

30c green and black (C).

50c blue and black (B).

The surcharge A looks as if it might be provisional and intended to be superseded by C.

There appears to be considerable speculation going on in Valparaiso just now in postal circles; the 12c and the 1 peso of the current issue are, for instance, only on sale at the General Post Office at a premium!

COLOMBIA.—Ewen's Weekly reports that the 1c of the current set has now appeared without imprint of the printer at the foot.

FRANCE.—Offices in Morocco.—Thanks to Lemaire's Journal we are now able to give further particulars regarding the new stamps chronicled last week. The 35c postage stamp is a new value in 1902 set, called the "Rights of Man," the surcharge being in black. The postage due stamps have the new value in "Centimos" surcharged in black on the 30c and 50c "Recouvrements" stamps of France.

FRANK P. BROWN COMPANY,

339 Washington St., BOSTON, MASS.

GREAT BRITAIN.—As noted in No. 1015 the 2d stamps have been printed in a new design, which is thus described in the London Philatelist, the editor of which has been privileged to see a specimen of the new design:

The design consists of the head of King Edward VII to left within a small white central circle, surmounted by a small crown. The inscriptions in block white letters, "POSTAGE" & "REVENUE" are contained in curved labels, respectively to left and right of the head, of solid colour. Beneath the central design is an oval of solid colour, terminating in a point in the centre below, containing "2d." in large white letters. The upper and lower portions of the design are filled in with florid ornamental scroll, and the colour is of a medium bright mauve shade, while the perforation gauges, as usual, 14, and the watermark is the normal Crown.

A large number of these stamps have been printed, but it seems that, owing to recent events, it is not yet settled whether they will be issued.

MEXICO.—Mr. Schachne sends a card which takes the place of the provisionals 4 on 3c of 1902; no change in design or size.

Post Card.

4c red on pale buff.

NEW ZEALAND.—Mr. Irwin Faris contributes some interesting notes on the official stamps to the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly:

The following is a complete list according to my collection:

Perf. 14, rough (Cowan paper, wmk. S. G. 41).

1. 1/2d light yellow-green (not 310B which is really olive-green), not catalogued in ordinary issues.
2. 1/2d deep yellow-green (ditto).
3. 1d, 1904 die (dot at centre), B No. 303.
4. 1d, 1906 die (no dot), see note below No. 303B.
5. 1d, 1906 die, dot at left upper corner, not catalogued in ordinary issues.
6. 2d dull violet, No. 287.
7. 2d purple, No. 288.
8. 2d rosy-purple (1909 issue).
9. 3d bistre-brown, large die, No. 290.
10. 3d bistre, large die, No. 290A.
- 11 & 12. 3d, worn die, of both of foregoing colours.
13. 6d pink, large die, No. 296A.
14. 1sh pale red, large die, No. 297B.
15. 2sh blue-green, No. 298A.
16. 5sh vermilion, No. 299.
17. 20sh rose, No. 499c.

Overprints in both "thin" and "thick" letters are found on the 1d and 2d.

Overprints as per S. G. type 83 (viz.: L and period joined) exist only on the 1d, 2d and 3d, other values have period separate from lettering. The 1d, 2d and 3d also exist with separate period (i.e., both types exist in these values).

The 1d and 2d have three forms of L. The 1d exists with period missing.

The measurements of imprints (from outside of O to outside of vertical line of L at centre of each), vary thus: Nos. 1, 2, 3, 9 to 14, 16 and 17—15 millimetres.

Nos. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8—15 to 16 millimetres. No. 15—15 to 15 1/2 millimetres.

18. The 6d exists "imperf. between" vertically.

18A. The 1d (1906) exists in "booklet" form, viz.: imperf. at bottom.

Overprint is 15 mm.

Perf. comb. 14x15 (Cowan, wmk. S. G. 41).

20. 1/2d green, No. 320.

21. 1d carmine, No. 321.

22. 6d, small die, pink, No. 324.

Varieties.

The measurement of overprint is from 14 1/2 to 15 mm. on 1d, and 15 mm. on 1/2d and 6d.

Perf. comb 14x15, "Dominion" design, issued 1909. (Cowan wmk. S. G. 41).

23. 1d carmine, not yet catalogued.

Overprint 15 mm.

GENERAL.

The overprints were probably from stereotypes (probably in blocks of 6 or 12) and some of the variations in thickness and length of lettering are probably due to wear or "flattening" of relief portions of blocks, or to a number of blocks having been cast in same mould. The later printings being noticeably clearer and finer are probably electros and should wear much better.

The positions of imprints on stamps vary considerably, being to right or left or above figure, low on stamp or high on stamp. A few sheets of light yellow green (same colour as No. 1) were issued, without imprint, but they are very scarce.

No. 3 is very rare, and No. 4 scarce. No. 8 is scarce.

NETHERLANDS.—As announced in No. 1017 the 17 1/2c stamp has been issued in new colors, according to Ewen's Weekly.

Adhesive.

17 1/2c blue and black.

ROUMANIA.—Lemaire's Journal reports that a new series of postage due stamps is shortly to be issued, consisting of nine values, some of which are new to this country. The series will include 2, 5, 10, 15, 20, 30, 50 and 60 bani and 2 lei stamps.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.—Ewen's Weekly reports the 5sh large form in pink, on Crown SA paper, and perforated 12 1/2 instead of 12.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Malay States.—The Federated Malay States are to imitate the Straits Settlements proper, by issuing stamps of $100 and $250, primarily for fiscal use.

TURKEY.—A provisional is noted by Champion's Bulletin, the 5piastres stamp of 1909 have been overprinted with new value.

Provisional Adhesive.

2pi on 5pi bistre.

We print the above item with a reservation, as the color given would indicate that this provisional is of the paras value, as was indicated in No. 1017.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—In our news article last week on the Salvador "15 Sept." provisional, our description erred in calling the paper "wove watermarked." It is simply wove paper.

APPLICATIONS RECEIVED.

As soon as your name has been published as an applicant you will probably have unsolicited selections of stamps sent you on approval. As a great many collectors object to this the Society desires to break the practice up. Please aid us and help protect yourself and others against further imposition, by holding such selections without purchasing therefrom until sufficient funds have been received from the sender to enable you to return the stamps to him by registered mail. Also please report to the Secretary of the Society the name of the dealer sending such unsolicited selections.

GEORGE L. TOPPAN'S

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:

Regular Government Issues U. S. Envelopes
Carrier Stamps Confederate Provisionals

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2's" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1853 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plymptons is made as easy as rolling off a log. We don't sell this book—WE GIVE IT AWAY!

Remit 25c for new six mos. subscription not renewal or Remit $1 for two year's renewal. Money back if wanted.
No matter when your subscription expires we will date it ahead.

How about attending the convention at Detroit, Mich., this year? If you have never attended an A. P. S. Convention you owe it as a duty to yourself to attend. A proof of the foregoing is the fact that after a member once attends one of our conventions he does not require urging to attend following ones. Its those that have never experienced the joy of living that must be exhorted to attend. Just try it once and become one of the regulars. This year it is more attractive than ever. It is told upon good authority that they open services in Detroit by singing:

There's no place that is fairer than this,
There's no place that is better to live,
There's no flies on this town of Detroit,
There is nothing that we cannot give.

What more incentive could there be for you to attend and find out for yourself? On to Detroit.

ANOTHER BRITISH STAMP FORGERY.

DISCOVERY OF THE SHILLING GREEN, PLATE 6, FORGED.
DATED COPIES EXTEND THE PERIOD OF USE
BY NEARLY TWELVE MONTHS.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

The Great Shilling Green Forgery Recalled.—Twelve years ago, in the early part of 1898, the surprising discovery was made that twenty-six years earlier the British Post Office had been the unsuspecting victim of a forgery involving a considerable amount of loss to the revenue.

The full extent of the fraud has never been known, but the new discovery with which we are now concerned and which is communicated to the public for the first time in The Postage Stamp this week will show it to have been vastly more extensive than has hitherto been suspected.

It will be remembered that Mr. C. Nissen discovered the forgery of the 1s green stamp plate 5. Mr. Lewis May, of King William Street, has now shown me undoubted forged copies of the 1s plate 6, and the postmarks show that the fraud was going on for more than twelve months, and possibly for a considerably longer period.

The History of the Fraud.—The history of this fraud has never been fully discussed and consequently many collectors of Great Britain stamps are not familiar with the whole of the circumstances which made it possible. I therefore purpose to briefly review these circumstances, and afterwards examine the new evidence of the duration of the imposture.

The Transfer of the Telegraphs.—In 1868 Parliament had brought before it for consideration a Bill authorising the Government to purchase the Telegraphs of the United Kingdom, and the Bill having been passed and become law, the transfer of the lines from the Telegraph Companies to the Post Office took place in January, 1870. The uniform rate for private messages was fixed at one shilling for twenty words, and threepence for every extra five words or less. Previous to the transfer of the telegraphs there had been great uncertainty amongst the public as to the rates, as they were subject to distances and to varying tariffs of a number of companies. Consequently the adoption of a fixed uniform rate encouraged a great increase in the use of the telegraphs, and the first year under the Post Office there were 8,606,000 messages sent, exclusive of Press and News telegrams, which total increased to 11,760,000 in 1871, and 14,858,000 in 1872. The next year 1873 the total had risen to 17,346,000. It was not until 1885 that the shilling minimum was reduced to the sixpence rate for 12 words now in vogue.

The transfer of the Telegraphs to the Post Office involved a great increase of staff and some disorganization owing to inadequate accommodation at the General Post Office, and it seems probable that about this time the Post Office took into its service the culprit who was to manipulate the only forgeries which are known to have defrauded the British Post Office.

The Extensive Use of Shilling Stamps.—We have seen that a vast number of private telegrams were handled in the years from 1870 onwards, for which the minimum charge was 1s. The largest numbers would be sent at the minimum rate or with a few additional words, bringing the charge up to 1s 3d or 1s 6d. The 1s postage stamp of the period which was used to denote the charge or portion of the charge on the great bulk of these messages handed in at Postal Telegraph Offices was a green stamp, printed on a machine-made paper, watermarked with a device known to philatelists as "spray of rose." The stamp had large white letters in the four corners, and each stamp bore the number of the plate from which it was printed, in a white figure on a square tablet of colour at each side of the oval bearing the late Queen's portrait.

The Plates in Use at the Period.—In the first rush of the new telegraph business, plate 4 was being used for printing the stamps, but on February 20th, 1871, plate 5 came into use and was taken from the press on September 30th, 1872, after having produced 55,495

Valuable Information for Collectors

The proper way of completing your collection is by using our "want list system." This method is far superior than hunting over hundreds of approval selections and picking off everything that comes along.

Why not make up a "want list" of those odds and ends that you need to fill up your sets, even if the cheaper grade, and send it to us and you will receive them neatly mounted, and each stamp priced separately. We try and allow 50% discount whenever possible, and we only send out stamps in fine condition.

Send for our price and check list. It's free. Also ask for some of our printed want list forms.

sheets of 240 stamps each on the "spray of rose" paper, a total of 13,318,800 stamps.

Plate 6 was put to press March 20th, 1872, and was in use concurrently with plate 5 until September of that year, when plate 5 was withdrawn, and plate 6 alone was in use until withdrawn on October 15th, 1872. During its use, 35,000 sheets, or 8,400,000 stamps, were printed from it. A month later plate 7 came into use at the printers.

Altogether, of this type of stamp on "spray of rose" paper, between August, 1867, and July, 1873, there were officially printed 48,598,800 stamps, representing a total face value of £2,429,900.

The Stock Exchange Telegraph Office.

—Now one of the offices which had the greatest use for the shilling stamps for telegrams after the transfer was the Stock Exchange Telegraph Office, London, E. C., which must have used thousands of shilling stamps daily in the transaction of stockbrokers' business. It was here that in 1872 the first discovered forgeries of the shilling green stamp had been used, and the whole of the evidence appears to point to complicity on the part of one of the employees at the counter of the office in question. His immunity from discovery at that time was doubtless due to his confining the use of the forged stamps to the one office. In all probability he was assisted by a skilled forger or gang of forgers, but it seems likely that had there been more than a couple engaged in the conspiracy they would not have been content with a single outlet for their fraudulent wares.

The Absent Watermark.—The forgery of the 1s green plate 5 as philatelists know, is excellently done. It is a very close fac-simile of the genuine stamp so far as design is concerned, the colour is closely matched, but it was obviously impossible for the forgers to procure the correct paper, which as we have said was watermarked with a spray of rose.

Watermarks Afford Little Protection.

—Now the watermark in postage stamps is well known to be little security against the use of forgeries. The watermark device on a stamp is very small, and in machine made paper varies in the intensity with which it is impressed by the dandy roll in the course of manufacture. But the chief reason for its inefficiency in such cases is that until their suspicions are aroused few postal employees, if any, would think of looking for the watermark. The watermark is thus only a last resort to decide finally the status of a specimen, after one has seen some flaws in the printed design or some uncertainty in the colour in which the impression is struck.

How the Forgeries Were Used.—The user of these forgeries must have known that he was fairly secure from suspicion so long as he used them discriminately, for as is well known once a stamp is affixed to a telegraph form, it is immediately cancelled, and after the message has been despatched the telegraph forms are filed away for a period, at the end of which time they are sent away in large quantities for destruction. Quite a large proportion of the stamps used for telegrams are never actually in the possession of the purchaser. The latter hands in a message the words of which are counted up, the necessary stamp and the form are passed back to the sender, the money taken, and the sender immediately affixes the stamp to the form and returns it to the clerk. Thus the sender even if he had expert knowledge of stamps could scarcely suspect the post office of selling him a bad one, and in any case would have no opportunity of examining it closely.

Covering up the Defects with a Postmark.—Then, assuming the clerk selling the stamp to be one of the conspirators he would have to deface the stamp in the ordinary way of business, and should the forgery be somewhat faulty he could make sure of his cancelling stamp coming down upon and defacing the defective part of the design. After that, unless a hue and cry arose from some other cause, the stamp would never again be removed from the paper, with which in course of time it would go to its destruction.

Philatelists Protect the Revenue.—The very close study of postage stamps by philatelists is a great source of safety to the revenue, though perhaps the fact is little appreciated by those in authority. Had the forgeries been used on letters in 1872 instead of on telegrams, it is not unlikely that they would have been promptly brought to the attention of the Post Office by philatelists, as, carefully as the forgers had done their work, they had produced some varieties which the philatelists would at once recognise to be impossible to have been produced from the official plates.

Leakages of Telegraph Stamps.—It is therefore only by a fluke—another almost inexplicable irregularity, that the forged stamps have even now been discovered by philatelists. As I have said, the old telegraph forms with the stamps upon them are sent to be destroyed after having been retained for a long time in case of questions arising concerning them. The destruction is supposed to be complete and an official is deputed to see that it is carried out. Yet numbers of the higher value stamps which have been used on telegraph forms constantly leak out and many stamps which would be rare in collections if they could only be had postally used are comparatively common owing to the leakages of the same stamps used for telegrams.

Discovery Made Too Late to Bring Culprits to Book.—So twenty-six years after the first forgery was perpetrated too late of course to get at the culprit, a philatelist was able to inform the post office that they had been the victims of a fraud, the dimensions of which, while they must have been considerable, could not be ascertained with any definiteness. And now thirty-eight years after its perpetration we are beginning to realise the enormous extent of the fraud.

Forged Plate 5, Only a Beginning.—All the forged stamps found in 1898 bore the plate number 5, and all the then known copies were used on one date viz: July 23rd, 1872. In one little lot of stamps which leaked out in the way described over one hundred forgeries bore the postmark of one day, and these probably only represented a fraction of the quantity passed through the Stock Exchange Telegraph Office on that day. Since then, investigations of philatelists have proved that the forgery of plate 5 was in use as early as June 3rd, 1872 antedating the original discovery by forty-four days on which the Telegraph Office would be working. Now it is to be seen from the photographs of the postmarked copies accompanying this article that so successful had the forgers been with plate 5 that when they noticed that plate 6 had come into use at the printers, they made a new forgery of this plate. The earliest dated copy of the plate 6 forgery we have seen, is dated October 3rd, 1872 and the latest carries on the period at which the fraud was still going on undetected to July 13th, 1873.

The Fraud Continued Over Twelve Months.—Thus the fraud was going on in this one office for over a year. And it does not seem improbable, in view of the fact that the printers went to press with plate 7 in November, 1872, that the forgers, who were busy then with their new counterfeit of plate 6, would lay their plans to counterfeit plate 7 in readiness for the time when the stock of genuine stamps of plate 6 had been exhausted at the telegraph office.

Development of the Forger's Skill.—Since they made the forgery of the plate 5, the forger had evidently gained additional skill, for the engraving of the forgery of the later plate is a great improvement on that of plate 5. Some of the defects in the forged plate 5 have been remedied in plate 6. The white lines round the plate number tablet, which were too thin and badly formed in the forged plate 5, are rather too clear and pronounced in the forged plate 6, while the figures 6 are larger and bolder than in the genuine stamp. The outline of the eye forms a heavy-lined triangle in the forgery, and there are only two lines of shading on the eyeball. The undulating lines beneath the eye are continuous in the genuine stamp, but in the forgery they are broken immediately below the angle formed by the outline of the eye. The reticulated network in the oval band round the portrait is slightly different.

Prominent Differences Between the Genuine and the Forged Stamps.—The most notable differences are (together with the large figures 6) in the white letters forming the inscriptions. These letters are not so well formed, the final G, instead of having a bold perpendicular tail, has the tail badly formed, so that until examined closely, it ap-

A. P. S. SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Once more we give notice that no A. P. S. subscriptions can be continued after expiration of society contract. This means every member, no matter how prominent in society work.

Hereafter the A. P. S. will, according to the new postal ruling, be unable to offer a complimentary subscription to any paper as an inducement for membership.

We give this advance notice so that members may renew their subscriptions at once, thus saving confusion and dissatisfaction later on.

We suggest a two years' renewal with one of the numerous premium offers found in this issue.

EDITORIAL.

Stamps and Coins—The editorial in the issue of July 2nd, approving the suggestion made by Mr. Wolsieffer that the conventions of the American Philatelic Society and the American Numismatic Association be held in the same city at approximately the same time seemingly receives recognition at once as we are informed by several members of the national numismatic body that in all likelihood, Chicago will be chosen as the seat of the 1911 convention. As Chicago undoubtedly will be chosen as the place for the 1911 convention of the American Philatelic Society, the plan to arrange for convenient dates will be considered in due course of time.

Awarded After All—A complication has arisen in the great Penflip award. Last week, we said that the prize would not be conferred as no one had entered the answer named by Mr. Barrett; but on second thought, we find that two contestants may be entitled to consideration. Pepperell, Mass., designated the one shilling Nova Scotia, first issue, on which "12" and "one shilling" both appear. While "pence" is understood in connection with "12" it is not specified, and so the two terms of the same currency may be said to be conflicting. In his letter, Mr. Legg said: "There is little doubt in my immature mind about my being the winner of the 'Penflip Prize' I hope that you will break it to me gently if I be in error; otherwise, I might be inclined to believe the contest a 'bunk' and to express my opinion in the manner of Betsy Prig, 'there is no such a person.'" There are two answers that reasonably enough are within the requirements of the contest; and there is one prize and Mr. Howard gets it, not alone because he sent in his answer first but also because Mr. Legg did not vote for the WEEKLY for official journal of the A. P. S. a year ago. We are sure that we are carrying out the wishes of that unapproachable genius, Parnassus Penflip, in deciding as we have. In the next issue we expect to present Penflip's commendation (as we hope it will be) of the course that we have taken in his behalf. We had intended to have Penflip's few appropriate words in time for this issue but, evidently, he is too busy preparing for his trip to Detroit to answer correspondence with his accustomed promptness.

First and Last—At a meeting of the Philatelic Society of Victoria, held in May, it was voted to send the following letter to the Postmaster-General of the Australian Commonwealth: "The Philatelic Society of Victoria communicates respectfully to the Postmaster-General its concern that of all the wide dominions of Great Britain in all parts of the world, the postal stamps of the Australian States alone retain the effigy of Queen Victoria, and (with the exception of two rarely used Victorian stamps), have not shown the portrait of the late King, Edward VII, thus ignoring the changes brought about by the lapse of time. The society hopes that early consideration may be given to this matter." Some philatelists have not paused to consider that Victoria is the last colony to use the Victoria portrait stamps. We should say that there is a sentimental fitness in Victoria's retention of the stamps with Queen Victoria's likeness; and that the reluctance of the postal authorities of Victoria to part with the effigy of the queen-namesake was a tribute to their loyalty. Though Victoria is the last colony to use the Queen stamps, it was the first to issue a specimen with King

The Congress Plan—In Australia, the advisability of inaugurating an "Australasian Philatelic Congress" is being discussed; and we take it that the idea is being favorably received. It is almost safe to predict that Australasia will follow the example of Great Britain and adopt the plan of an annual convocation. In due course of time all the philatelically civilized countries will have a "congress" at stated intervals of time, in the manner of the German "Tag" that has flourished for years and the recently instituted "Congress" of Great Britain. In America, the annual conventions of the American Philatelic Society for twenty-five years has been the counterpart of these occasions and while the conventions presumably, and properly so, are devoted to the consideration of the business of the organization, yet any question of importance as affecting philately could be presented for action at this gathering. While ostensibly the annual convention of the American Philatelic Society is the forum for popular and preferred philately in America, yet in reality small advantage is taken of the splendid opportunity to appear before America's supreme philatelic tribunal. The tendency is to appreciate more fully each year, the opportunities offered at the convention and a broader usefulness attaches to it each year. A few visionaries who work with words may try to stampede the convention by seeking to have it pledge itself to the performances of impracticable service; but while they may be credited with sincerity, they are not with sound sense; and their measure is soon taken.

Italy's Good Move—Through the medium of Gibbons Stamp Weekly it is learned that the first Italian "philatelic congress" was held successfully at Naples about two months ago. On the agenda for discussion and action was the following proposal and collectors in America as well as other countries realize full well the necessity for the regulation. For years, Italy has been under the reproach of not having national laws against the utterance of forged stamps but it is now likely that the delinquency will be removed. In our postal laws and regulations, we find as Section 1587, under "Offenses Against the Postal Service:" "Any person who shall forge or counterfeit or knowingly utter or use any forged or counterfeit postage stamp of any foreign Government, shall be punished by imprison-Philatelic Ethics—Among other topics that were to engage the attention of the Naples congress were two that were based on somewhat original lines: "To determine the commercial value of unused stamps with gum" and "Formation of a committee of upright men to solve disputes between collectors and dealers." The gum question has been discussed in many of its phases but it has never been analyzed before by a national legislative body, so to say. The board of arbitration of "upright men" is an inspiration. For years, we have been in a position to know that many a dispute arises between collector and dealer, each of whom steadfastly adheres to convictions that he believes are right. Any method of adjudication of these cases while still in their incipency and before they reach the acrid stage would be a benefit to philately; and the tribunal as proposed by the Italian philatelists seems to offer a happy solution of unpleasant problems.

CHAS. R. MORRIS FOR SECRETARY.

Confirming what we wrote last week we want to give a hearty endorsement to the candidacy of Chas. R. Morris for secretary of the A. P. S. Mr. Morris is an ideal candidate, enthusiastic, capable and ideally located at the nation's capital. For the society to be able to command Mr. Morris' services is indeed fortunate and we look forward to his election by a large majority. The writer is pleased to address this word to those friends who in the past have placed reliance upon his judgment. If you do not care to fill out your ballot we shall be pleased to receive it and see that it is counted for Mr. Morris.

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:

Regular Government Issues U. S. Envelopes
Carrier Stamps Confederate Provisionals

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2's" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1853 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plymtons is made as easy as rolling off a log. Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

OUR ENGLISH LETTER.

By WM. WARD.

The Scarcity of the 1869, 24c.—The beautiful 24c value of 1869 is probably among the most popular stamps ever issued—especially so to English speaking races. For my life I can never make out why the 90c of the same issue is always more expensive than the 24c. Fine copies of the former are easier to secure than fair copies of the latter. Of course the high face value keeps the quotations up of the 90c. This occurs in many instances. A 4p Southern Nigeria is only worth the market price of 16c, but a 2sh 6p value commands 60c. Yet the higher value is always present in the ratio of 12 to 1 of the former. The 1869 set is one of the most incorrectly priced issues I know of. There can be no possible doubt that the following is the order of their respective rarity:—24c, 90c, 30c, 15c (type I), 15c type II, 10c, 1c, 12c, 6c, 2c, 3c. If the 90c is worth $8 or $10 the 24c is worth $15.

New Issues Preparing.—1910 seems to be trying to surpass its predecessors on the point of issuing most stamps. Sweden, Argentine, Brazil, Belgium, &c., have all provided a change for their postal clerks. Chile is breaking her good philatelic name and erupting a commemorative issue, and Austria and Bosnia, and probably Hungary are making the aged Emperor an excuse for a new set each.

The Bosnians are to be issued this month, and will be of the same design as the current issue, with the exception that at the foot of each will be the year dates 1830-1910—the former, the year of the birth of Joseph. The Austrian issue will probably be likewise. Our own issue of stamps of course will not be expected before 1911, and in it will be fewer bicolored stamps than in the last two sets. If the British authorities copied the current U. S. we might have a possessing series to place in our collections.

The New 7d.—The 7d British will never become a common stamp, especially used in good condition. All are being used on parcels where they receive a "blacking-out" obliteration, and on telegraph forms from which they will never again see the light of the world, since all telegraph forms are burnt. Further there is a difficulty to procure this stamp, as so many post offices do not seem to be supplied. It is rumored, and generally accepted that no more printings are being made, and that when the present supply is exhausted the 7d value will be extinct until the stamps of George V come to hand.

Stamp Designs.—Quite a number of the new issues of foreign countries seem to be giving the chroniclers a bad time of it. The 4c Centenary stamp of the Argentine is one that has provoked many errors of description. Evidently there are several meanings in English for the Spanish of "Ambassadors." The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly describes the portraits of Washington, O'Higgins, Hidalgo, San Martin and Bolivar as "Brazilian Notables." We know that the former was a "Notable," but the fact that his features are on the Pan-American Congress stamp of Brazil hardly alters history. A famous American philatelist has given the bird on the new Azores stamps as a hawk. The bird depicted is not a "territorial" but a marine bird. Illustrations of the smallness of a postage stamp are hardly to be relied upon, but I don't mind having a quarter on it being a petrel.

The Popularity of Canada.—Canadian stamps are going to run the Federal issues very closely for popularity. Good Canadian stuff is getting harder and harder to secure, for the simple reason that so much of it has been going West, to be buried in collections from which it is not likely to escape. A good specialised collection of Canada will prove a valuable asset, and show a good margin in the near future.

Back-Numbers.—Some stamp issuing countries are by no means hustlers—in fact the Australian Colonies and Jamaica should be able to out do old Rip Van Winkle. None have yet brought out stamps in regular use, bearing the head of King Edward, so one hardly likes to essay when those of George V may be expected. True there have been the pound values and the several revenue Australian stamps, but when they have to use a portrait made 63 years ago—well it must be terribly slow down under.

Ceylon has just brought out a new issue of King Edward stamps. Won't there be some hurry to get hold of these—and won't there be some fingers scorched?

History on Stamps.—A pretty little story has gone the round of the foreign philatelic circles, that just before the death of King Edward it was intended to have a special British issue, bearing the features of all the Kings and Queens of Great Britain! My readers need not give this little story any attention for it is mere canard. We have had quite our fill of Kings, Queens and Dukes in this country since 1066 to last us 1066 centuries and such an issue would have only provoked a row. There are no

MEKEEL - SEVERN - WYLIE CO., BOSTON, MASS.

LOOKS LIKE A CONSPIRACY (!)

Criticism reaches us that we made a mistake when we allowed Mr. Kitselman's article, published last week, to advertise MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, saying that we should have edited it to read "our Boston contemporary" or "the Boston Weekly" or something of that order. But it was necessary to mention "1000th" and that is synonymous with the only weekly stamp paper which has ever accomplished this feat.—Philadelphia Stamp News.

We wish to thank Editor Mann for his fairness.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

UNITED STATES.—W. G. Pingree sends us a copy of the officially sealed, Scott's No. 755, with a line of perforations running lengthwise and dividing the stamp into two nearly equal parts. Is this some more of the "printer's waste?"

Scott's Circular says: Our remark on the discovery of the 6c on the U. S. I. R. paper, that the stamp appeared to be an earlier printing than the 1898 issue, is confirmed by a letter from a collector whose copy of the earlier discovered 8c "is interesting on account of its having a dated post mark. Although the town and state are illegible, the month, March, and year '97 are quite plain and show clearly that the error was made before the Spanish War revenues were issued, which was late in the spring of 1898. From personal inquiry of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington, I have learned that the only white U. S. I. R. paper of the 200-sheet size (the 8c plates of this issue had 200 stamps; see Mr. Luff's History of U. S. Stamps), used during the years 1896 and 1897, was that on which the blue 2c Playing Cards Revenue stamps were printed. Scott's Catalogue gives the date of issue of the watermarked Playing Cards stamp as 1898. This is wrong. I have copies dated 1896 and 1897, precancelled. Mr. Ralph advised that there was no record of the use of this I. R. paper for postage stamps and that the mix-up might have occurred in several ways. It might be well to look through the Playing Card stamps for the U. S. P. S. watermark."

The conclusions expressed in the gentleman's letter appear to us correct, and the catalogue will be amended accordingly. How often one little thing in philately leads to matters of extreme interest!

Scott's Circular reports having seen a pair of the 3c rose of 1861, imperforate horizontally.

CHILE.—Upon the same line as the note from the Postage Stamp in No. 1020, we copy the following from Scott's Circular:

From several sources comes information which throws a decidedly unfavorable light upon postal affairs in this hitherto respectable South American country. First with regard to the "Official" stamps surcharged with anchor in 1907 and which, although considered highly speculative if indeed they were placed in legitimate use at all, have been sold for very fancy prices. It appears that the official who instigated the preparation of these stamps was an enthusiastic stamp collector and that shortly after the order for the preparation of these stamps their use was prohibited and they were ordered to be burnt. The destruction however never took place and as sets appear to be obtainable by any one willing to pay the price it would be interesting to know just how large is the "invisible supply" and what are the prospects of a drop in quotations. This little "killing" has encouraged the Chileans to braver and broader plans. It is now announced that the 20c stamp of 1862 is to be first reprinted and then surcharged 1, 2, 5, 10 and 20 PESOS! The dates 1810-1910 in celebration of the Centenary of Chilean Independence are to be added, the issue of the stamps is to be limited, care will be taken that very few get into the hands of the public and the officials expect to sell to collectors at a fancy profit. We are glad to help advertise this precious scheme, but the above described are only a portion of the new stamps which the Chilean officials plan to give us this year. There are also announced a new general set of 14 values from 1c to 10 pesos and an especially designed commemorative set of 13 denominations from 1c to 10 pesos.

CONGO BELGE.—Three new provisional cards are noted by Maury's Collectionneur in addition to which the 10c brown and 10c olive upon lilac double card has had the three lines of inscription obliterated. All surcharges are in black.

FINLAND.—The stamps recently current are no longer permitted to be used on matter for the International mails or for other portions of the Russian Empire. They are, however, still used for interior postage, and are thus placed substantially in the category of local stamps.

MEXICO.—We are indebted to the C. E. Hussman Co. for used specimens of the current 3c, 10c and 20c stamps, with the new official surcharge.

NORWAY.—Maury's Collectionneur reports that the 1kr 50ore has now appeared in the re-engraved type, the 1kr and 2kr having been previously noted.

NYASSA.—Maury's Collectionneur says that the new series of stamps will appear this month. The highest value in the last series was 300r, but the new series will have two more values, the highest being 700r.

PARAGUAY.—A correspondent informs Scott's Circular that the 5, 10 and 20 peso stamps, Scott's Nos. 141 to 145, which have been obtainable only at rather high prices, and over which there has been considerable controversy ever since their appearance two years ago, have now been placed on sale to the regular public.

SIAM.—We find that we accidentally omitted to give credit to A. W. Dunning for specimens of the new stamps and information regarding the same.

TURKEY.—As suggested in No. 1021, the new 2 paras provisional was surcharged upon the current 5 paras stamp, for newspaper purposes, both the new value and the newspaper surcharge being in blue.

VENEZUELA.—Hermann Focke sends us specimens of a commemorative stamp issued by Venezuela June 15, in honor of the Centenary of her independence from Spain. The stamp is a horizontal oblong, nearly square, and printed in a single color. The design is a strikingly handsome one, the central figure being a standing figure of Liberty, with hands outstretched, and sitting figures of Peace and Labor at her feet. The foreground is filled with branches of corn and oak, and the background shows a view of Caracas. In the upper corners are circular medallions with portraits of "Simon Bolivar, Libertado" and "Francisca de Miranda." The lower corners have the value in colorless figures in small circles, with "centimos" above each circle. There are fluted pillars at each side, that at the

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings acknowledged with thanks from J. H. Houston (2), Jos. A. Steinmetz (3), M. A. Lesser, Harry Fox, V. P. Hoffman (2), Fred Akerhielm, Hugo Kuenstler (5), Russell L. Stultz (5) and Thos. S. Fletcher.

—Our thanks are extended John Arndt for a missing number of the WEEKLY required for office files.

—Chas. J. Engle, N. Y. City, applied to H. Wesley Legg for stamps on approval giving John H. Rivers, N. Y. Produce Exchange, N. Y. City, as reference. A letter addressed to Mr. Rivers was returned "Not to be found." We give this information pro bono publico.

—The M. P. A. convention will be held at Binghamton, N. Y., August 9-11. Among the attractions will be an auction sale conducted by August Mack of Scranton.

—We have received from Hugo Kuenstler a batch of five clippings. Two of these have been reprinted in the WEEKLY and the others do not possess sufficient philatelic interest to use.

—We are indebted to H. W. Boers, Detroit, Mich., for a back number of the WEEKLY desired to complete a file.

—From Russell L. Stultz, New Market, Va., we have received no less than four clippings. While we are unable to use them we nevertheless appreciate the kindly spirit that prompted sending them. Mr. Stultz also submits a piece of cover showing half of a two-cent stamp that paid the postage rate.

—At a recent meeting of the Boonton Collectors' Association, it was decided to hold a stamp exhibition at Boonton, N. J., on Sept. 2. A committee consisting of John W. Hawkins, William C. Webb and Earl B. De Hart, was appointed to manage the affair. The committee asks every philatelic society, publisher, collector and dealer in the United States to co-operate with them in making this the biggest affair of its kind ever held in this country. Those interested are requested to write John W. Hawkins, Box 145, Boonton, N. J.

—Dr. S. A. Carler, N. Y. City, sends us a clipping from a Siam paper giving particulars of the new issue of stamps. Among other things it states that the old surcharged att stamps will be used until the issue is exhausted, contemporaneously with the new issue.

STEAMSHIP COMPANIES' STAMPS.

By FRED W. EDWARDS, F.R.P.S.L., F.C.S.

Fashion is as fickle in stamps as in skirts and sleeves, and just at present "Local" stamps do not enjoy a large measure of popularity amongst British philatelists. Nevertheless the writer is convinced that despite the many spurious and speculative stamps amongst local issues, there is a considerable number of interesting and instructive stamps of high status and real value which are well worthy of study and collection.

The group of stamps I purpose reviewing in this contribution, regarded as whole, enjoy a fairly high status, and are exceedingly interesting and instructive, and of course vary in value and merit.

The contrast between the issue for "St. Thomas and Porto Rico" and the rare and valuable Trinidad "Lady McLeod" stamp is perhaps the most striking, for whereas the former stamps were simply and solely speculative, the latter, catalogued at about £15, is the sort of "locals" everybody would like!

As this contribution is intended merely to serve as a general elementary introduction to the "Steamship" stamps, I shall not attempt to review the stamps individually, will divide them into groups under their respective countries and take the countries in alphabetical order, adopting the usual geographical order of the continents:—

EUROPE.

Foremost amongst the European "Steamship" stamps are those of the Danube Steam Packet Co., issued 1866-1874, and used in Bulgaria, Roumania, Servia and Turkey to prepay mail matter collected along the river Danube. The numeral of value ("10" or "17" soldi) is the most prominent feature of the design of these horizontal oblong labels, the inscription being between two concentric ovals.

The company lost its privileges in Roumania and Servia when these countries began to issue their own stamps.

During the Austro-Russian War, the company was allowed to do mail service along the whole line, from Jassy to Vienna, but in case the letter was to go to any place in Austria not on the Danube, a "5kr." Austrian stamp was to be added.

In 1874, the stamps became of a private character, prepaying packages carried by steamers of the company, and in 1877 the stamps were reprinted, in spite of the fact that there was a substantial surplus of the originals still on hand!

The so-called "stamp" of the Helmi Steamship Co., of Denmark, is now regarded as a sort of passenger ticket, as is also the "Runsala" stamp.

The first and most lasting impression of anyone beholding the huge "10 ore" Holbach Steamship Co.'s stamp issued in 1880, is a feeling of astonishment, similar to that which Gulliver felt when he landed in the forest of Brobdignag! For this label, like the "Djibouti postage plasters," is of such dimensions and superficial area that one would really wonder how much of the envelope would be available for the address after affixing the stamp! However, the "Holback" label is probably of the same kidney as the 5 ore black, and 10 ore violet stamps issued by the Odense Steamship Co. in 1882 to prepay postage on parcels carried on the river Odense in Denmark.

The first of the Finnish Steamship Companies' labels to be noticed is the "40 penni" green of the Abo Steamship Co., and this is said to have been a passenger's label; but there is no doubt whatever of the postal purpose served by the 16 varieties of stamps issued in 1874-1875, by the "Helsingfors (Bobaco) Postal Steamship Co."; or the three oval-shaped stamps issued by the Tavastehaus and Helsingfors Steam Packet Co. in 1867, or, again, those of the Tavastehaus and Tammerfors Steamship Co.

The Thyra Steamship Co., issued in 1882 two stamps, "10 penni" red and "25 penni" ultramarine, for their service between Helsingfors, Pikkala, etc. The Tryvifjord Steamship Co., of Norway, probably derived its philatelic inspiration from Holbach in Denmark, when the former issued, on or about 1888, its "5 ore" red stamp, for even the numeral of value on it seems about as large as the average figures on shop-window tickets!

Of the many mysteries of Moens' catalogue, there is none greater than the issues of the "Admiralty" (?) Steamship Co., but Turkey has contributed much trash to the album of the collector. We must, however, not speak too disparagingly of the issues of "T. B. Morton & Co.'s Letter Post" of the Constantinople and Danube Line of Steamers (1869-1872), although, as is usual with private posts, there was the inevitable surplus of originals and plenty of reprints.

ASIA.

The Asia Minor Steamship Co., issued in 1868 two stamps, 1 piastre and 2 piastres, both black and green, and printed on surface coloured glazed paper and imperf., and these stamps are even better known than the 1 gulden dark blue stamp issued about eight years before by the Dutch Indies Steamship Co. The so-called "Smyrna Steamship Co." is the Asia Minor Steamship Co.

AFRICA.

The dainty set of four stamps issued in 1870 by the Suez Canal Co. is about the best known set of locals ever issued.

AMERICA.

Crossing the "herring pond" to America, the stamps of the Central American Steamship Co., 1886, merit our notice not only on account of their dainty design, but also in having their values expressed in both the English and French languages.

The "Repub. Colombia River Postal Service" envelope issued in 1900, scarcely comes within the scope of this contribution; but the 10c black, blue and yellow stamp, issued in 1876 by the Hamburg American Packet Co., is well worth anybody's notice, as its catalogue price is £1 unused and 12/6 used.

The famous "La Guaira" locals are also splendid stamps, but those who can't afford the catalogue prices of originals can have plenty of reprints! There was a series of stamps (and reprints!) for Porto Cabello and La Guaira issued in 1864, another set for St. Thomas and others for Curacao. Yet another stamp was issued solely to supply the usual long felt want of philatelists, and this stamp was christened "St. Thomas, Porto Rico," not so much to indicate the place where it was used as to indicate whereabouts in a collector's album the stamp might be properly placed!

The pretty stamps of the St. Lucia Steam Conveyance Co., Ltd., (1873) bore the picture of a steamship in oval, and were issued in three values, 1d, 2d, and 6d.

In our introductory paragraph we made mention of the famous "Lady McLeod," 2½d stamp of Trinidad, this stamp being issued in 1847 by the owner of the steamship "Lady McLeod," for the prepayment of letters carried by his vessel between Port of Spain and San Fernando.

Unfortunately for the writer, the editor does not permit his contributors to advertise their "wants" except on the advert. pages at the usual rates, or else, concerning such "locals" as this treasure Trinidad, I should here like to have invited all philatelists who love not locals and "go by Gibbons" to kindly give me all such locals as this; for they are "in my line," and indeed in everybody else's, as are also many other stamps which are really "locals," but not generally regarded as such, for some collectors would shudder at the very idea of giving such a naughty name to such splendid stamps. The "McRobish & Co.'s" Steamship stamp of Mexico is speculative.

AUSTRALASIA.

From "down under" there came in 1897 two pretty bi-coloured oblong stamps issued by the Australasian, New Hebrides, Co., Ltd., and these stamps were of a purely local nature and pre-paid postage only within the New Hebrides Islands, or upon the company's steamers to Sydney. An analogy exists between the stamps of this company and those of the Danube Steam Packet Co., for just as the latter stamps had to be accompanied by an Austrian stamp to frank postage beyond the river Danube in Austria, so the New Hebrides stamps had to be accompanied by a 2½d New South Wales stamp to convey letters to the mainland.

Shortly after the issue of these stamps, the company went into liquidation, and in 1908 another chapter in the philatelic history of these islands was begun: but the establishment of a private post as a pioneer, as in this case, has happened in many other cases, and is very often something to the credit of private letter-carrying enterprise.

Speaking of Australians, one is reminded of Hawaiian envelopes issued by the famous firm of Wells, Fargo & Co., but these are really outside the scope of our present paper.

In conclusion, I might make a sort of provisional promise that if I have succeeded in arousing some interest in these interesting groups of steamship companies' stamps by this very elementary introduction, I may be tempted to treat of some of the groups in detail in future contributions.—Stamp Collectors Fortnightly.

To the EDITOR:

The article in No. 1020 of your paper, re: Salvador 1ctvo green of 1907 surcharged:

true, and the same applies to the provisional two issues of postage due stamps, and the 2 provisories of 1909 2 centavos on 13ctvs and 3 centavos on 26ctvs of 1907, all of which have been counterfeited in large quantities, and only this explains why they can be offered so cheap, as the original issues were very small.

The great trouble, however, is that the counterfeits have been made right at the spot, or at San Salvador, and if not by, most probably to the knowledge of certain employees of the Post Office, and for all of the counterfeits the original stamps, or at least the very same types of letters have been used. This shows that in all probability few, if any dealers outside of that country can be blamed for the circulation of these frauds, as they will most likely have purchased the stamps from Salvador dealers in good faith, which is proved by the fact that these dealers in spite of all that has been written and said, insist on their stamps being the genuine ones.

Although I am specializing Salvador stamps, I advocate the eliminating of these 'one-day-flies' from a regular collection, as few of them are created for actual postal needs, their principal object being to please (?) collectors and—the brother of President Figueroa, who himself is a collector, as it is said that most of the "errors" were made for his benefit. You state for instance that of the 15 Sept. provisory there is only the variety on watermarked paper, which is not true, as this variety was printed "by mistake," the regular stamp being on the wove paper, without watermark, but besides these two varieties also the official 1ctvo stamp exists with the same surcharge, only one sheet having been "erroneously" surcharged, and I have a copy canceled at San Salvador

HERMANN FOCKE.

LONDON, July 1, 1910.

MY DEAR MR. KJELLSTEDT:

I have to thank you for your active support of the work of the Junior Philatelic Society, and wish to personally express my pleasure at the interest you have displayed in the society both before and since your appointment as Consul General for the society in the United States.

To aid the Propaganda Committee, the council has now closed the membership roll for the season 1909-10 and has immediately opened the register for the season 1910-11. Consequently all subscriptions taken now will hold good until October 1st, 1911. New members paying their subscriptions now (instead of waiting till next October) will enjoy the privileges of membership from the date of joining until October 1st of next year; joining from this date therefore they have the privileges of fifteen months instead of twelve for their first annual subscription.

The council wishing with the highest satisfaction the cordial co-operation accorded by the stamp collectors of America in the work of the Junior Philatelic Society, has produced a handsomely printed souvenir book, copiously illustrated on "The Fiscal Stamps of the United States," by L. W. Crouch. The book is not for sale in the regular way but is being presented to every United States member of the Junior Philatelic Society, until the edition (which is limited) becomes exhausted.

This presentation book, together with the extension of the period of membership privilege for the coming season only, and the other benefits, chief amongst which is the monthly magazine The Stamp Lover, make the membership in the Junior Philatelic Society a proposition not to be lightly overlooked, and as you know my colleagues and I have always kept matters of American interest prominently to the front in our publications and other society activities, such as the Golden West Exhibition.

I sincerely trust these matters will tend to further your kind efforts on behalf of the society, for that is the object of the council in making the arrangements outlined above.

FRED. J. MELVILLE.

(We are very pleased to give insertion to the communication sent Mr. Kjellstedt by Mr. Melville. The growth of the Junior Philatelic Society has been very gratifying, a large number of U. S. philatelists being already enrolled as members. Anyone desiring information in regard to this Society may address Mr. Kjellstedt at Scranton, Pa.—Ed.)

IS YOUR COLLECTION FOR SALE?

Our past season's sales were very successful; in a number of instances record prices were obtained. Our auction catalogues not only go to society members and others whose names are common property, but reach many collectors who trade with no other firm.

Fair treatment to both buyer and seller is the secret of our success. 169 sales held to date.

We are now planning for next season, and want to hear from owners who desire to realize.

SCOTT STAMP & COIN CO.,

127 Madison Ave., NEW YORK CITY.

U. S. SECOND AND THIRD QUALITY

We have quite an accumulation of U. S. from 1851 to 1893, many rare, which are not quite perfect, heavily cancelled, off center, etc., which we will be pleased to sell according to condition. Discounts will range all the way from 75% to 90% from Scott's.

Collectors who are not particular as to condition and wish to secure certain stamps cheaply as "space fillers" can now get these at a rather nominal figure.

Please send want list and we will submit a selection on approval, each priced net according to what we consider it worth.

NO MORE DE LA RUE BRITISH STAMPS.

By WM. WARD.

It is with great pleasure that I am able to get yet another scoop for the WEEKLY ahead even of the English stamp journals.

For upwards of thirty years Messrs. Thomas De La Rue, the famous British playing card printers, have printed the postage stamps of Great Britain and most of her Colonies. Their contract expires at the end of this financial year.

Today the British Post Office is one of the few Government Departments that not only does not throw the public money about, but actually makes a profit—a profit far greater than the loss made by the United States Government—value for value.

In the letting of contracts to the various Government offices the man with the most friends in those respective departments gets the job before the man who can quote cheaper—though all that is gradually being done away with. There are no soft jobs in the Post Office Department. The lowest price secures the orders. Thus De La Rue have had to stand back because the firm of Harrison & Sons of St. Martins Lane, London, have undercut them in the tenders invited to supply the British Post Office with 14,000,000 stamps every day of the year!

I can safely say that this will be the last contract given out to any private firm. Before the next renewal is necessary the Government will take steps to run their own Printing Department, in common with the United States, France, Germany, Russia, &c.

Together with the printing of the stamps, is let the contract for the printing of the Post Office Orders—which serve in this country the purpose of the greenbacks in America, and is of course our only paper money under the value of the lowest Bank Note ($25.00). A cent duty is charged on orders up to 2sh 6 pence which run from 6 pence up to 21 shillings in sixpences. Two cents duty is charged up to fifteen shillings, and three cents after. The duty is represented by a blue stamp at the left hand side for Orders up to nine shillings and sixpence, and in red for Orders of ten shillings and above. The value of the duty, or commission is printed in black. All Orders must be paid back to the Post Office in Great Britain or any British Colony whose currency is in shillings and pence within three months of the date of issue which is stamped in the bottom right hand corner by the issuing office. Every Postal Order is watermarked with the cost value in words once and in figures twice besides having the value printed no less than twenty-four times on the face of the Order. Thus it is nearly impossible to defraud. Unless defaced, or marked to be paid by a banker, Postal Orders are cashed upon sight after the payee has written his or her signature on the face.

Most, or at least a great number of British stamp collectors, possess a specimen sixpenny Postal Order in their collections, just as one finds space for an International Reply Coupon. The design is not elaborate, but for 14 cents is as interesting a souvenir of postal currency as the U. S. 1861 stamp currency, which cost very much more.

Reverting to the change in the manufacture of the British stamps, it is interesting to note that the new printers have so far neither machinery or staff to undertake the work of their contract, but which they will have to secure between now and the end of the year. Thus it looks likely that unless they can do a big hustle there are not likely to be any of the George V stamps out by January 1st—though a representative of the new printers informs us that the plates to be received from Somerset House (the Government Revenue Headquarters) will be the new ones.

I also hear that the design of the new stamps will be akin to the recently issued 7 pence—that is of the Nyasaland type, and that as before the name of the Kingdom will not be given. Further a new value in the shillings is to make its appearance, but whether two or three shillings my informant cannot say, and following the example of the United States, the £1 value is likely to be missing.

Russia and Great Britain are the only European countries possessing so high a value equivalent to $5.00. Spain and Austria being the next in running with stamps having a face value equal to $2.00.

Messrs. De La Rue may still continue to print many of the British Colonial stamps which are held under contract with the Colonial office.

Special to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

Next Auction Sale August 9th, 1910

This sale consists of a very desirable collection of 10,000 varieties including the medium grade of stamps and lots that the average collectors are looking for. Don't let this sale pass you by because it has too many good things that you are looking for.

DEALERS WHOLESALE LOTS

The wise dealer is preparing his stock for the winter. Although there is the so-called dull season in stamps, then is the time for the dealers to get thereby a supply to do business with for the coming season. Every dealer should look our catalogue over. This is an opportunity that is not afforded by other auctions.

Send in your bids at once.

Valuable Information for Collectors

The proper way of completing your collection is by using our "want list system." This method is far superior than hunting over hundreds of approval selections and picking off everything that comes along.

Why not make up a "want list" of those odds and ends that you need to fill up your sets, even if the cheaper grade, and send it to us and you will receive them neatly mounted, and each stamp priced separately. We try and allow 50% discount whenever possible, and we only send out stamps in fine condition.

Send for our price and check list. It's free. Also ask for some of our printed want list forms.

H. F. COLMAN,

GEO. L. TOPPAN, Manager,

723 ELEVENTH ST., N. W.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE ROYAL PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

THE RECORD OF THE YEAR 1909-10 AS REPORTED BY THE HON. SEC. J. A. TILLEARD.

(We reprint this report from the London Philatelist as being of general interest the world over and especially to American collectors, a goodly number of whom are members of the Royal Society. Mr. Tilleard, it will be remembered, not only serves as secretary of the society but cares for the stamp treasures of His Majesty King George.—Ed.)

The close of the season 1909-10 has been overshadowed by the great national loss sustained in the death of our beloved Sovereign, King Edward the Seventh, a loss that is deplored by the members of this Society as sincerely as by any subjects of the realm.

This is not the place or the occasion to dwell upon the merits of our late Sovereign, who has died in the service of his people. It suffices to say that in modern times no personage has ever attracted to himself so large a share of the admiration and affection of mankind; and the wonderful manifestation of sorrow that we have seen displayed throughout the Empire tells, with more eloquence than any words can do, of the firm hold he had secured upon the hearts of his subjects.

But although he has passed away the King survives in his successor, and we can best respect his memory by giving our loyal aid and service to his son, King George.

Each of us in our own sphere can, in some small way, help our new King in the work he has taken upon himself, if only by according that confidence and support which will be gratefully and loyally given on all occasions by the members of this Society, over whose Councils King George the Fifth has so long presided.

On the accession of the King, the Council, in the name of the Society, through the Vice President, presented to his Majesty an address in the following terms:

"To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

"We, the Vice President, Honorary Vice President, and Council of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, for ourselves and for the Fellows, Members and Associates of the Society, over whose Councils Your Majesty has so long been graciously pleased to preside, respectfully beg to express our profound grief at the loss Your Majesty has sustained by the death of our beloved Sovereign the late King, and we tender to Your Majesty our dutiful and heartfelt sympathy.

"We desire at the same time humbly to assure Your Majesty of our loyalty and devotion to the Throne and to the Person of Your Majesty, and of our earnest hope that Your Majesty's reign may be long and prosperous."

To this address a gracious reply was received from His Majesty, through his Private Secretary, as contained in the following letter:

"MARLBOROUGH HOUSE,

"PALM MALL, S. W.,

"25th May, 1910.

"DEAR LORD CRAWFORD,

"I have received and laid before the King the address which you have forwarded to me from the Council of the Royal Philatelic Society, expressing on behalf of themselves and the Fellows, Members and Associates of the Society their profound grief at the loss which His Majesty has sustained by the death of his beloved father, and also loyalty and devotion to the Throne and person of His Majesty, with earnest hopes for the prosperity of his reign.

"I am commanded by the King to assure you, and all those who have associated themselves with you in this address, of his Majesty's deep appreciation of these most kind and sympathetic sentiments, proceeding as they do from a body over which His Majesty has had the pleasure of presiding for so many years.

"Yours very truly,

"ARTHUR BIGGE.

"The Earl of Crawford, K. T."

In the course of the year since June, 1909, twenty-four new members have been elected Fellows of the Society, and one Associate has been added to the list. The names are as follows:

Messrs. C. M. Ams and W. M. H. Artman, Capt. A. S. Bates, Messrs. A. Bishop, Wm. Canning, H. Chaplin and S. Chapman, Col. F. H. Hancock, Messrs. J. S. Hardy and W. A. Harmer, Capt. C. G. S. Harvey, Mr. H. M. Hepworth, Mrs. Walter Jones, Messrs. L. J. Kershaw and J. K. N. Koning, Baron E. G. E. Leijonhufvud, Messrs. H. P. Manus, W. McHutchin, C. W. Matthes, and E. J. Mertzauoff, the Rev. J. Mursell and Messrs. L. A. B. Paine, H. W. Warner and E. A. Wiedemann as Fellows, with Mr. W. G. Campbell as an Associate.

During the same period we have lost by death two of our members, viz.: Messrs. G. F. H. Gibson and H. G. Palliser, while from the same cause the name of Mr. A. A. Good, whose death at an earlier date had not been reported prior to the last annual general meeting, has had to be removed from the roll of membership.

Mr. Good, who was formerly in the Consular service in Germany, had been a member for upwards of eighteen years.

Mr. Palliser, who joined the Society in 1898, was, for some years prior to his removal to the West of England, a regular attendant at the meetings, and was personally known to many of the members.

Mr. Gibson was well known as a prominent philatelist, who acted for eleven years as honorary secretary of the Manchester Philatelic Society, and he was for a long time closely connected with the management of the Philatelic Record.

The resignations during the year under review have been twelve in number, viz.:

Messrs. T. Catterall, Jr., J. H. Clapp, L. H. Kjellstedt, F. Knuckey, A. Lacey, J. G. Langton, and J. A. Leon, Lieut-Col. P. J. Melvill, and the Rev. P. E. Raynor.

Mr. Kjellstedt was the American representative of the Society. His services in this capacity have been much appreciated, and he has been good enough to offer, in every way in his power, still to forward the interests of the Society in the United States of America.

Mr. J. G. Langton has been one of our auditors, and, notwithstanding his resignation of membership, he has very kindly consented, if so desired, to continue to act as honorary auditor, and to give to the Society the benefit of his valuable professional aid in auditing and reporting on our accounts.

In addition to the losses through death and resignation the names of three members have been removed under the regulations, and the register now comprises 280 Fellows and five Associates, an appreciable increase on the figures for the corresponding period of last year.

The Vice President having renewed the invitation so kindly given in previous years, the first meeting of the season was held at his residence on October 21, 1909, and the usual fortnightly meetings have since been held in this room. There have been sixteen meetings in all, including that of this evening, and at fifteen of these, papers have been read, or displays of stamps have been given, with written notes or verbal explanations of the points of interest on the subject dealt with in the display.

The Society has been indebted to the following members for undertaking the special business of the several meetings:

The President—a display of the stamps of British Guiana between 1860 and 1882. The Vice President—a display of the stamps of St. Helena, St. Vincent, and other British Colonies, and essays and proofs of a special interest in connection with the history of the stamps of the United Kingdom. The Honorary Vice President—a paper on the "Advisability of Forming a Universal Union of Philatelic Societies, to Discourage Unnecessary and Speculative Issues," and a display of stamps illustrating the points dealt with in the paper. A. P. S. SUBSCRIPTIONS.

It seems singular that the many notices published in the WEEKLY do not convince A. P. S. members as to their duty in renewing subscriptions direct to this office and doing this at once.

An applicant for A. P. S. membership writes: "Enclosed find 10c for the next five issues of the WEEKLY. My application for membership in the A. P. S. is pending and in five weeks I hope to be admitted when I shall be entitled to the paper free of charge."

Under the new postal ruling each member must make an individual matter of subscription and we shall receive them direct rather than through a society official. In other words remit $1 for two years' renewal and receive one of the premiums advertised.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

A Welcome Article—In one of the syndicated "Marquise de Fontenoy" letters that appeared recently in the newspaper press, there was a half-column account on King George's interest in stamp collecting. It was written by one conversant with the subject and is the best story, perhaps, of the King's philatelic side that has appeared in the general press, where it must have been read by millions of persons who had no flattering conceptions of the class of adults who found in stamp collecting a congenial pursuit; and doubtless, they now have received a fairer impression of the depth and dignity of philately. After telling of the collection of King George, the writer says that the King is concerning himself with the designs of the new issues of Great Britain and the colonies. Those who give attention to the "psychology of advertising" in a philatelic sense best know how stimulating an influence an article of this kind has upon philately. The most powerful monarch in the world not only approves philately but he acclaims it. Truly, the halcyon days of philately are here.

Lord Crawford—In this copyrighted article that has been mentioned, a pen picture of Lord Crawford, the successor of King George as president of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, is hastily sketched. Not alone are Lord Crawford's personal characteristics described but his scientific attainments are mentioned as well. His ruddy locks, beard and mustache are sprinkled with many silver hairs. It is told that habitually, he wears blue spectacles resting on "a very aquiline nose." He is always dressed in a sack suit of dark blue with his left usually in the pocket, we read. The great learning of Lord Crawford has brought him honors almost innumerable; and he has "about twenty-two letters of the alphabet after his name," as representing renowned English and foreign scientific bodies in which he has membership. Indeed, it is remarked that in all probability he is the most learned man in the house of lords. His liberality particularly to his native land, Scotland, has been shown by gifts of instruments and collections. It is gratifying that philately claims a good share of the regard of his lordship; and it is pleasant for Americans to think that he so favors the stamp issues of this country as to specialize in them so extensively as he has done. His collection of our stamps is written up admirably and it is the best, we believe, extant.

Traduced—Our weekly contemporary has been guilty of as flagrant a piece of petty deceit, conspicuous by its malicious intent, as ever shamed a vehicle making any pretensions to ordinary decency. It says in reference to the proposed amendments providing for the issue of its own official journal by the American Philatelic Society: "We have been informed that these amendments have been sent in due and proper course to the Secretary, through whose hands they must pass before publication in the official organ, but that some doubt is felt by those fathering the project as to whether the amendments will see the light of print (insofar as our Boston contemporary is concerned) within the thirty days before the convention which the constitution prescribes. Suffice it to say that these proposed amendments are not likely to be much relished at 508 Kast Building, Boston, and that an important section of the by-laws makes it much safer and better to carry amendments under the thirty-day notice rule than without it." This slander appeared in the paper dated July 23rd; the proposed amendments under notice were printed in the WEEKLY dated July 16th and yet no effort was made to stop the circulation of the statement. The WEEKLY has remained silent sometimes in the past under imputations of blame when it wholly was without fault and the sins of omission were placed at its door, when the failure was elsewhere. The idea was to protect others rather than itself; but the outbreak of our contemporary, if allowed to stand unchallenged, might lead the hurrying reader to believe that there was at least a scintilla of evidence on which to base the remarks. We brand the statement as a wilful perversion of the truth and as one conceived in falsehood and born of malice. It is but just to say that the natural impulse of the editor of our contemporary heretofore has been fair; it is probable that the inuendo that he now utters was instigated by one of the sycophants, who trade on his tolerant nature. The labyrinth of deception into which he has been lead is painful evidence that "evil communications corrupt good manners."

Its Own Official Journal—The proposal to establish a monthly by the American Philatelic Society to act as official journal is one that has never been opposed systematically if at all, in the columns of the WEEKLY during the last decade, according to our recollection. It is admitted almost unanimously that the American Philatelic Society should have its paper, and it has long been the expectation that in good time, it would have. The hesitancy that many members have felt in actively supporting the plan for the establishing of the paper is based on the question of funds and that of providing for the uninterrupted performance of the duties that enter into a publishing proposition of the kind. At the coming convention it is certain that the advisability of launching a society journal will be discussed seriously and it is likely that those who will be prominent in favoring the project will be prepared to submit figures that will have an important bearing on the proposal. The WEEKLY has shown by its work in the past that it can serve the society more effectively than any other independent publication; and naturally, it desires to continue as official journal this year if a selection is made as has been the custom.

Received—The third number of the Quarterly of the American Philatelic Society or the American Philatelist has followed close on the heels of the second number; in fact but a few days intervened between the issue of the two numbers. The present administration has shown that it worked to good purpose though many circumstances conspired to retard results. While good intentions have been defeated by the great delays in the issue of the Quarterly, there is now at hand evidence to demonstrate what the quarterly is and what it may be made to be. Wholly, almost, the second number is devoted to the membership lists but there are eight pages of interesting reading consisting of two editorials, one of which is furnished by Mr. Luff, ex-president, and the other by Mr. Mudge, president of the American Philatelic Society; and the first instalment of a two-part article, "American Expansion and Philately," by Fred J. Melville, president of the Junior Philatelic Society, London. In Mr. Mudge's remarks, an idea is given of the vast amount of work of detail kind that is necessitated in fulfilling the expressions of the members who were assembled at the convention sessions last year. The third number is a literary issue, so to say, and it has a list of contents that must appeal to every member, we should say from an examination of the number just issued.

WALTON AND JACKSON.

"Re the H. W. Walton notice that appeared in the WEEKLY two weeks ago, would say that without doubt he is the H. W. Jackson with whom certain dealers have had trouble on approval selections. This party secured an approval selection from the Independent Stamp Co. as H. W. Walton and from me as H. W. Jackson. I have compared and read handwriting and address the same."—H. M. CLARK.

Supplementing the above letter from Mr. Clark, we have received a communication from the Continental Stamp Co., Oskaloosa, Kans., which would seem to indicate a collusion between Walton and Jackson and to place the Stanton Collection Agency in an unenviable light. We believe a little more publicity will be of value. We quote from the letter as follows:—

"We were very much interested in the NEWS article referring to H. W. Walton, who secured a selection of stamps from the Ouilmette Stamp Co. We would state that in March we received a request from a Mr. H. W. Jackson, who gave his address the same as the party you refer to, Box 3034, Boston. He gave as a reference the same party as this Walton (The Stanton Collection Agency) of Boston. We wrote the reference and the reply we received was word for word the same as the report they sent the Ouilmette Stamp Co. We have never been able to receive a reply from the party nor have we been able to get the stamps returned. We wrote the reference and they wrote back that the party was O. K. but that perhaps we had better put the matter in their hands for collection as they were in that business. We have never written them further on the subject. We are under the impression that these two parties are in a deal together."—THE CONTINENTAL STAMP CO.

By CHARLES E. JENNEY.

From the Postage Stamp we learn that the forged Great Britain one shilling green is found with plate 5 as well as plate 6, but that the forger was not much of a philatelist for he made the error of not getting the diagonally opposite letters the same, showing three different letters on one stamp. We have not heard of any of these counterfeits (made years ago while the stamp was in use and to defraud the government) being found in America.

The London Philatelist for June is largely devoted to the proceedings of the Royal Philatelic Society. His Majesty, King George V has consented to become its Patron (we presume a high honor to the Society but confess with American republicanism we do not fully appreciate it); while the Earl of Crawford is President. A list of the Fellows is published and we are surprised to see the number of U. S. collectors represented.

A donation to the society by the King is of both historic and philatelic interest, though it would certainly have come under the ban of the deceased S. S. S. It consists of a collection of the reprints ordered by the King of Portugal of Portugal and Colonies for the benefit of the King of Spain, and presented to George V by the King of Portugal personally while on a visit to England.

A correspondent writing to the above mentioned magazine calls attention to the curious fact that with one exception none of the Australian colonies during the nine years of Edward's reign, recognized him on their postal issues. Is it a forecasting shadow of independence?

The July Stamp Lover has an article by R. E. R. Dalwigk on the bisected provisionals of the British Colonies, or "Splits," as our English cousins call them. It is illustrated by a number of interesting entires, the only practical way in which these can be collected.

Under the heading of "Savage Island and its Postage Stamps," is quite an elaborate article on Niue and its issues. It is of considerable value to anyone specializing in this little heard of island. We notice a very succinct history of the once celebrated "Thief shilling" included in the article.

The Daily Mirror of London is not a philatelic magazine, but we find something of a philatelic nature in its columns, viz., a careful article on "Disease from Postage Stamps," illustrated with cuts of the bacteria found. We had always supposed that these were the symptoms of the ordinary so-called meshed-wove paper, but it appears they are deadly bacteria. In a small dish that looks very much like a benzine cup are four white objects that we mistook for perforations picked off; it seems they are colonies of bacteria. The author cautions us to never lick stamps; he has discovered in the gum staphylococci or grape-like clusters that might produce blood-poisoning. Here is field for the naturalist-philatelist; he can collect his mint 1 pound English Colonies in all the species of staphylococci, or with and without typhoid bacilli. When we recall that the public have licked stamps for the past 70 years and that there are a few of us still alive, we wonder, after reading his article. Seriously, though, the matter of contagion through stamps, used or unused, while very slight, is worth considering to the extent of using methods or ordinary cleanliness. We need not go to the extent of dipping each stamp in an anti-septic solution before we dare to handle it to attach it to a letter, as the author would have us believe. But the condition of cleanliness of the stamp-delivering window might often decide for us whether we should unctuously suck the gum or otherwise. The mortality among stamp-collectors from contagious diseases is not, I believe, above the average and we handle constantly not only the o.g.'s with accumulated bacilli, but used stamps with the preserved disease germs of all nations. One reassuring fact is that, no matter if the disease germs be present, as they may be in minute quantities they can hardly obtain foothold in the constitution of a healthy person. This question was discussed some years ago in our philatelic press and naturally died a quiet death.

The leading feature of Gibbons Stamp Weekly of July 9th is the article of Fred Melville on the processes of paper-making, illustrated so as to make the mystery quite plain to anyone. We believe that this article has already been published in full in some American philatelic magazine.

In the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly of July 9 is an article by Fred Edwards on the Empire of Morocco; its Foreign and Private Posts. The author does not try to throw any philatelic glamour over this shady country; he simply records facts as they are for history. That he realizes he is not dealing with a popular subject is clearly indicated by his ungloved handling. "An autocracy which severely represses all progress," "A general system as corrupt as the people who administer and endure it," "A people notorious for brigandage and piracy," "a troubled country plagued by its sultans and stamp speculators,"—such are some of the terms by which he refers to this country. He takes up separately the British post-offices in Morocco; the French post-offices in Morocco; and the Private and Local Posts. For these latter he can find no legitimate excuse; they are handsome, or odd, but all speculative. A curious country, as he well remarks in closing.

NEW NICARAGUAN PROVISIONAL.

BY EDMUND DE S. BRUNNER.

In 1907 when the "B. Dpto Zelaya" surcharge was still applied with a rubber stamp in black, 500 of the No. 199 50c on 6c slate were surcharged "B. Dpto Zelaya" in blue,—a printed surcharge. Before these could be placed in use the "Costa Atlantica B" set was issued. Stamps have become scarce during the war and these 500 stamps have now been placed on sale, April 20th, 1910. I have registered covers in my possession. 400 of the issue were bought by the manager of the Moravian Missions in Nicaragua, an institution which uses considerable of that value.

CHICAGO AT DETROIT.

The indications are that Chicago will have the largest delegation coming from any one city at Detroit. A special Pullman will be attached to the Michigan Central train that leaves Chicago on Saturday evening, August 13th, at 10 p. m., and this car is wholly for the delegates who will reach Detroit at 7.15 a. m. the following day. On Monday, August 15th, a special sleeper again will be added to the train that leaves at the same time, for the accommodation of those who cannot leave the city before Monday night; and several out of town members have signified their intention to join this second party. We wish to make it plain that any member residing outside of Chicago will be welcome to travel with the Chicago delegations, either that leaving Saturday night or Monday night. In fact, the company of those who pass through Chicago on their way to the convention city is solicited by the Chicagoans; and further, quarters will be reserved at the Wayne Hotel, Detroit, where the Chicago party will have its headquarters, for those who request the service, up to a reasonable number. A trip was made to Detroit by Henry Ades Fowler for the purpose of attending to traffic and hotel arrangements; and inquiries and bookings should be addressed to him.

Some of the Chicago men who at first proposed to attend the convention will not be able to go but other members no doubt will take their places. Mr. Rogers has left for a trip to his old home in Seattle, Washington; Fred Michael will attend the convention of the American Numismatic Association in New York City; and Edward M. Rosenthal is compelled to remain at home. Leonard Michael, now of New York City, has been called to Chicago by the death of a brother, a young man in his early twenties, and upon his return east, Mr. Michael will not be able to leave New York again so soon as a trip to Detroit would necessitate.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—G. C. Job writes: "I enclose a used stamped envelope, of the current issue, for your inspection. You will notice that the outer white ring is quite thin at the base of the stamp, and that it gradually increases toward the top. Of course this is but a minor difference, but I have come across but two copies out of over a thousand that I have looked over. Both of the specimens I have come from Sound Beach, Conn., and had a return address printed on them. More recent letters from the same party do not show this difference."

BOSNIA.—The current pictorial series is about to be issued with the addition of the figures "1830—1910" in honour of the same event as the Austrian series referred to in No. 1021.

BULGARIA.—Sydney M. Mulhall sends us a few provisional from Bulgaria, the 3s orange and black of 1901 having been overprinted with a large "1" at the bottom, and "1910" in medium sized figures at the top, both being in black. The new issue will be out in a few weeks, but there is still left a quantity of the 2s, 3s, 5s, 10s, 25s, 30s and 1h of the 1901 set.

Provisional Adhesive.

Overprinted new value and date in black. 1s on 3s orange and black.

CUBA.—Alfon J. A. Stark writes:

"I note in Roessler's Stamp News for July an article in regard to the 3c Cuba, stating that Chas. R. Morris points out a fact not known to the publisher nor to any dealer of his acquaintance, viz., that the 3c was re-engraved, but that he (Mr. Morris) is unable to permit the publication of the identifying features or secret marks, owing to the fact that he has allowed Mr. Melville to incorporate the discovery in the latter's book on U. S. colonies.

I herewith submit the stamp in question for inspection. In the one marked original you will notice that the mantle or cloak is as if the same was gathered on the right shoulder to form a small projection from the shoulder and in the one marked re-engraved that the mantle is smooth or flat."

The point of difference noted by Mr. Stark is very plainly to be seen without a glass, though we cannot agree with Mr. Stark as to which is original. Judging from specimens in our possession, we should say that the stamp with the projection of the mantle was the re-engraved design, though if this is the case, the distinguishing marks are less pronounced than in the other values.

COLOMBIA.—This country has come into line with a commemorative stamp in honor of the Centenary of Independence from the Spanish yoke. Whether this stamp and that of Venezuela, noted in No. 1022, are the first of a series or are to alone commemorate the event we are not informed. Hermann Focke is the first to show us the new stamp, which was engraved and printed by American Bank Note Co. of New York. The stamp is nearly square, the design being 30 mm. high by 25 mm. broad. The portrait is that of Bolivar, but is a front view, with the face turned slightly to the right. The figures of value are in color in squares at either side of the portrait, the inscriptions reading: Above, "Colombia—Independencia Nacional"; below "Cinco Centavos—1810—Centenario—1910." The upper inscriptions are slightly curved. The ornaments are simple and the stamp presents a fine appearance.

WHO KNOWS CHAS. J. ENGLE?

We gave Mr. Engle a complimentary bit of space last week and now Mr. Eaton takes the floor with a few statements about this same gentleman:

MUSCATINE, Iowa, July 26, 1910.

"I write this to call your attention to a party by the name of Chas. J. Engle, giving his address 538 W. 145th St., New York City, who writes that he makes a specialty of British possessions and wanting to know terms, etc. Gives as reference Mr. J. H. Rivers, a member of the New York Produce Exchange, 26 Broadway, of New York City, and asks me to write him for reference. As I knew nothing of this party I wrote a prominent party in New York City to know if there was such a party at that address and as to whether he was alright. The reply was they knew nothing of such party and neither this gentleman nor Mr. Engle's name appeared in the directory. I also wrote Mr. Rivers at the above address, and letter was returned to me stamped "not known at 26 Broadway, N. Y." Perhaps you have had other complaints by this time. I write this so if you want to make mention of the fact it may save others any trouble. Upon receiving from the N. Y. party the letter, I again wrote Mr. Engle, and asked him to give me the name of some reliable stamp firm, and at the present time have not received any reply though I have had ample time to hear from him."—D. T. EATON.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

U. S. State Revenue Stamps.—This is a handsomely gotten up check list of 36 pps. issued by the U. S. R. S. and compiled by J. Delano Bartlett, the secretary of the society. Mr. Bartlett's name is a guarantee as to thoroughness and the work will meet with a hearty reception at the hands of revenue collectors and especially collectors of state revenues. The book is fully illustrated with nice cuts. No price is given.

—Robt. G. Montgomery sends us a copy of the newspaper article referred to by Mr. Severn editorially. We should be glad to reprint the same were it not for the fact that it is copyrighted. The salient features of the article are touched upon by Mr. Severn.

ROYAL PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

societies of the United Kingdom, and the admirable arrangements made by the Herts Society for the meetings, both for the business transactions and for the entertainment of the delegates and their friends, were highly appreciated by all those attending the Congress.

Some papers of a high order of merit were read, and there were several discussions on matters of interest. Although no definite results were arrived at there can be no doubt as to the advantage to philately that must ensue from the opportunities afforded by gatherings of this description for the mutual exchange of views on matters of general philatelic importance between the representatives of the various societies and bodies, who, but for the Congress, would not otherwise be brought into contact with one another.

To those few who are inclined to scoff and to complain that nothing of real value has yet been effected, I would counsel patience. This is only the second Philatelic Congress that has been held in this country, and in all such matters some time must necessarily elapse before solid results can be expected to arise from the combined wisdom gradually developed from the experience gained by frequent meetings and interchange of ideas.

It has now been practically decided that the Congress shall be an annual affair, and Birmingham has been fixed as the place of meeting for next year.

The celebrated collection of our late fellow-member, Sir William Avery, Bart., has during the past year been absorbed by the market. It is to be regretted that such a collection could not have been kept intact, but it is a satisfaction to know that some at any rate, of the very great rarities for which the collection was renowned have found a resting-place amongst the stamps of other Fellows of this Society.

The interesting discovery, reported by Mr. Bacon, amongst the stamps owned by Sir W. Avery, of the missing essay of the 2d Sydney View, which had been removed at some time from a piece of paper in the Tapling Collection, on which are the essays of the 1d and 3d values, is worthy of note, and encourages the hope that some day the remaining missing Queen's Head essay by Clayton may be also found in some similar manner.

The issue of the new 4d stamps on the 1st November, last, and of the 7d value which only appeared on the 4th May in this year, will, it is presumed, complete the series of the King Edward stamps of the Mother Country, with the exception, perhaps, of a fresh design for the 2d value, which has been prepared but has not yet been issued.

The question of the stamps for the new reign will no doubt come under consideration at an early date, and if, as there is no doubt will be the case, the King is consulted, the knowledge and experience of His Majesty on such a subject cannot fail to be of advantage to the authorities, in enabling them to provide for this country stamps of greater artistic merit than those which we have for some years past been accustomed to see.

In regard to forthcoming events, one of the most interesting will be the International Philatelic Exhibition to be held at Berne in September next. Under the able guidance of our fellow-member, Baron A. de Reuterskiöld, as President of the Committee, a great success is anticipated for the Exhibition, which is the first to be held in Switzerland for fourteen years.

An Exhibition is also announced in Vienna in 1911, in which the Austrian societies will join, and I notice that Mr. A. Passer, a Fellow of this Society, will act as the Honorary Secretary.

The limits of space usually allotted to my annual report will not permit, on this occasion, of a more extended reference to events unconnected with the Society and its members, but all such events are duly recorded as they occur in the numerous philatelic journals that are now at our disposal.

WAYNE HOTEL, GARDENS AND SUMMER AUDITORIUM.

By courtesy of H. W. BOERS.

The hotel pictured above will be the headquarters of the Chicago delegation in attendance upon the A. P. S. convention at Detroit. It is a high class hotel and has in connection with it one of the most popular places of amusement in the city.

Mr. Boers in submitting this half-tone wishes us to invite all philatelists owning kodaks to bring them along, as "there is a whole lot of good things here worth photographing and remembering." Mr. Boers suggests that a photo record of the convention will be the best thing to refresh the memory in recalling the events of convention week. The WEEKLY will be very glad to go to the expense of having some half-tones made from some good group pictures.

COMMUNICATIONS.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

MANKATO, MINN., July 20, 1910.

To the EDITOR :

As this is an age of research, many articles have been written on subjects relating to philately, which has long been a hobby and has advanced until today it is a science.

As the conventions of the American Philatelic Society and the United States Revenue Society will be held next month at the same time in the beautiful city of Detroit, would it not now be well to arouse a favorable sentiment in an important work?

In the past many good articles have been published on United States and United States Revenue Stamps in various philatelic magazines. Would it not be well when the Convention meets to formulate some plan whereby these and future writings on this class of stamps could be preserved in volumes?

As a suggestion, if each of these societies appoint a committee, with power to act, to select all valuable writings of the past, and with permission of the authors consolidate in one volume; all future selected articles in one volume a year. These volumes would be only for members of these societies, free.

Not every member has access to all philatelic literature, but in this way all members would get all good articles published on stamps as above in one volume a year. This would increase the number of stamp collectors and would aid to further philately in general.

These articles published by the societies would stimulate philately and thereby increase the membership.

This great American country is destined to become the great philatelic land.

JNO. N. DEGLMANN.

KENANSVILLE, N. C., July 28, 1910.

To the EDITOR :

I am inclosing herewith ballot and proxy (signed in blank) which please place in the hands of some member who will attend the Convention at Detroit and whom you believe to be as strong a supporter of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY as I am. If it is the idea of the members to compensate us for the loss of the WEEKLY, let it be by reducing the dues by so much as they have been paying for the WEEKLY. I propose to remain a member of the A. P. S. but were it a question of doing without the A. P. S. or the WEEKLY, I should drop out of the Society.

ST. LOUIS, MO., July 30, 1910.

To the Secretaries of Branch Societies : In accordance with Section 4, Article 9 of the By-Laws, you are called upon to report to this Board a statement of the number of meetings held by your respective branches during the year, to furnish us with a list of the members in good standing at the time of your report, and such other information pertaining to the work of your respective branches which may be of interest to the Society.

Please furnish these reports before August 15, 1910.

F. R. CORNWALL,
Chairman Board of Vice Presidents.

BRANCH No. 18.

The regular meeting of Branch No. 18 was held at the Club Room of the Philadelphia Stamp Club on July 19th, President Hahman in the chair. The Secretary's report of the previous meeting was approved. Eight members were present. Percy McG. Mann announced that extra editions of the Philadelphia Stamp News would be published at Detroit, Mich., on the three days of the A. P. S. convention, and that they will be for gratuitous distribution to the members present.

There being no business to transact the meeting was adjourned.

APPLICATIONS RECEIVED.

As soon as your name has been published as an applicant you will probably have unsolicited selections of stamps sent you on approval. As a great many collectors object to this the Society desires to break the practice up. Please aid us and help protect yourself and others against further imposition, by holding such selections without purchasing therefrom until sufficient funds have been received from the sender to enable you to return the stamps to him by registered mail. Also please report to the Secretary of the Society the name of the dealer sending such unsolicited selections.

Will all members who have sent checks or money orders to the Secretary's office in payment of applications or dues kindly take the trouble to see if the same have been cashed? By so doing you will confer quite a favor to the Secretary.

This hot weather leads us to think of the cool breezes and beverages enjoyed "where life is worth living". Have you made up your mind yet to be one of that happy throng who will enjoy the good things offered in many ways by our hosts of this year's convention? Each year makes it harder for succeeding hosts to surpass and yet every year it is accomplished. Each year the conventions grow in interest and value and the attendance grows larger as the individual member realizes the importance of this. Had you not better decide to try it once? Now is a good opportunity and where could you find a better place than Detroit?

"On to Detroit."

IS YOUR COLLECTION FOR SALE?

Our past season's sales were very successful; in a number of instances record prices were obtained. Our auction catalogues not only go to society members and others whose names are common property, but reach many collectors who trade with no other firm.

Fair treatment to both buyer and seller is the secret of our success. 169 sales held to date.

We are now planning for next season, and want to hear from owners who desire to realize.

IMPERFORATE U. S. REVENUES.

BY CLARENCE H. EAGLE.

I have been asked by the secretary of the U. S. R. S. to compile a list of all imperf. and part. perf. revenues as far as known in pairs. He has also asked me to be brief. I think, therefore, that the shortest way is to mention those that are not known to me in pairs.

I believe that I have pairs of all that are known to exist in pairs. If there are any pairs that I have no specimen of, I have yet to learn where they are, as the owners have not disclosed themselves.

The Scott Catalogue is now very correct as far as it goes. It prices every imperf. of the 1st issue that exists, and I have a pair of everything except two, viz., the $1.30 and the $1.90. There is no reasonable doubt that those two stamps were issued and used in imperforate condition. We have seen many single copies with wonderful margins; have seen them on the original document, with cancellation on stamp and paper and used by such banking firms as J. P. Morgan & Co., Brown Bros. & Co., etc., the odd values representing various sums of foreign exchange. Probably a pair was used occasionally but those have been lost or destroyed long since.

The 50c Entry of Goods has yet to be found, also the 6c Inland and the 40c Inland. Many wide margin single copies (or vertical pairs where they have been trimmed from part perf. pairs) are seen, but I do not believe in them.

Many pairs of imperf. are much rarer than the price for a single would indicate. I have paid for a pair as much as ten times the price of a single copy. Some pairs I have only recently obtained though looking for fifteen years. It is within the year that the $10 Charter Party has been brought to light.

There are several pairs in my collection that are the only ones known of their denomination. Of course all I say here is as far as my knowledge is concerned. It won't do for a man to say things do not exist, because he has not the knowledge of them. I have, however, scoured the country pretty well. I have had printed, in my search, some sixteen want lists, which have been circulated more or less widely. My list was published in one of the A. P. S. books last year, and it seems reasonable that any collector having what I asked for or doubted would have written me. That does not always occur, however, for it has turned out that Mr. Levick had in his collection two or three things that I was not aware of while he lived and which I have since acquired: the 4c rose Documentary of 1898, not rouletted horizontally, and the 4c blue Kerr on old paper in the Medicine stamps. Mr. Levick had these, but they were not listed, and he never asked me to view his collection.

A word of caution about imperf. pairs. Be careful about buying vertical pairs of those stamps which are known to come in part perf. condition, for unscrupulous persons trim off the vertical perforations and thereby make imperf. pairs. This can happen to several, like the 25c Bond, 10c Power and 40c Inland, which I referred to before. Now a few stamps come part perf. at top and bottom, like the 1c and 2c Proprietary. If they were trimmed you would have a horizontal pair of imperf. stamps, a condition in which they are not known to exist. Here is where the advantage of collecting in blocks of four (or more) comes in, for a block of four part perf., either way, would preclude any possibility of being tampered with.

Four or five years ago, a collector in New York, I am ashamed to say, took a lot of imperf. pairs, more or less common, and had them perforated at the sides or tops, making several unknown (!) pairs of part perfs. The gauge was the same as the Government's and it was difficult at first to tell them from genuine issues. These pairs were advertised to be sold at auction, with other goods, in a regular sale by a reputable dealer. I promptly went and examined the lots. There was the dollar For. Exchange and several other dollar values, some of the five dollar values, the $20 Conveyance and the $50 green, all in wonderful part perf. pairs, some at top and bottom, some at sides. I also believe the rare dollar perf. Mortgage had been made from the commoner, imperf.

I at once protested to the dealer, saying that I would not bid on such, but that others would buy and exploit them, perhaps have them catalogued,—that it would lead to no end of trouble and scandal. He saw the point and I am glad to say, had enough courage to withdraw them from the sale (altho the catalogue was printed) and returned them to the owner.

Imperf. U. S. Stamps

We still have a few copies left of the book we published giving values of various imperf. guide lines, etc., and which we mail for TEN CENTS.

Our new book on U. S. is still selling very freely. It is entitled "U. S. Postal Issues and Their Varieties," and can be secured for $1.00 postfree, bound in cloth, or 75 cts. postfree, bound in paper.

Remember Mr. Power has priced every variety of shade and paper and with this book no collector need have any further difficulty with his U. S. stamps. Edition getting low. Better order now.

Valuable Information for Collectors

The proper way of completing your collection is by using our "want list system." This method is far superior than hunting over hundreds of approval selections and picking off everything that comes along.

Why not make up a "want list" of those odds and ends that you need to fill up your sets, even if the cheaper grade, and send it to us and you will receive them neatly mounted, and each stamp priced separately. We try and allow 50% discount whenever possible, and we only send out stamps in fine condition.

Send for our price and check list. It's free. Also ask for some of our printed want list forms.

I am headquarters for U. S. and its Colonies. My 1910 Price List will tell the tale. Yours for the asking.

H. F. COLMAN,

GEORGE L. TOPPAN, Manager,

723 ELEVENTH ST., N. W.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

I presume they will crop out again some day.

As to Scott's list of part perfs. it is also quite accurate. It catalogues the 2c orange Bank Check, which I have never seen in a pair and wide margin copies of those cheap stamps, which were used in billions, is no proof. The $10 Conveyance has been listed several years, but I have not the least bit of knowledge about it. The $25 Mortgage is not strictly speaking a part perforate. There are a few horizontal pairs known that are perforated all around, but not vertically between. I have pairs, and I have two singles that were a pair and separated between, where the perforation escaped, making a stamp perforated at top, one side and bottom. All these stamps were cancelled by W. G. M. and J. C. April 3d to 7th, 1864. They should be classed as errors.

I have some pairs perf. top and bottom that Scott does not list, for he does not make that distinction, viz., 10c Bill of L., 10c Certificate, 10c Contract. I do not think they were made from imperf. pairs. When buying them, I required an affidavit from the original discoverer that he took them off the document in that condition.

I think I have pairs of all that Scott lists except the 25c Warehouse Receipt. I think it exists, for we find so many good singles. It was only recently that I got a vertical pair of the 25c Life Insurance. I required an affidavit before a notary. They were found in West Virginia, and the signer found them on the document in that condition and "further that there were no more of them". I then bought the pair.

I have horizontal pairs of the 50c Passage Ticket perf. top and bottom, which came from the San Francisco Custom House before the earthquake period.

I have a horizontal pair of 3c For. Exch. perf. top and bottom. Also a similar pair of $1 Inland Exchange. This pair is cancelled with stamp in circle, "July 10 1869, John F. Henry Medicines, 3 College Place, N. Y." The date is in center of circle. I think this may be classed with the errors, as the date was very late, and the color and paper of the stamp is not of the imperf. and part perf. period. I do not know if Scott's listing of the $1 Inland Ex. refers to this pair of mine or to a pair perf. at sides. I have good single copies of the latter but no pair.

NOT A FAULT BUT A FAVOR.

The official name of this paper is A. C. Roessler's Stamp News. Previously it was The Stamp News. Some persons confused it with MEKEEL'S STAMP NEWS. Hence the change. This is rather hard on MEKEEL'S, but it isn't our fault.—A. C. Roessler's Stamp News.

THE WEIGHT OF ONE-DOLLAR BILLS.

Clipping from F. C. DEPUY.

Most persons would be surprised to learn that one-dollar bills are worth almost their weight in gold.

A twenty-dollar gold piece weighs five hundred and forty grains. Twenty-seven crisp, new one-dollar bills, fresh from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, weigh the same as the gold piece.

Bills that have been in use have been tested, and it has been found that it took but twenty-six of them to balance the gold piece. It follows, of course, that the used bills gather an accumulation of various matter, in passing from hand to hand, that causes them to take on additional weight equal to about that of one new bill.—Harper's Weekly.

VEXED CENTRAL AMERICA.

A Timely Study of Conditions Shows a Sickening Story of Mismanagement.

BY FORBES LINDSAY.

(Philatelists will be interested in this article even though its philatelic value may be nil. It offers a study of these Central American attempts at government with which as stamp collectors we are more or less familiar.—ED.)

Somewhat tardily our people are beginning to be impressed by the fact that our commercial and political relations with the countries of Central America are constantly growing greater and closer. Out of this realization is naturally rising a desire for information regarding a region about which little is known by Americans in general. Strange to say, Mr. Palmer's book ("Central America and Her Problems," An account of a Journey from the Rio Grande to Panama, with Introductory Chapters on Mexico and Her Relations to Her Neighbors. By Frederick Palmer, F. R. G. S. Map and illustrations. One volume, 8vo., Cloth, Pp. 345. New York: Moffat, Yard & Co., $2.50 net.) is the only volume extant that tells of Central America as it exists today. That alone would stamp it as a valuable addition to the bibliography of travel. But it deserves the highest commendation as the product of a trained observer who has made a thoughtful study of his subject and treated it with a just impartiality very difficult to maintain under the impact of impressions calculated to arouse the indignation of an American. More effective material than that which came to the author's hand for the composition of a sensational volume it is hardly possible to conceive. As he says, "barbarities worse than those which have excited our indignation in Russia and Turkey exist," but it is greatly to his credit, as well as to the advantage of his readers, that he has pictured these conditions without any unnecessary use of yellow paint.

Mr. Palmer makes an explanation, something in the nature of an apology, for the inclusion of the four chapters on Mexico with which the book opens: "There has been a surfeit of books on Mexico, every one adding to the store of information about the manners and customs of a picturesque neighbor; but too many, dealing with general conditions, have reflected the roseate view of the Diaz bureaucracy, which has been niggardly neither of expense nor pains in influencing American public opinion. One may safely say that no country has had a better press service."

The author's summary of Mexican conditions and his reflections upon the future of the country are both enlightening and interesting. Unlike many recent writers on the subject, he fully appreciates the serious significance of the growing spirit of "Mexico for the Mexicans" and the ever-increasing Americanophobia which "is not limited to the crowd alone, but permeates every class of Mexican society. * * * No Mexican doubts that we mean conquest in the end. The wiser ones reason that it is inevitable to our growth and our aggressive nature. The others take it for granted. Our protestations only confirm the conviction of our hypocrisy." In the improved well-being and increasing intelligence of the peon Mr. Palmer sees a potent element in "the rising patriotic sentiment which is the most vital and threatening political factor of the future."

Of the question, which daily grows more urgent, "What will become of Mexico when Diaz dies?" the author has to say:

"One of the critical moments of modern history will be here when the flag is at half-mast on Chapultepec and one of the most fascinating of great Governmental and human problems will be offered for solution. * * * What if the army and the rurales fail to respond to the man installed at Chapultepec, if he should find that another leader had the troops with him, if uprisings began in all parts of the country? The stake is a kingdom with an income which only the King's moderation names."

Four chapters are devoted to Guatemala. The utter rottenness of the administration is described adequately but without exaggeration:

"It is a country of the gods, fit home for the aboriginal civilization of a continent. Had it had anything like a fair chance the German steamers that take well-to-do Americans on Winter cruises would pass by the islands of the Caribbean. Our tourists would be seeing the beauties of Lake Atitlan, taking horseback rides on fine roads, lounging on the verandas of hotels in the delicious sunshine, or ascending the heights to catch a glimpse of the Pacific."

Of Estrada Cabrera, Mr. Palmer says: "He is forty-five, alert, suspicious of manner, with a strain of Indian blood evident in his features. When an officer in his household appeared rather suddenly in the doorway, his keen glance, the quick movement of his body in readiness for an emergency, the sharp call of inquiry with which he broke the flow of his talk, indicated a watchfulness which had become part of his existence." The assassination of his predecessor opened the way for Cabrera's occupancy of the Presidency, and his own removal by the same summary method has more than once been attempted.

After reciting some illustrations of the fearful cruelties and hardships that are imposed upon the miserable Guatemalans of all classes by the tyrannical

REMOVAL

Owing to a very unexpected change of station to the Pacific coast, I will be unable to devote any attention to my stamp business for the next six weeks. My address after September 1st will be Fort Flagler, Washington. In the meantime letters addressed to Newport will be forwarded to me. All correspondence and orders will be attended to at my earliest convenience.

BARTELS

wishes to announce the publication of a new philatelic monthly to be known as

Bartels' Philatelic Gazette

which will be issued about the 15th day of each month, commencing about Sept. 15, 1910. It will be edited by Mr. W. W. Randall, the well known writer and specialist, and it is our aim to make the new paper different and run on entirely new lines from any stamp paper now published in America. The first number will speak for itself, and it will be the aim of the publishers to make a monthly necessity to every collector and dealer as well. Many attractive features are planned, among which will be a department devoted to U. S. Envelopes, in which new discoveries and new issues will be treated by Dr. V. M. Berthold, the eminent U. S. envelope expert. J. Murray Bartels and other prominent writers will from time to time have special articles on U. S. and Foreign stamps in its pages.

The subscription price is only to all points in the world.

25 CENTS PER YEAR

A limited amount of advertising will be accepted in

Bartels' Philatelic Gazette

at the rate of 10 cents per line, net. No discounts or contracts.

It is the intention of the publishers to have a very wide circulation of the initial number, not only in this country but all over the world.

autocrat, their President, the author answers the question which naturally arises in the mind of the reader:

"Why do not these people sell their property? Why do not they leave Guatemala? They cannot sell their property without the consent of the officials, who refuse to issue a legal transfer. They cannot leave Guatemala except over jungle trails, and then only if undetected. Cabrera fears that if he let them go they would become emigrados, who would agitate against him. Then why do not a hundred of the leading citizens band together and buy arms and start a revolution? The first answer is that the United States has supported the party in power, which is the official Government, regardless of its nature; and the second is that Cabrera has the leading citizens terrorized, as he has every one else. They suspect one another; co-ordination is impossible."

Salvador, "the smallest republic," is disposed of in one chapter. Notwithstanding her hitherto successful defense against her ancient enemy, Guatemala, Mr. Palmer believes that Salvador is doomed to lose her independence.

The secret of the Salvadoreans' relative happiness and content the author found when he "passed plot after plot of coffee ground as large as village squares, each owned and worked by some peasant proprietor."

But Salvador is being dragged down to the level of the worst Central American States.

"Conditions are growing worse, economically and politically. On the 700,000 quintals of coffee produced every year, each quintal has to pay a tax of 40 cents in gold. Sugar is free of export tax as yet, and a little of it is shipped to Europe and to Ecuador. * * * Duties are heaviest of any country in the world, and are arranged on a system to encourage official favoritism in return for bribes. They are mostly according to weight with a pound of barbed wire paying almost as much as a pound of lace. On top of this is a special tax of 240 per cent. and still another bonos oro of 360 per cent. put on for war purposes. Flour which costs in San Francisco $6 a barrel, in Salvador costs about $12; a case of coal oil that costs $1 in New York costs $7 laid down in Salvador. No wonder the Salvadorean eats little bread; no wonder he goes to bed early."

Honduras is described as "the most backward country of them all," and Miguel Davila, its Chief Executive, as "the one clean-handed President in money matters in Central America." Also he is probably the most unhappy of this group of unconstitutional rulers. To the author he said:

"I go to bed every night without knowing what may happen in the morning."

I have no one whom I can trust. I have to do all for myself. All I ask is to escape assassination and finish my term of office honorably. What hope of peace or development has Honduras lying between Guatemala and Nicaragua? None, except by interference from the United States."

The sickening story of misgovernment and corruption runs on with a touch of monotony through the chapters on Nicaragua, and then we find relief in the description of "happy little Costa Rica."

"Costa Rica is the one country, from the Mexican to the Chilean borders, with a comparatively free press and free speech from the members of the opposition in Congress; the one country to which the Canal Zone doctors freely send convalescents for recuperations, and the one country (excepting Mexico) where you travel without a passport or official permission to enter and leave."

The peaceful and prosperous conditions in Costa Rica are not due, as is the case with Mexico, to the iron rule of a dictator. The temper of the people for generations has fostered these conditions. They have not had a revolution in forty years, but a short and sharp one would probably quickly follow any attempt of their President to act in violation of the law and the Constitution. Said a prominent citizen to Mr. Palmer:

"No, Sir. We aren't going to have any dictators in our country. Why, we have plenty of men who are smart enough to be President. Some of them are too smart. Now, if any Costa Rican President got what you call 'fresh,' all the planters would come riding into San Jose when they had the coffee crop in, and say: 'That's enough of this dictator business!' We have done just that thing in Costa Rica before, and we would do it again, and the Presidents know it and it keeps them in order. But we have not had a revolution for over forty years. Revolutions are bad for business."

But with good Government, splendid climate, rich soil, and commercial prosperity, there remains a fly in the amber. The Costa Ricans, as individuals and as a nation are extravagant. "Proud little Costa Rica, so scrupulous about her national honor, has been defaulting the interest on her national debt for many years." Not a few of the leading citizens blame the United Fruit Company for this condition, inasmuch as it induced the Government to enter upon the construction of a costly railroad with an inadequate revenue.

There is a chapter on "Coffee and Bananas," the chief products of the Central American countries. Other chapters deal with "Money and Finance," "The New Monroe Doctrine," "Moral Conditions," &c.—New York Times.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

At Hand—The twenty-fifth annual convention of the American Philatelic Society will convene at Detroit on August 15th; and the indications are that the attendance at least will be an average one and that the sessions will be interesting. There are several subjects that are booked for consideration that will excite controversy; and there is an evident determination on the part of some of the members to make the convention one that will leave an impress on philately. It is a circumstance of satisfaction to know that Mr. Mudge will preside at the sessions and that his ripe experience will safeguard the course of business. John N. Luff, who preceded Mr. Mudge as president will not be able to attend, much to his regret; he must remain at his post, while Mr. Power is in London and the clerks are on vacations. As usual, the WEEKLY will present an early report of the business of the convention, with an account of the social features of the occasion. In the next issue there will be much of the official matter and it will require several of the succeeding issues before the subject of the convention is dismissed.

A Question Hard to Answer—Some months ago, we received the following letter from the English specialist of United States stamps whose questions particularly on the subject of guide-lines of the 1894-95 issues attracted so much attention and elicited information on a topic that had not been considered in print, heretofore. We sought to gain the data requested in the letter from a friend who finally learned that if any official record of the sheet scheme of the 1-cent, 1851-60 stamps was preserved it was not available. We then turned to John N. Luff, who very courteously has given us the benefit of his observations. Our English reader presents his query in the following words:

"My thanks to you and to your courteous correspondent, Mr. Charles R. Morris, for his very kind reply in No. 1008 of the WEEKLY to my query re 'guide' lines. The difficulty disappeared as I read the explanation by Mr. Morris.

I am still seeking more information—this time with reference to the Guide Lines 1851-60 issue.

I understand that 200 subjects were prepared on all plates of this issue, arranged in two panes with perpendicular guide line between them and that it was along this guide line that the full sheet was cut before distribution, into 2 Post Office sheets each of 100 stamps.

I have the perforated 3c with guide line at right, and another with guide line at left, and in each case—so inaccurately has the cutting been done—there is left 1½ mm. of the stamp on the other side of the guide line.

I have also two others, but without the part of the adjacent stamp, one with a line—(apparently the guide line because there is a distinct 'cut' edge all down the side, and the perforations have not been used)—at right, and the other with line at left, and in each of these two, there is a row of normal perforations alongside the line. If in this latter case the line be the guide line, it appears to me that there was some variation in the application of the perforating, and I shall be glad to know:—

1. Whether there were any lines on the plates of this issue, other than the centre guide line.

If 'yes' be the answer to the above—

2. In what position on the plate were they placed, and what was their use.

If 'no' be the answer to No. 1 above—

3. Why do some of the stamps of this issue have perforations alongside the guide line."

We Thank Mr. Luff—Mr. Luff writes: "I have your favour of the 2nd enclosing a letter which I will endeavor to answer to the best of my ability.

We have no records about the plates for the U. S. 1851-57 issue and whatever has been written about them had to be done from observation. I am now somewhat rusty on the subject but my remembrance is that the majority of stamps which I have seen and which bore evidence that they came from the middle lines of the plate and showed the perpendicular guide line, indicated that the two panes were set very close together on the plate, often not more than about two millimetres apart. Under these conditions it often happened that when the sheet was divided the cut was made too far to one side and the adjacent stamp suffered. I do not think, however, there was any fixed rule as to the space between the panes and it sometimes happened that there was a much greater space than two millimetres. As I write, I have before me a block of the 3c, 1857, type I (i. e. with outer lines at top and bottom). This block appears to be from the right-hand pane and has at the left a margin of ten millimetres. Six millimetres from the stamps is the vertical guide line and right adjacent to the stamps a row of perforations. All this would seem to indicate that in this instance there was a space between the panes of about twelve millimetres and to avoid a wide margin perforations were run along the edge of the stamp. I am not overlooking the possibility that this margin might be the outer margin of the sheet but I have never seen or heard of an outer margin with a guide line. So far as I know these guide lines only occur between the panes of this issue. In either instance it would appear to explain the varieties which your correspondent describes in his letter. This answers questions one and two, so far as my information extends. The answer to his question three would seem to be: when there was a very narrow space between the two panes they were simply cut apart; when there was a wide space extra lines of perforations were made adjacent to the stamps.

Very truly yours,
JOHN N. LUFF."

40,000 STAMPS

In six volumes, at half Cat. Collections bought Stamp & Coin Exchange, 65 Nassau, N.Y. City sounded by one, who, rendered frantic with gnawing disappointment, loses all sense of the proprieties and registers the following ranting protest: "I must protest against your arbitrary ruling. It must have leaked out that I intended hypothecating the valuable 'Penflip Prize' and donating the sum realized to the 'Barnum Campaign Fund,' and I think that I am justified in suspecting a conspiracy on your part (in conjunction with Messrs. Wylie, Morris, et al.) to deprive that estimable young man, Mr. Barnum, of this important donation. Yours with Confusion to the Cabal, H. Wesley Legg." Our readers will remember that there were two correct answers received, under our reconsideration of the question, one from Mr. Howard and the other from Mr. Legg. We gave Mr. Howard the prize not alone because he sent in his answer first but also because Mr. Legg did not vote for the WEEKLY for official journal of the A. P. S. a year ago. Let us drop a tear of pity as we contemplate the wreckage of a mind once brilliant but which has now drifted on the rocks of ruin. H. Wesley Legg can get no surcease from the haunting recollection of his awful act in not voting for the WEEKLY last year as official journal of the A. P. S.; it is useless for him to make accusations of the wildest nature, aye, even to dare lift his voice against the peerless Parnassus Penflip himself, as we all know that his idea is to distract attention from himself and his sufferings of conscience. Do with us as you will, but let no one commit the sacrilege of lifting vandal hand or raising mocking voice against the great and glorious Parnassus Penflip.

All Right—It is with a feeling of genuine relief that we can say that Penflip has commended our manner of naming the prize winner, as he has written to say: "Your epistolary communication enclosing your three months' note in liquidation of the balance due for literary lucubrations is at hand and as you suggest, I shall try to discount your note at the local bank. It seems incomprehensible that in view of the hugely augmented popularity of the WEEKLY through my writings that you have not the cash on hand. Your adjudication of the prize award was equitable and meets my wish. I shall circulate incognito at Detroit as I fear that my friends would show me too much attention were my presence to be known to them. Is it the custom for hotels to accommodate distinguished guests gratuitously? If so, I might have to reveal my identity to the management."

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

TOO MUCH POSTAGE.

Clipping from GEO. KUMP.

There is a clerk in the employ of a Philadelphia business man who while a fair worker is yet an individual of pronounced eccentricity. One day a wire basket fell off the top of the clerk's desk and scratched his cheek. Not having any court plaster at hand he slapped on three two-cent postage stamps and continued his work. A few minutes later he had occasion to take some papers to his employer's private office. When he entered, the "old man" observing the postage stamps on his cheek, fixed him with an astonished stare. "Look here, Jenkins," he exclaimed, "you are carrying too much postage for second-class matter."

AFGHANISTAN.—Ewen's Weekly has now had a further supply of the current issue and this time the blocks of 50 of the 1 abasi have margin on all four sides and no doubt all three values are printed from plates of 50 types, arranged in 5 rows of 10. The margin at bottom is about 2 inches wide, which probably accounts for its being usually torn off.

As it is important for stamp-collectors to be able to decipher the name of the country of issue on their stamps, we may describe the Persian spelling of Afghanistan. It commences at the right end of the left scroll with an upright stroke, "a"; then comes a thickened curve with a dot over it ("f") joined to a blot with a dot over it ("gh" or hard "g") joined to an upright stroke ("a" again). Then comes a breathing space, followed by a thin curve and a dot over it ("n") joined to a straight horizontal line which ought to be wavy ("s") ending in one wave and two dots over it ("t") and an upright stroke ("a") for the third time. Then a detached semi-circle, like a ship at sea and, of course, the inevitable dot ("n").

Underneath all this is a circle inscribed in Arabic "ba-qimat do abasi" (price two abasi). An abasi is one third of a cabuli rupee.

In the 1 abasi, there is in the left-hand top corner the word "yak" and in the right-hand top corner "yo", both meaning "one". Between them is "Dak-Khana" but written eccentrically; whilst beneath the central design is a very much condensed inscription, exactly similar to that on the 2 abasi, reading backwards "Kingdom the God-given, Afghanistan." Persian writing seems very adaptable, as it will be noticed that Afghanistan is written "Afgha" and then as there is only room for the final "n" the 6th to the 11th letters "nista" are written in the line above, the wavy "s" being present on this occasion. At the bottom is a word we cannot quite make out; the inscription may be "price one abasi" but it is not similar to that on the other stamps.

The 1 rupee has "yo" and "yak" in the top corners but in reverse positions to those on the 1 abasi. The circular inscription at the top is "Post Office, kingdom the God-given of Afghanistan" all in one line and at the foot "Price 1 rupee" in Arabic.

The watermark "Howard & Jones—London" covers roughly 12 stamps (2 rows of 6).

As regards varieties on the sheets, the stamps are not very well engraved and there would probably not be great difficulty in identifying all 50 types composing the sheet. The most important of the variations is perhaps the omission of the dots or mark over the "k" of "yak" ("one") in the top left-hand corner of the 1 abasi.

ANTIGUA.—Ewen's Weekly says that the printings of stamps for this colony in the current designs have been as follows:

These figures tell an eloquent tale! In seven years all the stamp collectors of the world have not been able to put up sufficient demand to exhaust the small supply of 24,000 2d stamps, 18,000 3d, 12,000 6d and 6000 2sh 6d stamps. Are there really less than 6000 collectors able to purchase a 2sh stamp? There must apparently be far fewer, as of course some buy blocks, whilst some of the stamps are certainly used on parcels and others perhaps fiscally.

Ewen's goes on to give the following reason for the small sale of these stamps, which some of our readers will not agree with:

"The cause is to be found in the serious decline of general collecting, attributed by some to the increase in the number of new issues but in reality due to the increased cataloguing of watermark, perforation and other varieties, which has compelled collectors to limit their collections to one or two countries or to a small group. There is no reason why the wealthier collectors should not collect on this scale nor why the studiously inclined should not pursue their one-country collections, but for the rank and file of collectors there is no doubt that a simplified system of general collecting is very much wanted. The adoption of such a standard does not prevent the specialisation of single issues or countries as side collections."

AZORES.—We have received from Mr. Schachne the late issue of letter cards and find they are same as the last issue of Portugal in size, fold, color and headlines but of course have the new Azores stamp. All perf. III.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—Ewen's Weekly notes the issue of the 1c King's Head on multiple ordinary instead of chalky paper.

BELGIUM.—The charity stamps noted in No. 1017 have been supplemented by a further issue, all values there mentioned having now been seen in both types. There are therefore two complete sets of four values, one without background, and the other with background and dated "1910". The first has the imprint, "C. Montald" and the second, "H. Lemaire".

CEYLON.—Ewen's Weekly reports that the 2c value has been issued in red brown instead of light red brown, the 5c in light lilac instead of dark lilac and the 6c in deep rose instead of light rose.

L'Echo chronicles seven new values, printed on multiple paper:

CRETE.—The Panhellenists are certainly having their way in surcharging the stamps of Crete with "Ellas" in many types and varieties. We have not attempted to keep pace with these various surcharges as there is a grave doubt as to their having any philatelic value. Turkey, the suzerain of Crete, has refused to allow the stamps thus surcharged to be admitted in the Turkish mails. As far as the rest of the world is concerned, it makes no difference whether the stamps are surcharged or not. They do not appear to be of very much more value than the perforated stamps current in many countries, or of the stamps overprinted with the names of firms or newspapers, as is allowed in England and India.

There seems to be a very restless element in both Crete and Greece, and it is to this element that the current Panhellenic movement is due. Apparently, however, philatelists are to be the principal sufferers, though they have the remedy in their own hands.

ELOBEY, ANNOBON AND CORISCO.—Le Postillon chronicles a host more provisionals made by surcharging the fiscal stamps.

Provisional Adhesives.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The current 2d stamp is now being issued in dark green and rose instead of light green and rose.

NETHERLANDS.—A new provisional was issued July 20, and in use only one day, the 1 gulden light blue and red having been surcharged "3 cent" diagonally in black. At the same time a postage due stamp of the same value in the usual design was issued.

Provisional Postage Due Adhesive.

PARAGUAY.—Philip Wolff writes: "In the July 30 number of MEKEEL'S it is stated that the Paraguay high values, Scott's 138 to 145, have now been placed on sale to the regular public. The official date of issue of these stamps was October 15, 1909, when the Paraguayan Post Office Department (and not the famous M. Daumas Ladouce or Sr.

Roberto Rosauer) sent me all the above stamps and a few others after my order for them had waited almost half a year."

RIO DE ORO.—This Spanish colony has created several new provisionals, the high values of the 1905 set being surcharged with date and value in three lines, thus: "1910—15—Centimos".

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Protected States.—It is reported that there will be no surcharges for Trengganu, as strict orders have been given in the Federated Malay States that there be no more provisionals. Le Timbre-Poste says it is possible that Kedah Kelantan, Perlis, Perak, Selangor, Negri Sembilan and Pahang will have new stamps, if a series is issued for Trengganu.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.—As announced in No. 1019, the 10d has now been issued on Crown A paper. A specimen has been shown us by the New England Stamp Co. and we find it is more of an orange shade than red. Therefore we chronicle it as in a new color.

Adhesive.

10d orange red.

The ½d value has also appeared on Crown A paper, the first change that has been made since 1885 in this value, with the exception of the provisionals of 1884 and 1895.

ZANZIBAR.—In its current stamp quotations Ewen's Colonial Stamp Market separates the current stamps of this Protectorate into two series, according to their watermarks, after the manner of the Papua stamps:

A WORD OF APPRECIATION.

There are those who evidently believe that a newspaper man has no feeling. He can be abused, misrepresented and maligned and withal must hold his peace. Once in a while a kind hearted subscriber warms the cockles of the editor's heart and makes him feel that life is worth living. R. H. Lamscha, A. P. S. 2307, in a letter just at hand writes:

"Enclosed find Money Order for one dollar in payment of two years subscription to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS dating from expiration. I also enclose my proxy, with name of same blank which you may make use of as deemed best for the interests of the A. P. S. I have cancelled my subscription to one stamp paper solely on account of the acrid criticism of the management of the WEEKLY."

THE BABU AND THE POSTAGE STAMP.

A Missing Stamp that Resulted in a Voluminous Correspondence.

(Jos. A. Steinmetz favors us with this clipping from Tit Bits and thinks it well worth reprinting, especially as the summer season is on and even the stamp collector needs a bit of relaxation. We are quite prepared to agree with Mr. Steinmetz. —ED.)

CHAPTER I.

The Government offices in Whitehall are supposed to use "red tape" pretty freely, but the supply in London is nothing to what it is in India. The natives fairly revel in red tape, and in some cases beat the English officials hollow. Let us outline briefly the true history of Babu Tara Chand (late of the Subordinate Branch of the Indian Civil Service). The story is true.

Babu Tara Chand was a deputy-sub-assistant-acting-clerk in the Cutcherry of Mr. Deputy-Collector Smith (or Jones), in the Swankibagh District of Southern Bengal, and the principal duty which it fell to his lot to perform was licking the postage-stamps and affixing them to the letters which emerged from the Deputy-Collector's office in time to catch the four o'clock "dak" each afternoon. The inland postage rate in India at that period was three pies, or about one farthing, for each letter weighing one tola.

One fine day when the officials had concluded the annual or biennial overhaul of the books of the Cutcherry, it was discovered that, by some unheard-of turpitude, one stamp of the value of three pies (one farthing) had been unaccounted for. The stamp could be clearly traced to the desk and control of Babu Tara Chand. Thence it had disappeared, vanished into the Ewigkeit.

Babu Tara Chand was not summarily dismissed, neither was he made the target of a criminal prosecution. Instead, he received a lengthy letter on blue foolscap paper, pointing out in detail how certain property of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen Empress, to wit, one Indian postage stamp of the value of three pies, had been committed to his care on the 10th day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-dot, and that up to the date of writing no proper or adequate explanation had been forthcoming of said postage-stamp, of which he (the Babu Tara Chand) was the recognized and official custodian.

CHAPTER II.

This communication fell upon the luckless Tara Chand like a bolt from the blue.

It left but three courses open to him, viz.:

- Resign from the service.
- Explain the disappearance of the farthing postage stamp in a manner deemed satisfactory by the Auditor-General.
- Recoup the farthing.

Of these three courses it will be obvious to any person with the shallowest knowledge of the Bengali character that the third one (c) was from the outset beyond the pale of consideration. The first (a) was also too terrible to contemplate. Therefore, Babu Tara Chand sat down and composed a letter which was a masterpiece in its way, and in which he requested to be seconded from routine service for a period of four weeks to enable him to make such a search among the records of the department, etc., as might enable him to trace the missing postage stamp.

This reasonable request was readily granted.

Four weeks later Babu Tara Chand applied for a further term of two weeks wherein to draw up a report upon the results of his investigations in pursuit of the errant postage stamp. This, having passed through the eighteen or nineteen different hands necessary for such an application, was in turn duly granted, and at the end of the fortnight Tara Chand submitted a report of 216 foolscap pages, explaining that, despite the most diligent efforts and enquiries on his part, he had been unable to secure the slightest clue to the cause of the deficiency.

When the Department of Audits and Accounts had fully digested this document, and presented a report of the same, in official précis, to the Auditor-General, through the Secretary of the Assistant Auditor-General of the Presidency of Bengal, notified Babu Tara Chand that it was not wholly satisfactory, and that the circumstances bearing upon the loss of the stamp would have to be definitely explained and proven or the deficit of three pies would have to be made good.

CHAPTER III.

Babu Tara Chand stuck to his guns, and wrote again. He wrote many times. As often as he wrote his explanations the Auditor-General wrote signifying his official dissatisfaction with the same.

Eventually one fine day, about nine months subsequent to the discovery of the loss, and some two years subsequent to its alleged perpetration, the Auditor-General—his interest in the matter of a farthing postage stamp being overwhelmed in a Frontier War Budget—sent an ultimatum of Tara Chand: The loss of the postage stamp would have to be definitely explained, or its value, the sum of three pies, be duly refunded to the Treasurer of the Swankibagh District in the Province of Southern Bengal.

Then Babu Tara Chand became possessed of an inspiration, which, even to this day, is pointed to with pride and complacency by even the most circumlocutory of the Red Tape Departments within the purview of the Government of India.

Babu Tara Chand wrote to the Auditor-General as follows:

"Re Lost Postage Stamp of Three (3) Pies.

Sir,—In reply to your memo. of 7th inst., I have the honour to state terrible conflagration in my cook-house on 5th inst., hopelessly annihilating all documents in the case of lost postage stamp of three pies, property of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen-Empress. Therefore, by grace of God and under Regulation Para 13,459, Section CXXXIV of Departmental Regulations, Vol. 87 (Bengal), I request you forward for my information complete copies of entire file of correspondence in this case, so that I can report again upon same to your satisfaction. I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and humble servant,

TARA CHAND,
(Deputy-Sub-Assistant-Acting-Clerk to the Deputy-Collector, Swankibagh)."

The Auditor-General never replied. Tara Chand had won his case.

TWO CLOSE SHAVES.

Chicago's sense of gladness inspired by thought of the coming trip to Detroit narrowly escaped being turned into sadness by accidents that befell Henry Ades Fowler and P. M. Wolsieffer, respectively. Without the presence of these two shining lights the convention party would be a sombre one, indeed.

Henry Ades Fowler, secretary of the Chicago Philatelic Society, patronized the new bathing beach at Lincoln Park on one of the recent blistering days. Overestimating his strength, he swam too far from shore, as on the return trip, he became exhausted and was sinking for the third time, when rescued by the life-savers. It took two of the life guards to land Mr. Fowler, so frantically did he struggle; one knocked him senseless with a blow on one side of the head and the other clipped him on the jaw or thereabouts.

On the evening of the last Monday in July, during a severe rain-storm, P. M. Wolsieffer, president of the C. P. S. was the target of a skidding touring car on crowded La Salle Street and was badly bruised. Had it not been for an umbrella that he held up in the direction of the skidding auto, the accident might have been much more serious. As it was, it furnished a bit of excitement for the spectators who had a good thrill at Mr. Wolsieffer's expense. Mr. Wolsieffer emerged "somewhat skinned on back," to use one of his favorite auction

COMFORT FOR NEW ISSUE COLLECTORS.

A little task I had intended to set myself for the dog days was the calculation of the number of stamps that ought to be changed to conform to the circumstances of the new reign. But a reader has saved me the occasion for the task.

The number of stamps current in the British Empire on which the late King's portrait figures is 535, representing a total face value of £64 3s 5d. These are distributed as regards denomination into—

Denomination.	Number.	Face Value.
		£ s. d.
Up to 1s	404	6 14 3
Up to 5s	86	12 19 1
Up to £5	45	44 10 1
Total	535	£64 3 5

This of course does not include the stamps still in use in several parts of the Empire with the effigy of Queen Victoria, but as those Colonies still using the Queen's portrait have been so slow as to miss a reign, they may procrastinate still. The total number of stamps which will have to be changed is large, but the face value they represent is not likely to appal the new issue collector. The changes are likely enough to spread over some years and so will not unduly mulct the zealous subscriber to the new issue services. In the case of the majority of subscribers those taking values up to 1s, the amount £6 14s 3d spread over five or six years is little enough; and those who go up to 5s, but omit the expensive higher denominations will have roughly £20 face value to procure spread over years.—Postage Stamp.

Business meetings 1st Thursdays, exchange meetings 3rd Thursdays, each month, at Victoria Hall, 641 Lexington Av., 8 P. M. Initiation fee $1. Dues $2 yearly. Visitors welcome. All communications are to be addressed to the Secretary.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4, 1910.

The meeting was called to order by President Skinner at 9 P. M. with 16 members and one visitor, Mr. Rheinlander of St. Louis, present. Application for membership: A. F. Koch, "Wetevreden" Colpetty, Ceylon; proposed by Dicke, seconded by Levy. The members were sorry to hear of the death of our fellow-member, Ludwig Phillip, and extend their heartfelt sympathy to the family of the deceased. The organization of a public stamp-bourse was put well under way and will probably have progressed far enough by the next meeting, August 18, to be tried out. Non-members as well as members are welcome to participate.

HOW POSTAL CARDS ARE COUNTED.

Clipping from FREDERIC C. DUPUY.

Of the many ingenious and interesting machines employed by our government in its daily work, perhaps none are more striking than those used for counting and tying postal cards into small bundles.

These machines are capable of counting 500,000 cards in ten hours, and of wrapping and tying them in packages of twenty-five each.

The paper is pulled off a drum by two long fingers, which emerge from below, and another finger dips itself into a vat of mucilage and applies itself to the wrapping-paper in precisely the right spot. Other parts of the machine twine the paper round the pack of cards, and then a thumb presses over the spot where the mucilage has been applied, whereupon the package is thrown on a carrying-belt ready for delivery.—Harper's Weekly.

LEON V. CASS, NEW MILFORD, PA.

after having used my best endeavors during the past year in the interests of the Society, in which connection I tried as far as possible to keep generally informed on all phases of our organization, as I conceive I was expected to do, I have, after summing up the situation based on my knowledge of facts thus gained, been forced to the conclusion that an address on strictly business topics in the manner in which the future of A. P. S. can be best served at this time.

It can be easily demonstrated that the Society, notwithstanding the ineffectiveness of one of the most vital parts of its executive machinery, has really grown in strength, has made some little advance in usefulness and a great advance in stability. The latter because it has stood the test without demoralization of certain important matters going all wrong.

In the editorial columns of the second number of the Quarterly, and also in the third number, I gave the membership a little insight as to what was being accomplished by some of the committees; the first of which was written last February, and the other many weeks ago and consequently were apropos at the time. It is not my purpose to go further into such matters and thereby anticipate and lessen interest in the detail reports that will be presented in due course at this convention by the actual workers in the premises; but I bespeak for the reports careful attention, and the serious consideration of any recommendations that they may contain. But my particular object in mentioning the editorials is to remind you that shown therein were several items by which the claim is verified that we have made an advance in usefulness.

The so called Catalogue of the United States Postage Stamps, to be known when published as "A Reference List of the Adhesive Postage Stamps of the United States," is undoubtedly an assured fact, but at such date in the future as is commensurate with the time necessary to compile such an important work. I recommend that the present committee on this work, which was created by resolution, be continued.

The publication of an Index of Philatelic Literature the Society has been committed to since the convention of 1902, and it now seems as if the matter was in shape for a speedy consummation. The Educational Committee, which was taken under the Society's wing at the Columbus Convention of 1908, has fully demonstrated during the past year that it is in efficient working order. Its report will show results in its peculiar line of endeavor, hence I recommend that it be continued, in its present form of organization, as formulated at the Atlantic City Convention of 1909; with such modification as may be recommended in that committee's report.

Contrary to habit in late years, but in accordance with the law, the Treasurer, of his own initiative, has caused his summary of receipts and expenditures to be published monthly. From regular condensed statements received from the Board of Vice Presidents it is noticed that at the time of this writing they had held their thirtieth regular meeting. These two little items are cited simply as illustrating the fact that, with a single exception, the Society's business has been closely and conscientiously looked after during the year as far as the various work has come under my observation.

Even in the matter of our much discussed and eagerly hoped for Quarterly Magazine, we have, I think, made a creditable beginning as far as the contents go of the three numbers that have been issued. We must, however, be grievously disappointed at the delays that all but nullified what has been done, and that prevented the consummation of a complete volume on schedule time. Contributions came in for it of such character and in such number that I am convinced that had it appeared regularly and on time there would have been manuscript to select from. Delay in issuing the first number was due entirely to the failure of the Secretary to properly attend to compiling and putting into the hands of the printer the Atlantic City Convention matter, of which that number was entirely composed. The reason for this failure was publicly explained by the Secretary in No. 1003 of the Official Journal and the blame properly assumed by him. I will simply add in this connection that during this and a subsequent vexatious delay, he was given no opportunity to forget the Quarterly for want of persistent prodding. The delay in issuing number two was due to the Secretary's failure to compile the membership lists, on which the book depended, and more concerning which will be said later. The literary matter for the second number was in type, and all manuscript for number three was in the hands of the printer, a long time before number two was issued; the latter being rushed out in short order after the lists were completed. In addition, at about the time number three was shaped up, provision was tentatively made for all manuscript for number four; encouragement having been given that a beginning could be made in it of the Reference List of the Adhesive Postage Stamps of the United States, and a first installment of the Index of Philatelic Literature. These last were not called for, however, as of course number two held succeeding numbers until too late for the last number before this convention.

I have taken pains to go into this matter because a full explanation is due the members; to show that an earnest attempt has been made to carry out their will concerning the publication of a Quarterly; and to demonstrate if possible my sincere belief that there has been no individual, faction or influence that has tried to "kill" the Quarterly, as has been surmised in certain directions. Furthermore, number four of the Quarterly can yet be issued if the members here assembled so wish it, and Volume XXIII of the American Philatelist stands complete within the year from the legitimate date of its first number. There is on hand enough good material for a number about the size of the third. It can be issued on its present contract by about the first of September. By completing the four issues there is a possibility, but not a certainty, of its being allowed second class postage rates; in which case, as we now have a deposit at the Columbus Post Office of approximately $130.00 that would be refunded, this fourth number would probably cost us nothing, with a possibility of its making something for us. Whether you wish the volume completed as outlined, or are content to let it stand at three numbers and begin over again on a new volume, is a question I submit for such action as you may see fit to take. My own idea is that it will be much to our future credit to have the first volume complete.

The year past has not been propitious for the publication of a Hand Book; neither are there prospects that the coming year will be; still the theory of issuing such books is a good one, and the single number that has been put out in the name of the Society was not only most creditable, but cost us only $47.18 net. It would seem a pity therefore, to lose the proper power to make another essay should the right opportunity offer. Hence I recommend that a Hand Book Committee be continued on the list of Standing Committees, to operate under its creative resolution as amended at Atlantic City and shown on Page 54 of Vol. XXIII, No. 1 of The American Philatelist—the first number of the Quarterly. That resolution fully safeguards against premature action, while on the other hand it provides for action under proper conditions.

No formal action was taken at Atlantic City on the report of the Legislative Committee—the committee for attempting to remove the legal restrictions against publishing illustrations of United States Stamps. Hence it was a question whether that committee automatically ceased to exist, or whether it might with propriety be given another year's trial. Assuming that it was ignored at the convention through oversight, and that on general principles a committee appointed to perform a special task is operative until that task is accomplished unless otherwise ordered, I assumed the responsibility of attempting to reorganize and set it in commission again along the line of the recommendation of the committee that worked so faithfully to get results in our fiscal year 1908-09. To that end I appointed Mr. Paul Mason chairman and Messrs. Geo. K. Smith, Jr., H. A. Whipple and Gordon Ireland as his colleagues, with one additional member still necessary to carry out the recommendation of the previous committee. This fifth member was to be from Washington, D. C., and possess peculiar qualifications. Although I used persistent effort for quite a while to find such a man, I was unsuccessful. Not only so, but in my efforts I was advised on good authority that the official sentiment at Washington was so utterly opposed to our proposition that it would be useless to prosecute it further. Hence I never completed that committee. On this account no criticism can be made of the gentlemen who were appointed for being an inactive committee, if the latter proves to be the fact. Unless strong cause is shown to the contrary, I recommend that the Legislative Committee be discharged with thanks for the earnest effort it has made during its existence to accomplish the purpose for which it was created.

In 1911 we achieve our 25th birthday, and the committee appointed to consider some fitting memorial for the occasion has reported, as directed to do, its conclusions to the Board of Directors. The latter has referred the report back to this convention with its hearty endorsement as to general plan; the plan in the main being that we hold an international competitive stamp exhibition under the auspices of the A. P. S. Personally, I cannot conceive of a more fitting way to celebrate our anniversary, and to take an advanced step in the interest of philately and of the prestige and usefulness of our Society. The plan as submitted involves a probable cash outlay of $750.00 or more; and suggestions are made in the report as to where this money is to be obtained. In a broad way, however, if the enterprise is once engaged in, this Society must stand sponsor for all financial obligations. Hence, while it does not seem to me that we will be in position at this convention to go very deeply into the matter of specific sums, some provision of an elastic nature should be made by which the Board of Directors will be able to cope with the requirements. On the assumption that the convention of 1911 is held in Chicago, attention is called to the fact that with the proposed "Chicago Day" the A. P. S. convention would extend through Friday; a feature which would probably be most agreeable.

The last convention refused an appropriation for the Librarian to purchase books for our library. In a recent letter from the Assistant Librarian he urges the purchase of Vols. 13 to 16 of the London Philatelist and the "Gibbons Book on U. S. Postal Issues"; saying that the London Society has donated to us Vols. 10, 11 and 12 of the London Philatelist and offers us the other volumes mentioned, of which only a few sets remain, at ten shillings each unbound or 17 shillings bound. He adds that the International Secretary, Mr. Kjellstedt, advises this purchase. Unless the question of a general appropriation for the purpose of purchasing books should be brought up in another connection, I would recommend that authority be given for this specific purchase, said authority to also include two additional volumes recommended by the International Secretary in his report; the amount involved for the seven books being about $25.00.

I would be exceedingly remiss in my duty did I not call your attention to the fact that in financial matters we are at a point where our future prosperity gravely depends upon our conservatism and the application of sound business principles in our legislation. As was reported at the Atlantic City Convention, the expenditures for the fiscal year 1908-09 were $436.00 in excess of our general fund income for the same period; which fact is no reflection on the administration of that year. As soon as possible during the present year that deficit was credited back to the fund from which it was borrowed. At the time of writing this report the Treasurer was unable to give me final balances, as he had not received all warrants and credits known to be due, but from a general knowledge I have of some of them I estimate roughly that the deficit this year will be in excess of that of last year. In other words, we have been spending for the last two years in excess of our general income by some hundreds of dollars; which was obligatory on the administrations of that period under our laws and convention votes.

We cannot, and do not want to, spend the stock fund for current expenses. The latter, as is known, includes the cost of our Quarterly and the Official Journal, which have hitherto constituted our largest items. The stock fund is not only a liability, and, being a capital stock one that it is necessary should be kept as an asset in tangible form, but it is the most valued asset the Society has as an evidence of its stability; in that we have in it the starting of a sinking fund, the income from which will in time materially aid in our current expenses, in carrying out projects for the advancement of Philately or for bridging over any unusual decline in the membership. For twenty-four years these features in regard to the stock fund have been understood and guarded by the membership as a whole. I mention them now for the information of those by whom the matter has not been understood, and for the bearing it has on any consideration of new financial matters at this convention.

With what I have said about the yearly expenses in mind, I beg to touch on the following as having a direct application thereto. I refer to the questions of reducing our annual dues and of publishing our own Official Journal in consequence of the Post Office ruling that the subscription price of such Journal must be divorced from the dues. I can see no way by which every member can be assured of receiving the official notices of the Society except by our publishing an official circular of our own. But we are in no shape to begin such an enterprise next year, and it is not a necessity that we do. Such circular, however, I fully believe in, and that it should be weekly; also that from it something more pretentious may develop when the time is ripe in the future. Our old Official Journal has offered to print our official matter for us free as news, and I believe it but a matter of time before other reputable papers will be glad to do the same. Hence, I would suggest that during the coming year we try to work up to a weekly circular beginning with our fiscal year 1911-12; and that as a temporary matter we eliminate from our By-laws that portion of Article IX, Sect. 1, that says that the Official Journal shall be sent to all members regularly, and that which follows that does not pertain to present conditions. This is a forward step when by it we accomplish a saving of money that is much needed to make us financially above reproach. While there would be some who in consequence would not see the official matter, I am satisfied that the number would be very small.

As to the dues, I am firmly of the opinion that ten cents per month, or $1.20 per year, is little enough. A member, who, in view of all the good that can be said of the A. P. S., would object to paying that sum because for it he was not going to get a free subscription to a paper, is one who has not, to my mind, the highest conception of what it means to be a member of our organization.

From certain things I have outlined, the situation sums itself up in my mind briefly as follows: It is our bounden duty to stop the habit of living beyond our means, and replenish our general fund. Our stock and insurance funds are in good condition. We should start with renewed energy on the Quarterly; for I am convinced it can be maintained as a most creditable publication, and one in which we will all take pride. Aside from financial reasons, we are not sufficiently experienced in the publishing business as yet to venture on a more frequent issue than a Quarterly. Furthermore, I believe that our Quarterly can be placed on a self-sustaining basis by a vigorous campaign for advertisements. Finally, we should make it our duty in the coming year to really honor our 25th Anniversary. Especially as our committee has pointed out a way in which it can be done with credit to the Society and as a benefit to Philately.

To accomplish these three purposes involves a considerable amount of money in two instances, and possibly some in the third. This money is almost wholly dependent on our saving the large amount that we have hitherto expended for an official journal, in our adhering to our present rate of dues, to a careful management of all avenues of expenditure and receipts, and to the conserving of our membership.

And now I come to a most disagreeable subject, that of the almost utter demoralization of the Secretary's office during the past year. Complaints have been practically ceaseless of neglect of correspondence, failure to receive membership cards and stock certificates, and delay in the Quarterlies, particularly that including the membership list. From practically the beginning of my term of office I was called on to prod the Secretary for this or that; but knowing of his illness immediately after the Atlantic City convention, and being advised by him of difficulties he was having in his business affairs, I naturally assumed that the trouble would be temporary, especially as there were indications in his correspondence with me of good intent. Early in November, however, I was forced to a realization as to how matters stood on my being advised by the Treasurer that the Secretary had made no membership reports to him. I immediately wrote the Secretary a no uncertain letter appropriate to the occasion. At about that time I started for Central America, and during my absence the acting President, Mr. Cornwall, followed the matter up, so that on my return home, early in January, the advice reached me from the Treasurer that the membership report had been received. It soon developed, however, that contrary to the understanding of the Treasurer, this list was far from complete. It was at that point that the Treasurer was subject to much adverse criticism, which, it will now be seen was entirely undeserved, he being made a victim of the Secretary's lagging. From that stage on until July I instructed, pleaded, and threatened in an effort to have the reports brought up to date; and, incidentally, to have proper attention given to other matters of miscellaneous character. I even brought into the struggle certain personal aid, the combined effort producing some results. While the latter were considerable in volume, they were at exasperating intervals; and finally there were evidences of a cessation of satisfactory results. Feeling that matters were at a crisis, I sent Mr. Iver R. Johnson, of Chicago, to Columbus as my personal representative to see that the Society's affairs pertaining to the Secretary's office were straightened out, if such were possible. He made two visits to Columbus, in which, on time donated to the Society, he devoted thirteen days all told to per-

A. P. S. MEMBERS—LAST CALL.

With another issue our contract with the American Philatelic Society will have expired and all subscriptions discontinued. In no other way can we keep faith with the P. O. department, which very kindly permitted us to fill out the contract.

The writer is leaving the office for a two weeks' vacation trip down the St. Lawrence to Quebec and the printer, who has close contact with the mail list, has instructions to discontinue all papers with the issue of Aug. 27, where the label is marked "A".

It is probable that some confusion will be caused in certain quarters. We shall be blamed for stopping the paper. Some will write us complainingly that they have always been on our mailing list, but no one who reads the WEEKLY can say that we have neglected to sound the warning word.

A renewal today will prevent the dropping of name, loss of one or two issues, and consequent annoyance upon the part of all concerned.

EDITORIAL.

Over—By the time that these lines are in print, the convention will have become an accomplished fact. The existence of philately will have been certified to in a public manner that was not without its impressive moments; and the occasion for the transaction of the business of the corporation and for action upon questions of broader philatelic policy will have passed into history. Needless to say, the convention of the American Philatelic Society is the most important date in the philatelic calendar; and the potency of the gathering increases annually. A serious purpose has been growing that shows itself in the records of the last few conventions. Further, this fuller realization of the opportunity for work of a permanent character has developed naturally and as reflecting the disposition of the members practically as a whole. Those who are influential in shaping the destiny of the American Philatelic Society are observing enough to understand that it would be unwise to attempt the adoption of measures that would in any way curtail the social features that have attended conventions from the first. Any change in this regard will be the result of the wishes of members who act upon their own thought and impulse. The judicious intermingling of work and play is the intent of those who interest themselves deeply in the welfare of the society.

Work—It is idle to attempt any forecast of the work of the convention. We know that certain legislation is proposed and that propositions will be presented that may meet with opposition but to anticipate the action of the deliberative body would not be seemly or sensible. The results be what they may will be the sincere conclusions of the majority; whatever is done will register the impersonal beliefs of the voters. As the American Philatelic Society becomes larger, the personal equation dwindles away until it is almost a negligible quality. Differences of opinion must arise but as the conviction becomes general among those promoting conflicting opinions, the danger of harm to the organization is almost eliminated. We believe that the Detroit convention will contribute to the spirit of good feeling among all the elements entering into the composition of the society and that undivided energy will be centered on properly progressive measures.

Mild—This year the campaign that preceded the convention was in marked contrast to that which attracted so much attention but not necessarily approval a twelve-month ago. Few opportunities have been presented in the recent contest for any really violent differences of opinion. There are two candidates for the important office of secretary and so well equipped are both that no matter which one is elected the society will be excellently served, it is safe to say. The opponents of either Mr. Morris or Mr. Barnum do not base their objections on any question of capability but rather on vicarious circumstances that are alleged to affect or influence them. At that, there has been difficulty in providing an issue and in their hearts those who have exploited the claims of either one against the other know that both are superior men. The interests of the American Philatelic Society will be properly attended to by either, Mr. Morris or Mr. Barnum as secretary.

Master—There is one subject on which it is incumbent for us to speak, as we are in a position to know of the actualities of the situation and to understand conditions of so complex a nature that they are not readily to be understood. As president of the American Philatelic Society, Henry N. Mudge has labored ably, intelligently and unflinchingly for the promotion of the best interests of the society, in a way to compel admiration. It may or may not be known to all members that peculiar trials were encountered by the chief executive that he met fairly and frankly, and whose solution required the keenest analysis. It was almost providential that Mr. Mudge was the one who was destined to guide the society ship through troublous seas and that it was he to whom it was left to meet those emergencies that might have unnerved the ordinary man. As it is, all is well that ends well; and if the administration is charged with any delinquencies or with being responsible for disappointments, those who make the claims may revise their opinions when they read carefully the annual report of President Mudge, for the appearance of which, provision is made in this issue.

Commended—The Numismatist for July, 1910, reproduces our editorial that appeared in the WEEKLY of July 2nd, in which the suggestion was offered that the conventions of the American Philatelic Society and the American Numismatic Association be held in the same place each year at approximately the same time. It prefaces the item with the following approving comment: "It presents a subject well worth considering. It is proposed that the American Philatelic Society and the American Numismatic Association prepare to anticipate the time when they can arrange to hold their conventions at the same time and in the same city. It is understood that each organization will transact its business and that pertaining to its particular subject independent of the other. The one who proposes this (a Chicago gentleman) is a member of both organizations. Several A. N. A. members have approvingly called our attention to the proposal. The Philatelic Society will hold its annual meeting in Detroit commencing August 16th, and may take some action to be offered for the consideration of the Numismatic Association at its convention." We understand that at the Detroit meeting, the plan will be submitted for discussion.

Parnassus, if he will allow us to address him thus familiarly, though practically unseen and unheard, was all eyes and ears. We are fortunate indeed that we may call Parnassus Penflip our own, so far as his literary labors are concerned, and next week, his brain children will begin to play in our yard. For a time, the indications were that Penflip would be the sole representative of the WEEKLY at Detroit, as the editor was called for jury service the week before and barely succeeded in escaping duty for the second week or that of the convention. It was a rare privilege to serve as a private under the great captain of letters, Parnassus Penflip.

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:

Regular Government Issues U. S. Envelopes
Carrier Stamps Confederate Provisionals

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2's" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1863 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plymtons is made as easy as rolling off a log. We don't sell this book—WE GIVE IT AWAY!

Remit 25c for new six mos. subscription not renewal or Remit $1 for two year's renewal. Money back if wanted.

No matter when your subscription expires we will date it ahead.

AZORES.—A correspondent of Gibbons Weekly cautions collectors against so-called errors of color in the new stamps for Azores, with portrait of King Manuel.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—Gibbons Weekly says that the 1/2d value is now appearing in a bluish green shade, quite distinct from the earlier printing.

COLOMBIA.—The new stamp chronicled in No. 1023 proves to have been the first of a complete set, thus confirming in part at least the announcements made in Nos. 1008 and 1018. We are indebted to Hermann Focke for several used specimens of the new stamps, and to The Scott Stamp & Coin Co. for unused specimens of the whole series, except the 50c and peso values. As usual in the stamps of Colombia there is a registration stamp, and another for the acknowledgment of receipt. The 1c, 2c, 10c and 20c values are in the same design as the 5c, described in No. 1023, the only differences being in the colors and the portraits. The 1/2c and A. R. stamps are of the same size but of different design, the portraits appearing in an oval instead of an oblong space with round top, and the figures of value are in colorless figures in tall shields, instead of in colored figures in colorless squares, as in the other values. The inscriptions are the same, except that the 1/2c has a star in each of the upper corners, while the A. R. stamp has "A. R." in the same place. The registration stamp is of large size, a horizontal oblong 41x25mm. There is a blank space 6mm. wide across the top, with "No." at the left, while a large "R" and the value in figures is placed at the left end. To the right is an engraving representing "Executions at Cartagena on February 24, 1816, by order of the Spanish Government." With these exceptions, the legends are the same as those on the other stamps. These last three stamps are in two colors, all the others being a single color. This registration stamp has an error in the inscription under the picture, "Gobierno" being spelled "Gobiero", though the type is so small that the error might be readily overlooked.

Adhesives.

We understand that there are also stamps of the value of 50c, 1p and 10p, but we have not yet seen them.

GREECE.—The London Philatelist has an interesting article on the new series of stamps now being prepared for this country. It was announced in No. 999 of MEKEEL'S, with some of the details of the engraving and printing, but as our London contemporary has a very full and complete description, drawn from official sources, we shall venture to reproduce the substance of it. It seems that the issue of 1906, although of striking designs and considerable merit, has failed to satisfy the artistic aspirations of the Hellenic Kingdom, and recourse is now to be had to the "glory that was Greece," as portrayed in its numismatic history.

The stamps have been engraved and the steel plates made in London by Thomas Macdonald, and the stamps will be printed by the firm of G. Aspiotis Freres on a medium thin, white wove, unwatermarked paper made in England. The designs are four in number and are described by the London Philatelist as follows:

Design A.—Hermes, the messenger, standing in front of a temple of Ionic style, putting on his sandals and getting ready for some errand. Taken from a fourth-century B. C. coin of Sybrita, Crete.

The following values are of this design, measuring 18x24 mm.:—

5 lepta, light green.
30 " carmine-madder.
50 " light green.

Design B.—The Goddess Iris, the messenger of the Gods, standing before a temple of Doric style. Taken from an old coin.

The following values are from this design, measuring 18x24 mm.:—

2 lepta, carmine-madder.
20 " oriental blue.
25 " oriental blue.
40 " pure blue.

Design C.—Head of Hermes to the right. Taken from a 2 drachmai coin of the fifth century B. C., issued in Sybrita, Crete.

The following values are from this design, measuring 18x24 mm.:—

1 lepton, oriental blue.
3 lepta, vermilion.
10 " carmine-madder.

Design D.—Hermes carrying the baby Arcas, at the bidding of some God. From a coin issued in Pheneus, Arcadia, fourth century B. C.

The following values are from this design, measuring 20x26 mm.:—

1 drachme, oriental blue.
2 " vermilion.
3 " carmine-madder.
5 " oriental blue.
10 " pure blue.

The 25 drachmai stamp is from design C only, but larger, measuring 24 mm. x 31 mm., and will be issued in pure blue.

The colors above are those given by C. G. Aspiotis as being those in which the stamps will be finally printed, and their nomenclature is that given by the ink-makers, who are a London firm. In all cases the stamps are longer vertically than horizontally. All the plates are now in Greece, and the issue should therefore shortly be made. All the plates contain 100 stamps in 10 rows of 10, with the exception of the 25dr, which is 50 in 5 rows of 10.

ORANGE RIVER COLONY.—Gibbons Weekly reports having seen the 1/2d in green instead of yellow green, and the 1d in carmine instead of scarlet.

PARAGUAY.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us another value in the new series recently chronicled.

REPORT OF PRESIDENT MUDGE.

Occupying as it does a large amount of space in this issue, the report of Pres. Mudge to the Detroit assembly of the A. P. S. must necessarily come under the notice of the reader. The report is a very interesting one in that it answers many questions raised during the past year. It is a remarkable document not only in the forcefulness of its utterances but in the mantle of its charity. Truly President Mudge has been an ideal skipper and though buffeted about by tempestuous winds he has brought the A. P. S. into a safe harbor. Should the inside history of the past year ever be made public Pres. Henry N. Mudge will be accorded the honors due him.

sistent hard work in straightening out, with the help of the Secretary, the dire confusion of the latter's office. From all possible evidence obtainable, he completed and reported to the Treasurer the membership list up to July 1st, and he sent out several hundred membership cards, and such signed stock certificates as he found had not been forwarded. He thus released the second Quarterly, and aided the expedition of it and the following number through the press. From what I have been advised as to the confusion found, I am satisfied that without Mr. Johnson, or his exact counterpart in tenacity of purpose and faculty for reaching the personality of the Secretary, matters never could have been straightened out as well as they have been; and I do not hesitate to say that in my opinion the Society owes him a large debt of gratitude.

The reason for the demoralization of the Society's affairs on the part of the Secretary I am unable to satisfactorily explain. Undoubtedly the volume and confused state of the general work affected the proper forwarding of the membership reports and vice versa; each having an influence on the other. I am of the opinion that matters got beyond the Secretary's control before he himself realized it, and that while at times he made heroic efforts to catch up and keep up, his training and temperament as to methods of close application, and some extraneous conditions, prevented the necessary results. I have also been reluctantly forced to the belief that at times he was unwarrantably negligent. This notwithstanding the fact that I do not believe he at any time really desired otherwise than to do his duty by the Society. I cannot defend him, and have been unable to do so for some time, but think it only just to add the following on the other side: There were undoubtedly times when he experienced certain misfortunes beyond his control that affected his efficiency. It is also possible that he inherited a system of keeping the Society's records that were a handicap to him in view of the fact that he evidently did not have the acumen, or the disposition, to systematize and bring them up to date; which feature will shortly be referred to again.

It may be asked why, in view of the conditions that have been outlined, the Secretary's resignation was not demanded and some one put in his place who could do the work. Simply for the reason that in my estimation the Secretary's affairs were so mixed up that he alone could come the nearest to untangling them; and that by allowing him to make the attempt the Society would gain more in the end than would be the case were a change made. As I have stated, I kept getting some results, and not until just before I sent Mr. Johnson to Columbus had I any reason to believe he was not trying to straighten things out; and even now I am of the opinion that he apparently ceased in his efforts because he himself could not find out where he stood. Under such conditions it will be manifest that however willing he would have been, he could not have turned over to a successor the necessary data that was developed by the joint sessions of my personal representative and himself. In thus exercising the executive prerogative of my office solely for what I considered the Society's greatest good in the end, I personally assume all responsibility, and am of the opinion that the results verify the wisdom of my judgment in the matter.

To return to my allusions to the record system in the Secretary's office, I quote in full a letter on the subject which is self-explanatory:

"2214 No. Rockwell St., Chicago, August 3rd, 1910.

H. N. MUDGE, President.
American Philatelic Society,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:—During the examination of the records of the Secretary's office of the American Philatelic Society as your personal representative, I was dumfounded at the lack of system the Society had in the management of its affairs. This was not due to the particular neglect of any one Secretary, but was the culmination of the experience of years in addition to the extraordinary growth of the Society in recent years.

Having outgrown the system that was put into practice years ago, I respectfully recommend the following changes and additions, which will put the affairs of the Secretary's office on a sound substantial basis for all time, and will be in keeping with the size and importance of our Society.

First: A Uniform Size Application Blank is absolutely necessary. In the past the various Recruiting Committees have arranged their application blanks as to size and typography to suit their own fancy or needs in having their booklets printed. This has caused confusion and needless work for the Secretary in recording and preserving them, thereby adding unnecessary labor to the conduct of the office.

Second: A Current Expense Account not exceeding $100.00 should be in the hands of the Secretary, from which fund can be taken the money needed to pay postage and other lawful expenses. The Current Expense Account should be reimbursed on the first of each month by warrant on the General Fund to the extent of the disbursements therefrom during the preceding month, so that on the first of each month it will always equal the amount originally appropriated. As the Secretary's term of office expires Aug. 31st of each year he would be required to account for the full amount of the Current Expense Account as he received it.

Third: A Suspense Account should be established by the Treasurer in which all moneys received for other than current accounts should be credited. This is necessary, as many members pay several years' dues at one time, and others inadvertently pay twice for one year. At the beginning of each fiscal year the Treasurer should charge the suspense account with one year's dues for each member having credit therein to that extent, or collect the difference deficit. By use of this method the Treasurer's register will always show only those who are fully paid for the current year's dues, all partial or over payments being carried in the suspense account. If this plan were followed a quick and accurate audit could be had at any time and the collection of money due the Society easily made.

Fourth: A Duplicate Form Record Book should be established, one to be kept by the Secretary and one by the President, wherein should be securely fixed a duplicate of each form of printed matter that is used by any officer to whom is delegated any executive or other power. All such blanks or forms should have printed on them in a noticeable place "Form approved by Board of Directors"—date to follow; said approval to apply to the necessity of issuing and to form, and also to subject matter except as otherwise provided in the By-laws. The reason for this latter is that I found so much "dead" printing in the shape of notifying blanks, report blanks, etc., that represented former Secretaries' ideas as to the proper conduct of things and which would not agree with subsequent Secretaries' ideas. If it were necessary to have all blanks and forms approved before publication all waste would automatically cease and a uniform system of working be established to the end that anybody with ordinary sense could use and apply all forms.

Fifth: A Set of Permanent Ledgers comprising several volumes for members in good standing, as well as several volumes for those stock holders no longer members of the Society, should be opened for the next Secretary. Each page should represent a stockholder and should have all data regarding his application and admission into the Society clearly set forth in a space provided at the top of the page. Below this should be ruled spaces to take care of the annual payment of dues, or the date of suspension or reinstatement. This is absolutely necessary if you ever expect to issue No. 2 of the Quarterly on time. Beyond a mere typewritten copy of his monthly report to the Treasurer the Secretary has no record in any form from which he can prepare a suspension list as provided by law. Without an accurate suspension list the membership list (net) cannot be made out, hence a delayed or non-appearance of all number twos of the Quarterly. Under our law all regular members are required to pay their dues to the Treasurer, who reports such payments to the Secretary, the latter in turn being required to issue a membership card. Under the present system the cards are issued, and other than making a check mark opposite the member's name in the year book containing the list of names, no record is kept in the Secretary's office of the transaction. In case of fire or accidental destruction of the Treasurer's records the Society would be unable to replace them, nor would they ever be able to definitely know their financial standing.

Sixth: Abolish the Present Form of Membership Card. In its place should be issued a permanent card having printed thereon the following:

"This card is evidence of membership only when a receipt can be shown for dues paid to August 31st of the current fiscal year."

The reason for abolishing the present card is that there is no way of keeping track of the cards or what they represent once they are issued. The way I found out that over 480 cards had not been issued was due to the fact that I noticed so many blanks on hand and therefore knew that some were still to be issued. The remedy will be found in the following recommendation.

Seventh: A New Form of Receipt for Dues should be prepared to work in harmony with Recommendations Fifth and Sixth. This receipt should be in stub duplicate form and should show the date, name of member, address, stock certificate number, serial number of receipt, the amount of dues paid, the amount of reinstatement paid, subscription to stock fund, and also show the expiry of the receipt.

With a receipt like this every member will know just what he has paid for and when he has to pay again, thus simplifying the work of both Secretary and Treasurer.

But there is another advantage that makes it desirable, and that is its great aid in being used as a day book by the Secretary for posting into the ledger suggested above. When the Secretary receives a report of dues received by the Treasurer, he should make out the receipts and stubs and from the stub post to the ledger. Thus every transaction is recorded and a record made for auditing purposes. Under the present system the Secretary has no books or anything to audit. His records are in the form of scraps of paper, some of which have been lost and are impossible of replacement. To attempt to audit records of this kind would mean that no complete report could be made, hence the need for a change.

Eighth: A Blank Form in Duplicate (bound) should be provided for the Treasurer and used to notify the Secretary of the names and numbers of the members from whom he has received dues. This will make a permanent record and can be easily audited. Under the present system any old piece of paper that is handy is used. Naturally methods of this kind can only lead to confusion.

In reading these recommendations you have perhaps asked yourself "Have we no system left in the Secretary's office?" The answer is, but very little remains; not enough to shed a tear over.

It behooves us to establish a foundation now so strong and solid that it will be impossible to dislodge it without causing an upheaval in our Society.

We have experienced an unpleasant year; we have located a part of the causes therefor and if we allow the same conditions to prevail any longer we can only expect similar results.

In this connection I am reminded that in a previous report I should have expressed my appreciation of the valuable assistance rendered by Dr. Wherry, our Treasurer, in providing promptly and accurately, on very short notice, the reports necessary for the prosecution of the work which took me to Columbus. All of which is respectfully submitted.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) IVER R. JOHNSON.

I consider the points made in this letter worthy of serious attention, and shall add another item to the writer's recommendations when they are brought before the By-laws Committee for consideration.

I have simply to say in conclusion, with a return to our figurative, that I have made you my report in the blunt fashion of a sea captain explaining the entries of my log book. As the indications are that I will be re-engaged for "Voyage No. 25" of our ship of state, I await your sailing instructions.

Respectfully submitted,

H. N. MUDGE, Pres.

A. P. S. CONVENTION AT DETROIT.

REPORT OF BOARD OF VICE PRESIDENTS.

To the President and Members of the American Philatelic Society:

Your Board of Vice Presidents held its first meeting on September 9, 1929, F. R. Cornwall being elected Chairman, and Chester Myers, Clerk. It has been our effort to hold meetings at noon on Tuesdays of each week, and this has been done except when prevented by the absence of members from the city. A feature of our organization, which we can recommend to our successors, is the keeping of minutes, copies of which are sent each week to the President, Secretary and Sales Superintendent, respectively, for their information and instruction. Each new matter presented for the Board's consideration is given a file number, and these are referred to in the transaction of old business, which is usually disposed of before new business is taken up. In this way it is possible to keep a check on the business transacted, so that there is little chance of matters not receiving attention.

A matter which cannot be brought too forcibly to the attention of our members is the fact that its Board of Vice Presidents is not a collection agency, its powers being limited by the by-laws. Charges brought by one member against another, under Section 2 of Article II must be supported by an affidavit. These two features are perhaps more frequently observed in the breach than in any other way. Indeed, it is seldom that a charge is properly presented against a member in the first instance in which we can take jurisdiction.

Members should also seriously weigh the nature and character of their charges before bringing them. In some instances, charges have been preferred which, in themselves, are of such a trifling nature as to clearly indicate that the member making them had a desire to vent his personal spleen; or, to put it in the language of the day, get even. Unfortunately, there have been some charges of a more serious nature, and we have submitted such charges to the Board of Directors, with the result that members have been expelled. We only resort to this when duty dictates such a course, our effort being to amicably settle all differences, or to less harshly discipline a member, should occasion require.

Perhaps the greatest of our troubles has been claims for substitution. The "substitutor" is an individual, so elusive and unnameable as to be known only by the trail of his secret larceny. He is too cowardly and contemptible to work in the presence of others, but carries on his pestiferous calling when in communion with himself. A "substitutor", in plain English, is a thief,—not of the common or garden variety, but an individual of an extraordinary mental development, who, perhaps, argues that stealing of this character is justified because the probabilities of being caught are small. Complaints concerning substitution in our Sales Department have been of such frequent occurrence, and the demands made upon your Insurance Fund have been so heavy, that if the prevailing practice continues, the Insurance Fund will be wiped out of existence, or the exchange of stamps between members will be surrounded by such conditions as to make this feature of our Society repugnant to those who have stamps to offer.

As matters stand, members state they will refuse to place their stamps in the Sales Department if not covered by insurance against substitution; and yet, notwithstanding this protection, they complain of the necessity of having to so mark each space as to identify their stamps. As for the substitutor, he only smiles to himself and calls for more circuits. It is truly a case of thieves stepping in where honest men fear to tread.

By considerable correspondence with Sales Superintendents, present and past, and others whose experience led us to seek their advice, we practically came to the conclusion that it was impossible to stop this form of speculation. We did, however, formulate rules concerning the marking of stamps placed in circuit books so that we would have evidence of stamp originally occupying the space and required all claims for substitution exceeding two dollars to be supported by affidavit setting forth, among other facts, that the substitution occurred while the book was in the possession of the Society.

To give a history of substitutions: We are informed by Mr. Wolsieffer that during his administration the aggregate total of claims for any one year never exceeded ten dollars. It was on

SPECIALIZED COLLECTIONS

We have recently purchased specialized collections in the following countries, consisting only of the early issues in superb singles, pairs, strips, blocks, on the cover, plates, etc.

Valuable Information for Collectors

The proper way of completing your collection is by using our "want list system."

This method is far superior than hunting over hundreds of approval selections and picking off everything that comes along.

Why not make up a "want list" of those odds and ends that you need to fill up your sets, even if the cheaper grade, and send it to us and you will receive them neatly mounted, and each stamp priced separately. We try and allow 50% discount whenever possible, and we only send out stamps in fine condition.

Send for our price and check list. It's free. Also ask for some of our printed want list forms.

the strength of this showing that the premium for insurance was reduced from one per cent to one-half of one per cent. The present Sales Superintendent has inaugurated a system of branch managers, and whether the increase in substitutions is the result of thus losing direct control of the circuits is a question which we cannot answer. If the system of branch managers is responsible, directly or indirectly, for the increase of this abuse, it should be changed. Under the old system, where the Sales Superintendent had direct control of the circuits, substitutions were few and far between. Under the present system, they are on the increase. According to the 1908 year book, the warrants drawn on the Treasurer show that only two claims for substitution were made, aggregating $5.95. According to the 1909 year book, twenty-two warrants were drawn on the Treasurer for substitutions, aggregating $39.22. Nor does this represent all. Our predecessors recommended to us the payment of other claims for substitutions, aggregating $26.63, these claims having been investigated and found to be just by the old Board. We had no alternative than to authorize the issuance of warrants, so that the 1909 year book, if the old Board had authorized the issuance of the warrants, as it should have done, would have shown that the aggregate amount paid out of the insurance fund for the years 1908-1909 was $65.85. The claims for substitutions presented to us and for which we have authorized the issuance of warrants for payment out of the Insurance Fund have aggregated $106.55, less the heritage of $26.63 from the old Board, leaves a total of $79.92 for substitution claims originating during our jurisdiction.

We append hereto a list of warrants which we authorized the Secretary to draw against the Treasurer:

Before concluding, we will say that we have given the question of substitutions serious consideration, and in this connection we wish to extend to Mr. Percival Parrish, the present Sales Superintendent, our thanks for his suggestions, efforts and assistance in trying to unquestionably place the guilt of substitution against an offending member. Mr. Parrish suggested the idea of sending out decoy circuits, and had detailed information in the way of description, etc., made at some expense, for the purpose of checking up such decoy circuits when returned. The present Chairman of your Board of Vice Presidents offered to and did assist conjointly with Mr. Parrish in defraying the expenses connected with the detailed description of these decoy circuits. As yet these circuits have not been returned, and it is impossible to say just what the result will be. They have been circulated where substitutions have been most flagrant. If a member is caught substituting, and, in all probability, the offenders have been lulled into a sense of security in the belief that our hands were tied and that it was impossible to locate them, the matter will be submitted to the Board of Directors for [A page of copy was missing here when received by the printer of the WEEKLY.]

The Sales Superintendent kindly waived his commission for selling the Sanborn stamps, and as his commission is paid on substituted stamps, the entire amount received from the sale of stamps in these books will belong to the Society, to be placed in the Insurance Fund.

We have also authorized the Secretary to draw warrants on the Treasurer for $25.00, attorney's fees in the Sanborn matter, and for $4.35 towards stationery. These two amounts were paid from the General Fund.

There are several claims against the Insurance Fund for lost stamps which came to us through our predecessors and which we have been unable to settle for lack of exact information. It appears that the old files are incomplete, but we have endeavored to ascertain whether or not these claims are just, and these may be said to be still pending. We refer to the claims of Messrs. R. E. Smith, Robert Hughes and J. M. Hunnewell.

During our administration, objections have been made to the admission of seven applications for membership. We have carefully investigated these objections, and in four instances suggested to the applicants that their applications be withdrawn. In another case, the objections came to us too late, the Secretary having issued the membership card before we received the objections. The two remaining cases are still under investigation at the time of this writing.

During our administration charges have been received against twenty eight members. Of these, two have been expelled by the action of the Board of Directors.

Charges have been dismissed in four instances. Settlements have been effected in six cases, and in the remaining cases charges have either not been supported by affidavit, as required, have been withdrawn, or are now under investigation.

Three resignations have been submitted for our action: One was occasioned by unsatisfactory results in the Sales Department; another because a member did not want to remain in our Society where unjust charges had been preferred against him by another member, and which charges it is only fair to say were dismissed by us before the resignation was accepted; the third was not a member in good standing, but handed in his resignation when charges were preferred against him, which charges we could not investigate.

During our administration, two members having books in circulation in the Sales Department have died intestate. To avoid expenses incident to securing letters of administration, we have, after full investigation, authorized the Sales Superintendent to make settlement with the heirs of the deceased.

During our administration, five branch societies have been organized or have received their charters, to-wit, Milwaukee Branch No. 24, Philippine Branch, Los Angeles and Southern California Branch and Saginaw Stamp Club Branch.

The Philatelic Society of Sweden and the Hert's Philatelic Society of London, England, have been elected to honorary membership.

During the year your Board of Vice Presidents has expended $13.50 for postage and $1.32 for expressage and telegrams, and requests that a warrant be issued to its Chairman for $14.82.

Your Board has been handicapped by the non-coöperation of our Secretary, due to absence, illness or neglect, in many important matters. Requests for information have more frequently been ignored than answered. On several occasions we have been called upon to explain the status of claims for substitutions, the payment of which had previously been authorized by us but the warrants had never emanated from the Secretary's office.

Respectfully,
F. R. CORNWALL, Chairman.
CHESTER MYERS, Clerk.
A. STRAUSS,
Board of Vice Presidents.

EDITORIAL.

Well Done—The twenty-fifth annual convention of the American Philatelic Society held at Detroit, August 16th to August 18th inclusive, was marked by a large attendance and other qualifications that make a gathering of the kind a satisfactory one; and viewed from almost any angle, the convention was successful. The sessions were most harmonious, a condition that is proved by the absence of a single proxy vote, and at no time was there any display of irritation on the floor. The committees labored intelligently and so nicely balanced their recommendations that there was little left to be done on the floor of the convention. Work of a telling, even if not spectacular nature, was done and though the results as affecting every-day philately do not stand forth prominently, yet the ends achieved will have their influence for the good of philately. The social features of the Detroit convention were most happily planned and fulfilled; and they showed that much attention and expense had been lavished by the Detroit entertainers to please their guests. The hospitality of the city "where life is worth living" was amply demonstrated to the visitors and those who provided the pleasures for the delegates had long heads and long purses, we should say.

Committees—One of the most interesting reports was that of the Educational Committee, whose work was illustrated by placards on the stage showing the system entering into the distribution of the stamps and leaflets to the boys and girls; the Burroughs' articles in the shape of newspaper clippings from the press throughout the country; and letters from those to whom the committee especially caters. The committee in its report made several suggestions as to work for the future but it was evident that the committee had justified its existence, pursuing its present course, in so pronounced a manner, that even sanguine expectation could not fairly demand better results. The report of the Committee on 25th Anniversary told that tentative plans for holding a stamp exhibit at the Art Institute, Chicago, had been formulated and that it had been decided that a day should be assigned to exercises in honor of the Chicago Philatelic society, which is to observe its twenty-fifth anniversary that falls approximately at this time. The report of the Committee on Hand-Books indicated that the year had not been one of promise unfulfilled as several manuscripts had been received, the most important one of which came hors concours; it is planned to publish this manuscript in the style in which the Dr. Chase's study appeared.

Model—The report of the President was a masterly document and easily it is one of the most illuminating reports that has ever been read from the rostrum in the history of the American Philatelic Society. Mr. Mudge hewed to the line, letting the chips fall where they might but withal, he was dispassionate in all his utterances. It is somewhat significant that all the suggestions that were made in the report of the President were acted upon conformably; in fact, the document almost stands as an epitome of the acts of the convention. In some way or other, it anticipated almost all of the legislation that was passed and it showed a wonderful knowledge of the society in all its workings. Departing from the usual custom, the President confined himself to the affairs of the society alone and made no incursion into the general field. In the preceding issue, the report filled over three pages of the paper but we feel that we should have been remiss in our duty had we not thus early given space to this striking message. The report of the Board of Vice-Presidents was an admirable exposition and the reports of the secretary and treasurer, respectively, engaged close attention. This year the reports of officers have a singular interest and we make provision for them even at the expense of the convention report itself, which will have to lay over until next week. By that time, it is hoped that there will be ample room for the account together with the inevitable convention notes.

Chicago and Secretary—There was no opposition to the choice of Chicago as the seat of the next convention; the city was selected unanimously after nominating speeches had been made by Messrs. Wolsieffer, president of the Chicago Philatelic Society, Cornwall, Severn, Fowler and others. Different branches recorded their endorsements of Chicago and the motion was carried amid enthusiasm. Mr. Stone bespoke support for Springfield in 1912 and it is understood that Cleveland will be the chief contender for the convention the following year. In this connection Cleveland must be congratulated upon its splendid showing at Detroit; it vied with Chicago in its numerical strength and the personnel of its delegates was a subject for flattering remark. It is needless to say that the Cleveland delegation was elated over the success of its candidate for the secretaryship, Mr. Barnum, who was fortunate enough to be returned victor over Mr. Morris by a plurality of one vote, although Mr. Morris was the first in the rush to congratulate Mr. Barnum.

* * *

Unjust—There was one piece of legislation enacted that was utterly reprehensible in our estimation and that was the resolution authorizing the secretary to furnish all other papers who may request the service the official matter at the same time that it is sent to the WEEKLY. Even though the WEEKLY is designated and remains as the official journal, yet it is possible under the new order for a publication other than the WEEKLY, should its date of issue be nicely timed to do so, to anticipate our presentation of official matter. The resolution was submitted without recommendation and was carried; but it happened that the WEEKLY representative was busied with his writing at the time and so, caught napping, he could not enter his protest at the time. When a motion was made at a later session for a reconsideration of the question, it was overwhelmingly defeated. Even though the WEEKLY man had recorded his opposition at the proper time, it is unlikely that the result would have been different. We try to view this act of the convention in a disinterested way but we must say that our sense of fairness would have led us to have objected to any curtailment of the advantages legitimately gained had a rival publication been chosen by vote of the members as official journal.

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:

Regular Government Issues U. S. Envelopes
Carrier Stamps Confederate Provisionals

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2's" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1853 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plympton's is made as easy as rolling off a log. We don't sell this book—WE GIVE IT AWAY!

UNITED STATES.—Leroy H. Brooks sends us specimens of the current 1c stamp, one of which has a spot, a very small spot, on the nose, which Mr. Brooks thinks is worthy of note as a variety.

Clarence Hill Burrage reports having seen Scott's No. 272 in reddish brown instead of Puce.

J. Arthur Wainwright reports having found a St. Paul precancelled stamp perforated "U R M C."

Geo. S. Chapman sends us a Chicago precancelled 1c stamp used over a paid permit, with machine perforation.

Arthur Blakey reports having found the current 2c envelope on white paper, with the upper left part of the second "T" of "States" missing; also the same envelopes with a distinct cap on the tail of the left "2," and occasionally an indistinct cap on the right "2" as well.

Theo. Richards shows us a freak,—the 1903 2c stamp with 27½ mm. between the horizontal perforations instead of the 25 mm. of the normal stamps.

H. F. Metz also sends us some freaks in perforation of the current 2c stamps, the paper being 21x26 mm. in each case, instead of the 20½x25 mm. of the normal.

AUSTRIA.—In several recent numbers we have referred to the proposed issue to commemorate the 80th birthday of the Emperor Francis Joseph. Ewen's Weekly gives the following as the latest regarding the issue, which differs materially from previous statements:

Instead of overprinting the Jubilee set to celebrate the Emperor's 80th birthday, the plates have been spaced out so as to leave room for printing the dates "1830" and "1910" above and below the stamps respectively. The plates as altered print 80 instead of 100 stamps to the sheet.

According to the Reichsgesetzblatt the first issue of the stamps is to take place on August 18, 1910 and they will remain on sale until exhausted or until December 31, 1910.

The stamps are lengthened 4 mm. at top and the same at bottom, in order to admit the date. The space at either side of the year is filled in with ornaments of varying design.

The 5, 10, and 25 heller stamps will be issued at every post office and stamp-vendor's but the 2, 5 and 10 crowns only at the General Post Offices, whilst the remaining values will be sold only at Government Post Offices.

L'Echo states that the following quantities are being printed:

1, 2, 3h,	100,000
5h,	7,000,000
6h,	100,000
10h,	7,800,000
12, 20h,	100,000
25h,	780,000
30, 35h,	100,000
50, 60h, 1kr,	70,000
2, 5kr,	17,000
10kr,	10,000

The ridiculously small quantities printed of the 1, 2 and 3h will probably lead to these values being bought up on the first day of issue.

AUSTRALIA.—The current 5d postage due stamp, watermarked Crown and N S W, is noted by the Australian Philatelist with a new perforation, 11½x11, and the opinion is expressed by that journal that the stamp was printed several years back, but only recently perforated.

AZORES.—William Ward informs the Postage Stamp that the bird pictured on the new stamps is neither a gull nor a hawk, not yet a frigate-bird but a petrel.

BRITISH GUIANA.—Gibbons Weekly reports having seen the current 2c, which has the value tablet and "POSTAGE & REVENUE" in a rather deeper shade than that of the body of the stamp. A correspondent places the date of this shade as some time during 1908; but we are rather inclined to think it is an earlier printing than the stamp which shows no variation of shade, since Ewen's Weekly Stamp News mentions that there is some variation in the size of the words "POSTAGE & REVENUE" on many of the current values, and that those recently received have these words smaller and thinner.

CHILE.—Supplementing the Postage Stamp's article on Chile in No. 1020, Philip Wolff sends us two interesting items from the July number of the Tarapaca Filatelico:

Supplementing our information of the last number, our correspondent in Santiago tells us that Don Hugo Hahn has promised the Government that by the middle of August will commence the impression of the stamps of 20 centavos corresponding to the first issue which circulated in Chile, in conformity to the decree which authorized the said gentleman to make the new impression. Senor Hahn has already got the original printing plate in London and the printing will be done in the splendid workshops of the Imprenta del Universo in the presence of a fiscal employe, probably from the Treasury Department. He will exact the destruction of all specimens, surplus sheets, and spoiled sheets; once the work is done he will swear to everything before a notary. According to the decree the original printing plate of the 20 centavos will be sent to the Museo Nacional. The stamps will be printed in the same colors as the originals had, and on paper watermarked star, and in the following proportion:

400 sheets yellow surcharged 1 peso in black.

200 sheets red surcharged 5 pesos in dark blue.

40 sheets blue surcharged 10 pesos in carmine.

In a few days there will be put in circulation postage stamps issued for the postal service in the penal colony of the Isla de Juan Fernandez. In our next number we shall give photographs of these new stamps.

The Valparaiso U. S. Consul wrote under date July 9 that the two new Chilean issues would not be out for a month yet.

COLOMBIA.—We are indebted to the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. for used specimens of the new 1c postage and 10c Registration stamps chronicled in No. 1025.

CUBA.—Regarding Mr. Stark's find of a supposed identifying mark on the 3c Cuba stamp, Miss Amy L. Swift writes:

"I think Mr. Stark has not found the real identifying mark of the re-engraved 3c Cuba. Mr. Roessler promises to illustrate it by a cut in his October Stamp News, but meanwhile has told me enough to make me doubt Mr. Stark's find, as there are said to be two differences close together, and hardly in the portion of the stamp Mr. Stark mentions. I found a difference in the right numeral 3. In the original the outer curve has a faint tinge of color shading, a tiny short line of purple in both upper and lower curves, while in the re-engraved the numeral is solid white, but as Mr. Roessler says that is not the sign manual, it is doubtless a sign of wear. The one I call original is beyond doubt the first printing, as I bought it unused when first issued, and have had it ever since."

FINLAND.—A correspondent of the London Philatelist states that special stamps are being printed for internal use in Finland and will be issued on January 1st, 1911. The designs will be the same as those of the current Russian issue, but the values will be expressed in Finnish currency. Foreign correspondence will, as heretofore, be franked exclusively with contemporary Russian postage stamps.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Ewen's Weekly says: "Collectors should look out during the next few months for possible errors of the current issue. The reserve stock had evidently been allowed to run down very low in the expectation that the new issue would be made—some of our continental contemporaries speak of new 1/2d and 1d stamps as well as a new 2d magenta—and as the issue of the latter has had to be postponed (we hope not cancelled altogether), a fresh stock of the old stamps has had to be created in a hurry and defects, never before seen in De La Rue printed stamps, are making their appearance.

"Mr. H. G. Watson writes:

"I am sending you a corner block of the current 1d Great Britain which may be of interest.

"It is such a rare thing to find the stamps on a sheet of Great Britain stamps out of alignment that, on buying the sheet at the Post Office last week, the peculiarity in this corner struck me at once. The three lowest stamps of the twelfth vertical row are about 1/2 mm. lower than the stamps on their left, and this wrong alignment is also to be seen in the border line. It strikes me as being a peculiar thing to find just these three stamps and no more placed like this in the sheet."

"Mr. E. Bentley Wood writes:

"The new shade of 2d shows evidence of very hurried or careless production. I have seen two sheets which are very much off register, an unusual thing with our home issues.

"In the first, of which I have the top two rows 7 to 12, there is a distinct rise of the rose portion from right to left, the left-hand stamp (No. 7) showing the duty plate slightly overlapping the green. If this were continued to the extreme end (No. 1) it must have touched the tip of the King's neck, but unfortunately I did not see that half.

"In the second example, of which I have only one detached stamp from another sheet, the rose tablet is close to the left-hand side, leaving a broad white margin on the right.

"Have other instances been brought to your notice?

"Will there be any 'inverted centres' or tete beches? The 1d red is appearing in a much deeper shade of red at some post offices."

Ewen's Weekly also says:

"The idea seems to be prevalent in official circles, both in England and elsewhere, that it is disrespectful to King George to issue new stamps bearing the portrait of King Edward VII. It would certainly be disrespectful to initiate the creation of such new stamps, but where such are already printed or in course of printing, to destroy them means considerable waste of public money; and we imagine that if His Majesty were appealed to, he would not desire that respect for himself should take that form.

"The rational course on the demise of a sovereign would seem to consist in taking immediate steps to provide a new issue and in the meantime to continue according to the provision already made. After all, any changes such as the new 2d design recently provided for Great Britain have probably received the sanction or approval of the late sovereign and to confiscate them the moment he is gone seems a rather abrupt action."

HUNGARY.—The Illustriertes Briefmarken Zeitung reports that the 6f and 20f postage due stamps have been issued on paper with the latest watermark.

LUXEMBURG.—The Philatelic Journal of Great Britain is informed by Mr. W. B. Edwards that he has discovered the 1 franc of 1891-6 perforated 11 all round.

MONTENEGRO.—To celebrate the 50th year of the reign of Prince Nicholas and also the change from principality to kingdom, a new set of stamps is being prepared at Vienna. L'Echo states that it will consist of 200,000 sets, each of 12 values. Professor Schobaitsch is said to be responsible for the designs.

NORWAY.—According to the Nederlandsch Tijdschrift voor Postzegelkunde the 3, 5, and 30 öre values of the current series are now being printed from a re-engraved plate in which the "o" of NORGE is different and the post-horn more open.

PARAGUAY.—We are indebted to the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. for used specimens of the new 75c stamp.

PHILIPPINES.—Clarence Hill Burrage reports having a copy of the 1c 1903 Philippines, No. 226, with a part of the H of Philippines missing, and a copy of the 2c 1903, No. 240, on which the right-hand branch of the N of Philippines does not come down quite far enough.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Philatelist says: "A specialist has demonstrated the existence of two types of the current 2sh 6d stamps, i. e., two settings of the value. In Type 1 the 'e' of 'SIXPENCE' has a long horizontal stroke at bottom, and all the 'n's' are narrow. In Type 2 (last printing) the 's' of 'SIXPENCE' has a flattened bottom, and the top horizontal stroke of the last 'e' points upwards, and all the 'n's' are wide."

SWEDEN.—Ewen's Weekly says that the plates prepared for the new postage stamps have not been approved by the postal authorities, and an order for a new set has been placed in Vienna, so that there is likely to be a further delay in the appearance of the remaining values of the new series.

TURKEY.—On authority of Mr. W. B. Edwards, the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain records two new perforation varieties of this country, viz., the 5 piastres of 1905 perf. 13 1/2 and the 10 piastres of 1908 perf. 12.

URUGUAY.—Philip Wolff sends us two interesting items from the Uruguay Postal, one of the few philatelic journals of South America:

"The general administration of posts has put in circulation in Montevideo booklets composed of 30 stamps each, of the following values—5 milésimos, 1, 2, 5, 8, and 20 centesimos. The emission of the first lot is small; having been made as a sort of an essay. We understand that these booklets have been issued by the European postal departments, having had favorable reception.

"The 6th of May we received from our ex-Rep. general, Sr. R. Almendro, a telegram from Buenos Aires which we copy as follows: This moment I have just gone over to the general and branch post offices of this city and in none of them could they provide me with the 4 centavos (Centenary) stamp which represents the fort and house of the viceroys. In the window of a cigar store in Calle Reconquista there exists an almost complete sheet with a card which says 'exhausted' (meaning the stamps). For the moment the said stamp is selling at 3 francs a copy in the city."

Mr. Wolff thinks Uruguay is the only South American country to issue stamp booklets, but asks our readers if any other American country issues them, and, if so, what are their denominations and prices.

10. 538—W. M. Linn & Sons Co., ballots, proxies, envelopes, etc., 27.00

The Secretary desires to thank his brother officers for their courtesy and the members at large for their kind forbearance. It is highly gratifying to him to know that he has made such friends in the Society as have been of the utmost assistance to him in his hours of trouble. Thanks are particularly due to two or three members who have sacrificed their time in order to be of assistance to him in his time of need. He will leave this office with kind wishes toward all and the hope that it may never again get a Secretary who will undergo during his term of office that which has been undergone by the present incumbent.

Respectfully submitted,
H. S. ADAIR, Sec.

GOOD STAMPS AT LOW PRICES!

LOOK THIS LIST THROUGH CAREFULLY.

While I can supply several copies of many of the stamps offered, in some cases I have only one so an early order is advisable. Stamps specially noted are carefully described in the usual auction terms. When no description is given good copies to be expected. Stamps will be sent on receipt of price and money promptly returned if unsatisfactory or stamps are sold. A small supplementary order will be appreciated. Registration extra on orders under $3.00. Remit by M. O. * Unused. Orders prepaid with imperforates.

Stamp Bourse in Paris, is now in full swing and bids fair to become the one public market for stamps in New York City. Bring those duplicates and let the other members look at them. The fee for buying or selling is nothing, for either members or non-members. The next meeting will be held on Friday, Sept.
2nd, instead of Thursday, Sept. 1st, and the following meeting, Thursday, Sept.
15th, will have for its chief attraction a competitive exhibition of the Philippine Islands. An exhibition of Hawaii has been announced for December 15th.

REPORT OF SECRETARY-TREASURER.

GALVESTON, TEX., April 25, 1910.

The activity of our Association has been rather quiet since last report. However, we have secured eleven new members, which is not so bad considering the small number of our general membership. Out of these 11 new members, one is due to the efforts of our President, Ed. W. Heusinger, one was secured by Chas. Roemer, Trustee, and the nine others by the Secretary. Circulars and copies of the Special Texas Number of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY have been sent all over.

The financial position of the Texas
Philatelic Association is good, the general account showing a balance of $55.40, the Insurance fund showing a balance of $111.80.

2d 1863 NEW SOUTH WALES.

By C. B. BOSTWICK.

Just recently I have been examining a lot of about two hundred copies of the 2d 1863 New South Wales, watermarked single lined 2 (Scott's No. 48).

These stamps show variations that will please a specialist in the stamps of this favorite country. In the first place, the watermark appears in four positions (as the stamp is turned over on the left edge):

- (a) Normal.
- (b) Reversed.
- (c) Inverted.
- (d) Inverted and reversed.

There are at least six and possibly more shades. I have been trying to ascertain whether there is any uniformity as to shades, positions of watermarks and dates. The only general conclusions I can arrive at are:

- (1) The very dark blue shade seems to belong to the later printings (being postmarked 1870 and thereabouts), and it occurs only on the stamps watermarked with the upright figure two.
- (2) The very pale blue shades seem to belong to the earlier printings (being postmarked 1868 and thereabouts), and occur only on the stamps with inverted watermark.
- (3) The stamps with the inverted watermark in either position are much less common than those with the watermark normal, and they present fewer variations in color, being mostly light shades.
- (4) Postmarked date 1867, wmk. mostly inv.
" 1868, " "
" 1869, " all upright.
" 1870, " "
" 1871, " "

I shall be interested to know if any of your readers can add to these conclusions.
I have a larger number of duplicates of this stamp, and I will be glad to send them to anyone who is interested as a specialist and would like to pick them over.

CONVENTION SUMMARY.

The convention was in session at 10.45 a.m., August 16th, in the beautiful lecture hall of the Detroit Museum of Arts, Jefferson Avenue. When General Coolidge of Detroit began his speech of welcome, there were about seventy-five present but the number was constantly augmented and soon over one hundred persons were counted. In the absence of the mayor who was absent from the city, Acting Mayor Heineman, a brother to S. E. Heineman of the Detroit society, addressed the meeting and in a clever manner he extolled philately but made some humorous hits at the expense of certain local members that were much relished by the audience. A letter of regret was read from the Postmaster-General that no representative of the government could be present on this occasion but it was said that at the succeeding meeting it was probable that an officer would attend.

Hon. Homer Warren, postmaster of Detroit and honorary member of the local society combined wit and wisdom in an eloquent address; and then, Mr. Griffith, director of the Museum of Art, presented the freedom of the hall. General Coolidge made a special request that the members give attention to a few words from Mr. Wolsieffer, who mounting the stage, presented the unsuspecting president, Mr. Mudge, with a gavel, beautifully banded with silver and bearing the inscription: "Presented to H. N. Mudge, President of the American Philatelic Society by Chicago friends, Detroit, Aug. 16-18, 1910." A telegram from E. Doeblin was received with cheers. In the chair, Mr. Mudge called for the report of the credentials committee, which read as follows:

Whole number of ballots received, 758.

Whole number of ballots approved, 748.

Votes for Directors as follows:
H. N. Mudge, 730
Dr. W. P. Wherry, 719
L. Harald Kjellstedt, 716
Henry J. Crocker, 713
Fred'k R. Cornwall, 713
Chas. A. Coolidge, 708
Chester Myers, 702
Adalbert Strauss, 699
W. H. Barnum, 387
Chas. R. Morris, 386

Scattering, 11

Rejected, 10

Total number of proxies received, 550; rejected, 26.

Mr. Mudge then read his report as president; it was listened to attentively and excited much enthusiasm. Such recommendations as were made by the president in his document were referred to various committees which were appointed as follows:

Finance: W. G. Saxton, Chairman, Iver R. Johnson, Chas. R. Morris.

Library: Geo. W. Linn, Chairman, E. L. Fisher, Percy McG. Mann.

Sales Department: E. T. Parker, Chairman, C. W. Kissinger, S. B. Hopkins.

Branch Societies: Gen. C. A. Coolidge, Chairman, Paul Mason, H. M. Clark. Resolutions: F. R. Cornwall, Chairman, E. M. Carpenter, Alvin Good.

Next Convention: Henry Ades Fowler, Chairman, W. H. Barnum, Howard C. Beck.

By Laws: H. N. Mudge (ex-officio), W. C. Stone, Dr. W. P. Wherry, Chester Myers, L. G. Quackenbush.

The afternoon session and that of the morning of the succeeding day, Wednesday were devoted to the reports of officers and committees. The session of Wednesday afternoon was held on the boat Sapho, on the return from the far-famed flats of Lake St. Clair. The Resolutions Committee reported on different subjects which will be detailed in their report. A committee is to be appointed to make a proposal to the American Numismatic Association that the convention of that body be held at approximately the same time next year as that of the American Philatelic Society. In all likelihood, Chicago will be chosen by the numismatic society as the seat of its next convention.

As the reports that demand space in the WEEKLY are so voluminous, it will be necessary to dismiss the purely convention aspect for the time being. It may be promised that all transactions that are not covered by the reports as published and editorial comment made thus far will be considered in the next issue; and publication of the personals is delayed a week, in consequence of the press on our columns.

New Check List of 20th Century Colonials

We take pleasure in announcing the fifth edition of this useful publication. The other editions proved so wonderfully popular that we have again brought the check list up to date, viz.: June 12th, 1910, showing many important changes in price.

Ordinary and chalk surfaced papers are divided and priced and a blank album can be laid out with the aid of this list without further catalogues.

In conclusion I will say that although the deficit in the General Fund amounts to $732.97, still were we able to include the moneys due from advertising the last two issues of the Quarterly, which, as yet, remains to be collected together with the rebate due from deposit made and returnable at Columbus, all amounting to approximately $250.00, the remaining deficit would be practically that of last year.

REPORT OF SALES SUPERINTENDENT.

PHILA., July 1, 1910.

To the Board of Vice Presidents, American Philatelic Society,
Gentlemen:—I have the honor to tender herewith my annual report of the Sales Department for the year ending July 1, 1910.

The total sales for the year have amounted to $8,729.00. Remittances have been received by months as follows:

Cash rec'd in July, 1909,	$903.87
" " Aug.,	573.70
" " Sept.,	615.27
" " Oct.,	526.90
" " Nov.,	632.14
" " Dec.,	547.44
" " Jan., 1910,	777.89
" " Feb.,	825.25
" " March,	696.64
" " April,	852.10
" " May,	755.80
" " June,	1,022.00

Total,	$8,729.00
--------	-------------------

The branch system has been progressing very satisfactorily. The total sales for the year from the Branches have amounted to $4,771.65. These Branch Managers have been compensated for their work by a commission of 2½% on the sales made through their respective Branches, said commission to come out of the general commission paid the Sales Superintendent. In addition to the above cash compensation, the Superintendent offered prizes in stamps for the four best results: 1st, $10, 2nd, $5, 3rd, $3, 4th, $2; Scott's catalogue value according to wantlist of the 19th Century. It has been a great pleasure to award the prizes as follows:

1st John W. Haseltine of Philadelphia,	$1,249.22
2nd Don R. Bennett of Detroit,	777.35
3rd Chas. R. Morris of Washington,	666.79
4th L. A. VanToor of Milwaukee,	352.92

In paying the cash commission to the Branch Managers, a minimum of $200 for the year's work was set so that a man undertaking the work would be more apt to continue seriously if there was some sort of minimum amount required. It was also thought that competitive interest would be stimulated by additional prizes in stamps.

The results secured by the Branch Managers during the year ending June 30, 1910 have been as follows:

(1) J. W. Haseltine, Philadelphia, Pa.,	$1,249.22
(2) Don R. Bennett, Detroit, Mich.,	777.35
(3) Chas. R. Morris, Washington, D. C.,	666.79
(4) L. A. VanToor, Milwaukee, Wis.,	352.92
(5) J. F. Rust & H. C. Crowell, Cleveland, O.,	278.21
(6) W. C. Emery, Springfield, Mass.,	252.82
(7) T. C. Mann, St. Louis, Mo.,	252.36
(8) Theo. Siddall, Manila, P. I.,	172.56

(9) Geo. B. Graham, Buffalo, N. Y.,	152.21
(10) A. W. Dunning & J. H. Lyons, Boston, Mass.,	133.18
(11) Ross O'Shaughnessy, San Francisco, Cal.,	124.30
(12) Geo. W. Linn, Columbus, O.,	98.76
(13) W. O. Staab, Milwaukee, Wis.,	71.21
(14) Max Wenzel, Pittsburg, Pa.,	56.74
(15) Fred Doughty, Saginaw, Mich.,	53.70
(16) E. J. Crawford, Fresno, Cal.,	40.31
(17) Harrie Mueller, Wichita, Kan.,	39.01

There is one matter which has given the Department serious trouble during the year. That is the delay on the part of a few Branch Managers and of certain other members in retaining circuits beyond the time allowed for their retention by the rules of the society. It is very clearly set forth that circuits shall be kept not over three days by members on individual circuit. The limit set for Branches has been sixty days, which is certainly a long enough time to admit of thorough circulation among members in a certain city or district. The retention of circuits over the time causes the Department the greatest inconvenience in many ways. Members count upon receiving circuits at stated times and are constantly disappointed by those preceding them who fail to consider the rights of others. Then again, we are sometimes unable to retire the books of members calling for same due to this lack of consideration on the part of the derelicts. In such cases, the Department is subjected to severe criticism for matters over which we have no control. However, when everything is considered, we believe the operation of the Sales Department is quite satisfactory. At this juncture, we wish to voice our thanks to the Board of Vice Presidents for their thoughtful administration pertaining to Sales Department matters. They seem ever willing to help with advice and action. All of our communications receive attention at the systematic meetings of this board. Long may they live.

We have upon several occasions before called attention to the great necessity when filing new books with the Superintendent for circulation in the Department of having the catalogue number and value of each stamp given, as well as the net selling prices. Many of the members buying from circuits are busy men and if this information is given, they will make good purchases, whereas if it is lacking, they will frequently pass the stamps with only a cursory examination.

Defective stamps should not be placed in the Department at any price, as they are always objected to on the ground that no member wishes to pay postage on trash. Stamps should not be placed on the backs of pages, and it will be necessary as in the past, to return books received in this condition without circulating them. Hinges that do not peel too readily are the best to use. Books should be allowed to remain in the Department at least a year, if possible, for as a rule, satisfactory results can not be obtained in less time.

It takes an average of two months for a circuit to pass around among ten members, and unless a book can pass through at least four or five circuits, the sales might prove disappointing. Many of the most successful sellers through the Department advise us to keep their books as long as desired, and as all books are kept "busy" going out on new routes promptly after their return from previous ones, the longer they are kept in motion, the better.

Again we must ask for consideration on the part of those members who sometimes write for the "immediate" return of their books. Just let the members stop to think, and they will hesitate to make such requests, for it will be realized that as we receive each lot of books, they are sent out on different circuits, and in order to retire a lot upon request, it is necessary to wait until every one of the circuits containing the owner's books is returned to the Sales Department. Circuits are often sent long distances, where they reach buyers whom the ordinary dealer seldom reaches, and in such cases, sales are frequently better on circuits that have gone to those out of the way places, although the time consumed is much greater. Furthermore, when the books do come in, the accounting takes time as everything of this sort is checked and re-checked by four members of my office force, and it sometimes happens that certain buyers have made mistakes in their remittances which necessitates writing to them, thus occupying more time. Accounts are handled in this manner to prevent the possibility of errors, and the work is usually done between the 20th and 30th of each month, as it is inexpedient to make retirement at any and all times, and immediately upon request.

We desire to state again this year that the Department is run entirely in the interests of the collector members, and while larger sales might result if we ourselves sold over our counter, it would be at the expense of giving members their proper proportion of fresh books, hence no sales are made in the office.

It will be noted that the sales from the retired books have amounted to 21.15%, which is not quite up to last year's record. In considering the question, we attribute the slight falling off to the fact that quite a number of damaged stamps together with many Seebecks have been entered. As stated in the report of last year, it is really not worth while to circulate stamps of this character. On the other hand, a certain number of the members have used great care in preparing their sales books with a good class of stamps at reasonable prices. They have been rewarded by excellent sales often averaging 50%. We, therefore, urge the members to use thought and care in preparing their books if they would secure the best results.

Dear Sirs:—Having been requested to act as committee to examine into and audit the accounts of the Sales Department for the year ending June 30th, 1910, we beg to report that having looked into all these accounts carefully, hereby certify that they are entirely correct and in accordance with the report as submitted to you for the year by Mr. Percival Parrish.

Yours truly, COMMITTEE.

PHILATELIC LITERATURE COMMITTEE.

To the American Philatelic Society:

At the convention of 1898 it was voted to provide for the appointment of a standing committee which should report annually on the philatelic publications of the preceding year. The first report of the series was presented at the convention held in Detroit in 1899 and the present is therefore the twelfth of the series. That these reports are appreciated by the members can be learned by the numerous letters and words of commendation received by your chairman from collectors all over the philatelic world.

The literature of philately is growing rapidly and the past few years has seen many valuable publications placed on the market. The past year seems to have been devoted more to popular works rather than to the more advanced literature and this is a class of works for which we have been long waiting. Books that appeal to the mass of collectors are what we need to instruct our new recruits and not the tremendously technical works which, valuable as they are, only appeal to a very limited number.

Several series of these popular handbooks have appeared during the year. Of the Melville books several numbers have been placed on the market and others are in preparation. The Embossed Adhesive Stamps of Great Britain, British New Guinea and Papua, Tonga, Jamaica, and three volumes covering the stamps of the United States, 1847-1869, 1870-1893, 1894-1910. The low price at which these valuable little handbooks are sold ($1 per series of eight or 15 cents each) places them at the disposal of everyone and it is not strange to learn that their sale has been very large. The New England Stamp Co. are the agents for this country.

Three more handbooks by B. W. H. Poole have been issued in the West End Philatelist series treating respectively of the stamps of Zululand, Gold Coast and Bulgaria. They can be had of D. Field, 4 & 5 Royal Arcade, Old Bond St., London, W., and sell for 15 cents each.

Another handbook by Mr. Poole is British Honduras, reprinted from the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly. Another work issued by the same publishers is devoted to the Stamps of Uruguay by S. Jean, originally published in French by Chas. Mendel of Paris. Each of these works sells for 15 cents and can be had from the publishers, 63 Chancery Lane, London, W. C.

The Postage Stamp Handbooks, inaugurated by the late Edward J. Nankivell, have been issued to the extent of six numbers, Jamaica and Cayman Islands, Cape of Good Hope and Niger Coast Protectorate by Mr. Nankivell, Dominica by Mr. Poole, Abyssinia by Mr. Melville and New Hebrides by an anonymous author who signs himself "Single C. A." These books can be had from W. H. Peckitt, 47 Strand, London, for three shillings the set of six or 15 cents singly.

The first handbook issued by our own society appeared last year, just too late to be mentioned in our last report and was entitled "On Plating the 3c 1851 United States Postage Stamp." It is not for sale, a copy being given to each member of the society. Another manuscript is in the hands of the committee and would have been issued during the past year but for lack of financial support. It is devoted to a list of United States Essays, a subject which is but little known and which needs exploiting.

The educational committee have issued two little folders designed for circulation among the younger collectors which deserve especial mention. One is devoted to Australia and the other to the Philippines and each is illustrated with actual stamps pasted on the leaflet. A third number is soon to appear devoted to China. "A Little Talk with Boys and Girls" by our president is sent with each leaflet. The Recruiting Committee have also issued an attractive booklet to aid in the work of that committee.

On the other side of the water the Junior Philatelic Society have reprinted from the Stamp Lover the articles on Fiscal Stamps of the United States by L. W. Crouch, a copy of which was presented to each member of the society resident in the United States. It is beautifully illustrated with half tones and can be had from H. F. Johnson, 44 Fleet St., London for 65 cents. Another reprint from the same journal is The Story of the J. P. S., a Record of Ten Years Progress by Ralph Wetmore.

EDITORIAL.

Dues and Details.—The question of dues in the American Philatelic Society was adjusted as follows: The yearly dues are to be ninety cents and the subscription price of the Quarterly to members is placed at thirty cents; and in this way, the dues may be said to remain at $1.20 a year. It is expected, of course, that each member will wish to receive the Quarterly but it will be incumbent upon the society to accept ninety cents only from members who refuse to subscribe to the Quarterly. The subscription rate to non-members was placed at sixty cents a year. This arrangement was necessitated by the recent change of policy of the post-office department. The Quarterly is to be continued under certain controlling influences and it is expected that it will soon obtain second class rates when the amount of postage on deposit at Columbus will be released. At least Number 4 is to be issued and it is probable that the suggestion of Mr. Mudge that a weekly circular be published beginning with the next fiscal year, 1911, will be reported upon favorably. The WEEKLY received 261 votes for official journal and the American Philatelist 17; scattering 7. The great majority of WEEKLY adherents did not put a cross opposite the name of the paper that they favored, as there were no instructions on the ballot relative to voting for official journal. The ballot as sent to members was not a copy of that approved by the President; a change, undoubtedly unintentional, was made in the form of the ballot in the official journal section and consequently, many members believed that it was not required to put the cross after the name of the WEEKLY in order to vote for it.

A Needed Change.—There will be a decided change in the business conduct of the secretary's office and the antiquated methods that have been employed will give way to approved systematized procedure. In his report as special investigator, Iver R. Johnson, recommended the adoption of a system to replace the obsolete order of things that impeded the machinery of the office; and later, a resolution was passed authorizing the needed departure. The present methods in use by the secretary are a legacy of years past and there has been no disposition to take advantage of the improved ideas of later years. The reform is one that will help the secretary and reduce the chances of confusion to a minimum. The improved order will be instituted at once and it is hoped that the somewhat chaotic conditions that still exist soon will give way to system. The new secretary, W. H. Barnum, will start his term under favorable auspices and he may be depended upon to discharge his duties so as to give satisfaction to all. Mr. Barnum enjoys a striking personal popularity and those members who do not know him will gain good opinions of him through his work.

They Tell It All.—As official journal, the WEEKLY will present the reports of the different officers and committees and as so much space has been and is required for their display, comment on some of them is omitted. It is apparent that the affairs of the society were given close scrutiny during the administration just closed and it is safe to predict that even more care than before will be bestowed upon the workings of the corporation this year. The organization has become one of such size and standing that intelligent management is demanded if it is to flourish. There was no questioning the feeling of harmony that prevailed and the only cause for regret was of absence of some of the old members who customarily attend conventions and who loan dignity and distinction to the gathering. Stalwarts such as Messrs. Luff, Deats, Toppan, Batchelder, and Doeblin were missed.

* * *

Fair Comment.—We have heard from some of the members who have registered their disapproval of the action in placing other papers on a par with the WEEKLY as official journal, in that carbon copies of the official matter may be sent to publishers at the same time the report is sent to the WEEKLY but as we do not regard the case in a personal way, there is no intention to enlarge upon it at present. Our protest was made in the same spirit practically as it would have been if other issues that were believed to be unfair had been involved and was treated as a matter of news that justified some comment. Naturally, however, we are thankful to those who have expressed themselves and acknowledgment to that effect is now made.

* * *

A Mishap.—The only incident to mar the enjoyment of the social side of the convention happened after the convention had convened. On Thursday afternoon, while one of the large sight-seeing automobiles was nearing the aquarium in Belle Isle Park where a stop was to be made, the chauffeur in turning into a lane made too wide a detour and smashed into a tree at the roadside. The machine was battered and some of the seats were jammed against each other. H. S. Adair, Columbus, Howard H. Elliott, Winchen, Mass., and H. A. Blackwell, Woodside, New York, were hurt and were hurried to the city in a private auto whose occupants saw the accident. All three were suffering from sprains and lacerations about the legs but they bore their pain manfully. Mr. Crowell was slightly bruised but did not reveal the fact at the time. That more serious consequences did not attend the accident was almost providential but as it was, the fortunate fellow passengers of the victims could not easily shake off the depression caused by the untimely affair. The heartiest sympathy was felt for the victims. Their interests were placed in the hands of Mr. Schmalzriedt, an attorney and member of the Detroit Philatelic Society.

* * *

High Class.—Detroit proved to be an ideal convention city and without exception, the visitors voiced their admiration of its natural attractions. In fact, some of the delegates postponed their departures several days after the time originally set, so favorably were they impressed. Too much praise cannot be given the American Philatelic Society members in Detroit upon whom the duty of entertaining the visitors devolved. The Detroit men by all the rules that may be applied to measure human qualities are of the highest rank; their hospitality was unbounded and their entertainment in excellent taste.

Reported.—The report of the Finance Committee showed that the condition of the treasury is such as to make it advisable to conserve expenditures until new sources of income are developed. One of these by process of elimination is the saving on the WEEKLY which no longer is furnished to members at thirty-five cents a year by the society. Each subscription now is an individual matter between member and publisher of the WEEKLY. The supplementary report of the Educational Committee was of interest as in it, suggestions were made that a monthly bulletin be published providing matter suited to the tastes of the young and that stamp buttons designed to meet juvenile ideals be distributed. It is advised that the Burroughs' articles be continued.

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:

Regular Government Issues U. S. Envelopes
Carrier Stamps Confederate Provisionals

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2's" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1853 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plympton's is made as easy as rolling off a log. We don't sell this book—WE GIVE IT AWAY!

A. P. S. ANNUAL REPORTS.

An important work devoted to the "General Issues of United States Stamps" was brought out by Stanley Gibbons, Inc. It is from the pen of Eustace B. Power and is a handbook to the different shades and varieties. The text is plentifully interspersed with cuts showing the differences in the varieties and a valuable adjunct to the book is the pricing of the numerous shades listed. A valuable article by C. H. Mekeel which appeared in the Philatelic Journal of America has been included in the book by permission. It is devoted to the special perforations on our stamps which are intended for use in vending and mailing machines. It has also appeared in pamphlet form by the Stamp Security Co. of St. Louis. Mr. Power's book can be obtained from the publishers, 198 Broadway, New York, for $1.00 in cloth or 75 cents in paper.

Another publication by the same firm is a little leaflet entitled "Varieties of U. S. Imperf. Stamps" which sells for 10 cents. The History of the Postmarks of the British Isles from 1840 to 1876 which appeared as a supplement to Gibbons Stamp Weekly has been reprinted in book form and can be had for $1.00 in cloth or 75 cents in paper.

"Les Timbres du Chili" by S. Jean which has been appearing in Le Timbre Poste is advertised in book form by Chas. Mendel, 118 Rue d'Assas, Paris for 30 cents.

"Papua, Its Posts and Postage Stamps," by H. G. Jobson can be had from the author, Redlands, Sidmouth, Devon, Eng. for 27 cents. It is said to be an excellent little handbook.

"Les Falsifications du Transvaal" by Leon de Raaij which we noted last year is not for sale, a limited number having been printed for distribution to the leading philatelic societies.

"Halifax Posts 1684-1852" by H. Ling Roth, curator of the Bankfield Museum, is a valuable little pamphlet giving an account of the early posts and their handstamps as found in the correspondence preserved in Shibden Hall. It can be had for 27 cents, post paid from F. King & Sons, Ltd., Commercial St., Halifax, Eng.

Another work dealing with the early posts is "Pre-Victorian Postage Stamps and Franks" by G. A. Foster. This of course deals with the same kind of stamps as were used in our own country prior to the issue of adhesive stamps, namely the well known "Paid" marks and is a proper preface to the history of stamps themselves. It is published by Chas. Nissen & Co., 7 Southampton Row, London and sells for $1.35 post paid. The same firm also issue the seventh edition of their well known "Stamp Collectors' Annual" containing a number of articles including the index for philatelic literature of 1909. Price 27 cents post paid.

An illustrated booklet descriptive of the famous Avery collection has been gotten out by W. H. Peckitt and we are under the impression it is for free distribution to his clients.

The book on the Campeche locals of Mexico written by Walter Clark Belows which we noted last year is being reprinted in the Philatelic Journal of America and the first section has appeared as a separate leaflet.

Nunn's "Stamp Dealers of Great Britain" is now in its 21st edition and is published by C. J. Endle & Co., Bournemouth, Eng. at 12c.

An interesting and valuable souvenir of the well known Seybold collection is a pamphlet issued by J. C. Morgenthau, 87 Nassau St., N. Y., containing 23 plates showing some 37 of the more valuable covers in the collection. Its price is 25 cents.

Senf Bros. of Leipzig continue the publication of the work on reprints by Captain Paul Ohr as a supplement to the Illustriertes Briefmarken Journal. An English translation of this work was commenced some time ago in the Philatelic World but as that journal has been absorbed by the West End Philatelist we are not aware whether it is to be continued or not.

GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY

That the "Marquette Album" is not to be compared with any stamp book on the market. All objectionable points that are found in other peg fastening books, or spring backs are overcome. A leaf may be added or removed without moving a single other leaf in the entire book. Albums are made blank, quadrille, or printed, substantially bound in black or red cloth, half leather, or full Russia leather with gilt. A fine illustrated circular is at your disposal for the asking. Buy a Marquette Moveable Leaf Album and be satisfied. You will not regret it. [tf]

The St. Petersburg section of the Dresden society has commenced the publication of a work entitled "Die Postwertzeichen der Russischen Landschafts-aemter" which is to appear in 25 parts with many plates and $1.50 per part. Six parts, each of 32 pages are now ready and the work when completed will be a veritable encyclopedia of what we commonly call Russian locals.

A little known book noted in the Journal of the Philatelic Literature Society is "Kan Koku Yubin Kitte Jo" or Album of Korean postage stamps. It is printed throughout in Japanese and is illustrated with specimens of the stamps themselves with the exception of the first issue. It is said to have been issued by the Department of Communications of the Japanese Resident in Korea but no place or date of publication is given.

A catalogue of railway, messenger and steamship stamps was issued in 1908 by Jean Verzijl which is said to be a most excellent work. It has only recently come to our notice and we have not yet had an opportunity to examine it. The publisher's address is 172 Rue Frederic Lints, Louvain, Belgium and the price of the book 60 cents. A note in the Philatelic Record for April mentions the issue of the first section of an elaborate monograph on the stamps of China but gives no details except that it is a serial insert with the Mitteilungen issued by Paul Kohl.

The work on the stamps of Switzerland by Ernst Zumstein, a translation of which has been running in the Philatelic Record for some time past is soon to appear in book form.

Mr. E. D. Bacon some little time since announced that he had commenced the printing of the catalogue of philatelic literature in the library of the Earl of Crawford. The use of the plates have been placed at the disposal of the Philatelic Literature Society and it is hoped that it will be possible to supply each of the members with a copy free of charge. As the library is undoubtedly the finest in the world the catalogue will be of immense value to literature collectors as a check list and history.

Chas. Mendel has recently issued the "Annuaire du Timbre-Poste et de la Carte Postale Illustrée" compiled by Geroges Brunel. It contains lists of collectors of stamps and view cards, philatelic societies and a press directory together with numerous miscellaneous articles. The price is 75 cents post paid from the publishers, 26 Allee du Rocher, Le Raincy (S. et O) France.

Another Annual is that issued by Bela Szeckula of Budapest, of which we have seen no particulars aside from an announcement. H. Haack of Crefeld, Germany has also issued an address book, now in its second edition, which sells for 25 cents.

The Year Book of the United States Revenue Society contains a report of the convention of last year together with the annual reports of the officers and the list of members. As a supplement it has just issued a "Hand Book and Check List of United States Revenue Stamps" compiled by the secretary Mr. J. Delano Bartlett, which goes far ahead of anything in its line. The book is fully up to date and contains full lists of all the numerous feed inspection stamps, etc., which have been appearing in the southern states of late and of which no list has been available. The book should do much towards making popular the collection of the state issues and also of adding to the membership of the society for we are informed the book is not for sale to the public but can only be obtained by joining the society.

The second Year Book of the Southern Philatelic Association is announced but your committee have not seen a copy. The price is 10 cents from the secretary R. L. Doak, West Lafayette, Ohio.

A little late in the day comes the report of the First Philatelic Congress of Great Britain held last year in Manchester. It is a 56 page pamphlet and sells for 25 cents from the Junior society of that city.

A report of the XXI Deutschen Philatelisten Tag at Karlsbad last summer was included as a supplement to Der Philatelist for December. The second number of the "Record of the Philatelic Students' Fellowship" has appeared and like the first is for private circulation only and not for sale.

C. Malke of Leipzig has issued an international directory of philatelic journals which sells for 8 cents. It is full of errors but will be of use in some respects.

Auction sales of philatelic literature have been very much in evidence during the past season and the high prices realized show that collectors are waking up to the fact that they need a library to fully understand their stamps.

On October 12 was sold the library of J. M. Andreini there being about 75 lots many of them in fine morocco bindings. On November 1, Glendenning & Co. of London sold 210 lots of literature among which were many of the early publications relating to philately. On the 13th of the same month P. M. Wolfseffer sold some 140 lots which brought excellent prices and included a number of the older publications and sets of periodicals. On March 10 of the present year the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. sold some 40 lots of standard works and on Articles on literature are becoming more frequent in the periodicals and the Journal of the Philatelic Literature Society has contributed numerous valuable bibliographies.

There have been in the past several abortive attempts to form an American literature society but they have failed for various reasons. During the past year however another attempt has been made and from present indications it bids fair to be more permanent and to accomplish some definite work. Mr. Ricketts of our committee is the historian and has in preparation the first publication of the society which will consist of a handbook containing a list of every publication in the English language relating to philately which appeared during the year 1909. Persons interested in the work of the society can get full information from the secretary, Geo. W. Linn, Columbus, Ohio.

Of the periodicals of the past year we shall say but little as we have in preparation a list of the world's existing periodicals with full data concerning each which we hope to issue as an addenda to this report. Among the new periodicals, however, should be mentioned the quarterly edition of the American Philatelist issued by our society, the Attleboro Philatelist, Billikin's Philatelic Magazine, Everybody's Philatelist, Philadelphia Stamp News (a weekly), Philatelic Journal of America, and the Stamp Collector.

Your committee have also in preparation a list of stamp catalogues and important price lists issued during the year which will also appear in the addenda.

REPORT OF THE 25th ANNIVERSARY COMMITTEE.

CHICAGO, July 21, 1912.

MR. H. N. MUDGE, Pres.,
American Philatelic Society,
6643 Normal Ave., City.

Dear Sir:—The 25th Anniversary Committee begs to present its report as follows:

The members of the Committee have discussed a great many details of the proposed 25th Anniversary Celebration, both by correspondence and by means of personal visits with the President of the Society, and have come to the conclusion that it would not be within their province to suggest such definite details of the celebration which might conflict with the plans of a local committee appointed by the Society or Club entertaining the American Philatelic Society in 1911.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Corrections in the A. P. S. List given last week: Mr. Heth, Birmingham, Mich.; Mr. Shuffelton, Greenville, Ohio; Mr. Harrison, Pontiac, Ill.; Mr. Ferris, Taylorville, Ill.

—Fred Michael, Chicago, will be one of the stamp men who will attend the convention of the American Numismatic Association at New York, and he will be at the Park Avenue Hotel, the week of September 4th. P. M. Wolsieffer will also attend the convention of the coin folks, and Ben G. Green and Henry Ades Fowler expect to accompany him. It is probable that Mr. Wolsieffer will bring up the question of the advisability of the American Numismatic Association meeting in Chicago at about the same time that the American Philatelic Society does.

—Notice is called to the removal of Leon V. Cass, whose ads appear regularly on page two, from New Milford, Pa., to 12 Seminary Ave., Binghamton, N. Y.

A. P. S. ANNUAL REPORTS.

Without any desire to anticipate legislation, we call your attention to the fact that Chicago is bidding strongly for the convention in 1911. It is necessary to state that the recommendations of this Committee, regarding an international competitive exhibition, are based, to some extent, upon the presumption that the 1911 Convention will be held in a large, centrally-located city.

We recommend that such an exhibition be held under the auspices of the American Philatelic Society, that this exhibition be open to collectors only for competition, dealers to be allowed to display for exhibition only.

We have in Chicago a very fine public Art Institute. Mr. French, the director of this Institute, has told us, as has likewise Mr. Hutchinson, the president, that we may count on the use of a gallery during the time of the convention in August, 1911.

This will be furnished free, although it may be necessary for the Society to purchase admission cards for the members and their friends. We believe, however, that we can secure free admission to all members on presentation of a convention badge or some similar token.

The expense of holding such an exhibition is somewhat problematical, depending, of course, to a great extent, upon how many exhibits would be secured and their total value.

The largest items of expense would be insurance and medals. We believe that $240.00 will be necessary for insuring to all exhibitors the safety from fire and theft of all stamps sent to the Committee, which insurance will be effective from the time the stamps are received from the Express Co. until they are again delivered safely sealed to the carriers on their return trip.

The medals we suggest should be three in number for each class:

- First prize—Gold medal.
- Second prize—Silver medal.
- Third prize—Bronze medal.

We believe that $260.00 will be a fair amount to figure as the cost of the medals, including the dies, and with $250.00 more, to be used for rental of a proper safety deposit vault for temporary storage, police protection, postage, stationery, incidentals, etc., we have a total expense of $750.00.

We believe that this money can be easily secured (1) by individual subscriptions of members; (2) by advertisements in the official exhibition program; (3) by an appropriation of the Society.

We suggest that there be no official banquet or smoker during the period of the convention, but that there be set aside one evening for a formal meeting, with appropriate speeches and papers.

In case the convention is held in Chicago, we recommend that one day during the convention period be set aside for the purpose of celebrating with the Chicago Philatelic Society its 25th Anniversary, this day to be known officially as "Chicago Day."

We suggest that a complete history of the Society be printed and distributed at the time of the convention, as a further fitting celebration of its 25th Anniversary.

We should attempt to make this meeting a grand reunion of our membership, especially all the older members and those that have not been active in the Society in recent years.

We recommend the appointment of a Committee, with power to add to their number, to take entire charge of the exhibition and formulate its rules.

This Committee has incurred no expense.

In conclusion, the 25th Anniversary Committee begs to be discharged.

Respectfully submitted,

25th ANNIVERSARY COMMITTEE,

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—L. G. Williams reports finding the current 1c envelope on blue paper, with a dot extending from the colorless line around the head into the enclosed oval of green containing the head. This dot is slightly above the bottom of the left figure "1". Mr. Williams has also found a similar dot, on the 2c brown on buff paper, but much smaller and less distinct than on the 1c.

BOSNIA.—In addition to the issue of the current stamps with the addition of the dates "1830—1910", important changes are contemplated in the Bosnian stamps, which are thus summarized by Maury's Collectionneur: New values of 12, 60 and 72 hellers will be created, while the 5, 10 and 25 heller stamps will be restored to the small form and will bear the portrait of the Emperor Francis Joseph. The new values noted above will show the landscapes now in use for the 5, 10 and 25 hellers. Probably it has been found that the large sized stamps are not practical for a large circulation, therefore the purpose to change the values most in use to the ordinary size. There will also be created a series of newspaper stamps, of the values of 2, 6, 10 and 20 hellers.

BULGARIA.—Another provisional has appeared, pending the issue of the new series. The 15c of 1901 has been overprinted "1910" in small heavy figures at the top, and a large "5" at the bottom, both being in dark blue. The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the new provisional.

Provisional Adhesive.

5s on 15s lilac rose and gray black.

CEYLON.—Certain new values have appeared for this Colony, and the 25c has been reprinted in a new color.

Adhesives.

10c olive and brown.
25c gray.
50c brown.
1r brown on yellow.
2r red on yellow.
5r black on green.
10r black on red.

GERMAN EAST AFRICA.—Mr. Schachne reports the 4 heller green card with divided face. The headline, address lines and stamp are same as the last, but on the right-hand half, with a heavy perpendicular line in center of card.

MALTA.—The Colonial Office Journal says the 2d, 4 1/2d, 5d, 1s and 5s values have been ordered in the new colors.

MONTENEGRO.—Maury's Collectionneur says that the commemorative set noted in No. 1026, will represent Prince Nicolas at different epochs,—when a student in Paris, at his accession to the throne, and at the present time. Other values will represent the battles of Podgovitza, Niksitch, Antivari and Voudjedo. One value will show the Prince and Princess.

E. T. PARKER,

BETHLEHEM, PA.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—A. C. Roessler sends us the first of a new series of stamps from this Island. The stamp comes as a complete surprise, as no information had been previously given to such an issue. The series is called the "Guy" Tercentenary issue, and will consist of the value, 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 8c, 10c, 12c and 15c. The design of the 1c value, shown us by Mr. Roessler, has a portrait of "King James I—Who Granted Charter—to Guy", as the legend reads, printed in a large curved tablet below the portrait. "Newfoundland—Postage" appears in two curved lines over the portrait, with the value in words in a straight line cutting into the top of the portrait oval. The dates, "1610" and "1910" appear in the upper corners. The size is the same as the recent stamps of the Colony. There is no imprint on the single stamp sent us, but it appears to be the work of the American Bank Note Co.

Adhesive.

1c green.

NICARAGUA.—Hermann Focke sends us two covers from Bluefields, containing a queer assortment of stamps, and with them writes this explanatory letter:

"The first mail from Bluefields, since the lifting of the blockade brings a few postal curiosities, which are enclosed for inspection. The 10c claret, American print, has received no less than four different surcharges, as follows: 1. Obliteration of old value in claret, apparently in two heavy horizontal lines, with new value, '5', surcharged in green over the claret obliteration. 2. Surcharge of new value, '5—Centavos' in green. 3. 'Dpto. Zelaya—3' surcharged in dark green. 4. Surcharged 'Telegrafos' in black diagonally reading up. Though apparently a provisional telegraph stamp they are used for postage. What more do you want for five cents, silver money?"

One of the covers has the 5c envelope of 1905, cut square and used as an adhesive.

Provisional Adhesive.

5c on 10c claret, surcharged as above.

PARAGUAY.—A. W. Dunning has favored us with a specimen of the new 5c chronicled in No. 1025.

PERSIA.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us two more values in the new set chronicled in No. 1008.

Adhesives.

26c green and violet brown.

1kr purple and bronze.

Maury's Collectionneur says that the 1c stamps of 1902, often found surcharged diagonally "P. L.—Teheran" in two lines come from a lot which in the course of the journey from Denzeli to Teheran fell in the Sefid Rond river. The stamps, which thus lost their gum were sold for use in Teheran only, hence the inscription, "Poste Locale Teheran".

SALVADOR.—The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. has shown us the 17c value in the new set, and the New England Stamp Co. has shown us the new 12c value.

Adhesives.

12c dark blue and black.

17c dark green and black.

URUGUAY.—Scott's Circular says: "Recent changes in Uruguay postal methods will have a marked effect upon the supply of cancelled stamps from that country. In the past, it has been the custom for the postage on newspapers, circulars, price-lists and other printed matter to be paid in bulk, high values, being cancelled in the process. By a new law, all printed matter except newspapers must henceforth have the postage paid on each one. This means a great decrease in the use of 1, 2 and 3 peso stamps and a corresponding increase in the supply of 1/2 and 1c values, particularly the former."

WOLFF'S STAMP PRICES.

Regardless of the low prices quoted we will allow a discount of 5% if purchase from this list exceeds $5.00 and 10% off if over $10.00 worth are ordered.

Below we list part of our stock of stamps marked at Net Prices that will be found very reasonable. Send in a supplemental list as our ads are watched by a large number of collectors, who send on their orders by first mail, and we are likely to run short early on the choicest stamps listed. The first figure before the comma is Scott's Catalogue Number, the figure following is our Net Price. We would be pleased to receive your want list, or will send you our Net Books. We have also a fine line at 66% discount, that will be sent on request. References required. All stamps not satisfactory at price may be returned and money will be refunded. Stamps marked with a star (*) are unused, the others are the cheapest and may be used, unused or pen cancelled.

ITEMS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

By CHARLES E. JENNEY.

The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly of July 23 has an explanatory article by Irwin Faris "On Comb and Single-Line Perforations." New Zealand in particular has been much bothered lately by perforation combinations of apparently most awkward and bungling execution. This article explains how they occur and is illustrated to show all the possible combinations. We fail to see any advantage that can be derived from use of the comb machine and there are obviously many derogatives.

The London Philatelist for July contains an installment of an article by the Earl of Crawford that should interest American antiquarian-philatelists. It is abstracts from the U. S. patent office of specifications of patents on postage stamp improvements, designs and devices. It is a record alike of the marvelous ingenuity of the human brain and of the thoroughness and extensive scope of the president of the Royal Philatelic Society's philately.

In the same magazine is an excellent article by M. P. Castle on the first issue of New Zealand. He makes very lucid his ideas on these 3 stamps, embodying all that has been said about them before. The number printed is given and seems very small. Postmark, shade and obliteration are the indications he leads us by, though the presence of blued paper is a sure sign.

In the July 30 Gibbons Stamp Weekly Mr. Marshall concludes his long series of lists of British cancellation numbers. It is a work that must have taken an immense amount of work and research unless taken from postal archives and we would suppose that it might prove of considerable value as expert knowledge in legal matters.

The Postage Stamp of July 30th has an interesting article on the Local Stamps of Switzerland by Fred Edwards. He treats first of the Cantonals and explains the application of the inscriptions Rayon I, Rayon II and Rayon III on the first stamps of the Federal Administration. I do not remember seeing this explained before. It corresponds to our word "radius," the territory being divided into certain postal circles called rayons, in each of which was a prescribed rate of postage. The inner circle or Rayon I extended up to 10 leagues and the rate was 5 rappen for 1/4 oz. The second Rayon extended to 25 leagues and cost 10 rappen per 1/4 oz. The third Rayon up to 40 leagues and rate was 15 rappen. Under these locals he classed the Hotel stamps, which he lists and illustrates. These are hotel private enterprises for the accommodation of guests or for advertisement or both but some are so well known as to deserve recognition. As some of them sooner or later come under the notice of most collectors who do not know how to classify them, I give here the names of all he lists, viz: Belalp, Kurort Stoos, Maderanerthal, Rigi—coulm, Rigi—Kaltbad and Rigi Scheidecks.

UNITED STATES ENVELOPE DIES.

By C. A. HOWES.

(Reprints of this article will be made uniform with the series advertised from time to time. These reprints fit into the blank album wherever needed and are supplied at 5c each. We furnish a neat binder for 30c which covers actual cost only.—Ed.)

It has been suggested that a paper dealing with the die varieties of United States envelope stamps would prove most acceptable to many collectors. The difficulty of interpreting the meager details of the catalogue and the fact that the exhaustive histories of these issues (Horner's Tiffany, Bogert and Rechert's and G. L. Toppan's) are not accessible to many make the proper classification of these stamps quite a task. For these reasons collectors who would otherwise gladly include them in their albums either pass them by or lay aside such as they come across to wait until help comes.

A short account, therefore, describing and illustrating the chief points of identification so that the dies may readily be mounted in the International album or by following the Standard catalogue will, it is believed, help many to an interest in these issues which are none the less postage stamps, even though not gummed and perforated.

The impressions on the envelopes, naturally, are made from a single die, which is reproduced, as often as necessary, from an original cutting or "hub." In many cases these dies show such marked differences that they can only be accounted for by the use of several different hubs on which the design was separately engraved without too close attention to uniformity of detail—which may have been intentional in some cases.

Others show slight varieties by which the use of different hubs is recognized, but which depart so little from the general type as to be of interest only to the specialist. Still others show the effects of the wearing of the die or hub by use, and also of re-cutting or retouching to remedy this defect.

The minor varieties we do not propose to consider, for their name is legion almost, but where they are distinct enough to form readily recognizable differences, which are usually termed "die varieties," though as a rule they would be rather more correctly termed "hub varieties," and are given place in the Standard catalogue, we have endeavored to make their distinctions plain.

In the first issue of stamped envelopes, which appeared July 1, 1853, there are five well-marked dies which are, perhaps, more familiar to collectors than those of later issues. These are numbered in the catalogues instead of being lettered like the more recent issues—why, I cannot say, for Horner lettered them in his history.

The outline illustrations show the differences between the dies, which are mainly in the lettered labels. Die 1 is often called the "close die," because of the curved ends of the label inclosing THREE coming so close to the initial and final letters. Die 2 is the "narrow, straight" die, the ends of the label being straight and near the word THREE. Die 3 is generally known as the "K die." It is very similar to the last, but a short, diagonal line has been drawn in each corner of the label, making octagonal ends rather than "K ends." Die 4 is the "wide, straight" die. Not only is the label much wider than any other, but the letters of THREE are much farther apart. The ends are straight like Die 2. Die 5 is the common one, the label being narrow with curved ends which do not come so close to the word as in the case of Die 1.

Of the 6 cent there was but one die like Die 2, but of the 10 cent there were two, the narrow straight, Die 2, and the wide straight, Die 4.

New Check List of 20th Century Colonials

We take pleasure in announcing the fifth edition of this useful publication. The other editions proved so wonderfully popular that we have again brought the check list up to date, viz.: June 12th, 1910, showing many important changes in price.

Ordinary and chalk surfaced papers are divided and priced and a blank album can be laid out with the aid of this list without further catalogues.

Leon V. Cass 12 Seminary Ave., Binghamton, N. Y.

With the issue of 1860, with stars at the sides, there is no difficulty as there is but one die of each value, except the 1 cent. The only difference between the dies of the latter is that Die 1 has a period after POSTAGE, while Die 2 has none, and is slightly larger. Both the 1 cent and the 3 cent however appear with many minor varieties such as have already been alluded to, but which are not important enough to notice here. In the issue of 1861 there are no die varieties except in the 3-cent value, and these again are of the minor type, though two are distinct enough to have special mention in Mr. Toppan's list. The first one has a broken circle containing the numeral at the left, and the second has a broken circle at the right, which runs into the outside border line of the stamp.

When we reach the 2-cent value of 1863-4, we find a number of differences. The first dies used in 1863 are lettered U. S. POSTAGE, and though there are a number of varieties only two are important enough to list.

The illustration shows the difference between them which is most marked in the figures 2. In February, 1864, new dies appeared of the same general design, but inscribed U. S. POST. above. Again, there are many varieties due to carelessness in engraving, but these are grouped into two divisions following the width of the stamped impressions. These run from 23 1/2 mm. to 26 1/2 mm. The dividing line is taken at 26 mm., and all impressions having this width or over, are assigned to Die 1, while all under 26 mm. are assigned to Die 2.

For the other values of the 1864 issue there are only single dies, except for the 3 cent and 6 cent, which are again only minor.

We now come to the most puzzling of all issues for the majority of collectors. These are the so-called "Reay issue" of 1870, and the "Plimpton issue" of 1874. When G. H. Reay was awarded the contract for the stamped envelope series of 1870, he produced an artistic and beautifully engraved set of dies in which we find no varieties except a slight difference in the form of Franklin's "choker" on the 1 cent. The contract awarded by the Post-Office Department as most of us know, runs for four years. At the end of this period the Plimpton Manufacturing Company of Hartford, Conn., were the successful competitors. Mr. Reay tried by every means possible to prevent the new parties from carrying out their contract, refusing to deliver the dies to them and even attempting to "buy-up" every competent die sinker that he could obtain. The result was that the Plimpton Company brought out a poorly executed series of copies of the Reay dies, which are readily told from the latter. Some of them were so poor that several attempts were made to improve them, and hence we have a number of dies of these values which were generally those most used and therefore most hurriedly produced in the first place.

There are three general distinguishing features between the two issues; first, the fine engraving and clear printing of the Reay as against the more poorly executed and generally less clear appearance of the Plimpton; second, the horizontal shading lines which appear embossed without color on the numerals, or in the case of the 7 cent on the discs containing them, which are usually quite distinct on the Plimpton dies, but generally hardly noticeable on the Reay dies, and when they are distinct on the latter, seem to be finer than the Plimpton; third, the periods after U and S in the Reay dies are always square, while a majority of the 1, 2 and 3-cent Plimpton dies exhibit periods that are anything but squares.

For other differences between the two issues and the various dies of the Plimpton series we had best take up the issues together, value by value.

1 cent. Reay. Bust evenly placed in oval and end points to N of ONE. All the scallops between the lettering and outer frame have dots in them.

Plimpton Die A. Bust comes to a corner at the back, very close to the frame. Lettering small and scroll-work very poorly done.

Die B. Bust evenly placed in oval like Reay, and end points between N and E of ONE. Back line of bust straight.

2 CENT PLIMPTON

2 cent. Reay. Well-formed thick numerals in circles.

Plimpton Die A. Poorly formed thin numerals in circles; no ball at bottom of 2.

Die B. Thick numerals in ovals; O in TWO has a solid center of color.

Die B2. A variety of B in which the tail of the 2 at the left touches the oval.

Die B3. Another variety of B in which the center of the O in TWO has a couple of crossed lines in it.

Die C. The tail of the 2 is entirely clear of the down stroke, while in the previous dies it is connected with the down stroke for some distance above the "ball" numerals in ovals. This is the common die of the red 2 cent.

Die D. Numerals similar to C, but bust is cut away in a pronounced arc of a small circle, though nearer a quarter-circle than a semicircle as usually described.

3 CENT PLIMPTON

3 cent. Reay. Thick numerals in circles; (all ovals in Plimpton).

Plimpton. Die A. Tall, thin numerals in large ovals; small lettering.

Die B. Shorter, thick numerals in smaller ovals; large lettering; base of bust 1/2 mm. from bottom of frame.

Die C. Similar to B but base of bust 1 mm. from frame and knot of queue quite prominent.

6 CENT. 1870: 1874.

6 cent. Reay. Neck long at the back. Plimpton. Neck short at the back and hair comes over the forehead in a hook—upside down.

7 CENT. 1870: 1874.

7 cent. Reay. The figures 7 do not curve up at the bottom. Plimpton. The figures have an upward curve at the bottom forming a hook.

10 CENT. 1870: 1874.

10 cent. Reay. Knot of queue almost unnoticeable.

Plimpton. Die A. Known as the "Booby die." The head is very large, filling up the oval and coming very close to the frame.

5 CENT. 1875.

DIE A. DIE B.

In 1875 a new value was engraved by the Plimpton Company, viz., 5 cents, which comes in two dies. Their distinctive features is the shape of the numeral which in Die A has a thick "flag," and in Die B a thin one. There is a third intermediate variety of numeral which is not listed in the Standard catalogue.

The Centennial envelopes are known to all. They were struck from two dies, one at the Hartford works of the Plimpton Company and the other in the Government Building at the Exposition. The latter, commonly called the Philadelphia Die, was damaged, and shows a double or split white line beneath POSTAGE, where the Hartford Die shows but a single one.

We have now described the varieties up to the time when letter postage was reduced to 2 cents on October 1, 1883. For this event a new 2-cent die was engraved of the same general design as the 3-cent Die B which was in use so long. The large colored letters on the engine turned ground will distinguish it from the succeeding 2-cent dies. It is generally known as the "October Die."

At the same time a 4-cent envelope was issued, but in a much neater and better engraved design. There are two dies of this, differing mainly in the numerals, those of Die A measuring 2 3/4 mm across their widest part, and those of Die B measuring 3 1/4 mm. The former also come to a point at the left angle of the left figure 4, while the latter are blunted there.

The 2-cent die was unsatisfactory, and in November a new one appeared of the same general design as the 4 cent. Between the labels containing the lettering and the white frame lines will be found four wavy lines—two next the outer frame line and two next the inner one—which serves as its distinguishing feature. This is called the November die, but it did not prove much better than the previous one. The impressions were printed in red until May, 1884, when the color was changed to a muddy brown. This ink did not print as well and the dies deteriorated under

During October, November and December, we will offer at auction a superb collection of stamps, the property of a prominent New York collector, catalogued about $50,000.

This property is one of the finest ever placed upon the market, many countries being specialized and complete. Among the U. S. may be mentioned a nice Brattleboro, 1c Franklin Carrier, used, several St. Louis, 24c 1869 inverted centre, all Pan American inverts, most of the rare special printings, all Periodicals, all Departments including $5.00 State, practically all the U. S. Revenues, including $200 and $500 Second Issue, $5 Prop., several inverts, etc. The U. S. envelopes square cut are practically complete, also a superb lot of U. S. Essays and Proofs. In Foreign Stamps there are countless fine pieces. Among others many early Ceylon, Cape Woodblocks, Canada 12d black, British Guiana 1st issue, a lot of Sydney Views including several superb pairs, 3p Saxony, all the rarities of Oldenburg, etc., etc.

Our 25th sale takes place Sept. 24th. Ask for the catalogue. Early engagements for other sales should be made at once.

its use much faster than before. The result was that in June the impressions showed the dies had been retouched, the white lines of the design having been thickened and the whole design having a coarse and blotched appearance which is very noticeable—in fact, more resembling the coarse impressions of the next (July) die than the original November die. Some of the differences, however are so marked that they must be ascribed to different dies though they are only listed as varieties of the "June" or "retouched" die, as it is called; yet they are as worthy of being given a "letter" under this design as the different dies of the 2-cent Plimpton, for instance.

There are three of these varieties, viz.: the "Two-link" variety, which has only two diamonds or "links" between the right oval containing the figure and the end of the label beneath, instead of two and a half as in the normal design; the "3 1/2-link" variety, which has this number of diamonds between the left oval and the end of the label above it, instead of 2 1/2 as in the normal design; and the "round-O" variety in which the O in TWO is a perfect circle.

There is one variety known as the "spread die," which seems to be a hybrid between the November and the retouched dies, as the left half of design shows the evidences of retouching in the wider lines and larger figures, while the right half has not been altered.

2 CENT. JULY 1884.

DIE A. DIE B.

In July, 1884, another design appeared, which followed the last one very closely, but is distinguished by having only one wavy line between the inscribed labels and the white frame lines. The white lines of the design are also heavier than the November (1883) die which is the reason the retouched (June) die somewhat resembles it. This is known as the "Kellogg Die," and it became very familiar and very monotonous to us all during its thirteen years of service. There are two varieties, Die A having the bust come to a point below the queue and Die B having it rounded off there, which makes the bust a little thicker at the back.

We now come to the issue of 1887, in which the uniform design, adopted for the four common values, is known as the "Tiffany Die." In the 1 cent there are two well-marked dies, which are not noted in the Standard catalogue, as well as several minor varieties. These two dies are distinguished A, by a larger bust inclined forward, no cross-bar on G of POSTAGE, and the side ornaments 4 1/2 mm. long; B, by a smaller but more upright, G has the cross-bar, and the ornaments only 3 mm. long. The latter is the common one.

2 CENT. 1887.

DIE A. DIE B.

The 2 cents also has two well-marked dies. Die A, commonly known as the "rejected die," has the point of the bust directed toward the third white tooth of the inner serrated line. (In the drawing the teeth are represented in black, for the drawing shows the design and the latter is given by the white lines in the solid color of the stamped impression.) There is no cross-bar to the G of POSTAGE. Die B has the point of the bust directed toward the second white tooth of the inner serrated line, which does not tilt the head back as before, and the G now has a cross-bar. There are several minor varieties, but the most noticeable is perhaps the "capped 2" variety, where the figure has a white cap very similar to that found on the capped varieties of the 2-cent adhesive of 1890.

5 CENT. 1887.

DIE A. DIE B.

The 5-cent had but one die until 1894 when Purcell of Holyoke, had the contract. A new die then appeared which was distinguished from the previous one by the fact that there appeared to be no neck to the bust in front. Die A shows the neck between the coat and the chin, and also a button on the lapel in front of the shoulder strap. Die B has no button, and the coat comes directly up to the chin. This is called the "Holyoke Die."

In the meantime the Columbian series was issued, and in this design we find four varieties, though they are not listed in the Standard catalogue. As they are quite plain we give them in case any one is interested:

Var. 1. Period after CENTS; meridian back of Columbus' head.

Var. 2. Period after CENTS; no meridian back of Columbus' head.

Var. 3. No period after CENTS; meridian back of Columbus' head.

Var. 4. No period after CENTS; no meridian back of Columbus' head.

The 1-cent occurs in varieties 1, 2, 3; the 2-cent and 5-cent in all four varieties; the 10-cent in variety 3 only.

2 CENT. 1899.

DIE A. DIE B.

We now come to the current issue, which made its appearance in 1899. In the 2-cent value we again find a "rejected die." This time, instead of being tipped too far back, the bust was tipped forward, so that in Die A the point of the bust comes down almost to the left upper corner of the shield containing the figure. In Die B the point of the bust is sharper and is directed between the first and second white teeth of the inner serrated line. (See remarks concerning the drawing under the 2-cent of 1887.)

The 4-cents has three dies which can be as well described as illustrated. Die A has a long, thin neck, with the "Adam's apple" showing; there is no draping in the bust, which ends in a point. Die B has a shorter, thicker neck, with no "Adam's apple," and the bust has draping on it with something in front resembling a necktie; the bust is not pointed, but blunt. Die C is unmistakable, as the head is large instead of quite small as in the other two, and there is no inner serrated line at all, thus departing from the original design.

EDITORIAL.

A Welcome Compilation—In the London Philatelist for July 1910, there appeared a remarkable compilation by the Earl of Crawford, K. T., entitled, "Abstracts from the Specifications of Patents, connected with Postage and Revenue Stamps, granted by the United States Patent Office from 1863 to 1898." Lord Crawford, President of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, has one of the greatest special collections of United States stamps extant; and he gives close attention to the historical phases of the issues and his descriptive text makes a setting of engrossing interest for the stamps. The instalment of Abstracts from the Specifications of Patents under notice covers the period from 1863 to 1869. The first entry is: "Herron. 7-7-63. No. 39,147. Preserving Postage Stamps. (Out of print.)" Then follows specifications of "Gibson" and "Harmon" respectively, made in January and February, 1864, and these, too, are "out of print." The fourth is: "Harmon, Emanuel. 22-3-64. No. 41. 991. Mode of Cancelling Revenue and other Stamps. Nature of my invention consists in the clipping or cutting from the stamp the date or mark representing the approximation to the date and the year of its use as a method of cancellation. Figures a stamp. Around it are a series of letters and dots to show approximate date. Jan. begins at left lower corner and follows round with the sun. The dots are periods of five days, cancelled by snipping out portions of this outer frame, containing initials of months and dots, e.g., two dots snipped out showing date to be between 10 and 20 March. Claims.—The method of canceling combined with engraving months and dots on the stamps." The claims are illustrated by two sketches. In the following transcripts are the "grille" and "double paper" patents of Charles F. Steel of New York. It is needless to direct notice to the inval-

Improved Quality of Paper—Some months ago, Postmaster General Hitchcock appointed a committee to inquire into the question of the manufacture of a special or suitable paper for postal cards and to ascertain where it may be obtained. The personnel of the committee whose report will be available soon, no doubt, is: E. H. Thorp, Superintendent, Division of City Delivery; J. R. Harrison, Inspector-in-Charge, Washington Division, and Carter B. Keene, Post Office Inspector.

The Real Thing—We take pride in the presentation of a bit of momentous news that is exclusive as well as of exceeding interest. We have told in the past of the race-horse, "Stamps," of the Rev. Dr. Stamps and of Stamps, Arkansas, and now it is our privilege to record that at Brutus, Michigan, Mr. Filately has his abode and engages in the pursuit of happiness. Hugh M. Clark says that he saw and spoke to this celebrity, but so paradoxically are some things ordered, Mr. Filately is no stamp collector. J. W. Scott has long been called the father of philately but under the newer revelation, Filately of Brutus, Michigan, is entitled to the honorable appellation, as we take it, he has at least one son who must bear the proud patronym of Filately.

Postal Banks and Stamps—It is expected that the postal bank system will be in operation about November 1st, 1910, the board of experts selected by the postmaster-general to install the innovation having done much of the introductory work. It is provided by law that a stamp of the denomination of ten cents be issued and when nine of the stamps have been affixed to the card given to the prospective depositor, a certificate with the amount of one dollar will be punched out, the card on which the stamps are placed counting as ten cents or one stamp. When "$10 have been punched in a certificate, it may be turned into the postoffice and another for $10 issued in its place. These final certificates are to be issued in denominations of $10, $20 and $50." The design of the ten-cent stamp which is said to be "exceedingly artistic" has been approved by the postmaster-general; and there will be a two-cent stamp for use on official correspondence relating to the postal banks, the design of which likewise has been accepted. At first the number of postal banks must be comparatively few as congress appropriated only $100,000 to meet the incidental expenses of installation of the system.

Counts Up—As collectors know, the Post-office department now asks a small amount over the face value of the stamps in rolls or coils to pay for the extra work involved in their production. The added price of six cents a roll of five hundred stamps seems reasonable but the manufacturers of mechanical stamping devices are represented as being disturbed over the slight advance in price over face, as they fear that it may hurt the sale of their machines. The manufacturers are in a position to know how vast are the quantities of stamps that are used by some of the large concerns; and the additional twelve cents a thousand stamps may be considered an item of moment in some cases, although the small concern that mails but comparatively few letters would not notice the slight excess over face.

* * *

Division of Opinion—The factory at Dayton, Ohio, where the United States stamped envelopes are made, gives employment to over three hundred persons and any proposed legislation that affects the industry in any way becomes a local matter of importance in Dayton. For many years past the printing and allied industries have been protesting against the practice of the post-office department of printing return requests on stamped envelopes for users of large quantities. Latterly, an impetus has been given to the movement against the government's method of encouraging the use of its envelopes through the concession that it makes and a bill widely endorsed has been introduced into congress for the abolition of the return request governmentally printed. We shall not recount the arguments that have been made in support of the bill; but we shall point out, following the lead of the Dayton Journal, that the bill has opponents as well as supporters. For instance, the Indiana Association of Presidential Postmasters "has just sent a vigorous memorial to congress, protesting against the legislation which proposes to abolish the government printing of stamped envelopes. The memorial claims that the printing of envelopes by the government instead of by private firms is a convenience to the public as well as a benefit to the postal service."

GEORGE L. TOPPAN'S

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:

Regular Government Issues U. S. Envelopes
Carrier Stamps Confederate Provisionals

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2's" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1853 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plymptoms is made as easy as rolling off a log. We don't sell this book—WE GIVE IT AWAY!

Remit 25c for new six mos. subscription not renewal or Remit $1 for two year's renewal. Money back if wanted.

KING GEORGE ISSUES.

Designs for new postage stamps have been under consideration for some time past, and it is probable that an announcement upon the subject may be made before very long.

It is considered likely that the first of the new stamps will be issued early next year. Although all the stamps will bear a portrait of King George, different designs may be accepted for stamps of various values.

Attention has been drawn repeatedly in recent years to the fact that in some colonies stamps have been circulated which bear other designs than the Sovereign's portrait. It is understood that in view of the tendency of stamps of this character to increase, certain remonstrances were conveyed to the governor of colonies and dependencies at the beginning of the last reign, and that in consequence the practice was abandoned in many cases. It is probable that the portrait of King George will be generally imprinted upon the postage stamps which will be issued in the course of the next few months in all parts of the Empire.—London Times.

GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY

That the "Marquette Album" is not to be compared with any stamp book on the market. All objectionable points that are found in other peg fastening books, or spring backs, are overcome. A leaf may be added or removed without moving a single other leaf in the entire book. Albums are made blank, quadrille, or printed, substantially bound in black or red cloth, half leather, or full Russia leather with gilt. A fine illustrated circular is at your disposal for the asking. Buy a Marquette Moveable Leaf Album and be satisfied. You will not regret it. [tf]

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Philatelic Gazette, the new stamp paper, will make its initial bow in New York on the 15th of this month. It is promised that the first number will be an attractive one, and among the contributors are J. Murray Bartels, Victor M. Berthold, Edward H. Mason, Dr. Carroll Chase, C. K. B. Nevin and W. W. Randall. The new paper will be issued monthly and the subscription price will be 50c per year after October 1. It is to be published by The Philatelic Pub. Co., New York City.

—Clippings acknowledged with thanks from E. W. Smith, Geo. H. Quintard, H. W. Boers, J. M. Hubbard, C. E. Thomas, Economist Stamp Co., Henry Hoffman and Jacob Spiro.

—Geo. H. Quintard favors us with a clipping from the London Daily Mail picturing the new Newfoundland stamps. The cuts are not distinct enough for us to have a reproduction made from the same. The set, however, will be a very handsome one.

—The Penn Stamp Co., Moosic, Pa., would be glad to hear from any dealers having had unsatisfactory dealings with H. W. Walton or H. W. Jackson.

—The Frank P. Brown Co. has moved from 339 Washington Street to 325 Washington Street, and is now located nearly opposite the Old South Church.

—One of the attendants at the M. P. A. convention, Binghamton, N. Y., was H. W. Koons of Long Eddy, N. Y. Mr. Koons has passed the seventy mark in years but nevertheless gave the convention attendants an interesting talk upon his collecting experiences. The next convention of the M. P. A. will be held at Boonton, N. J.

—E. W. Smith, San Francisco, Cal., sends us an advertisement from the local Examiner which we reprint without comment:—

FOR SALE—About 100 mixed foreign stamps, mostly Japanese; $1,000; shown only to buyers. Address STAMPS, New Monterey, Cal.

—We have received from C. E. Thomas two clippings from the London Times dealing with the establishment of penny postage between England and France. Had we the space we should be glad to make extracts from the Times editorial, in which the project is given a hearty endorsement.

—Kenneth Heard submits two covers posted at St. Thomas, Canada, upon each of which a half of a two-cent stamp paid the postage. Such freaks are quite common.

UNITED STATES REVENUE SOCIETY.

By W. C. STONE, Sec. Pro Tem.

The result of the election as declared at the Detroit meeting was as follows: President—John W. Prevost of Mass. 1st Vice President—E. R. Vanderhoof of Colorado.

2nd Vice President—W. G. Saxton of Ohio.

Secretary—H. A. Davis of Colorado. Treasurer—H. S. Ackerman of New York.

The Secretary reported that owing to lack of method in the previous conduct of the office he had had a busy time getting things in order during the year. This I can guarantee myself from a personal inspection of the so-called "records". Dr. Davis will find things in ship shape order, however, when he takes hold of the office. The present membership is 143.

The Treasurer reported receipts for the year of $168.46 and disbursements of $158.99, leaving $9.47 in the general fund. The insurance fund amounts to $43.66. Sales Manager Emery reported sales amounting to $170.88 with a large number of circuits still out. The foreign revenue section has done no business during the year. The Committee on Publications and Literature reported several new revenue publications during the year and called attention to various articles in the weekly and monthly press. The most important work of all is the catalogue of State Revenue Stamps of the United States compiled by J. D. Bartlett and published by the U. S. R. S. The revision and codification of our constitution and by-laws authorized by the last convention was adopted.

The meeting was held quite informally Thursday noon in the Museum of Art. As none of the regular officers were present, Herbert Bowen presided and the writer acted as Secretary. A full report will appear in the Year Book.

HE WROTE TO THE TIMES.

A correspondent signing himself "Voyageur" writes:—"The following trick was played upon me yesterday at the chief post-office at St. Moritz:—The hotel porter took my trunk to the post-office for the purpose of sending it to Castasegna on the Italian frontier. He conferred for some time with an underling at the post-office, who then made a charge to me of 3f. 30. On the trunk arriving at Castasegna, which is in Switzerland, I found that stamps to the value of 1f. 80 had been used. I have no doubt that the porter and the official shared the overcharge of 1f. 50, and I write this for the benefit of travellers."—London Times.

THE STAMP COLLECTOR.

The discovery of a solemn man's hobby softens his austerity. So there is something very human and interesting in the convention here of the nation's philatelists—serious men brought together by the common fascination exercised by little bits of colored paper.

Like every other hobby which involves collecting something, the fun is not half so much in possession as in the eternal quest. Whole volumes of odd and beautiful labels, given as a receipt for postage paid, are not as interesting as the rare and illusive specimens which are yet to be corralled. While the small boy collector has his heaven in grandmother's garret, shearing the old labels from long treasured epistles, the full fledged enthusiast finds a larger field for his activities, and the farthest corner of the earth is not too remote to stop his quest. There is more in the hobby than one might suppose. History, geography and national politics form a groundwork for an intelligent pursuit of the pastime. New Zealand and Hawaii will show you landscapes upon their stamps; a Central American country pictures tropical birds; Jamaica shows a waterfall; old Canadian issues and some of Borneo show native fauna, while Japan revels in various presentations of its conventionalized chrysanthemum. Colombia and the Quebec centennials present whole maps, while the heads of rulers and statesmen give designs for thousands of issues.

The watchful eye of the collector must scan the world. A change of government, a new ruler, a new rate of postage, a centennial or special celebration means a new issue. Besides there are the multiplied varieties of watermark, perforation, paper, dye and die, so that the richest and most resourceful of the collectors is baffled by the search which has no end.

It is pleasant to reflect that in so solemn and busy a world men are never too old for playtime and that, after all, a hobby is a boon to mankind and makes the years sit lightly upon the silveriest head.—Editorial, Free Press, Detroit.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

AUSTRIA.—Frank M. Mason has shown us the commemorative stamps noted in No. 1026, and we find that the items taken from our foreign contemporaries, give a very incomplete idea of the new issue. The designs of the old issue have not been changed, or only the trifling amount necessary to make the new design complete and harmonious. The additions are, as stated, about 4 mm. wide and extending across the stamp. The dates "1830" and "1910" appear at the top and bottom respectively, the figures being in colorless, upon colored tablets. The values 1h to 35h are printed on a coated paper, and have the ornamental scroll work in the upper corners extended and added to so as to fill the extra space at the sides of the tablet containing the date. At the bottom the spaces at the sides of the tablet containing the other date, the 5h, 10h and 25h being alike, the others all different from the above three and from each other. This also applies to the lower ornaments on the 50h, 60h and 1k values. Owing to the different design of these three values, the ornaments at top and bottom are similar, though differing in detail. These three values are printed on a rough paper, as were the originals. The new stamps are 21x34 mm. for the values, 1h to 35h, and 21x39 mm. for the other three. We have not yet seen the other krone values. It is only fair to say that the appearance of the stamps has been greatly improved by the additions. The names of the designer and engraver appear below the frame as before. In the 60h value, the sky is lined.

CONGO.—The stamps of Belgian Congo have been overprinted "Taxes" for use as postage due stamps, the Postage Stamp listing the complete set from 5c to 10fr.

DOMINICA.—The Colonial Office Journal says that the 1sh value has been sent out to the Island in the new colors.

DOMINION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Ewen's Weekly says: What will be the title of the Union of South Africa? The United States of Australia had to adopt the title of "Commonwealth" to avoid clashing with the American "U. S. A." and "Union of South Africa," is open to the same objection. "British South Africa" recalls the Chartered Company; perhaps "Dominion of South Africa" will be chosen. Anyway the new stamps are expected in a few months and will settle the question. There is evidently to be only one set for the whole of the NEWFOUNDLAND.—Supplementing the note in No. 1027, A. C. Roessler has given us further information regarding the new "Guy" issue of stamps for the Island. We are also indebted to the Postage Stamp for some of the information given below. Mr. Roessler says the new stamps were printed by Whitehead, Morris & Co. of London, and has been informed that if the American Bank Note Co. does any more work for Newfoundland, it must leave off its imprint, this being considered "an instance of Yankee enterprise, but scarcely in consonance with the dignity of a British Colony." The values and illustrations are as follows, though neither Mr. Roessler nor the Postage Stamp give the colors of the new stamps.

1c, Portrait of King James I of England who granted a charter to one John Guy, an alderman of Bristol city, to found a settlement in Newfoundland.

2c, The Arms—two crowned lions rampant and two chained unicorns—of the London and Bristol company which developed the settlement.

3c, The head of Alderman John Guy, the first to form a permanent settlement in the year 1610.

4c, The good ship Endeavour, upon which Guy sailed to Conception Bay.

5c, The town of Cupids, one of the chief centres of Newfoundland's great fishing industry.

6c, The head of Lord Bacon, the guiding spirit in the first colonization of Newfoundland.

8c, A view of Mosquito, a Newfoundland town, close to Harbour Grace, the second town in the country.

9c, A logging camp upon Red Indian Lake, with the spruce logs lying in the foreground, and at the back the rough shanties of the men.

10c, The great paper mills at Grand Falls. An excellent picture of the pulp and paper mills of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co. This stamp is particularly interesting as commemorating Newfoundland's new industry.

12c, The profile of King Edward VII.
15c, The portrait of King George, full face. The first stamp issued with King George's features upon it.

It is just 13 years since the issue by Newfoundland of its Queen Victoria Diamond Jubilee series, which also served to commemorate the fourth centenary of the discovery of the Island by Cabot. The new series have been printed in taille-douce, the Postage Stamp says, though they have the appearance of being lithographed.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The Postage Stamp says that it has been decided to issue the new 2d stamps with head of King Edward, which have already been printed. The new printing in dark green and rose were to take the place of the new issue. Ewen's Weekly says the latter were printed from old plates, as the marginal lines are continuous instead of being disconnected as on the current plates.

NEW ZEALAND.—The Postage Stamp reports the 4d of the pictorial type has been reissued, with the frame in yellow, instead of yellow brown as formerly.

NICARAGUA.—We are also indebted to John P. Cooper for information regarding the provisional 5c on 10c chronicled in No. 1027.

ST. KITTS-NEVIS.—The 1sh stamps have been supplied for the first time on surfaced paper, according to the Colonial Office Journal.

ST. VINCENT.—The Postage Stamp reports the issue of the 2½d in the new type, with period after the "d."

SIAM.—Ewen's Weekly notes: The 1st July being the 25th anniversary of the admission of Siam into the Universal Postal Union, a special postmark was used on that day. It is a rubber stamp inscribed "1885—Postal Jubilee—1910—Universal Postal Union—1, 7, 10," with an inner ring bearing the inscription in Siamese and Arms in the centre.

TURK'S ISLANDS.—A ¼d or one farthing stamp has been issued for the Turk's and Caicos Islands, both values appearing upon the stamp. "One Farthing" printed on a tablet running across the bottom of the stamp, while "¼d" is printed in tablet in each of the upper corners. "Turk's &"—"Caicos Islands"—"Postage," appears at the sides and top of the central oval, beginning at the left. The central picture is a representation of the Melocactus Communis or "Turk's Head."

STAMP CONTRACT RENEWED.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has approved the renewal of the contract with the Treasury Department for printing and manufacturing adhesive postage stamps for a term of four years beginning February 1, 1911. A bid was submitted by a private concern for supplying the Department with postage stamps which was about $17,000 per year less than what is being paid under the present contract. It was deemed advisable by Mr. Hitchcock to renew the contract with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for various reasons, principal of which is that a scheme is under way there which will reduce the cost of manufacture by $180,000 a year on a total expenditure of $625,000. The Bureau maintains a high standard of quality and output; it fills the requisitions of the Department promptly, and it carries enormous reserves, not being obliged to consider the amount of capital tied up, as a private contractor would have to. With the exception of stamped envelopes, the Government now manufactures all of its fiscal issues. Since the first of last January the postal cards have been printed at the Government Printing Office.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has been supplying the Department's postage stamps satisfactorily for sixteen years. During that time none of the difficulties which have attended the production of postal cards and stamped envelopes in private plants have been experienced as to adhesive postage stamps.

A surplus stock of over one and one-half billion stamps is always carried by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and it is expected that this amount will soon be increased to two billions.—Clipping.

MATTERS PHILATELIC IN URUGUAY.

By A. H. DAVIS.

During our Postmaster-General's recent trip to Europe he noticed the great utility of the carnets, or little books of stamps, issued by the Postal Administrations, and as an experiment he had 5000 books prepared, containing stamps of the low values up to 8c, and issued them to the public, and so great has been their success that he is having another lot prepared. The business houses especially find them very useful, and as no charge is made for the book they are sure to become universally popular. The Uruguayan Post Office never charges for its stationery, post cards, envelopes, wrappers, etc., always being sold at their nominal value. This is the only South American Post Office which has adopted these carnets.

Among other projected reforms are the following:—Classification of correspondence from the port of origin, an increase in the number of post offices, important changes in the Poste Restante and Dead Letter Departments, more frequent delivery and collection of letters, the establishment of Postal Order and Parcel Post services with Spain, Brazil, and other countries, and the delivery of registered letters and packets at the houses of the addressees. At present the addressee receives advice of a registered letter, and has then to go to the General Post Office and produce his birth certificate or passport before he can obtain his letter. This system is, of course, most vexatious to those who are not known to the postal officials. In many respects our Post Office is sadly behind the times, but it is gradually coming into line with the more advanced Administrations. Until recently all stamps have been obliterated with a little handstamp, but a machine has been purchased from Moll and Weil, of Paris, which bears the date, hour, name of post office, etc., and it is reported to work with great rapidity. So great has been the increase of correspondence that some such reform had become an absolute necessity. It has been decided to publish a journal called The Postal Telegraph Review, in which will be published all Decrees relating to the postal and telegraph services, the regulations of the Administration, the notices received from the office of the U. P. U. at Berne, articles relating to telegraphs and telephones, and finally, a Post Office Guide to tariffs, itineraries, etc. This publication is to be issued immediately, and will be supplied to the Ministries, Civil Service Departments, Foreign Postal Administrations, Diplomatic Corps, the Uruguayan Consular Service, the local post offices, and the newspapers.

The privilege of cash payment for correspondence is now only allowed to the newspapers, so all business houses and private persons issuing circulars and price lists must pay ½c postage on each one, instead of paying only 5c per kilo weight. This will cause a great increase of revenue, and will bring about a very curious result, directly affecting stamp dealers and collectors, as the low values will become extremely common, and the higher values, 50c, 1 peso, and upwards, will become correspondingly rare; these high values were mostly used by the newspapers in paying their weekly postage bills, and practically no one ever writes such a bulky letter as to require, say, a 2 or 3 pesos stamp. I think for this reason our highest denomination is to be the 1 peso. Apropos of our long-expected new issue, I was authoritatively informed that it will not be put on sale until the end of June. As I think most of your readers are already aware, this is the Centenary year of Argentine Independence, and there are to be great festivities in Buenos Ayres, commencing from the 25th of May and lasting until September or October. A new Commemorative set of stamps is to be issued, and as Uruguay remained a province of the Argentine Confederation until August 25th, 1825, we are also to have a Commemorative set issued as a compliment to the Argentines. The order has been placed with Waterlow, the values will be 2c and 5c, and they will be on sale from the 22nd until the 29th of May. The design is copied from a painting by Carlos M. Herrera, which depicts a Centaur in an open country, with broken chains hanging from its limbs. In the background there is the indispensable "Mount" from which Montevideo takes its name, and over which appears the rising sun. I do not know what the colours are to be, as I have not seen the proofs.

NEW CEYLON STAMPS.

Several of our contemporaries have made mention of a projected change in the stamps of Ceylon. Mr. C. Graham sends us from Colombo the particulars given below; he adds, however, a surmise that this projected scheme may undergo some modification owing to the death of his late Majesty, and the consequent necessity for a new issue in the near future.

The new stamps are to be of a uniform pattern as regards the design. The pattern to be the one used for all the present denominations, except the 2, 5 and 6 cents stamps, which are to be brought into conformity with it.

The duty to be shown in coloured figures on a white ground. The following scheme for colours has been recommended, retaining those required by the Postal Convention for the 3, 6 and 15 cents stamps:

Stamp. Rs. Cts.	Colour.	Colour of duty figure on a white ground.
2	Orange.	Blue.
3	Green.	Green.
5	Brilliant rosa.	Brilliant rosa.
6	Red.	Red.
10	Sage-green.	Purple.
15	Blue.	Blue.
25	Grey.	Grey.
30	Blue-purple.	Green.
50	Brown.	Brown.
1.00	Purple (on yellow paper).	Purple.
2.00	Red (on yellow paper).	Red.
5.00	Black (on green paper).	Black.
10.00	Black (on red paper).	Black.

The present 4c, 12c, 75c, Rs. 1.50, and Rs. 2.25 stamps are to be abolished. The new denominations to be introduced are 10c, 50c, Re. 1, Rs. 2, Rs. 5, and Rs. 10.

There will be thirteen denominations of postage stamps which will be used for all postal and telegraph purposes.

Postage stamps of the old issue will be used until they are exhausted. A supply of the new postage stamps is due from the Crown Agents at the end of June next.

The scheme for substituting postal stamps for telegraph stamps will come into force probably from 1st July next.

This list is far from being complete, as unfortunately all editors do not feel it incumbent on them to acknowledge the use of our articles.

The distribution through the publication American Boy has been continued and 10,000 packets have been supplied by this committee.

We have on hand for the use of next year's committee, electros of all folders, cards, envelopes, etc., used in this work, as well as a large quantity of printed folders, for which the funds have been lacking with which to purchase the stamps.

We wish to make the following recommendations to the next year's committee.

That the W. Dwight Burroughs articles be continued;

That the distribution of packets through the American Boy be continued and doubled;

That the distribution of the historical folders be continued on a larger scale;

That the appropriation of the American Philatelic Society be $50.00.

It will be seen that the committee has not been resting on its oars and that much thought and time has been expended on details that no one but the initiated can realize.

The committee desires to thank all members who have aided our work in any way, particularly the territorial committeemen; also the philatelic press, which has been more than kind in giving valuable space to our cause.

Particularly efficient service has been rendered this committee by Mr. A. W. Batchelder of Boston, who obtained for it nearly one-half of the subscriptions; and to Mr. Iver Johnson, our traveling representative, whose active brain and constant work is responsible for the various new ideas this committee was able to put into working order.

We are also thankful for the able assistance and advice given to us by our worthy and hard working President, Mr. H. N. Mudge.

Our fellow member of this committee, Mr. Iver Johnson, has seen fit to prepare a supplementary report to which the chairman and secretary could take no exception.

Trusting that the work of the committee can be largely increased in the coming year by more power in the shape of increased finances, we remain for the best interest of the society.

PORTUGUESE INDIA "TETES BECHES."

J. W. MARSDEN in Gibbons Weekly.

The article headed "Tetes-beches," tempts me to send you a few observations on the stamps of Portuguese India mentioned in the same.

I have been going into the question of the printing of the native-made stamps, and have examined a number of sheets of 15 and 20 reis. The result of my investigations is that I consider the sheets were printed by hand stamp by stamp, with, in all probability, a guiding frame of squares. No other assumption can explain the settings, which I never found to be alike in two cases.

The variations in shade of stamps on the same sheet are most marked, which can only be explained by supposing that the stamps were printed one by one. Not only do I believe that the stamps were printed in this manner, but also the figures of value.

I have seen a sheet of 15 reis (No. 37 in the Catalogue) in which one stamp in the sheet had the figures of value double and quite apart, and only one such case in about 60 sheets. Also a block of 10 reis (No. 39), where an extra figure "10" occurred between two stamps, all the stamps themselves having been correctly printed.

If these surmises are correct, the extreme rarity of tetes-beches can be explained. That the tetes-beches have the figures correctly placed may also perhaps be understood, as the printer would at once detect a stamp printed upside-down.

It may be said that this method of manufacture must have been very laborious, but forty years ago, with very cheap labour and a no great demand for stamps, this would be scarcely considered.

It would thus not necessarily follow that if a stamp existed tete-beche, uncharged or unperforated, it must also exist surcharged or perforated.

THE DETROIT CONVENTION.

By WM. C. STONE.

That the legislation reported by the by-laws committee was not hurried and gotten up on the spur of the moment without due consideration may be learned from the fact that the committee was in session from 9 P. M. Wednesday to 4 A. M. Thursday and that the new secretary and other prominent members were called in consultation to aid in their deliberations. The fact that every change recommended was adopted without opposition, not a roll call occurring during the convention, goes to show that the work was well done. From my experience at a score of conventions, at many of which I have served on the by-laws committee, I can say that I have never seen things run more smoothly than at this meeting.

President Mudge is a natural born diplomat and peacemaker, and the work done by him during the past year can never be fully appreciated by the members.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2, 1910.

President Skinner called the meeting to order at 9 P. M. The stamp bourse, in which quite a number of members participated, was put to a practical test, and proved successful beyond the expectations of even those who fathered the idea. The stamps offered were all in the finest condition and of a class that would suit all members, from the very humblest beginner to the most ardent specialist. The most interesting feature at the next meeting on Sept. 15th will be the competitive exhibition of the Philippine Islands. Visitors welcome.

A. P. S. ANNUAL REPORTS.

REPORT OF EDUCATIONAL COMMITTEE.

The Educational Committee, long known to all as the National Stamp Committee and later the Publicity Committee, is not supposed to hide its light under a bushel, but, as a matter of fact, it is expected to turn the most powerful search light of information and knowledge of stamp collecting on that part of the general public that knows nothing of the interest attached to philately; to educate it; and if possible to make it take part in our interesting and instructive pursuit.

The amount of power that an Educational Committee can turn on to its light and information plant depends entirely on the amount of fuel that it commands in the shape of finances, or, in other words, on the amount of money it has to spend.

The present committee could not get to work and show results until its financial power was turned on; since which, it has gone as far as possible with the limited power at its command, all of which has been consumed, the plant now being idle for lack of fuel.

The work done and results obtained are fully recorded in this, our yearly report, as follows:

We call special attention to the wide circulation of the Burroughs articles which appeared in practically every large city throughout the United States. While it is impossible to obtain a complete list of all papers using these articles, the following will give one some idea of the immense number of readers who have had placed before them four articles concerning philately.

SPECULATIVE STAMP ISSUES.

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT.

The failure of British collectors to reach the International Postal Union with an officially supported petition against speculative and unnecessary stamp issues seems not to have daunted the spirits of those who were the instigators of the movement and renewed activity in this direction may be looked for. Last year the English committee made an appeal for support to the German "Philatelisten Tag" which convened at Carlsbad and the large German body of philatelists pledged their good will and cooperation. Why a similar appeal was not made to the largest national philatelic society in the world, the American Philatelic Society, is more than I know, but as we have "permitted" our government to market eight separate commemorative issues, and have shown undue interest in these issues, an assurance of our moral support would probably not be of much value to the cause of suppression.

The German "Philatelisten Tag", which recently met at Kiel, had the following questions for discussion:

"Is the issue of commemorative stamps of benefit to the issuing countries? To the collectors? To the dealers? Is the further issuing of commemorative stamps desirable or should it be suppressed?"

When data comes to hand I will be glad to acquaint the readers of the WEEKLY with the outcome of this discussion, which can be taken as a fair representation of the German opinion.

In the August number of Der Philatelist, published by the great "Internationaler Philatelisten Verein", Dresden, Mr. Victor Weinert proposes a most elaborate scheme for the suppression of speculative issues. The author claims that of all the ills to which philately is heir, the speculative stamp is the worst, and that these stamps can be considered the arch-enemy of our hobby. He claims to hear a daily complaint, in increasing volume, to the effect, that through the constantly growing number of commemorative, exhibition, and charity stamps, a representative general collection is becoming almost an impossibility. As he takes such a serious view of the situation, it may be of interest to outline the scheme which he offers as a remedy.

The most important step to be taken is the convincing of the beginner and the small collector of the danger to their hobby, which is lurking in the speculative issues. To accomplish this the philatelic press is to be urged to keep everlastingly at it and the societies are to thunder forth their anathemas in popular lectures. Speculative stamps should be excluded from the "New Issues" columns or be referred to in a way which will seem to discredit them with the collectors. A committee should be appointed to compile a catalogue of all speculative stamps heretofore issued, giving their history so that the collector can judge for himself. This catalogue should be given the widest possible circulation by being sent out with philatelic journals, price lists, albums, postage stamp catalogues, etc. The catalogue should have two divisions: purely speculative stamps, and speculative stamps of a milder degree. As samples of the former are mentioned the Roumanian exhibition and charity stamps of 1906, the Seebeck issues, the revolutionary issues of Crete and Venezuela, etc. Mentioned as being of the milder form, we find the yearly "subscription" series of Liberia, the "Miranda" and "Resellada" stamps of Venezuela, the 1904 commemoratives of Hayti, the last Nyassa issue, etc. The speculative stamps of the milder form should be listed in the regular catalogues but only in small type or within parentheses.

In order to carry out this extensive campaign it is proposed to organize a "Collectors' Protective League" composed of delegates from all the philatelic societies, philatelic experts, editors and individual collectors. Cooperating with this league should be a "Dealers' Protective League" which should see to it that no speculative stamps are offered for sale by reputable dealers, and every member must pledge himself to exclude such stamps from his stock. Dealers and collectors in other countries should be approached and urged to take similar steps as it is necessary that the movement becomes as international in nature as philately itself. The last number in the program is a mass petition to the International Postal Union signed by hundreds of thousands of collectors the world over.

Undoubtedly such an elaborately planned campaign, if vigorously carried

BEGINNINGS OF THE GEORGIAN.

In the race of the Colonies to produce the first portrait stamp of the Georgian reign it looks pretty certain that the Union of South Africa is going to run Newfoundland close. As stated in a "stop press" note in last week's Postage Stamp, a new stamp is now nearly ready for despatching to Pretoria to be ready for issue when H. R. H. Duke of Connaught opens the new Parliament. From the description of the design we may at least expect something vastly more attractive than the last commemorative stamp of the Transvaal issued in 1896, to mark the introduction of penny postage. That was a grotesque production from the artistic and pictorial point of view.—Postage Stamp.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Harry L. Perkins, who recently removed to Chicago will continue his stamp business from that city, he having been obliged to suspend his philatelic activities in Hartford, Conn. Owing to conditions arising from financial complications that resulted through no fault of his own, Mr. Perkins was compelled to devote his time to other matters, temporarily, to the exclusion of philately; now, however, he is giving his attention to details that could not be attended to previously.

—Certain English papers are advocating the printing of a Dickens label, to be sold at one penny, the proceeds to be used to aid several of the great author's grandchildren who are in straightened circumstances "through no fault of their own." The Strand argues that every owner of a Dickens book would patronize the project, thus realizing a tidy sum. One correspondent suggests a book plate, which seems much more sensible and appropriate. —Clipping received from N. Y. Evening Post, by courtesy of M. A. Lesser.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from: —A. McKechnie, Hugo Kuentler (4), M. A. Lesser, Felipe Naveda (3), D. D. Berolzheimer, Marcel E. Taller.

THE EMPIRE OF MOROCCO: ITS FOREIGN AND PRIVATE POSTS.

By FRED W. EDWARDS.

The philatelic history of a country closely reflects and illustrates its political history, its form of government, and often even the customs and characteristics of its national life. In no other could we find more substantial evidence of this close inter-relation of philately and history than in the Empire of Morocco.

The government of Morocco is an autocracy, subject to religious influences, which severely repress all progress; and the general system is as corrupt as the people who administer and endure it.

From such a government, and from a people notorious throughout several centuries for brigandage and piracy, no properly organized postal service could be expected, and the natural and almost inevitable outcome of this lack of proper postal facilities was the establishment of Foreign Post Offices, supplemented by private courier posts—the latter system giving rise to abuses, corruption, and stamp speculation, with the result that practically all the "Local" stamps, good and bad alike, are under a ban and have incurred the disfavour of philatelists.

In Morocco, not only does the postal system illustrate a reactionary and corrupt system of government; but the picturesque stamps of the private posts illustrate the characteristics of the country and the Moorish people, by many dainty designs depicting camels, dromedaries, lions, palm trees, Moors, mosques, landscapes and seascapes.

The Empire of Morocco is situated in the north-west of Africa, and includes the former kingdoms of Fez and Morocco; the area of the country is about 220,000 square miles, the population is estimated at about seven millions, and the present ruler is Sultan Muley Abdul Aziz, who succeeded in 1894.

While Morocco has no proper Government postal system, there are services under the control of the British, French, German and Spanish Governments; and besides these foreign post offices there were various private posts which flourished between 1892 and 1900 and exploited the resources of the country in general and philatelists in particular, and by the latter were therefore condemned to everlasting execration.

But let it be remembered that these Moroccan private posts were by no means the worst stamp-speculating sinners; for, prolific as they were, all their records for number of varieties are easily eclipsed by the British P. O.'s in Morocco, from which no fewer than 87 standard varieties were issued from 1898 to 1907—and there are more to follow.

The foreign posts of Morocco claim priority of place on account of their greater importance, the higher status of their issues, and last, but not least, the greater number of their varieties; but we shall deal with the private posts at rather greater length, because they are known and even less loved!

BRITISH P. O.'S IN MOROCCO.

Great Britain competes with France, Germany and Spain in running courier mails along the coast of Morocco; and our own country has a long lead of the other powers as regards the number of varieties issued.

The first specially surcharged stamps for the British Agencies in Morocco were issued in 1898, when the contemporary stamps of Gibraltar, bearing values in Spanish currency (100 centimos=1 peseta=about 7d), were overprinted at the office of the Gibraltar Chronicle, with the inscription, "Morocco Agencies"; and no fewer than 70 varieties of overprinted Gibraltar stamps were issued for the British offices in Morocco during the period 1898-1906; and in 1907 a set of eleven contemporary stamps of Great Britain (King Edward VII.) were overprinted with the same inscription, but with the addition of new values in the Spanish currency. There was however a set of seven of our late King's stamps overprinted with the inscription "Morocco Agencies," but without any overprint of new values, and these latter labels are said to be for parcel post.

THE FRENCH P. O.'S.

To our neighbors across the Channel belongs the distinction of having issued the first series of overprints for Morocco; for as early as 1891 a long set of the familiar French "Peace and Commerce" stamps were overprinted simply with a new value in the Spanish currency, there being, curiously enough, no name overprinted to indicate the issuing of these stamps specially for Morocco. These stamps were succeeded by a special series bearing the inscription "Poste Francais Maroc," with overprinted values in Spanish currency, and curiously enough the overprinted "centimo" values correspond numerically with the original "cents" values on the contemporary French stamps; and this numerical identity holds good in all the values except the higher ones in "pesetas."

And whilst speaking of currency we might here express how grateful and comforting is our feeling that the following outlandish currency has never been adopted for the currency of any Moroccan stamps:—1 Mitkal=10 ounces=40 blankets=24 floss=slightly over 3d. What a "money" table! Fancy asking for a "ten ounce" postage stamp!

The stamps of the "Sower" type of France overprinted "Maroc Gouvernement Provisoire 1907" are bogus. Speaking of bogus stamps of French origin, we might also mention that most of the private posts of Morocco were run by enterprising French firms, as is evident by the characteristic French inscriptions "Postes," or "Chiffre Taxe" (Postage Due), found on most of these private locals; whilst those of Spanish origin are distinguished by the familiar Spanish inscription "Correos."

THE GERMAN P. O.'S.

Though the "Fatherland" was about eight years behind France in the surcharging of stamps for the Moroccan mails, the Germans soon made up for lost time in the competition for quantity of varieties, for during the period 1899-1907, there were 46 varieties of contemporary German stamps overprinted with the inscription "Marocco," and new values in Spanish currency.

THE SPANISH P. O.'S.

Last and least of the foreign offices in Morocco come those maintained by the Spanish Government, and only thirteen varieties of Spanish stamps were overprinted "Correo Espanol Marruecos," and this set of thirteen values (1/4c-10 pes.) covers the period 1903-9. We might also mention that in the Spanish fortified seaport and convict settlement of Melilla, on the north coast of Morocco, special stamps of heraldic design were issued in 1894 for the Spanish soldiers in the garrison.

THE PRIVATE AND LOCAL POSTS.

Having now briefly reviewed the three hundred odd issues of the foreign offices in the Empire of Morocco, we have next to consider a group of about 150 varieties of stamps issued in the private local posts of that troubled coun-

EDITORIAL.

Great Britain's Move—The new contract for printing of the British stamps beginning with the first of the coming year that was awarded to Messrs. Harrison & Sons was made the subject of an interesting article by our English correspondent in so early an issue as the WEEKLY of August 6th. The English stamp papers are giving due attention to the impending change and the general tenor of comment is commendatory, although a sentimental regret is expressed that DeLaRue & Company, a firm so long and honorably associated with the surface-printed stamps is to be supplanted. It has been remarked that there is a strong probability that under the new regime, steel-engraved stamps will be prepared. While the postal department of the United Kingdom is maintained on successful and economical lines, yet it is thought that in view of certain exposures of the comparative ease with which the flat-printed stamps may be counterfeited, the government will adopt the greater security afforded by the method of taille douce printing, as a practical and a precautionary necessity. The London Philatelist says: "Great countries like Canada and the United States show us the way herein, and even if the expense of steel-engraved stamps be somewhat in excess of others, if those great countries consider the outlay justifiable, surely Great Britain can follow suit."

* * *

Aftermath—The official reports made at the American Philatelic Society convention and which the WEEKLY felt it was its duty to present as early as possible have required so much space that what may be called the convention incidents have been crowded out of successive issues, until now their timeliness has been so impaired that it is scarcely worth while to publish them. Furthermore the great Parnassus Penflip who covered the personal side of the convention has shown a shameful lack of confidence in the financial good intentions of the WEEKLY as he sent his manuscript C. O. D.; and rather than indulge even Penflip in his miserable suspicions, we have refused thus far to advance the amount necessary for the release of the budget. This proper stand will be applauded, we are sure, although there may be some who would say that principle should have been subverted in the case of the exceptional Parnassus Penflip. It is possible, of course, that should we get together the needed dollars, the manuscript will be accepted, but the wound inflicted by Penflip will remain.

A View in 1855—When the pre-payment of postage was made obligatory in this country in 1855, there was a loud outcry made by some of the members of the public against the oppressive measure as it was described. In print, in newspaper and in pamphlet, what was termed the onerous restriction was fulminated against and from the counterblast of a pamphleteer, we take the following words: "The object for which this law was passed I have not mentioned. It was done to bring about more security, and a greater simplification of the money accounts of the Postmasters. It only partially accomplishes that object and the same would be accomplished in another way. I am obliged here to refer to a better regulation in the British Post Office; and that is, to require all letters to be prepaid by stamps or sent unpaid and when sent unpaid to be charged with double postage. If it was the intention of the framers of this law to make all the money accounts of Postmasters simply a sale of stamps, they failed. All the following items of postage are received in cash: the postage on regular newspapers and periodicals; on transient printed matter, when not prepaid by stamp; the registration fee of registered letters; and any excess of postage on letters that bear too few stamps to pay the entire postage. Now it must be evident to the most ordinary capacity that the entire financial object sought to be accomplished would have been done to the same extent under the rule adopted in Great Britain—prepaying all letters by stamp, or sending them unpaid—except the object of stopping all letters and destroying them because they did not happen to be postpaid. It is virtually declaring that, in the very imperfect machinery of the United States' Post Office, if Government thought thrice the thousand agents does not supply the public with stamps, then our citizens shall not have their letters carried. The Law and the Government virtually say to the citizen: 'If convenient, if accident does not prevent; if speculators do not get ahead of us and buy up our stamps; if we happen to keep a supply; if you can and will purchase these stamps and use them; if you will not be so unreasonable as to wish to mail a letter at night or on Sunday when you have no stamp and can get none to pay the postage; if when letters are mailed the stamps do not fall off by accident; if your servants do not take them off; if our Post Office clerks do not steal them—in none of these things or any other unlooked for events happen to take place—if all these circumstances are propitious, your message shall go.'

* * *

Still at It—Continuing, the opponent of the compulsory use of postage stamps says: "We will not carry your letters in the absence of any or all of the forms laid down; we will not trust you by carrying your letters and holding on to them till we get our pay; we will not consent to their going in the mail with the stipulation that they shall be charged double or quadruple price at the end of the journey. No! if your letters under any circumstances are found in a Post Office, without having had the postage paid in stamps, we will seize them, and we will not even inform you that we have them, but we will take them to a place called Washington, and there after due delay and long ceremony, a fire shall be kindled, and they with many million others, shall be burned to ashes; and you may, if you please, write more letters but you shall give them to us to transport; and you shall not set up a private post to carry your own and your neighbor's letters, for if you do you shall suffer a severe penalty."

* * *

Old Postal Lore—The partizan whom we have quoted went to an extreme in his zeal to portray vividly the inconveniences of the abhorrent enactment, as while the act of March 3rd, 1855, made no provision for unpaid letters to places within the United States, postmasters were directed "on the same day or day following any such unpaid letter or letters being put into a Post Office, the Postmaster thereof will post up conspicuously in his office a list of the same, stating that they are held for postage. If not attended to, such letters must be returned monthly to the Dead Letter Office." Perhaps it is not incumbent upon us to explain that items relating to the early postal history of the United States are favored not necessarily for any inherent value that such vagrant paragraphs may have, but also with the idea of providing commentary reading for the collector who may find general information in them and of reflecting the "atmosphere" of by-gone days. It often happens that the reader finds an explanation of a specific point over which he puzzled through an item of general significance.

A REPORTED FIND.

Geo. L. Baldwin, Sioux City, Iowa, sends us a clipping from the American Lumberman of Sept. 3 containing particulars of a stamp find at Winnipeg. We cannot vouch for the truth of the story, nor do we know of any Chicago dealer who has had the good fortune referred to:—

At Winnipeg, Manitoba, recently, a dealer in old postage stamps in Chicago among some old documents found a number of copies of the rare 5-cent black stamps issued by the New York post office in 1845 and some of the regular 5 and 10-cent stamps of the issue of 1847, besides several rare United States stamps issued by postmasters before the government put out a regular series.

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:

Regular Government Issues U. S. Envelopes

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "25" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1853 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plympton's is made as easy as rolling off a log. We don't sell this book—WE GIVE IT AWAY!

NEW AUSTRIAN SET.

Specimens of the new issue are reaching us from various quarters. The Economist Stamp Co. very kindly favors us with a newspaper clipping illustrating the entire set. The following is the official decree:

"In honour of the eightieth birthday of His Imperial and Royal Apostolic Majesty the current postage stamps from 1 heller to 10 kronen inclusive will be issued in a modified form.

"The stamps are lengthened above and below by a band about 4 mm. broad; in the center of the upper band is added the date 1830, in the center of the lower band the date 1910, the space to right and left of the dates being filled in with various ornaments.

"The issue will take place on August 18, 1910, and will be on sale on this and the following days until the exhaustion of the issue, which will be of restricted numbers. The 5, 10 and 25 heller stamps will be on sale at face value in all post offices, the 1, 2, 3, 6, 12, 30, 35, 50, and 60 heller and 1 kronen stamps in all treasury offices, and the 2, 5, and 10 kronen stamps in the chief post offices in capital towns.

"The stamps may be used until December 31, 1910, concurrently with the stamps of the current issue."

According to Gibbons Weekly the stamps are to be printed in the following numbers:

10 heller	7,800,000
5 "	7,000,000
25 "	780,000
1 to 35 heller	100,000 each
50, 60 " and 1kr	70,000 "
2 and 5 kronen	17,000 "
10 kronen	11,000 "

In Bosnia a similar celebration series is to be issued on August 18. Here also it will merely be a question of adding a small strip bearing the date 1830-1910 to the designs of the current stamps.

THE EARLY DAYS OF POSTAGE STAMPS.

An Introduction to the Joys of the Stamp Album as Arranged for a Lantern Lecture.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

Despise not Small Things.—It does not need a philosopher to satisfy you of the value of small things. You know as well as I do that a small rope sufficeth to hang a great man:

"Rivers from bubbling springs
Have rise at first; and great from abject things."

It is neither my place nor my purpose to sermonize, yet the very smallness of my subject—a mere postage stamp—seems to call for some apology. We are all prepared to agree that

"There's something in a flying horse
And something in a huge balloon."

But what possible interest can there be in so "unassuming a commonplace" of life as a postage stamp? In the course of an hour or so I hope to show you how much we owe to the postage stamp, in the realms of commerce, knowledge and religion, how interesting many of the existing specimens are, and how valuable they are as marking the progress of the greatest social and commercial movement of the last century—the Penny Post. Postage stamps are small things, but the Roman historian has told us that it was by not despising the small things that their forefathers made the commonwealth so great. Little things make up the happiness or misery of mortal life, or as Hannah More puts it, "trifles make the sum of human things." And, lest there be any who disdain to consider trifles, let me give them a timely warning of their doom. Says Goethe:

"The man who small things scorns will next
By things still smaller be perplexed."

Or, in the more emphatic words of Ecclesiasticus: "He that despiseth small things will fall by little and little."

Forerunners of the Adhesive Postage Stamp.—Before 1840 various kinds of wrappers had been used for postal purposes and these are the ancestors of the ubiquitous article we know as the postage stamp. A private post was established in Paris in 1653 by a Mons. Valayer, with the full permission of the king. This post, which is the one referred to by Voltaire as the two sous post, supplied special bands which the sender wrapped round the letter. These bands bore a printed formula to be filled up by the sender, giving particulars of addressee and date of despatch. No specimen of this wrapper is known to exist, as the covers were taken off and destroyed by the commissionaire who delivered the letters.

A suggestion was made to start a similar post with special wrappers in Brussels in 1776. But the Governor would not have it, for he said the aristocracy could send letters as often as they liked by their servants, and other people—well, they might send them as best they could.

In Sardinia, wrappers with an embossed design were used in 1818, but these did not exactly serve to defray postage, but were rather used as a tax upon letters. Messages conveyed by private carriers had to be enclosed in these wrappers, so that while the Government took the money, they didn't do the work.

The Mulready Envelope.—In 1836, our colony of New South Wales issued stamped envelopes, and in 1840 the famous Mulready envelope was issued in Great Britain. As this was the immediate forerunner of the postage stamp, its reception by the public had no little effect upon the success of the little label which superseded it.

In spite of the commendations of the Royal Academicians, the public had nothing but ridicule for Mulready's envelope, and it is easy to see that, while artistic in the highest sense, it was in no way suitable for the ordinary matter-of-fact business of letter writing. The newspapers put forth all their skill and sarcasm against the envelope and its designer. Although an artist whose execution was admirable and whose pictures are still looked upon with high appreciation, it has been said that the fame of Mulready has been handed down to posterity in an envelope.

Mulready had a meaning for every figure he introduced into his picture, but each seemed to call for an equally sarcastic interpretation from his critics. I will give you a few quotations from one poetic piece of sarcastic description: Britannia is sending her messengers forth To the east, to the west, to the south, to the north:
At her feet is a lion wot's taking a nap,
And a dish cover rests on her legs and her lap.
To the left is a Mussulman writing a letter,
His knees form a desk, for want of a better.

To the right is the King of the Cannibal Islands
In the same pantaloons that they wear in the Highlands,
Some squaws by his side with their infantile varmints,
And a friend in the front who's forgotten his garmints.
Frost, William and Jones have this moment been hooked,
And are fixing the day they would choose to be cooked.
Below to the left, as designed by Mulready,
Is sorrow's effect on a very fat lady.
While joy at good news is plainly descried
In the trio engaged on the opposite side.

Paving the way for the Postage Stamp.—The ridicule which was bestowed upon the unfortunate envelope had one important effect. It opened the way for a hearty appreciation of the utility of the little postage stamp issued at the same time.

I must not enter into the famous quarrel between the rival inventors of the postage stamp. From a picture post card I received not long ago, it would seem that the hatchet has not yet been buried, for here in all the latterday glory of a coloured postcard—made in Germany—we find the two champions asserting their rights in the prize ring. There can be no doubt, however, that it was to Rowland Hill's efforts that we are indebted for the greater part of the scheme of Uniform Penny Postage, and he bore all the brunt of criticism and no little share in the work involved.

The Ingoldsby Legends, which were first collected in volume form in 1840, contained a humorous allusion both to the stamps and the Mulready envelopes. The stamps were referred to as Queen's Heads:—

The manager rings,
And the prompter springs
To his side in a jiffy, and with him he brings
A set of those odd looking envelope things,
Where Britannia (who seems to be crucified)
flings
To her right and her left funny people with wings
Amongst Elephants, Quakers and Catabaw Kings,
And a taper and wax
And small Queen's heads in packs,
Which when notes are too big you're to stick on their backs.

Criticisms of the Adhesive Stamp.—While the little postage stamp leapt into general favour there were one or two curious objections raised to it, which it is interesting to re-call. In the Morning Herald it was said that but for the unlucky perversion of the Royal features the penny post sticking plaster might appropriately have come into fashion and superseded the Court sticking plaster, so common for the concealment of trifling cutaneous cracks on the face of beauty. It is shrewdly suspected (continued the Morning Herald) that this untoward disfiguration of the Royal person has been the studied work of ministerial malevolence and jealousy, desirous of rendering their royal benefactress as odious as themselves.

But perhaps the most pertinent criticism of the new postage stamps came from a schoolboy. This "Eton strip-ling" asked his sister "Have you tried the stamps yet? I think they are very absurd and troublesome. I don't fancy making my mouth a glue pot, although to be sure, you have the satisfaction of kissing, or rather of slobbering over the back of Her Gracious Majesty the Queen. This is, however, I should say, the greatest insult the present ministry could have offered the Queen."

The success of the little label however was assured. During the first fifteen years of their existence over 3,000,000,000 specimens were required to supply the demand in Great Britain. So great are the postal needs of today that the annual supply of stamps in Britain amounts to over seven thousand millions.

Other Countries Follow Suit.—A private post in America copied England's idea in 1841, and soon afterwards the Governments of other countries began to fall in line. Today there are something like 23,000 distinct varieties of stamps which have been issued by the Governments of the civilised world.—Postage Stamp.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

As usual the first of the standard and widely-accepted catalogues to make its appearance is the perennial and ever-welcome Senf of Leipzig, Germany. The first volume of this two-part work is a book of twelve hundred pages devoted wholly to adhesives; while the second volume, with half this number of pages, is dedicated to stationery or "entires." Many tongues for many years have sounded the praises of this staple catalogue, "made in Germany." Throughout the world it has its partizans whose loyalty to their favorite catalogue increases with each recurring edition; a new Senf is a far-reaching event in the philatelic world.

An examination of the new edition shows that the intelligent and progressive policy of the publishers is more effectively recorded than ever before, if possible. The thorough treatment of the stamps in text is re-enforced by illustrations in profuse number of details in type variation. It is readily apparent that the aim of the makers is to render plain all the obscurer points that puzzle the average collector; and so, as a book of reference, the Senf catalogue, although in German, will be found valuable to American collectors. We should judge that in consequence of the wide knowledge and huge stock of the great house of Senf, the prices are placed fairly and equitably, but this is a subject that preferably each buyer of the book should decide for himself. We select three interesting stamps at random, giving the new Senf quotations in marks, be it understood: Philipines, 1903, $5 surcharged, .75 unused, .80 used; Cayman, 1908, 4d, multiple, king, .12, unused, 13.50, used; United States, 1847, 5c, used, 7.50.

It is needless to call attention to the almost indispensable second part of the catalogue to those who are interested in entires and who are all but wholly dependent upon the volume for exhaustive details of stationery.

Volume I, Adhesives, postpaid, 3 marks 80pf; Volume II, Stationery, postpaid, 2 marks 15pf; and Complete Edition bound in one volume, 5 marks 40pf; published by Senf Brothers, Leipzig, Germany.

BRITISH CONGRESS IN 1912.

The Junior Philatelic Society is taking time by the forelock in announcing an exhibition in connection with a Congress to be held two years hence. It will be remembered that this enterprising society has previously held exhibitions in 1901, 1905 and 1908. The resolutions adopted by the Society are as follows:

As four years will have elapsed since the third (Caxton Hall) Exhibition of 1908, it is proposed

(1) That the Society shall organize an Exhibition on a public scale for 1912 (Spring) to commemorate the Jubilee of the birth of Philately.

(2) That the Fourth British Congress of Philatelists shall be invited to meet under the auspices of the Junior Philatelic Society in London during the period the proposed Exhibition shall be open.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Charles M. Bridger shows us specimens of the current 2c stamp on very much thicker paper than usual.

George W. Swinburne reports having found the 5c 1907 in an indigo shade of blue. Mr. Swinburne also writes:

"While looking over a lot of stamps of the 1907-09 issue I came across what seems to me to be a difference in the printing worth mentioning. If you will look closely at the button on the draperies of the neck of the bust you will see that a thin line of color extends from that point to a point coinciding with the ribbon about the lower end of the wreath on the left. The difference is that in some of the specimens that I examined that line was missing. On examining the other values of the set I made the following notes:

2c with and without line.
3c with line only.
4c both with and without line.
5c with line only.
6c both with and without line.
8c with line only.
10c without line only.
13c with line.
15c with and without line.
50c without line.
$1 with line.

Of the 13, 50 and $1 values I only examined one copy of each, so that I can make no definite statement in those cases."

The New England Stamp Co. has shown a cut square envelope, Scott's No. 1302, Die 2, with the "R" of "Three" changed to a perfect "P".

AUSTRIA.—Philip Wolff writes:

"The current Austrian stamps will be of much interest to the specialist. Below is a list of various varieties made up in conjunction with articles in the Illustriertes Briefmarken Journal of Dec. 19, 1909, and April 9 and 23, 1910:

Austria, 1908 Dues—Shiny or glazed paper, 1h, 2, 4, 6, 10, 20, 30, 50, 100h. Ordinary thick paper, 4, 6, 10, 25, 30, 50, 100, 20h. Ordinary thin paper, 1, 2 and 20h.

Austria Newspaper—Shiny or glazed paper, 2, 6, 10, 20h. Ordinary thick paper, 2h. Ordinary thin paper, 2, 6, 10, 20h.

Levant, 1908 Dues—Dark Russian green on shiny paper, 1/2pi to 30p. Clear green on shiny paper, 1/2pi to 30p. Dark green on ordinary thick, 1/2pi to 30p. Dark green on ordinary thin, 1/2pi to 30p.

The Levant dark Russian green on shiny paper is an extremely rare set.

BAVARIA.—The 1910 set has been reported of same design as those dated "09" but 'Mr. Morse has the 5pf with all printing on the right hand half and a single heavy perpendicular line in middle of card.

Post Card.

5pf green on buff; "10" var.

BRAZIL.—The sale of the recently issued Pan-American stamps has been stopped for the present, the reason given being that Portugal has objected to them as being contrary to postal convention in regard to size, and letters prepaid with these stamps addressed to Portugal have been treated as unpaid and charged double postage. This makes the second time these stamps have been withdrawn for apparently trivial reasons.

BULGARIA.—A. W. Dunning reports having a vertical pair of Scott's No. 76, perforated all around, but imperforate between stamps.

U. S. 1898 Revenues

I offer for sale as a whole a very fine lot of 1898 Proprietary, Documentary and Privates,—about 800 stamps in all—largely blocks of 4, shades, roulette varieties and surcharges of those who had private Proprietaries; Lee surcharges in blocks; Invert. Langman 1 1/4 blue surcharge, etc. Will be sold at fair price.

Correspondence invited.

FRANK P. BROWN COMPANY,

CEYLON.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the new stamps noted in No. 1027.

CHILI.—The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly reports that the President has countermanded the reprinting in various colors, and surcharging with high colors of the first 20c stamps. The reason, though not given, is not difficult to guess.

Juan Fernandez.—By a Decree, dated at Santiago on the 25th June last, the Chilean Government has authorized the overprinting and surcharging of the 12c and 1 peso of Chili, for issue in these Islands, which are chiefly used as a Chilean convict settlement; the values selected have not—save for a comparatively few copies more or less accidentally issued—been on sale in Chili, and practically the whole stock will be converted.

One-and-a-half million copies of the 12c are to be overprinted "Islas de Juan Fernandez" in blue, and surcharged with the new value of 5c; and one million 1p stamps are to be similarly overprinted, some to be further marked as follows:—400,000 as 10c stamps, and 400,000 as 20c stamps. The balance of 200,000 are to retain their original value.

The Decree states that the printings on the 1p are to be in coloured ink but does not specify it.

The stamps are for use in and between the islands, and between them and the mainland of the Republic, and were to come into use on the 1st August.

COLOMBIA.—Antioquia.—A. W. Dunning has shown us a vertical strip of three stamps, imperforate between, of the 1 peso, Scott's No. 152. The imprint is "Arango," etc., in the centre. Mr. Dunning also writes: "My Colombian correspondent informs me that the supply of the 5 cents A. R. stamp of the 1910 commemorative issue is exhausted. Also that the 16 cents R. stamp of same series has been withdrawn from sale owing to the fact that 'the Spanish minister in Bogota is not pleased with the meaning of the picture'!"

Bolivar.—Mr. Dunning also reports having seen Scott's Nos. 94 and 95, printed on both sides.

CRETE.—For political reasons, the stamps overprinted "(H)ELLAS" in Greek capitals will probably be withdrawn, and that the series, without overprint, will be again put into circulation. This is in line with our note in No. 1024.

ECUADOR.—Frank C. Davis has shown us a used copy of the 5c on 50c provisional chronicled some time since.

GERMAN COLONIES.—Two more values have been issued for Kiautschou, printed on the lozenge paper: 4c carmine and 10c ultramarine.

HONDURAS.—Louis Voss reports having seen the current 2c stamp cut in halves diagonally, and used for 1c.

MAURITIUS.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 10 rupee stamp printed in the new colors on multiple chalky paper. This is a new value for this country.

Adhesive.

10r green and carmine on green.

MEXICO.—A letter from Jose M. Ponce de Leon, informs us that the Centenary issue was to be issued Sept. 16. The set will be of the same values and colors as the current issue.

PAPUA.—Hermann Focke writes: "The last batch I received from Port Moresby on the 1st of this month, contained again the 2sh 6d with small surcharge 'Papua'; the 2 1/2c, perf. 11; 4d, perf. 12 1/2, with vertical wmk. Crown and A, and the balance with wmk. sideways. It is extremely dangerous to pay fancy prices, as stamps that are supposed to be out of issue, pop up at any time again. The 1d red and 1 1/2d blue on buff, postal cards of British New Guinea are still in circulation without any surcharge!"

URUGUAY.—In Hugo Griebert's monograph, "A Study of the Stamps of Uruguay," it is stated that Messrs. Waterlow Bros. & Layton, Ltd., have been entrusted with the preparation of the new set of stamps for Uruguay in which the 7c denomination will be abandoned. The contract price for production is 20.8 centesimos per hundred up to 3,000,000 stamps, and 22.3 centesimos when below 500,000. Of the various values the following supplies have been ordered:

THE BERNE EXHIBITION.

The latest gossip regarding the Berne Philatelic Exhibition is that the collection which His Majesty the King will show there is the royal collection of Nevis. There are few stamps that are more attractive to the philatelist, and the collection will doubtless present some features of interest and importance in regard to the study of this West Indian Colony. I learn also that Mr. Duveen is to show his magnificent Mauritius collection. I shall be glad to hear from collectors who are sending their collections to Berne, and to have some details of their exhibits.

The Daily Telegraph states that there will be a temporary post office opened in the Berne Exhibition, doubtless with a special postmark, and the new bi-coloured postage due stamps, which have been in readiness for some time past, will be issued for the first time from this temporary post office.—Postage Stamp.

PROPOSED CURRENCY CHANGES.

Reduction in size of all paper currency from 3.04x7.28 inches to 2 1/2x6 inches.

Systematization of designs and reduction in number from 19 to 9, each denomination to be uniform.

Selection of portraits for currency with reference to importance and position of their subjects in American history.

Faces to be placed in middle of bills, to enable holder to tell at a glance their denomination.

Object—Cleaner, more convenient and more artistic currency.

Saving to the government of $600,000 annually.

THE EMPIRE OF MOROCCO.

try, which has been so plagued with its Sultans and stamp speculators.

These Moroccan locals are generally considered and condemned as utterly worthless; but exceptions must at least be made in the case of the issues inscribed "Mazagan—Maroc," "Mogador—Marakesch," and "Tanger—Fez."

Considered as a whole, the Moroccan locals are picturesque stamps, and well produced; and thus they possess an attraction which is as deceptive as that of many other beautiful objects. However, as most of these stamps have been obsolete for several years, and are by no means common, perhaps philatelists will eventually favour them with a kindlier regard; especially considering that the Moroccan private posts compare very favourably with the foreign posts as regards the number of varieties and provisionals issued.

In our review of this interesting group of stamps, we purpose adopting the usual alphabetical order of classification, and instead of confusing the tyro with synonyms, we had better follow the writer's usual practice of spelling geographical names as they are spelled on the stamps themselves.

Alcazar—Ouazzan:—Alcazar is a town of the former kingdom of Fez; it is situated on the Strait of Gibraltar, and was taken by Alphonso, King of Portugal in 1468. A British consular representative was established in this town. Ouazzan is a small picturesque hillside town, famous as a religious centre.

The pretty set of seven speculative stamps (5c—1 franc), issued in 1896 for the private post, Alcazar to Ouazzan are all of one type which bears a well engraved picture of a dromedary as the central feature of the design.

The issue was suppressed within a month of issue by the Shereef (prince or ruler) of Ouazzan.

Fez—Mequinez:—Fez is a holy city, the chief commercial centre, and one of the metropolitan cities of Morocco. In the 13th century Fez was the capital of an independent kingdom; three centuries later it was conquered and annexed by Morocco. In 1905, British, French and German missions were sent to Fez to urge reforms; these the Sultan admitted to be necessary, but desired a conference of the Powers. Britain declined, and the question became acute between France and Germany, but later on a satisfactory agreement was reached, and a British consul was established at Fez. Mequinez is a royal burying place, about 36 miles from Fez, and, like the latter, is a metropolitan city.

The locals for Fez and Mequinez consist of one set of eight stamps, all of one type, bearing a portrait of a Moor, and this set was supplemented by a corresponding series of eight "Unpaid," which are of a less dainty design, and bear the initials "F. M." as the only indication of the post by which they were issued.

Fez—Sefro:—Sefro is an inland town in N. Morocco. The stamps issued under the title "Fez—Sefro," are utterly worthless and probably never saw these places.

Mazagan—Azemour—Marakech:—Mazagan is an almost deserted seaport near the Atlantic, and was opened to foreign trade, and here also a British resident was established. The place is situated at a distance of about eight miles from Azemour, and 120 from Marakech the Moroccan capital.

The set of seven speculative stamps issued under the above heading in 1898 are all oblong and of real beauty.

Mazagan—Maroc:—This was the first and best of the private posts of Morocco; the first stamp (25c) appearing in 1892, and shortly after a new value (10c) was made by surcharging.

In 1893 an ugly set of stamps appeared, which bore the names "Mazagan—Marakech"; and here we might remark that "Morocco," "Maroc(co)," "Marra-kesch," and "Marakech," are synonyms for the capital of Morocco. After the issuing of a couple of provisionals, a new set of stamps appeared in 1897 and these latter stamps are of great beauty, depicting as they do a characteristic Moorish scene.

The set of seven "Unpaid," issued simultaneously with these pictorial stamps, are "nondescript," stamps which bear the familiar French inscription, "Chiffre Tax," and these particular "Postage Dues" can be recognized by the kneeling dromedary which apparently supports a large shield on which is the numeral of value.

This private post fitly celebrated the incoming of the 20th century by issuing another pictorial set of oblong stamps, all of which are bi-coloured and of a dainty design.

Mogador—Agidir:—Mogador is a port with a small harbour and is an emporium of trade. Agidir is an inland town in the south.

The solitary set of seven stamps, all bi-coloured, issued in 1900 from these places are all of one type, the central feature of the design being an African lion.

Mogador—Maroc:—As in the case of "Mazagan and Maroc," which changed the spelling of the latter place to "Marakech," so the stamps of "Mogador—Maroc" changed to "Mogador—Marakesch"; and it really appears as though the enterprising "postal officials" of some of these private posts created varieties simply by changing the spelling of geographical names instead of by the less original method of changing paper, watermarks and perforations!

The 1895-6 issue inscribed "Mogador—Marakesch" are a handsome set of rectangular stamps all of a type bearing a design which looks like a panel picture of Paradise!

Saffi—Marakech:—Saffi is one of the Moroccan ports opened to foreign trade and in which a British consular representative was established. The lovely set of seven oblong stamps, issued there in 1899, are notable for bearing the finest seascape to be seen on any stamp.

Tanger—Arizila:—Tanger is a seaport and health resort on the Strait of Gibraltar, and possesses a castle, and the town is surrounded by a wall. It was taken by the Portuguese in 1471 and ceded to Charles II of England on his marriage with Catherine; but the "merry monarch" did not think the port worth the expense of its upkeep, and in 1683 he caused the works to be blown up. Arizila is a seaport in the kingdom of Fez, and was formerly a Roman colony and a place of considerable importance; but now does not contain more than 1,000 inhabitants.

The set of eight stamps issued under the above heading in 1900 bear a "geometrical" design—a marked departure from the usual landscape or marine view.

Tanger—El Ksar:—El Ksar is an inland town of minor importance.

The set of eight oblong stamps issued from this post in 1898 are of one type, the design being that of a ship.

Tanger—Fez:—Palm trees surrounding a rectangle in which is a large numeral of value form the principal feature of the design of the set of eight stamps (5c—5 francs) issued by the enterprising French firm which originated this post in 1892; and curiously enough this firm and several others apparently forgot that Spanish currency not French, was in use in Morocco, but this "oversight" is a minor matter!

Tangier—Morocco—Laraiche:—Tangier, of course, is another form of "Tanger"; and Laraiche is a strong port open to foreign trade, and possesses a castle and a good harbour.

The set of six stamps emanating from this source are crudely designed and are all of one type; the central figure of the design being a full length of a creature bearing a remote resemblance to a human being! The "artist" from whose inspired soul the design came, seems to have intended to caricature Peary setting out for the Pole!

Tangier—Tetouan:—Tetouan is another port in which a British Consul resides, and from this port considerable communication is kept up with Gibraltar.

The most striking feature of the set of five stamps issued from this source in 1897 is the benevolent countenance of the lion depicted as lying under the shade of a palm tree. The kind creature was evidently snap-shotted while indulging in an "after-dinner nap," and there's a smile that won't come off! These stamps are also curious as being nondescripts; and the solitary Spanish word "Correos" is the sole inscription, excepting the value.

Tetuan—Maroc—Chechouan:—The set of seven stamps bearing the above cumbersome inscription, together with the date "1896" and comparatively small figures of value in the lower corners, are all of one type—a geometrical rather than a pictorial design. Here again the values (5 centimes—1 franc) are in French currency; but "accidental discrepancies" of this sort are not much worse than many inverted surcharges, etc., in our current catalogues.

Tetouan—El Ksar:—Instead of the customary camel or dromedary, a mounted horse forms the central feature of the design of the set of six stamps issued by the promoters of this private post in 1897; and this set is the last of our list of Moroccan locals.

We might, however, mention the Spanish stamps surcharged for Tetouan in 1909, and these latter like the French "Tanger stamps issued in 1891, though really regarded as "government" locals are of the same "kidney" as many of the private locals we have just reviewed.

In conclusion, the writer desires to express the hope that those of his readers who do not exclusively "go by Gibbons" and banish all private posts from off the face of the earth (whilst collecting Brunei, Caymans, &c.), may be interested in this elementary introduction to the issues of the Empire of Morocco—a curious country which even in the 20th century cannot boast of a properly organised government postal service; whilst those philatelists who have no love for "locals," will, by learning more about such stamps, better know what to avoid.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

BELGIUM—FIRST ISSUE.

By J. B. LEAVY.

The paper used was hand-made, manufactured by Olin Brothers of Brussels, varying in quality from medium thick to very thin, and moderately white in colour. In the space for each stamp was a watermark of a "double 'L'" interlaced within a single-lined rectangular frame 22×18 mm.; this watermark was made by twisting wire into the design desired and affixing it to the screen upon which the damp paper pulp was spread. As the wire was twisted by hand, no two watermarks are exactly alike, and some interesting varieties exist. At the top, bottom and each side of each sheet, was watermarked the inscription "MINISTRE DES TRAVAUX PUBLICS, BRUXELLES, BELGIQUE, POSTES," in double lined capital letter 6½×7 mm. each. This watermark was placed but 2½ mm. from the frame line enclosing the interlaced "L's," so that it often happens that certain stamps from the outside horizontal or vertical rows of a sheet bear one or two of the letters of this inscription, entire or in part, together with a portion of the interlaced "L" watermark. In printing the sheets were placed sideways upon the plate, so that the watermark appears in that position, with head either to the right or left. In some carelessly placed sheets certain stamps of either the top, bottom or side rows are printed on the margin outside the watermark, and between the words of the marginal inscription; these stamps without watermark are, however, very rare.

These stamps were on sale at various post offices throughout the country as early as 25th June, but were not acceptable for postage until 1st July 1849.

The stamps were printed under the personal supervision of Jacques Wiener, at the Stamp Works—situated in the basement of a modest house in the Rue Lateral, Brussels—in three distinct printings. The first printing in May, 1849, consisted of 1,600,000 copies of the 10 centimes in deep brown, and 1,500,000 copies of the 20 centimes in deep blue, both on medium paper, ½ mm. in thickness. The second printing was made in September 1849 and consisted of 3,000,000 copies of the 10 centimes in grey-brown, and 3,000,000 copies of the 20 centimes in two shades, pale blue and milky blue, both on thin paper, ½ mm. in thickness. The third printing took place in May 1850, and was a very small one, as it was made only to supply the post offices until the stamps of the second type should be placed on sale; it consisted of 800,000 copies of the 10 centimes in brown, and 500,000 copies of the 20 centimes in both deep blue and pale blue, all on a very thin paper, 1-10th mm. in thickness. The stamps measure 18½×12½ mm.

In manufacturing the plates of both the 10 and 20 centimes stamps a little carelessness in using the transfer rolls caused the double impression of a portion of the design, in one or more instances, noticeable chiefly in a double line at top of stamp and double impressions of the numerals in both upper corners; naturally these errors occur in all three printings.

Some writers have claimed that the plates for these stamps were retouched; I find no evidence whatever of retouching; I do find, however, certain copies of the ten centimes bearing extra lines at the top of the design cut diagonally opposite to the fine diagonal lines of the background, but spaced much further apart than the background lines; these extra lines can by no stretch of the imagination be considered a re-cutting or re-engraving, as they mar the appearance of the stamp. I believe them to be engraver's scratches that were upon the plate before the design was rocked in. I have not found any of these extra lined stamps in the 20 centimes.—Philatelic Record.

As this is the last time I shall appear before you in an official capacity, I desire to thank the members for their many kindnesses and courtesies to me during my tenure of office. It has been pleasing in the extreme to have made many friends, and I trust, no enemies. I bespeak for the new secretary the same cordial support and kindness that was accorded myself upon my introduction to office for it is no easy matter to assume the management at a moment's notice without an adequate idea of its intricate workings. While there has been much criticism of the conduct of the secretary the past year, it has no doubt been deserved, but there are situations over which man has no control, and in view of this fact, the secretary desires to thank his friends who have been of assistance to him. He lays aside his robe of office with the best of feeling toward the society and its members, and will do all in his feeble way to further its interests as best he can.

POSTAL SAVINGS STAMP CARDS.

Clipping from M. A. LESSER.

WASHINGTON, September 12.—Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh has been asked by the Postal Savings Bank Committee to authorize the printing of 1,500,000 stamp cards for the new postal savings banks. The design for the cards has been approved by the trustees. They will have on their face a facsimile of one postal savings bank stamp, and may be purchased for ten cents. When filled with nine more ten-cent postal savings stamps, they may be used to open an account in the new postal savings bank. The cards will be handled in lots of 100, and will be given out to the postal savings banks post offices on requisition.

BERNE STAMP EXHIBITION.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

(By courtesy of Mr. Melville we have received the following account of the exhibit at Berne, Switzerland, though the findings of the judges of awards must be held over to a later issue. This account appeared in the Daily Telegraph and is a distinct tribute to the value placed upon philatelic news by the great London newspapers.—ED.)

BERNE, Sept. 3, 1910.—(Special Despatch.)—Berne is the postal capital of the world. Here is situated the Central Bureau of the Universal Postal Union, by which are organized the great conventions of representatives of the postal administrations of all nations. These conventions are meetings of a veritable Parliament of Posts, which meets at intervals of about seven years to decide questions affecting the international exchange of correspondence. Here, in the Swiss capital, has been erected the monument by M. de St. Marceaux to commemorate the "Jubilee" of the Union; this monument was unveiled here last year.

One of the duties of the International Bureau of the Postal Union is to receive "specimen" copies of all new postage stamps issued in any part of the world. About 750 copies of each stamp, specially overprinted with the word "Specimen", are sent to the bureau by each issuing country, and the bureau uses these stamps to notify other postal administrations concerning the new issues, so that the stamps will be duly recognised as legitimate issues when they commence to circulate throughout the world.

It is to this postal importance that attaches to Berne, as well as to the natural attractions of Switzerland, that I attribute the large influx to the Swiss capital of stamp dealers and collectors from practically all the European States, and even from America, to visit the International Philatelic Exhibition which was opened here today. The United Kingdom is well represented, and most of the leading English collectors have been quartered here for some days, assisting in the building up of the exhibition.

The new Berne Casino, where the stamp exhibition is being held, is undoubtedly the finest hall that has been used for such a purpose. Its area is enormous, and although well laid out, the committee has had a task of no mean difficulty in apportioning the space amongst nearly two hundred exhibitors.

Millionaire Helpers.

Last night's scene in the Berne Casino was one that would have opened the eyes of the philistine in stamp matters. For two days it had seemed as if the exhibition would not be nearly ready by the opening time, and by dinner-time yesterday everything seemed in a very backward state. The predicament of the Swiss workers was discussed over the dinner tables of the chief hotels, and as soon as dinner was over the English and American contingent of visitors went in a body to the hall, and armed themselves with hammers and drawing-pins, and set to work arranging collections in the frames. In evening dress, but discarding their jackets, there were millionaires and merchant princes working harder than they had ever worked before, and others who have motored here in luxurious ease were working themselves at high pitch, as if life itself depended upon getting the exhibition ready, and all for the overwhelming interest that they find in postage stamps.

Having travelled here through the previous night, I left the hall just before midnight, but the work continued till early morning, with the result that the exhibition was ready in good time for the inaugural ceremony at half-past ten this morning.

M. Ruffy, the director of the International Bureau of the Universal Postal Union, made the opening speech in the presence of a large company of ladies and gentlemen. Speaking in French, M. Ruffy extended the welcome of the Swiss capital to the representatives of the philatelic societies who had come from countries near and far. He referred to the attraction and interest stamps possess for persons in all stations and at all stages of life. The schoolboy, he said, forgetful of his tasks, would dream of a Basle dove or a Geneva "Large Eagle" (rare varieties of early Swiss cantonal stamps) flying into his small album. From the little Tuscan boy who, barefooted, meets you on the steps of San Domingo or San Agostino, and, showing you his collection in an exercise book, demands "a francobollo estero", and then conducts you to see the native masterpieces, to the occupants of Royal palaces, postage-stamp collecting had its interest for all.

They were honoured to be able to count among the exhibitors at the Berne

F. M. MASON, Box 1462, Providence, R. I.

International Philatelic Exhibition his Majesty the King of Great Britain and Ireland, who as Sovereign had deigned to continue his gracious interest in matters philatelic that he had long given as Prince of Wales.

There was no further formality, and the assembled visitors scattered themselves through the long avenues of glass-covered pyramids in which the stamps were displayed to view. There are upwards of two hundred different exhibits, and it is only possible for me to describe a few in the present article.

In a space of little over two square metres are displayed the stamps of Nevis, which have been lent for exhibition by his Majesty King George. It is not a large collection even for this small colony, but the few items contained in it are of the choicest description. There are proof sheets of all four values of the earliest engraved stamps of Nevis. Each sheet comprises twelve stamps. The King's proofs are in trial colours, the 1d in green (the colour ultimately adopted for the 1s), the 4d in blue, the 6d in orange, and the 1s in lilac-rose.

Of the stamps issued in 1861 printed from the engraved plates, there are two re-constructed sheets of the 1d dull rose, unused; of the 4d rose there is a reconstructed sheet unused, and another of used copies. Of the 6d grey-lilac there is an unsevered sheet, from which only the margins have been removed, and a reconstructed sheet of unused copies. The 1s is represented by two reconstructed sheets, one being made up of unused and the other of used stamps.

Of the stamps perforated 14 1/2, and printed from the engraved plates, the 1d red is represented by one reconstructed sheet (unused), the 4d orange by two reconstructed sheets (one of unused and the other of used copies), and the 1s green by a reconstructed sheet of used stamps.

The lithographs (perforated 15) include two unbroken sheets of the 1d red shades, a magnificent unsevered sheet of the 6d grey, which only lacks the outer marginal paper, and an unbroken sheet of the 1s in each of the two shades, pale green and deep green. Stamp No. 9 on the pale green sheet shows the "cross on hill" variety, and the deep green sheet shows the variety with the cross removed.

The King's exhibit is framed with flags, and is attracting a great deal of interest. It is the first exhibit the visitors inquire after.

It is noteworthy that here, as in Amsterdam last year, the finest exhibits are those from outside the country under whose flag the exhibition is being held. At Amsterdam the best collections of Dutch stamps came from England. Here there are two very notable collections of Swiss stamps, both of them from London collectors.

Rare Swiss Stamps.

Mr. H. J. Duveen shows a grand array of Swiss rarities. On his first page is the unique part-sheet of the dove stamp of Basle. This is a rarity as a single stamp, but in a part-sheet of fifteen of these stamps, with the margins on three sides of the block, it is unapproachable by the exhibits of other collectors here. The rare double Geneva stamp is also represented by a large block of six whole stamps and three halves. This stamp, issued in 1843, was the first trial of a scheme which has been suggested frequently in recent years of making a penny stamp divisible into two halfpenny stamps. The "double Geneva" stamp is composed of two parts, each of which was valid for 5 centimes postal duty, the whole stamp being the 10 centimes duty. The "large eagle" stamp of Geneva is represented in Mr. Duveen's collection by an unapproachable part-sheet of twenty stamps, which part-sheet came from the collection of the late Sir William Avery, Bt., along with the wonderful block of "double Geneva" stamps. The unique part-sheet of Basle doves was discovered in Switzerland quite recently, in romantic circumstances.

Mr. Duveen's specimens of the stamps of Zurich outvie all the other collections of the stamps of this canton, and altogether I consider that this exhibitor's collection of Swiss stamps approaches very near in importance to the famous collection of Swiss formed by the late millionaire banker, M. Mirabaud, of Paris, which collection realised about £8,000 after the owner's death.

Mr. Victor Beaujeux, also of London, presents a carefully studied and extensive collection of Swiss stamps, and while he has not the number of rarities presented in the Duveen collection, the philatelic work he has achieved will no doubt be taken into consideration in the awards. He has for the first time succeeded in reconstructing a plate of unused copies of the forty types of the Rayon I pale blue of April 1851. The reconstruction has been effected by blocks, pairs and strips.

The jury commences its work tonight. Its composition presents the same international character which has been very marked among the visitors to the exhibition. The variety of languages that one hears in the Casino makes one wonder why philatelists do not adopt the universal language. The eight judges are from Great Britain, Sweden, Austria, France, Germany, Holland and Switzerland.

ITEMS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

By CHARLES E. JENNEY.

The West End Philatelist for August opens with an interesting article on the 1865 issue of Belgium by Bertram W. H. Poole. The London and Belgium prints are satisfactorily explained by perforations, which is a more exact way of determining than by shades or thickness of papers, both of which are often used.

A continued article in the same magazine, also by the editor, is dealing with the errors in color in stamps of all countries, and the frequency with which, in the early issues a wrong cliché was inserted in a plate leads one to believe almost it must have been done intentionally in some cases. There was no ulterior philatelic motive in those days. M. Hulot who manufactured the plates of the French stamps of 1853-60 and 1872-75 inserted a wrong cliché in the 10 centimes plate and again in making the Roumania 1876-78 issue he inserted a 5 bani cliché in the 10 bani plate. It looks more like system than error, possibly a system to guard against counterfeiting in entire sheets.

The further we read in the above mentioned paper the more we realize that the editor earns his salary, for the third and last article is also by him, "The Postage Stamps of Sierra Leone", this section dealing with the king's heads. We quote, "On Sept. 24, 1902, the colonial postmaster-general issued a circular in which it was stated that 'the plates and dies of all the Victorian postage stamps, envelopes, post cards and newspaper wrappers of this Colony have been destroyed'—a very comprehensive and satisfactory disposal of these issues.

New record breakings are usually interesting. From the Postage Stamp we learn that the new general postoffice in London is the largest in the world. There are thirteen acres of floor space and two and a quarter miles of assorting tables.

In this paper we find an interesting article headed "Turbulent Thibet", dealing with current history and philatelic possibilities. An explanation is also given of why the Field Post-office letters bear stamps although soldiers' letters are sent free. They are stamped to avoid delays at later points in their journey on account of apparent lack of postage but the postage value is recovered monthly.

an article, "The Empire of India", which splendidly explains the political divisions of India and their relations to each other. It also gives a list of the foreign offices of British India, which will be of interest to those who collect stamps showing the postmarks of outside countries.

The editorial of the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain for August encourages the collector of stamps with dated postmarks on their face. This is of course the ideal way to have them but in these days of mint copies it is rare to find anyone championing them.

MR. ROTHFUCHS IN THE FAR WEST.

The many friends of C. F. Rothfuchs will be glad to hear from him through this letter to the managing editor of the WEEKLY:—

"Mrs. Rothfuchs and I (if we are well) will take a trip to Southern California next January, and may not return before April 1911. After our return if we do not like any of the cities which we will visit any better than Seattle we will then be on the lookout for our future home.

Since my present address (P. O. Box 328, Seattle) has appeared in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, I have received invitations to call on collectors, and an invitation to attend the meeting of the Seattle Philatelic Club. I did not accept these kind invitations, because it would be uncertain whether or not I would be in Seattle at any stated time before next April.

Since my arrival at Seattle I have taken many trips, of which the excursion to Alaska was the most interesting one. Ketchikan, Metlakatla, Wrangell, Juneau, Skagway and Sitka are some of the interesting towns in Alaska we visited on this excursion. The Treadwell Gold Mine on Douglas Island, the 5000 or more salmon trying to swim against the swift current in the creek at Ketchikan, and at Prince of Wales Islands the 15,000 salmon that were in boats and which were counted, thrown up on the wharf, washed, beheaded, cut to size to fit cans, canned, boxed and shipped on our steamer to Bellingham, Wash., are some of the sights worth seeing. The view of the mountain scenery and glaciers on this excursion is well worth the price of this Alaska excursion. With best regards from your friend."

STAMPS OF KING GEORGE'S REIGN.

(Written by the editor of the London Philatelist the opinion expressed in this article will be of interest to all our readers. The tribute paid to our own stamps will be appreciated and the development of King George designs eagerly awaited by philatelists throughout our country.—Ed.)

The announcement, briefly introduced in the last issue of this journal, that the printing of the British stamps after the end of this year would be undertaken by a new firm, is one fraught with intense interest to those of His Gracious Majesty's subjects who are philatelists. The majority of the present race of collectors has grown up under the De La Rue contracts, and it will be difficult to at once realize all that this important change portends. Up to the present no official information has been vouchsafed, except that tenders have been invited and received, and the contract awarded to Messrs. Harrison and Sons. The fact that tenders were invited leads to the inference that the postal authorities were dissatisfied not only with the present methods of production, but with the cost thereof. It is stated that there are about fifteen millions of stamps required for daily use in this country, and in the production of such a vast quantity it is palpable that there must be scope for the initiation of economic developments. In this twentieth century nothing can afford to stand still—it must be progress or decay; and the Postage Stamp contracts, which have been undisturbed for over fifty years, have become perhaps a little mildey and rusty from want of the healthy friction engendered by competition.

It is, however, impossible not to feel sympathy with the great firm of De La Rue and Co. under the circumstances, and Philatelists cannot fail to evince their grateful appreciation of the splendid surface-printing and truly remarkable evenness of production that have been for so many years the marked features of Messrs. De La Rue and Co.'s manufactures. With the commencement of the new contract next year, nearly seventy-one years will have elapsed since the introduction of adhesive postage stamps in this country, and during the whole of that long period only two firms have been the producers thereof—both of whose names are indelibly inscribed in the annals of Philately—Messrs. Perkins Bacon and Co. and Messrs. De La Rue and Co. As is well known, the former firm printed all the low values up to 2d, from 1840 to 1880, when changes very much to the worse came into effect. Messrs. De La Rue commenced their impressions (with the fourpence) in 1855, printing subsequently all values above 2d, and, on the termination of the Perkins Bacon contract in 1880, all the values up to that amount. Thus for fifty-five years all the British stamps except ½d, 1d, 1½d and 2d, and during the past thirty years, the whole of the adhesive stamps of this country, have emanated from Messrs. De La Rue and Co. This is a marvellous record, and affords of itself a striking testimony to the confidence justly reposed in the ability of that firm. Some of the work done by Messrs. De La Rue is magnificent, and as superb specimens of surface-printing it is difficult to equal the first issue, 3d, 4d, and 6d values. None of their subsequently issued stamps were, in our judgment, equal to these in style; the issues of 1880 to 1884 were beneath contempt, and those of 1887 and 1901, although exceedingly well printed, are of a meretricious and inartistic character that can best be described under the conventional expression "finicky."

Information as regards the design, character, and methods of production of the forthcoming issue will be eagerly awaited in the stamp world. As the new tender has been accepted, it appears certain that the method of production has been fixed, and Philatelists will all eagerly hope that steel-engraving has been found, under modern developments, the most dignified and safest method of production for the postage stamps of this Empire. Great countries like Canada and the United States show us the way herein, and even if the expense of steel-engraved stamps be somewhat in excess of others, if those great countries consider the outlay justifiable, surely Great Britain can follow suit. Recent discoveries in the stamp world have conclusively shown that in the cheap surface-printed Key Plate produced stamp there are infinite possibilities of fraud and robbery. We, however, have every confidence that, in a matter in which His Gracious Majesty is so well experienced, the future issues of British stamps will be found a great improvement upon their predecessors.

The greatest advantage—from a philatelic aspect of steel-engraved stamps is that they admit of a boldness of design that can be rendered impressive by its simplicity. Nothing detracts from the artistic appearance of a stamp more than a superfluity of inscription or spaces that are not covered by the engraver's handiwork. This is strikingly exemplified in the case of the Twopenny stamp of Messrs. Perkins Bacon and Co., which steadily and surely deteriorated with every alteration made to the original die of 1840 "without white lines." The less lettering that is portrayed on the small surface of a postage stamp, the more handsome will be its appearance. We hope, therefore, that even if the inscription "Postage and Revenue" should be (though we fail to see the necessity) deemed indispensable, that it will be represented by minute characters, and that the only other lettering will be the numeral of value—with the letters respectively following, "d", "s", or "£". The guiding idea in the production of an artistic postage stamp should be boldness and simplicity, and we can but express the hope that before finally accepting the new designs, His Majesty's Government may consult those who possess an intimate knowledge and lifelong experience with regard to this important subject.—London Philatelist.

EDITORIAL.

An Airy Notion—If some enthusiastic "airmen" had their way, aviation would make its contribution to philately. According to a London newspaper, postal cards have been prepared in Paris that may be dropped from the aeroplanes in flight. The cards bear printed instructions to the finders asking that the missives be deposited in the nearest post-offices for forwarding. Blanks are left on the cards for recording the altitude and approximate position of the ship and a picture of an airship is shown on the cards as well. As for the philatelic leaven in this information, we quote: "It is said that a request has been made to the minister of posts and telegraphs that a special stamp be created for these aerial missives, but so far, I have not heard that M. Millerand has undertaken to do so."

* * *

Endorsement—At the convention of the American Numismatic Association held in New York City earlier in September, Chicago was chosen as the seat of the next convention; and we are informed that a committee was or is to be appointed to confer with the committee that Mr. Mudge as president of the American Philatelic Society will name, according to the wish expressed at the Detroit convention, upon the advisability of holding the convention of the numismatic society the same week as the convention of the American Philatelic Society is convened. It is reported that the proposal that was recognized approvingly by the stamp society at its convention in August, was hailed with no little enthusiasm by the numismatists in convention assembled, subsequently. In fact a member of both the organizations who attended the Detroit and the New York City meetings says that so favorable was the disposition of the American Numismatic Association on the question that it was intimated that if the time required by the business of the philatelic convention left so few days in the latter part of the week that the coin convention would necessarily have to be held in session until the following week, the American Numismatic Association might be agreeable to the protraction if conditions were unyielding. It is assured that the fraternal spirit displayed by the coin folk will meet its match in cordiality when the two committees begin their deliberations.

* * *

Helps Either—The certainty almost that the conventions of both the great national organizations devoted to the interests of stamp and coin collecting, respectively, will be held in Chicago in 1911 during the same week will loan these meetings no mean distinction. Both organizations will profit in attendance at the conventions in consequence of this dual arrangement; and as has been remarked before, the identity of both societies will be kept intact, as it were, and in no manner will that of the one be merged into that of the other. The great amount of publicity that a convention devoted to bodies that uphold allied pursuits will demand and deserve will resolve itself into a mutual benefit and will be shared fairly by both societies. As it is, the convention of the American Numismatic Association usually receives a liberal allotment of newspaper notices and it will be augmented when there is double reason, so to say, for the publicity; and the American Philatelic Society practically is in the same position.

* * *

It Looks Good—From R. S. Nelson, Birmingham, Alabama, we have received two photographs, one of which shows a sheet of eighty-four specimens of the five-cent, type A3, Canal Zone on Panama; originally, the sheet was one hundred, of course, and the part of the sheet shown abounds in varieties. What is of greater interest to us, among a selection of Confederate locals such as Athens and Macon, an envelope bearing a diagonally halved twenty-cent green Confederate, postmarked Selma, Ala., in a way to remove all doubts of the authenticity of the provisional. The envelope bears in the upper right hand corner, an ordinary ten-cent Confederate of 1863; the cover was sent from a point in Alabama to Selma and the recipient there used the envelope again in sending a letter from Selma to another place in Alabama, after affixing the lower diagonal half of a twenty-cent Confederate to the left of the first stamp. It has been the custom to say that practically all the severed twenty-cent stamps were used in Texas but now Alabama certainly is entitled to one candidate. In 1888, Major Evans recorded that he had seen "more than one specimen divided in half diagonally, and used, no doubt, as ten cents." Some time after this, the split provisional was given place in the catalogue.

Later—Writing in reference to a statement that appeared in our issue of August 13th, our esteemed correspondent, Wm. H. Zuehlke, Appleton, Wisconsin, says: "The penalty for forging or counterfeiting a postage stamp of any foreign government is a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment of not more than five years or both. Section 1581 of the U. S. Postal Regulations has been revised so that the penalty for removing postage stamps from mail matter is a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment

It Was Popular—One of the most appreciated philatelic attractions afforded by the Detroit convention was the exhibition of stamps by members of the Detroit society in the Museum of Art. This display was open to the public and during its continuance, not a few strangers lead by the newspaper announcements inquired their way to the floor where the stamps were arranged effectively for view. While the Detroit members modestly said that the exhibit was not intended to be pretentious so much as popular, yet there were many stamps shown that were well worth the critical eye. No doubt, Detroit was somewhat surprised that it could make so strong a showing informally, as it were, and if the parallel is to apply, other cities might find that they could build better than they expected, if once they seriously set about planning for an affair of the kind. It is easier to make an exhibition recruited wholly from the stamps of collectors in one city, of a popular order, than an exhibit, widely advertised, and of more purely philatelic value and interest. The exhibition at which the public is welcome is the one which is most fruitful of results; and Detroit has set a very good example.

BERNE EXHIBITION.

Just as we go to press we have received from A. W. Batchelder of the New England Stamp Co. the list of awards made at the Berne International Exhibition. We are unable to publish this week the list in its entirety. H. J. Duven of New York-London, won second honors, a gold medal, in Class I on Swiss Cantonal and first honors a gold medal in Class IV on Mauritius.

Chas. Lathrop Pack of Lakewood, N. J., secured awards for displays of Spain, Cape of Good Hope, New Zealand and Brazil.

Mr. Batchelder sent his letter franked with a block of 10 of the current 5c Swiss showing four tete beche. Four values 2, 5, 10 and 25c have been issued in this form in stamp books showing the tete beche arrangement. Our correspondent writes that full sheets of stamps from which the books are made up have been on sale at the Exposition post office.

We have also to thank Messrs. Batchelder and A. O. Tittman for specimens of the new postage due.

50. AUSTRALIAN PERF. VARIETIES.

BY W. B. EDWARDS.

I have made a discovery in some of the "long" S.A. stamps which may interest readers of the P. J. G. B. Several values have lately been chronicled with perfs. compound of 11½, 12 and 12½; thus the 9d Crown A has been recorded in G. S. W. perf. 12x11½. and by Ewen's Weekly Stamp News 12½x12. The 8d and 1sh, Crown SA, appear in G. S. W. as perf. 12x11½, the 4d Crown A is given by Ewen 12x12½. You record the 6d and 1sh, perf. 12½ and 11½ at sides. Now all these varieties cannot well be produced by different machines, and I am of opinion that they are all the work of the "new" 12 machine, the pins of which are irregularly set. The closeness of the guages is in favour of this theory, but it is practically confirmed by my researches on stamps quite recently received.

I have now the 9d, 10d and 2sh 6d perf. 12 and 12½ at sides, and the 10sh perf. 12 and 11½ at sides, all thick Postage with Crown SA wmk. The perfect alignment of the perforation in every case makes it impossible that more than one machine was used, and the large number of stamps now recorded with these compounded perfs. (or confounded perfs. as you please), together with the introduction of a new machine perforating 12½ small holes, leads me to believe that my theory is correct and we may be spared the quotation of a number of apparent freaks.—Phil. Jour. Gt. Britain.

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:

Regular Government Issues U. S. Envelopes
Carrier Stamps Confederate Provisionals

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2s" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1853 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plympton is made as easy as rolling off a log. STAMP COLLECTING AGAIN IN VOGUE.

(C. M. Breder favors us with a clipping from the N. Y. Herald under the above caption. It is sent the Herald by its London correspondent and is a hint of the publicity campaign that has been launched in England in the interests of philately. With King George an active collector, it will be an easy thing exploiting stamp collecting in England as it has never been exploited before.—Ed.)

Stamp collecting rapidly is coming into vogue again. And all because the public has ascertained that it for years has been one of King George's hobbies.

"Why, more than a dozen persons connected with the Court already have decided to start collections and have come to us as clients," said the head of a prominent West End firm of philatelists. "Others who formerly collected have taken up the task again with renewed zeal and are bothering their friends half to death for stamps. Then, too, the infection has spread to all classes, though the effort to attain the most extensive and valuable collection fairly promises to become a contest as popular in society as was the solving of jig-saw puzzles for a time.

Numbers of lawyers and men in the financial district have caught the idea, as we know by our books. All these collectors are keenly waiting the impending new issue of postage stamps, hoping that certain initial stamps may suffer some irregularities which will give them great value. As the Earl of Crawford remarked recently, stamp collecting as a boy's hobby is dead, but stamp collecting as a science is just beginning. And, of course, His Majesty has done a very great deal toward advancing stamp collecting to recognition as a scientific study. The boyish interest in stamps centres chiefly in having a large number of fairly uncommon and obviously different specimens and a better collection than the other boys. There it stops.

But the new scientific interest, which is slowly but surely attaining its hold, lies much more in possessing stamps with only the veriest shade of difference in them and in collecting entire sets. For instance, almost all stamps really worth collecting have been printed from a wooden 'sheet'—a sheet being a piece of wood upon which the engraver has carved out a compact square of twelve or more impressions. Though the engraver would aim at perfect similarity, each of those twelve impressions would produce stamps with, to the trained eye, quite distinct markings upon them. So the intelligent collector sets to work to procure a specimen of all the twelve impressions, and so on. You can see, therefore, that it affords some interest."

MAKING AN IMPRESSION.

A post card twenty-six inches long and thirty-eight wide, weighing nearly four pounds, and requiring $1.20 for postage, was mailed from Enid, Ok., to a law firm in Austin, Texas, last Tuesday.

The sender, one Isaiah Armond, said that he had failed to get replies to several letters addressed to the firm and he had adopted this method of calling their attention to his wishes. He reiterated his demands in large letters on the back of the post card.

Time may show that Isaiah Armond builded better than he knew. His method will hardly be generally adopted by clients in communicating with their lawyers. —Chicago Inter-Ocean.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We are pleased to note a stamp department in the Christian Science Monitor in charge of J. Russell Reed, Cambridge, Mass. This department has in it great possibilities for good and similar departments in publications throughout the country would mean much for the promotion of philately.

—P. M. Wolsieffer wishes us to request the members of the Southern Philatelic Association not to vote for him for the position for which he has been nominated as shown upon the official ballot recently sent out. He states that his name was used without his knowledge and consent and that it would be impossible for him to perform the duties of the office were he elected.

—We acknowledge with thanks greetings from Fred J. Melville and A. W. Batchelder while in attendance upon the great Exhibition at Berne. The card, printed especially for the exposition, is a 5c value and the stamp is cancelled by a special postmark. It is adorned with autographs of both gentlemen and Mr. Batchelder writes:—"Exhibition a great success."

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Hugo Kuenstler (2), F. A. Eichhorn, Chas. Pincus, J. Fred Vickrey, C. M. Breder (2), F. C. DePuy (6), Maitland Milliken, Max A. Lesser (2).

—The next convention of the Southern Philatelic Association will be held at Kansas City, Mo., on Oct. 3rd and succeeding days till all business is completed.

—F. C. DePuy favors us with six clippings, for which we are greatly obliged. One, the Waterman advertisement, shows a large page of foreign stamps printed in their natural colors. We have referred to this advertisement before, it being one of the best that has ever come under our observation.

—E. L. Morey of Colombo, Ceylon, was a recent caller at the WEEKLY office.

AS SEEN BY EDITOR MEKEEL.

The P. J. of A. for Aug. 15 contains an article dealing with A. P. S. matters, past and present. While Mr. Mekeel does not hesitate to say pointed things when the occasion seems to demand, for the nonce he gives the WEEKLY a proper measure of recognition. Concerning present day conditions, Mr. Mekeel writes:—

"The membership has now been revived, largely through the efforts of its official organ, and history repeats itself in the appearance of narrow-minded, selfish opposition to the very elements that have kept the association afloat which are largely centered in the WEEKLY of Boston."

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

OUR EUROPEAN LETTER.

By WM. WARD.

AMSTERDAM, HOLLAND, Sept. 2, 1910.

Colony of Sjo-Sen.—Most collectors will possess in their collection stamps of the Colony of Sjo-Sen—but I'll bet a quarter they cannot tell which they are. To save them money, I might as well inform them that Sjo-Sen or Cho-Sen is the ancient name for Corea or Korea, which Japan has formally taken over as a Colony a few days ago, and which has decided to call it by the old title, instead of Corea.

European Boosting.—Every petty State in Europe is just at present suffering from "Kingly Swell-headness" and are making themselves from inferior States into Kingdoms and Empires. Russia has majestically condescended to recognize Montenegro as a Kingdom and Prince Nicolas as King Nicolas—the gentleman they call the father-in-law of half of European monarchs—as he had the luck to marry off a large bunch of daughters.

Novel "Post-Dueing"!—The Netherlands Post Office has an entirely original and novel method of dealing with unpaid or partly unpaid postal matter. When a letter is found on which the postage, say, is 5 cents deficient, the letter is placed in an onion-paper envelope, the inside of which is printed dead-black excepting a portion on the front, through which transparency the postman may be able to read the address. The postage due stamps are placed on the outside of the new cover and cancelled with date-stamp of postoffice making the surcharge postage, which is double the deficiency.

For post cards requiring extra postage a similar part-transparent cover is used, but of which half the face is black, in order to prevent the writing on half the face of the postal card being read by any inquiring person. With the exception that the appearance of any matter that requires extra postage can readily be told by the postal clerks, this seems an unnecessary waste of money, for the covers used must cost at the very least $1.50 to $2.00 a thousand, even by the making and printing of millions at a time. After all the English system of enforcing postage due is the cheapest, most efficient and effectual check on the postmen receiving money for same, and is just as good today as say 70 years ago, when the first postage stamps came into use.

U. S. Stamps in Europe.—Very, very little is known about the postage stamps of the Great Republic. All varieties that are common to the novice in the States are not even heard about here, except in a few cases of expert dealers. Intimate association with many Continental collectors has not given me any great regard for them. In the very greatest majority of instances the European stamp collector accumulates a quantity of stamps, but he knows absolutely nothing about them. If he buys a good stamp, he must at once send it along to some advertised expert to see if it is genuine. Now my experience of both English (or I should say British!) and American collectors is, that if they buy a stamp they know quite well what they are buying, more so than a good many dealers. Thus this ignorance on the part of the collectors has fostered a great deal of rubbish that would not be found in English or American dealers' stock books. There are, in Germany especially, many philatelists who make quite a nice little business at giving expert opinions on stamps at about 12c per stamp. I fear such a profession would mean public-relief with English collectors.

I do not think there is any cleverness in being able to say that one's stamps have been given an O. K. by one who has collected or dealt in stamps a number of years. Perhaps because I was brought up in a philatelic school, so as to speak, I have too severe an opinion. Anyway I feel sure that as things are at present the Continental collector is carefully accumulating the world's rubbish, whilst the English or American philatelist is just as carefully accumulating all the gems of philately. The crux of the whole matter is this: The young philatelist is not helped, yet alone encouraged. There are no American Philatelic or Junior Philatelic Societies spreading and propagating knowledge of a philatelic nature. There is no comparison of philatelic knowledge, so what must we expect? The collector or dealer who keeps all he learns to himself is cutting off his nose to spite his face. By letting others know of our discoveries, we in turn get an exchange of views, of controversy and information on other points. I by no means run down the European collector, but feel sorry that he has not the power, or foresight, or enthusiasm to help himself by seeing that by helping others he is helping himself. We are all dependent on one another in this world of philately or anything else.

IS IT A NEW PAPER?

I have from "inside" that a thick, hard paper was tried. recently and found to be more than satisfactory; as usual with papers which are "good" they are expensive.

This paper of sterling quality is readily told, because of its hardness and thickness, and I know of at least a package of ten thousand two cent stamps, current design, which have passed over the P. O. counter, printed on this paper.

Another way of distinguishing this paper is by holding the paper slantingly towards the light when there will appear to be a surface which is watered like moiré. This is particularly noticeable on the margins.—Philada. Stamp News.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

BOSNIA.—Champion's Bulletin illustrates the new Jubilee stamps, which have been enlarged so as to admit of the addition of the dates "1830—1910". Unlike the Austrian series all the additions have been made at the bottom of the stamps, the figures being in color on a white tablet, with conventional ornaments at either side. The colors are the same as the 1906 issue.

MEXICO.—Eugene L. Fraim sends us a clipping describing the new commemorative stamps which were to have been issued Sept. 16. The values and colors are the same as the current issue, the portraits and pictures upon the stamps being as follows,—the colors given being subject to revision, when the stamps are actually seen:

1c violet; Josefa Ortiz de Dominguez.
2c green; Leona Vicario.
3c brown; Lopez Rayon.
4c carmine; Juan Aldama.
5c yellow; Miguel Hidalgo.
10c blue and orange; Ignacio Allende.
15c lavender and claret; Epigmenio Gonzalez.
20c rose and blue; Mariano Abasolo.
50c rose and black; Cri de Dolores.
1p blue and black; Mass on the Mount de Las Cruces.
5p carmine and black; Assault of Granadito.

There will be also envelopes, post cards and letter cards, the former having the bust of Miguel Hidalgo in relief.

NETHERLANDS.—About every time the Dutch start up the printery there comes a new or a changed card. Since the two last styles of arms came into use we have had over thirty new cards. However, they are not costly and are very attractive in appearance. Mr. Schachne now sends what would be Senf 4711 if he had known of it. The upper headline, "Carte Postale, Avec Reponse Payee" is in block capitals, with same below in Dutch. There are three long and two short address lines, also two at lower left for sender's name. Reply is same, except the usual changes for a reply card.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—We are indebted to the New England Stamp Co. and A. C. Roessler for complete sets of the Guy stamps, and find that Mr. Roessler was right in his original statement that the stamps were lithographed,—and he might have added very poorly lithographed at that. If it was beneath the dignity of a British Colony to have the imprint of an American printed on its stamps, it does not seem to have worried that same dignity the least bit to have issued the cheapest lot of labels seen for many a long day. The Solomon Islands, native printers, or the Colombian Departments in the throes of a revolution have never done worse. Were these made simply to sell to collectors? It would appear so from the fact that the sets are sold in a small envelope bearing the following inscription: "Newfoundland. 1610-1910. Issue of Newfoundland Stamps to commemorate the 300th Anniversary of the earliest settlement in the British Empire made in Conception Bay, Newfoundland, in June, 1610."

The values and illustrations were correctly stated in No. 1028. The 1c, 2c, 3c, 6c, 12c, 15c are upright, while the other values are horizontal oblong stamps, the size being the same in all cases, or about the same as the 1898 issue. The poor quality of the printing is lamentable, in view of the fact that the designs were worthy of a better setting.

SPAIN.—Offices in Morocco.—The current 20c stamp has been surcharged "Tetuan" for use at that port.

SWEDEN.—We are now able to illustrate the new 4 ore stamp chronicled some time since.

SWITZERLAND.—We have received from Mr. Schachne a celebration card of special design with a colored picture covering the reverse, near the bottom of which is "Die Wachter der heimat pro patria". The card carries the current 5c green stamp which forms the upper right corner of frame. The latter is a curved leaf pattern and the same also extends across below the headlines and meets the lower corner of the stamp, as well as a perpendicular portion dividing the card in halves. Headlines (1) "Bundesfeier—Postkarte", (2) "Carte Postale—du 1 er Aout" in two lines at left, and same in Italian at right. Size 145x96.

The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the new series of postage due stamps for the Republic, in an entirely new design. The Helvetian Cross appears in an oval in the centre of the stamp with a range of snowy mountains across the top of the stamps, with Alpine flowers at either side of the oval. The value is contained in an upright oblong tablet in the centre of the bottom of the stamp. The values, the cross and the flowers are in red. The paper has the current watermark of the adhesives.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

We have the privilege of reviewing a scholarly, philatelically, and sumptuous, typographically, addition to philatelic literature: A Study of the Stamps of Uruguay, by Hugo Griebert. The work is No. 10 in the series of the Stanley Gibbons Philatelic Handbooks; and we cannot easily conceive of a more attractive selection of subject at the present time. Uruguay has long been one of the most popular of stamp issuing countries and we believe that the number of collectors who give to it specialistic attention of a degree ranging from moderate to extreme is proportionately large. In particular, they will welcome the book under notice as conveying in fitting manner all the known details of the stamps, together with the results of individual research. An advantage may properly be claimed by the set of seven sheets of photographic illustrations and the numerous cuts scattered throughout the text. The first sheet or plate shows the 35 types of the 1856 or "Diligencia" issue; the second plate, 31 of the 35 types of the 1 real, same issue, and the third various varieties of the three denominations of the issue in question. The fourth plate is a photograph of the 29 types of the 240c 1857, showing position of the blank space for one stamp in the setting of sheet of thirty spaces, and plates five and sixth present the thin and thick numerals of 1859 and 1860, respectively. The seventh plate gives fifteen of the prominent varieties of the 5c 1866.

The information that is given on the ninety broad pages seems to be the last word on the stamps of Uruguay. From the fascinating first issue, the "Diligencia" stamps, to the present day stamps, the emissions are described in a way to meet all expectations; and the reference value of the photographs, practically, of reconstructed plates of the early types is immeasurably great, and they will serve admirably as a guide for those whose enthusiasm carries them to the heights of specialism. From all points of view, the monograph is ideal and Mr. Griebert has essayed and accomplished his work so well that the results redound greatly to his credit as a student and writer. The price of A Study of the Stamps of Uruguay is fifteen shillings, postage nine pence; Stanley Gibbons, Limited, 391 Strand, London, England.

CAYMAN ISLANDS 2 1/2d ON 4d.

By D. B. ARMSTRONG.

On February 12th, 1908, there suddenly dropped anchor off Georgetown, the private steam yacht "Zenaida," with Sir Frederick Johnson and the Countess of Wilton on board, and before the vessel's departure an offer was made to carry a mail to Cienfuegos, Cuba. The local authorities gladly availed themselves of this offer, as in the ordinary course no mail was due until the end of the month.

There was but one difficulty that presented itself, and that was the fact that as the majority of letters were as usual consigned to the United States, a large number of 2 1/2d stamps were required. The supply of this value in the Postage-Postage type was unfortunately quite exhausted and the postal authorities were relying upon the receipt of a consignment in the new Postage and Revenue type by the vessel which would take off the next outward mail. By the arrival of the "Zenaida" their calculations were, however, completely upset, and as it was deemed advisable to harvest the rapidly declining 1/2d and 1d stamps instructions were issued for a sufficient number of 4d Postage-Postage stamps (of which a small quantity was available), to be overprinted with the figures 2 1/2d, thus to convert them into stamps of the lower denomination, in order to supply the public demand for the outgoing mail.

Four sheets (480 copies) of the current 4d stamps were therefore surcharged by Mr. J. H. O'Sullivan, Inspector of Police, as directed, by means of a metal handstamp, in a similar manner to that employed for the 1907 surcharges. Of these, the writers are in a position to state definitely that only two sheets were actually used in the ordinary course of postal business, the remaining two being purchased in their entirety by a local speculator. To applicants for these stamps at the Post Office not more than six were supplied to any one person, and by the 14th of the month all had been sold.

The metal handstamp with which these stamps were overprinted, and which was destroyed on the same day, shows the same peculiarity as its predecessor of the 1/2d on 5sh overprint, in that all the figures are identical in size, and there is no fraction bar between the 1 and 2 of 1/2; but the type used is in this case of a slightly smaller font.

Only one variety of importance is known to the writers, embodying a double impression of the overprint, but as in the case of the other provisionals, specimens may be found on which portions of the surcharge have failed to print clearly.—Stamp Lover.

BRITISH STAMPS USED IN CHILI.

By D. HAWORTH.

It always strikes me as a great pity that when anyone sets out to write on a country in which stamps of some other country have been used, he carefully omits these extremely interesting varieties.

I suppose, strictly speaking, British stamps used in Chili cannot be called Chilean stamps, seeing that they were issued by the British Post Office. But, nevertheless, no one who specializes in this particular country, can afford to leave them out, if he wishes to make his collection complete.

The following notes, which I have collected together, are not by any means exhaustive. They merely give an outline of the various town postmarks which exist, and the stamps on which they may be found. There are numerous varieties in both obliterator and date stamp which are not mentioned, as for example, the Valparaiso mark may be found in quite a collection of shapes and sizes.

There were only three towns in Chili which were considered of sufficient size for a special number to be allotted them namely: Valparaiso, Caldera and Coquimbo.

The office at the first of these was opened in 1865, and British stamps were used there for foreign correspondence right up to 1881 when Chili entered the Postal-Union. Specimens of the 1883-4 issue of Great Britain are said to exist with this postmark. If this is true the office cannot have been closed in 1881, as is stated by Messrs. Nissen and Bernstein in their article on "British Stamps used Abroad" in G. S. W., vol. VII.

Valparaiso is the largest port on the west coast of South America, and owing to its immense trade, at least a tenth of its population are Europeans.

The office number is C30. It may be found either alone or accompanied by a circular date stamp having "Valparaiso" curved round the top, "Paid" at the bottom and "A.....(date).....(year)" in three lines in the centre. As I mentioned above, the obliterator may be found in a variety of shapes and sizes. The stamps which are at present known used here are as follows:

1d red, 1858, plates, 152, 157, 162, 167, 175, 178, 181, 185, 187, 189, 195, 197, 198, 200, 201, 209, 210, 212, 214, 215, 217.

Coquimbo, the third town, is situated on a fine bay and has excellent facilities for a shipping trade.

There is, I believe, a large smelting works there, and a big trade in copper and other ores is carried on.

There is also a very considerable amount of trading in cattle with Peru and Valparaiso.

When the office was opened I cannot say, but it cannot have been before 1865. It was closed probably about 1881.

The obliterator used was C40, and a date stamp was impressed on the letter, but never, as far as I know, on the stamp.

I have recently come across a 4d sage green plate 16, postmarked "Carmen Alta." I have searched vainly for information as to the position, etc., of this town, but the only "Carmen" which I can find is Solar del Carmen, situated about fifty miles inland from Copiapo.

The mark consists of two concentric circles. Round the top is curved "Carmen Alta." at bottom is "Chile." and across the centre is the date. The whole is impressed in blue and looks very much as if it had been done with a rubber stamp.

So far I have not mentioned Africa, Cobiya, and Iquique.

These three towns were originally Peruvian, but were captured by Chili. The offices which, however, had been opened by Great Britain, belong entirely to the Peruvian Administration, and were immediately closed on the outbreak of war between Chili and Peru and Bolivia. All British stamps therefore which have been used there are either Peruvians or Bolivians, and, as such, do not come within the scope of these notes.

In conclusion it might be interesting to note that, when these offices were first opened, the postal rates were 2sh per half ounce. In 1870, however, they were reduced to eighteenpence, while in 1878 there was a further reduction of sixpence per half ounce, at which rate it remained till the offices were closed.—Phil. Jour. Great Britain.

THE STAMP MARKET.

BY SENEX.

Of the Argentine Centenary set, prices have been seen for used copies as follows: 1c, 1d; 5c, 1d; 10c and 12c, 1½d each; 30c, 5d; 50c, 8d; 1 peso, 1s. Possibly the ½c, 3c, 4c, 20c and 24c, may not be too plentiful.

One and 2 dollars Columbus issue of U. S. A. seem to sell for a higher figure than our English catalogue quotations.

The dearth of some French Colonial obsolete Postage Dues strongly reminds one of the motto "Carpe diem".

Of Canal Zone, the 8c and 10c, of both 1906 and 1909, seem available now in some quantity, and should be in demand. There are also items to be picked up here and there per 100, such as the ½c tri-coloured Panama and the 2½c orange of 1906, which should be good things to have. The 1c and 2c 1906 seem dear, while the 25c and 50c take some finding.

Honduras 1907 is a good selling set, to be enquired for from some English dealer who is known to have correspondence with South America.

The 3c Ecuador 1907 should be snapped up when seen per 100; such a quotation may occur only while the stamps are current or soon after. I once saw the 15 paras Servia 1903, surcharged Arms, offered per 100, but only once. The 2c Ecuador is also not a bad stamp, the 5c and 10c seem likely to spread themselves through the generations to come, the 20c should be worth getting 25 copies of, and the higher values where they can be met with.

It is common knowledge that increased prices are obtaining for the British 1d black; perhaps other similar old British may be expected to move up likewise. The 2s 6d Queen, for example, is much too cheap.

There are certain stamps which a dealer does not have in sufficient quantities to make a quotation of; these he probably puts on one side in case they should be enquired for, and there is wisdom in making such enquiries. I am thinking of the 15c Tunis 1906, most 20c values of used pictorial French Colonies, 4c Mexico and similar stamps.

Like the men of Athens our quest is ever for something new. They say there is nothing new under the sun, but that proverb was probably invented before the stamp era. We are waiting to see some of the new Argentine centenary stamps listed, in used condition. It is said that folks have been investing in the 4c value of these, but that more are to be printed. Hurray! So we get some after all.

The 3c on 1 gulden Holland Postage Due, issued in July, 1910, is priced fifteenpence in a Continental list, used or unused, and 2sh 6d in yet a second list. Why this dearth? The ordinary 3c unpaid, issued about the same time, can be had for a penny.

It seems there is now a 35c French Morocco, an overprint on the 35c current French; this should be a nice stamp to get.

Possibly a good investment would be the 3c Cuba pictorial of 1899; prices vary for this stamp considerably.

One wonders why the 12c Argentine 1909, is cheaper (in quantity) than the 12c of 1899. The former has had but a year in which to accumulate, yet is quoted for per hundred, but a price for a hundred of the 1899 stamp is not often met with. I am almost tempted to make a similar comparison between the 5c Salvador 1903 and the 5c values of 1906 and 1908, but have not sufficient evidence as yet.

The Crete Service stamps, of which there seem to be two denominations only, the 10 and 30 lepta, exist with and without the overprint "Ellas"; the plain variety apparently comes first in point of time, and is also perhaps slightly the scarcer of the two sorts; I got a few of the surcharged 36 lepta, and they seem to sell very well. I fancy they are not scarce, but you have to know where to look for them.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

NO TERRITORIAL LIMITATIONS FOR CURRENT COLONIAL SO. AFRICANS.

W. Morton Webb sends us the following postal decree as printed in the Union Gazette :—

"15th August 1910.

It is hereby notified for general information that, until further notice, postage and revenue stamps which were in authorized use on 30th May, 1910, in the four colonies incorporated in the Union of South Africa are now recognized as available throughout the Union and their use is no longer limited within the territorial boundaries of the original colonies of issue.

In due course postage and revenue stamps for the Union will be issued, when suitable arrangements will be made for the withdrawal of the separate Colonial issues."

BERNE STAMP EXHIBITION.

BY FRED J. MELVILLE.

(We conclude this week the report of the Berne Exhibition as written for the London Telegraph by Mr. Melville. It is a very newsy summary of matters of general interest and we feel assured that our readers will appreciate the same. It will be noted that Mr. Melville names but one U. S. exhibitor, Chas. L. Pack, Mr. Duveen being credited to the ranks of the London collectors. We congratulate Mr. Pack upon the honors awarded him.—ED.)

The task of judging the collections occupied the judges the greater part of three days, and the difficulty of their task was not lessened by the fact that the seven judges in attendance hailed from six different countries, using five different languages. I have no doubt that their decisions will be acclaimed the soundest of any international philatelic jury for many years past. Last year at Amsterdam there was a glut of medals, and so far from conferring distinction upon the recipients, the glory was to the two or three who escaped the honours so lavishly scattered.

The Berne judges, too, had a surfeit of medals, but they have wisely refrained from using all at their disposal. They have increased the number of silver-gilt medals by six, including one specially awarded to Mr. M. P. Castle, J. P., of Brighton, for the philatelic study shown in his display of Trinidad. This collection would not otherwise have received an award, as it does not contain any of the other issues of Trinidad stamps than the 1d lithographed stamps of 1852, of which there are 295 copies, showing the reconstruction of sheets and the various stages of the impressions.

In adding to the number of the higher awards, it is clear that it has been extremely difficult to adjudicate between many of the different countries which have been grouped together into one class for the purposes of the competition. The number of really first-class collections here is high, but there are scarcely any of the smaller collections worthy of an award. Altogether the jury has awarded two cups (Grand Prix), ninety-five medals, and forty-five diplomas.

RARE SWISS STAMPS.

The Grand Prix for Switzerland has been awarded to H. Jaggi-Weber, of Winterthur, president of the Union of Swiss Philatelic Societies, for exhibits of the early cantonal stamps used on the original envelopes, and of the Swiss Federal issues from 1850 to 1910. In the same class Mr. H. J. Duveen, of London, receives the gold medal for his collection of early Swiss stamps, which is rich in rarities, and is in point of monetary value one of the best in the exhibition. It is worth not less than £5,000.

Mr. Victor Beaujeux, also of London, has been awarded a silver-gilt and a silver medal for the carefully-studied collections of Swiss stamps described in my last letter. M. Seinet-Jenneret, of Neuchatel, has secured a silver-gilt and a silver medal in this class, and his Swiss colleagues divide three silver and four bronze medals between them.

In the championship class the result has been fairly clear all along, at any rate as regards the two English competitors. A collection of French stamps cannot well compete against a fine collection of one of the Australian States. Victoria, for example, allows a great scope for original research on the most approved philatelic lines. Consequently, although Mr. Franz Reichenheim, of London, has practically exhausted the possibilities of a collection of French stamps, it could not properly be given precedence, or even equal rank, with one of Mr. Leslie L. R. Hausburg's unapproachable collections of the stamps of our Australian Colonies. Mr. Hausburg's sole rival, therefore, was an Italian collector, Cav. Avv. Augusto Cave Bondi of Livorno, who had entered a gigantic collection of Italy and Italian States, so large, indeed that it could not have been displayed in the show-cases without crowding out a great many of the other exhibits. So the collection is in a locked cabinet containing the twenty-four large albums which the collection occupies. The extent of the collection, and the fact that it was not on view in the usual way, led to the belief among the visitors that Signor Bondi's collection would carry off the Championship Cup, but through the courtesy of an Italian philatelist, acting for the owner, I inspected the volumes, and I found them rich in stamps of great price, but presenting no signs of any efforts on the owner's part to elucidate the historical and technical problems that confront the student of the stamps of the Italian States. In this

The proper way of completing your collection is by using our "want list system." This method is far superior than hunting over hundreds of approval selections and picking off everything that comes along.

Why not make up a "want list" of those odds and ends that you need to fill up your sets, even if the cheaper grade, and send it to us and you will receive them neatly mounted, and each stamp priced separately. We try and allow 50% discount whenever possible, and we only send out stamps in fine condition.

Send for our price and check list. It's free. Also ask for some of our printed want list forms.

collection, I may mention, there is the rarest stamp in the whole of the exhibition. It is the 80c Parma, used together with a 20c on the one letter. This is the only known used copy of this stamp.

For study, however, Mr. Hausburg's collection ranks first, and thus the championship gold cup goes to an English philatelist. Cavalier Bondi has been awarded a gold medal, and Mr. Franz Reichenheim's "France" gets a special diploma of honour.

SICILY'S EXHIBITION.

It is a pity that space did not allow of the display of Cavalier Bondi's collection, for it must be conceded that the most fashionable stamps in the exhibition have been those of the European States, and of the Italian States in particular. Sicily leads in this respect, and the exhibition had not been open an hour when M. F. Robert, of Berne, had sold his collection of Sicily, displayed in Class 3, to a collector from Leeds for a large amount. In the private transactions in the exhibition restaurant, and at the "festbourse," there were many more buyers for Sicilian stamps than sellers, and all the regular dealers were cleared out of their stocks of these stamps during the first day of the exhibition. These stamps are selling at more than the top catalogue quotations, and the new English catalogue to be published in a few weeks' time has the prices of all the varieties greatly enhanced.

I can only refer to the chief of the other awards made by the jury. The King's collection of Nevis, although not stated to be "hors concours," does not figure in the prize list. It is only a very small collection in any case, and was no doubt contributed with the generous and gracious intention of supporting the exhibition. The Earl of Crawford, who has collections of the greatest importance, is only showing a few pages of Neapolitan stamps, for which he receives a silver-gilt medal. Prince Doria Pamphily of Italy, is only showing a few examples of rarities of early Italian States, for which he is awarded a silver medal.

Mr. H. J. Duveen, in addition to the gold medal for his Swiss collection, gets a second gold medal for his extraordinary collection of Mauritius. Since this collection was last exhibited the owner has added the two superb copies of the "Post Office" Mauritius stamps which came from the collection of the late Sir William Avery, Bt. These two stamps are worth about £3,000 the pair. A block of four of the one penny "Post

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The Wonderland of Stamps.—By W. Dwight Burroughs (Fredk. A. Stokes Co., publishers, N. Y. City). This is a very attractive book of some 250 pages, bound in cloth with the cover page printed in a rich combination of colors. The author has rendered a distinct service to philately in writing this book, which will aid materially in popularizing stamp collecting. It deals with what might be called the popular side of philately, opening up to the general public a field of information that will prove as instructive as it is entertaining. It is indeed a misfortune that so many people have such remote ideas of the educational value of the postage stamps of the world. The author suggests that this little book will help to relieve us of this same misfortune.

The book is written in a vein designed to attract and hold the attention of children and we are sure that the style adopted will prove fully as interesting to those of more mature years. The author introduces members of the family circle who are made to talk stamps and stamp scenes and all in so natural a manner as to secure and clinch the attention of the casual reader.

The book is freely illustrated, the cuts showing up clearly and distinctly. Some two hundred are shown. The titles of some of the chapters will give one an idea of its scope:—"The Smallest Show on Earth," "The Songless Aviary," "A Little Peep at a Little Land," "Myths in Miniature," "Christmas and the Cross," "Thumb-nail Maps," "Ships that Pass through the Mails," "Tiny Locomotive Mail Carriers" and "Bits of Paper Worth Fortunes."

We who are acquainted with the splendid work Mr. Burroughs has done for the A. P. S. educational committee are well aware of his splendid capabilities as an author. The writer of this review counts it as a privilege to have a share in this latest bit of missionary work, as it was through his efforts as secretary of the National Stamp Committee that Mr. Burroughs became interested in work of this kind.

Uncle Phil and the pleasures of his stamp collection should touch a responsive chord with young America and we feel sure that the readers of the WEEKLY will themselves want to own and read this book, the most pretentious thing of its kind American philately has ever seen. We regret our inability to quote the price of the book. A line to the publishers will no doubt bring the desired information.

Philadelphia Stamp Club Year Book.

The publication committee with A. F. Henkels as chairman gives us a very interesting and comprehensive review of the work of this society in the volume before us. It is of particular value in that it gives an outlined history of the several consolidated bodies, particulars of which have already appeared in the philatelic press. In this book appear the statutes of the Club, rules governing the sales department and auctions, reports of the officers for 1910 and membership list. To the members of the club this book must be a very useful publication.

THE WENDEN STAMP OF 1901.

On February 1st, 1901, there was issued a stamp of 2 kopecs, printed in two colours—dark green for the frame, with the central portion in brown. The fact that it bore a Russian inscription instead of a German legend, like all its predecessors, was significant of the continuous progress of the russification of the Czar's dominions: this inscription—"Wendenskaya ouyeznaya potshta"—may be translated "Wenden-District (or Circle) Post."

Wenden is a city of 6,300 inhabitants, and is the chief town of what was called, under the Polish dominion, the "Palatinate of Wenden," a title afterwards changed under the Swedes to "Circle of Wenden" (Germ., Wendensche-Kreis). Near the town, in the middle of a park belonging to Count Sievers, are the ruins of a castle, shown on the stamp in question. This castle was the second principal seat of the Order of the Sword-Bearers or Brethren of the Sword (Schwertbrüder), and later on the residence of the Livonian Masters of the Teutonic Order (deutscher Ritterorden) with which the old Order was incorporated about 1237. The building was enlarged under Walter von Plettenberg (1494-1535), the most renowned of those Masters who lived at Wenden. In 1577 it was besieged by the Czar Ivan IV., surnamed the Terrible, and was destroyed by its defenders to prevent it from falling into his hands. It passed into the possession of the Germans in the same year, and afterwards became the seat of the Catholic Bishop Patricius Nidecki, whom King Stephen Bathory had sent into those regions. Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden then gave it to the Chancellor Axel of Oxenstiern, and later on (1747) it was given by Elizabeth, Empress of Russia, to her minister, Count Bestouchev. Finally it passed to the Sievers family. Since the great fire of August 3rd, 1748, the greater part of the castle has been a mere ruin. In the west tower is still seen the hall of the Masters, with a roof of net-vaulting with 69 keystones.

PHILADELPHIA STAMP COMPANY,

PERCIVAL PARRISH, PRESIDENT,
1204 CHESTNUT STREET, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

THE "QUARTERLY" DENIED SECOND CLASS RATES.

We learn from the Stamp Collector that the A. P. S. Quarterly has been denied admission to the mails as second class matter. This is a stumbling block of no mean proportion and means a re-adjustment of plans if the Quarterly is to procure the much coveted privilege. The Stamp Collector points out how this is possible:—

"Secretary Adair of the American Philatelic Society is in receipt of a communication from the Post-office Department to the effect that the American Philatelist has been refused admission at second class rates to the mails of the United States on the ground that it is not a newspaper or other periodical publication within the meaning of the law.

The decision was based upon No. 2 of the American Philatelist which the authorities took as their means of refusal. In view of the fact that while the copy of that issue contained about four pages of textual matter on subjects that might be of interest to philatelists, the remaining 78 or 79 pages are devoted exclusively to the interests of the American Philatelic Society (membership lists) by which it is published—about nine-tenths of the entire space being used for advertisements and lists of names and addresses of the members of the society. Such a publication does not meet the Supreme Court's definition of a periodical admissible to the second class of mail matter.

The definition of the Supreme Court is as follows: "A periodical, as ordinarily understood, is a publication appearing at stated intervals, each number of which contains a variety of original articles by different authors, devoted either to general literatures of some special branch of learning or to a special class of subjects. Ordinarily each number is incomplete in itself, and indicates a relation with prior or subsequent numbers of the same series. It implies a continuity of literary character, a connection between the different numbers of the series in the nature of the articles appearing in them, whether they be successive chapters of the same story or novel, or essays pertaining to subjects of general literature. If, for instance, one number was devoted to law, another to medicine, another to religion, another to music, another to painting, etc., the publication could not be considered as a periodical, as there is no connection between the subjects and no literary continuity. It could scarcely be supposed that ordinary readers would subscribe to a publication devoted to such an extensive range of subjects."

While this ruling may or may not seem to fit the case of the American Philatelist, it has so been construed by the Post-office Department.

The logical outcome or solution of this matter must be that in order to obtain second-class rates, and save a large amount of money in postage, to put the American Philatelist within the pale of the law, and do so at once, the by-laws and membership lists should be divorced from the American Philatelist. They should be printed separately in pamphlet form and given to every member of the Society, for if they still continue to be published only in the Quarterly, and the member does not subscribe for the same, he will not receive that to which as a member, is his just due. It is something to which all members are entitled and by continuing to publish them in the Quarterly will result in a further refusal of postal privileges.

The Board of Directors of the Society should act upon this at once."

The two editors of the WEEKLY were upon opposite sides of the proposition to establish a society journal as presented two years ago at the Columbus convention. Mr. Severn rather favored the idea while the writer believed the proposition inadvisable. We took the grounds that insufficient funds would be available to make the project successful and on the floor of the Columbus convention pointed out the difficulties in the way of securing second class rates—but all to no purpose! The Quarterly was to be born and for a year has been tossed about on a tempestuous sea. During this time, the writer has studiously avoided any comment or criticism. Even if not enthusiastic as regards the wisdom of publishing a society journal, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY will place in the way no barrier to its progress and try to be sufficiently broad-minded to appreciate success when success has been achieved.

The great Teutonic Order, or to give it its full title, "The Teutonic Order of the Hospital of St. Mary of Jerusalem," reached the zenith of its power at the beginning of the 15th century, when, as we read "its sovereignty extended from the Order to the Gulf of Finland, without reckoning its vast possessions in Germany, Italy, and other countries. In Prussia alone it owned 55 fortified towns, 48 fortresses, 640 villages with parish churches, and 2,000 free farms." Livonia was one of its strongholds, but the Reformation movement spread among the inhabitants, and it was one of the conditions of the compact with the King of Poland that he should maintain the Livonians in the Confession of Augsburg. This compact was made in 1561 when Gotthardt Kettler, the "Master of Livonia"—that is to say, of the Livonian branch of the Order—recognised the sovereignty of the Polish monarch, and on March 5th of the following year he handed to the Polish envoy in the town hall of Riga the cross and great seal of the Order, the title-deeds and privileges of the Teutonic Knights, and the keys of the city, and divested himself of the white mantle. In return for this and his oath of fidelity to the King, he was created Duke of Courland and Semigallia, while the renunciation of his Order gave him the opportunity of marrying a German princess.

The Marian Teutonic Order thus came to an end in Livonia. Since 1809, when Napoleon suppressed it in Germany and alienated its possessions there, it has survived only in Austria and at Utrecht. In both these cases it exists as a "severely aristocratic" body, that of Utrecht being Protestant and that of Austria Catholic; the latter is under the suzerainty of the Emperor, and carries on a work similar in nature to that of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem in our own country. In Austria are preserved the remains of its rich treasury and many of its archives.

To return to the stamps themselves, there are two varieties occurring with approximately equal frequency on each sheet. In one the sixth pearl at the lower left-hand side is plain; in the other it has a dot. There were three printings; the first with centre in brown, the second with centre in red; and the third with centre in violet-red.

On May 23rd, 1906, the remaining stock of all the Wenden stamps, old and modern, in the possession of the Livonian authorities, was burnt in the great fireplace of the Ritterhaus in Riga, a modern building where the Landtag sits. The auto da fé took place in the presence of the legal representative of the Chamber of Nobles and of two delegates of the Riga Philatelic Society. One of these writes: "It was a woefully hot fire! Especially noticeable were the 'Ruin stamps' of 1901 in entire sheets of 150 stamps, which curled up sorrowfully, and like grey clouds strove heavenwards through the chimney. Such a sight can never be forgotten." It was not, however, the stamps themselves that he mourned over; to him they were more than mere postal labels, for he looked on them as symbols of the old order of the things in Livonia.—Monthly Circular.

EDITORIAL.

Postage Currency—L. E. Chittenden, in writing on the subject of "New Moneys of Lincoln's Administration," in Harper's Magazine in 1890, said in the course of his article, after having told of the suspension of specie payment by the banks, in December, 1861, and the disappearance almost by magic of the small coins from circulation: "The credit of devising a lawful and adequate remedy for this inconvenience belongs to General Francis E. Spinner, Treasurer of the United States. He found it impossible to facilitate as he desired to do the payment of the soldiers and sailors and to conduct the business of the Treasury with the small coins at his command. He therefore arranged with the Post-office Department to redeem in unused stamps such postage stamps as might be used for currency. In a short time, his department manufactured and produced a new issue. All the denominations were of uniform size. A piece of paper with one stamp pasted on it was five cents; one with two stamps, ten cents; five stamps, twenty-five cents, and ten stamps, fifty cents. In this way, at the cost of a little labor, a considerable amount of small change was manufactured. This currency became so popular that, instead of using stamps, plates were engraved for each denomination, in imitation of the manufactured notes, the impressions from which had the same legal qualities and were used for the same purposes. These impressions were called the "Postage currency." The act of March 3, 1863, provided for the issue of fractional notes to replace the circulating media of postage and revenue stamps and postage currency. Mr. Gault patented his encased postal currency under date of August 12th, 1862.

Progress—The preceding paragraph has been referred to in this column before and occasion was taken to animadvert upon the fact that these strips of stamps issued by the treasury department were unknown to philatelists; seemingly none of the currency in question had been preserved. Since the paragraph was published, interest has not been lost in the subject and from one who has attended to it, we have received an item. He found a slip of paper about two by four inches in size among some documents that had lain undisturbed for many years in an old desk, on which the outlines of four five-cent stamps, as probably they were, could be discerned, with the corner of a fifth to the extent of several perforations. The paper was blank save for the stamp remnant and may have been one of the pieces described by Mr. Chittenden. We have tried to account for the disappearance of these treasury department stamp slips by assuming that they, as well as the stamps that were handled singly, soon became so dirty and dilapidated that it was necessary that they be redeemed almost at once. As stamps of five-cent denomination were used rather infrequently by the average citizen and as this value alone was employed by the treasury department in the first issue, according to the writer we have quoted, it was inexpedient to retain the stamps on the score that they would be in postal demand. The stamp slips lacking any form of permanency were all redeemed practically and so they have not descended to philatelic posterity as the encased stamps and engraved postage currency have. The stamps were redeemable in sums of not less than five dollars in United States notes.

* * *

Another Provisional—Last week, a few remarks were made on the twenty-cent, green Confederate split diagonally and used provisionally as a ten-cent stamp. An item in the New York Commercial of October 9th, 1861, showed that numismatists, as well as philately was enriched by a split provisional arising from an exigency of the civil war. It was read that the Citizens Bank of New Orleans is "circulating 'fives' cut in two, each piece to represent two and a half dollars."

* * *

Fair Words—Gibbons Stamp Weekly, in its number dated September 17th, says: "Comparisons are proverbially odious, and it would seem that some incautious person on this side of the Atlantic has been drawing comparisons between the Philatelic Literature of Great Britain and that of the United States in a fashion that is not entirely complimentary to the latter." In the course of remarks inspired by the criticisms, the editor of our esteemed contemporary says: "A stamp Newspaper like MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, has its uses from a social and personal point of view, and it also publishes from time to time philatelic articles, which we believe its readers are quite capable expressed by the writer that more stamp of appreciating," and then regret is journals of substance and merit are not produced in America. We are pleased with the comment of the discriminating editor of our London contemporary. For almost twenty years, we have been conducting a stamp newspaper and we should have some idea of the workings of such a publication. Frankly, all this prelude merely is to introduce the following letter from a gentleman in the accuracy of whose judgment we have implicit confidence. Says he: "As a rule, the English publications have an air of substantiality about them that is not belied by their contents. Well, what of it? In your paper, I have found a note or 'scrap' that was the essence of an article that could have been spread over a page or so—and I prefer the tabloid form. You give the best magazine features without impairing the newspaper ascendancy that it must be admitted that you enjoy." We cannot bring ourselves to quote further as we think that our friend is unduly grateful because we once published an item referring to postal subjects discussed in the South Carolina secession convention that for reasons had a decided interest for him.

* * *

Unties the Knot—A worried postmaster submits the following to an authority on post-office complications:

"A man comes to the stamp window and asks for 32 stamped envelopes, 25 postal cards, 7 one-cent stamps. I charge as per schedule:

25 stamped envelopes, 54c
7 stamped envelopes, 15c

25 postal cards, .25
7 one-cent stamps, .07

He figures that $1 is the correct price and computes thus—

8 stamped envelopes cost 17c, then 32 is 4 times 8, consequently 4 times 17,

25 postals, .25
7 one-cent stamps, .07

Which is the correct way to figure this example?"

The Solomon says: "Both ways are correct, but you had the right to charge as you did because it was according to the schedule."

* * *

Prize Winner—The Berne Philatelic Exhibition is accounted a huge success and among the medal winners is Charles Lathrop Pack of this country, who succeeded in obtaining two of the emblems of preferment. The display is described as one of the most striking ever made and much enthusiasm was shown in the wonderful aggregation of stamps by those present. King George and the Earl of Crawford were among the English exhibitors.

FORGED BR. SOLOMON ISLANDS.

We have received from the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. sets of the 1907 issue of British Solomon Islands. The forgeries are poorly executed and are being exploited by Maurice Pollin, a Belgian dealer. In his letter submitting these sets for consideration Pollin also quotes prices on Surinam, 1909 provisional issue, 5c carmine. Dealers should profit by this information kindly sent us by the Hussman Co.

GEORGE L. TOPPAN'S

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:

Regular Government Issues U. S. Envelopes
Carrier Stamps Confederate Provisionals

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2s" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1863 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plymtons is made as easy as rolling off a log. We don't sell this book—WE GIVE IT AWAY!

THE STAMP MARKET.

BY SENEX.

It is curious how different firms hit upon the same prices for used new issues. A London and a foreign firm quote prices simultaneously for used 30c, 50c and 1 peso Argentine, 1910, and they only differ in their estimate by about three-halfpence for the three stamps. How do they do it?

In a list to hand I see 2 francs pictorial Senegal, (price about 1sh), 100c Salvador 1907, 10d; 1 sol Peru 1909, 9d; 1dr Greek 1906, 6d.

The stamps of Colombia have been especially interesting of late years, and the new 1910 set seems an attractive series, and should be worth looking out for.

The proverb that "everything comes to him who waits" is exemplified in the Chilean surcharges of 1904, which, some six years after issue, seem to have now accumulated in quantity; the 12c on 5c is cheap just now in Manchester.

Of European Unpaid, exchange correspondents are likely to have the 25lep Greek, the current 10 and 30st Bulgaria, but it is difficult to get any Luxemburg dues.

It looks as if the 1c Canada, Quebec, has ceased to be a penny stamp in most foreign parts, and has gone slightly higher; maybe some of the higher values will follow suit; anyhow, a good price is asked for them, where quoted.

There is evidence that the new Austria Jubilees of 1910 are slowly accumulating; we may have some quotations to record presently.

The 25h Montenegro 1902, proves a satisfactory seller; in fact most clean used Montenegro seem to find a ready sale, but the stamps are seldom cheap. They are worth putting on one's inquiry list.

It would be interesting to know what is the status and value of the current Philippine stamps surcharged "O.B." I have got some in a mixed thousand lot; the "O.B." is apparently a rubber stamp mark (?), of various sizes and thickness of type, red or purple, chiefly horizontal but occasionally slantwise, and in one instance it is a black, printed surcharge. Copies vary a good deal as to condition, and when a fine specimen is found it is a problem to fix on a price for it. Does any reader know what is a fair price for the 2c, 4c and 10c values with this overprint?

Perhaps the 6c value of the above Philippine Services is not an uncommon stamp, since in one quarter it is offered in some quantity, but the 8c and 12c are probably much scarcer.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

THE 3c 1899 CUBA RE-ENGRAVED.

On the first or regular issue the double lines on left side of stamp (next to flaming torch) are broken at end of foliate ornament. On the re-engraved a black line has been added so that a small white spot to left of double lines is isolated. This is directly over the left-hand shield with numeral 3. On the first issue this white dot is connected with stem which runs vertically from shield.

Reference has been made in the WEEKLY to a discovery in connection with the 3c 1899 Cuba, that would add this value to the list of the re-engraved 1, 2, 5 and 10c values that appeared in 1905-7. Roessler's Stamp News in its current issue prints the following acknowledging its indebtedness to Mr. Morris for information above given:—

"A recent paragraph in this paper advertised the Cuban re-engraved set, adding that the 3c was not re-engraved but was included in the set to properly balance the album page. Mr. Morris wrote us that he had a copy of the 3c with the secret marks. We asked several of the most experienced dealers in this city and all were positive that they had never seen any but the first issue 3c. All added that if the stamp had been given a secret mark it would have been chronicled months ago. This latter statement usually clinched the argument in the minds of the experts.

Before placing the discovery in our columns we thoroughly investigated the matter and the fact that we publish it is evidence of our belief that the stamp was re-engraved and placed in circulation.

One of the paths in our investigation lead to the Bureau. Mr. J. E. Ralph, the director, graciously replied in part as follows:—

"I beg to state that the 3c Cuban postage stamp was given secret marks and the die was delivered to the Cuban government."

Many students of stamps have written us giving what was believed to be the secret marks. In fact, so many wrote that they were sure they had it that we believed it was commoner than the regular issue. Apparently they overlooked the following facts which readily distinguish the two issues.

1—On the re-engraved the paper is unwatermarked. The regular issue is on paper watermarked U. S.—C.

2—The paper of the re-engraved is very white. First issue yellowish tinge.

3—The two issues are printed in distinct shades. First, dark; second, light.

4—The perforations of the re-engraved set are spaced 1 mm. wider than the Bureau specimens.

These four points in addition to the secret marks should make the difference easily distinguishable. If your re-engraved 3c Cuba stands the test you have a rare stamp."

THE DETROIT CONVENTION.

Editor Paul Mason of the Stamp Collector wields a trenchant pen. One who has followed him during the past months will not accuse him of favoritism towards the WEEKLY, indeed, he has lost no opportunity of letting the editors of the WEEKLY feel the power of his criticism and the sting of his sarcasm. With this introduction, we reprint the following editorial from his pen, dealing with the convention at Detroit:—

"The net result of the A. P. S. Convention at Detroit, apart from an exceedingly good time, seems to be capable of summarizing as follows: The discovery that an antiquated system, or lack of system, makes impossible the proper administration of the secretary's office; the equally important discovery that the Society has been living beyond its means; a public admission that the stock fund is a liability and not an asset, and (infrequently) that it must be conserved against the day of the only legitimate demand which may be made against it; decisions to expand the work of the Educational Committee and to leave largely in the hands of the Chicago members plans for the celebration of the Society's silver jubilee, next year; the voting of the official organ-ship to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and, by a viva voce vote, the withholding of the legitimate advantages of that organ-ship by extending its privileges to any and all other weekly stamp papers in this country.

At present, we will comment briefly only on the last of these accomplishments. We were, frankly and above board, not in favor of MEKEEL'S for official organ, but in view of the confusion into which affairs had been plunged by the ruling of the Post-office Department, urged an equitable agreement whereby, until the Society can publish its own journal, both MEKEEL'S and Redfield's would publish the official records of the organization, and reap such advantage as they might therefrom. This could have been arranged without being unfair to either—or to the Society. But we submit that to elect MEKEEL'S as official organ, and then, and not until then and thereafter to throw down the bars to Redfield's and The Philadelphia Stamp News was to rob the WEEKLY of a legitimate advantage already voted, and to a man up a tree looks much like adding insult to injury."

From Mr. Mason's editorial, and what is seen in other pages of the Stamp Collector, we fear the "exceedingly good time" would not stand a close examination so far as discovering much of a real philatelic flavor. The two financial conclusions were patent to the writer two years ago at Columbus and the Society would now be spared the humiliation of obligations unpaid had several prominent leaders in that convention followed their sober judgment instead of being stampeded by the popular cry for a thing beyond its means.

We are aware that during these years, the Society paid the WEEKLY 35 cents for a subscription for each of its members, but during this time, we have rendered a dollar's worth of service for every dollar paid us. No money was ever invested by the society with better results. If this expenditure was beyond the Society's means, it, too, should have been curtailed but the record shows that the legislation of the past two years is responsible for the present financial shortage.

Editor Nast in the Stamp Journal gives a summary of membership statistics, interesting because it shows how it prospered during our terms as official journal. These are the figures:—

1905, 674 1907, 1,175 1909, 1,757
1906, 826 1908, 1,514 1910, 1,733

The great progress was made possible because we gave unstinted space and energy to an exploitation of society affairs. For two years, the managing editor of the WEEKLY was chairman of the A. P. S. Recruiting Com. the two years when a gain in membership of 582 was recorded. We used our mailing list as a feeding ground for recruiting purposes and what was our reward? As a result of this recruiting work, we were reprimanded by the Board of Vice Presidents, the good work ignored by the convention and now at Detroit, we find ourselves knocked down by the Resolutions Committee and later kicked out into the street by the convention. As Editor Mason says, it "looks much like adding insult to injury."

If the proxy vote in favor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY meant anything, it meant that this paper was to be the official journal. It did not mean that two or three other papers were to be co-equally official journals. A resolution reported by the Resolutions Committee and adopted by a convention is thus permitted to nullify a proxy vote of the entire membership. The statutes call for an official organ, not a half dozen, and if a half dozen is wanted, the laws should be amended accordingly. Under the circumstances, we feel that the Society has, by its own action, abrogated the relationship that has existed in previous years and rendered us a poor return for the effort we have put forth in behalf of the Society.

—According to Gibbons Weekly Mr. Batchelder of the New England Stamp Co. sold the Gibbons firm $6500 worth of stamps out of the Paul collection.

WILHELMINA DISSATISFIED.

(R. H. Lindman sends us a clipping from the Chicago Tribune, the purport of which is that Queen Wilhelmina has a grievance in connection with her picture on the Netherlands stamps. We do not know how much truth there is in the story. Newspaper correspondents must write about something and this article may be only a space-filler.—E.D.)

Queen Wilhelmina is once more at odds with the postmaster general of the Netherlands, and, as usual, her differences with him are owing to her disapproval of the manner in which her features are represented on the postage stamps. Mynheer Pop, for that is the name of the dignitary in question, must have been prepared for the trouble. For the postmaster general's job is no easy one whenever the sovereign happens to be a queen or empress regnant, instead of a king or emperor. Feminine rulers never are satisfied with the ways in which they are portrayed on the stamps and coins of their realm. When Queen Wilhelmina was but 12 years old she expressed her serious displeasure to the postmaster general of the day for representing her as too young and foolish; and now she is angry because she thinks that the stamps give her an appearance of undue age.

When she assumed the reins of government she was offended because her face was pictured as too fat and chubby, and later on, after a few years of marriage, she again took the postmaster general to task because the stamps showed her as wan and thin. She frequently changes the fashion of wearing her hair, and the postmaster general has to keep track of this in connection with the stamps. The late Queen Victoria, though not quite as difficult to satisfy as Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, nevertheless gave a good deal of worry to her ministers about her effigy on the stamps, and Isabella of Spain is on record as having failed to show her well known good nature and sunny temper in her dealings about this matter with her various postmasters general, from the time when she attained her majority, in 1844, until her abdication, in 1868.

UNITED STATES.—Charles K. B. Nevin reports having seen the following varieties of 1907 envelopes not listed in his article of June 4th, 1910:

1c envelope, Die A, manila, size 6, request, gummed; from K. P. Smith.

2c, Die A2, carmine, amber, size 4, request; from E. F. Coffin.

2c Die A2, carmine, white, size 9, request; from A. B. Slater.

AUSTRIA.—According to the Postage Stamp, the Vienna correspondent of a well-known English firm writes that "on August 18, before the head post office was opened, the street was blocked with a crowd of about 10,000 people waiting to buy the stamps. Two hours after the postoffice was opened the entire stock was sold out, and no more are to be issued; on the same day the stamps were selling amongst dealers in Vienna at 50 per cent over face value.

In addition to the stamps sold at the Vienna Post Office, there were also small supplies sent to the chief towns in Austria, but none of these received more than 100 sets, so that it is practically certain none of these are obtainable at any Austrian Post Office now except the 5, 10 and 25 heller values, the only ones which were sold separately."

COLOMBIA.—In No. 1021 we noted that the current 1c stamp had been seen without imprint of the printer at the bottom. We have now been shown this stamp on a cover by Frank C. Davis, and find that it is a new printing entirely. The design is slightly larger each way, but the printing is inferior, being rough and blurred, though the outer line is much more sharply defined than in the earlier printing.

Mr. Davis has also shown us covers bearing the 1c with "Arango", etc., close to design, imperforate on four sides.

MEXICO.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us unused copies of the new series of stamps from 1c to 20c inclusive. We find that our previous chronicle was correct, except that the 1c, 3c and 15c are not in the same shades as the old set. The 1c is more of a violet, the 3c is yellow brown instead of brown orange, and the 15c is dull blue instead of lavender. The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. has shown us used copies of the 1c and 2c values.

NEW HEBRIDES.—A new set of stamps is shortly to be issued for the Islands. According to Ewen's Weekly, the change consists in the omission of the bar across the word "Fiji".

NICARAGUA.—Frank C. Davis has shown us a cover with three copies of the provisional 10c on 15c slate, chronicled in No. 1029. Mr. Davis also shows us a cover, which in addition to a copy of the regular 15c slate, American print, has three 5c stamps, which appear to have been produced by lithographic transfer, though bearing the imprint of the American Bank Note Co., N. Y., at the bottom. The printing is muddy, and very much darker than the regular issue. The three copies are either imperforate or have been trimmed so as to appear so, though as all are separate copies and trimmed close, it is impossible to be sure. All are likewise surcharged with a large "B" in black. The cover was mailed at Bluefields, Sept. 10, 1910.

Hermann Focke sends us a full sheet of 25 stamps of the recent Bluefields provisional, chronicled in No. 1027, and calls our attention to the following varieties:

The surcharge "Dpto. Zelaya" is in three distinct sizes of type—very small in the third and fourth rows, medium size in the first and second rows, and tall in the fifth row.

The surcharge "B" is heavy and tallest in the first and second rows, thin and tall in the third and fourth rows, and short and heavy in the fifth row.

On No. 15, the surcharge reads "elaya" for "Zelaya".

On No. 20, the "Z" of "Zelaya" is much larger than the others in the same row.

The word "Centavos" is fairly even all over the sheet, and without misprints.

PHILIPPINES.—Theodore Siddall sends us the 2c stamp in the new shade, being now yellow green instead of green. The paper also appears to have a yellowish shade.

Adhesive.

2c yellow green.

ST. VINCENT.—Ewen's Weekly reports that the $\frac{1}{2}$ d value has now been printed in the altered design.

SWITZERLAND.—Ewen's Weekly reports that the new series of postage due stamps, chronicled in No. 1030 includes the 2c and 15c values also.

SIAM.—We have received the following interesting and important contribution from Fred G. de Jesus of Bangkok, Siam:

"I read in the New Issues column of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS of May 28, a paragraph copied from Der Philatelist giving the quantities of Siam stamps surcharged with new values in satangs, from which I noticed two values quite unknown to me; i. e., 3s on 2a dark green (1908) and 12s on 12a blue (1906). I showed this to Mr. Flores, Vice-Consul for Portugal, an active stamp collector, who immediately communicated with the Acting Director General of Posts and Telegraphs for verification. I now have Mr. Flores' permission to forward you for publication the enclosed copy of reply received from the Post Office Department, from which you will see that the stamps in question have not been printed for the government; probably for some dishonest speculators in stamps."

[Copy.]

Post & Telegraph Department.

BANGKOK, 29th July 1910.

Sir:—With reference to your letter of the 9th instant I have the honour to return enclosed herewith your list of the stamps surcharged in satang currency and on which I have corrected the number of stamps quoted by you. The two values, 3 satangs on 2 atts green, and 12 satangs on 12 atts blue, have not been printed.

I have the honour to be, sir,
Your obedient servant,
(sd) G. WOLF
for Ag. Director General of Posts & Telegraphs.
M. Luiz Carlos Manoel de Mello Flores,
Vice-Consul of Portugal, Bangkok.

Der Philatelist gave the quantities recently surcharged with new values in satangs, as printed in the first column. The figures printed in the second column are those corrected by the Post & Telegraph Department and the two values which do not exist are marked with a star.

TAKE WITH A GRAIN OF SALT.

Many men in the course of the different hobby periods of their youth were struck with the stamp craze. Nearly all will recall the days that were spent in scouring the neighborhood for new varieties, the hours of pasting and counting, as well as many other tasks they somehow imagined themselves duty bound to perform.

This fact that nearly all men at some time in their life were stamp collectors is said to account for the popularity of the official stamp collection of the United States Post Office Department maintained in connection with the postal museum in Washington. Post Office Department officials say 100,000 men call every year to see the museum stamp collection.

The Post Office Department museum is not by any means a new institution, but many notable additions have been made to it in the last year. Consequently it is now quite full of interesting objects. It contains almost everything from a lock of Charles Guiteau's hair to models of the big battleships of the navy, but by far its most interesting feature, according to the officials in charge, is the stamp collection. Few visitors miss that sight and many "hobbyists" spend hours poring over it.

Uncle Sam as a stamp collector is a most signal success. He not only has a complete set of his own stamps but a complete collection from every other stamp issuing country in the civilized world as well. His collection is valued by the Department at $200,000, but stamp dealers say it would demand a figure many times that sum if placed on the open market for sale.

The fact that Uncle Sam's stamp collection is absolutely complete is a statement difficult to comprehend, even to those who have been collectors themselves. Most of those who were collectors in years gone by will remember how many empty places there were in their albums when they gloried in the possession of 1,500 and 2,000 specimens. They will recall how many new varieties above the 2,000 mark cost from $5 to $50 each, also the small fortunes placed on some of the specially rare specimens, the kind which the dealers' catalogues related had only been printed to the number of 100 or so and but six or seven were known to be in existence.

Well, Uncle Sam's stamp collection possesses all of these, besides the thousands of common kinds. Although it has taken hard work, many years and a tidy fortune to do it the collection today stands absolutely complete. The only varieties yet to be added are those yet to be issued.—Baltimore American.

"ODIOUS COMPARISONS."

The editor of Gibbons Weekly has a few words to say in connection with the philatelic literature of Great Britain and the United States, and his observations seem so sensible that we venture to reprint the same.

It will be remembered that the Philatelic Record a few months since published an editorial screed in which MEKEEL'S WEEKLY was taken strongly to task for not catering to the more advanced philatelist. The WEEKLY was given a black eye and American philatelic journalism consigned to the scrap heap.

Mr. Phillips appreciates the mission of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and ascribes a proper place in philatelic literature to the philatelic newspaper. We lament equally with Mr. Phillips the failure of the U. S. to produce a monthly magazine that shall meet the wishes of our friends across the Atlantic. We have faith to believe that such a publication will ultimately appear. Perhaps Mr. Bartels' Philatelic Gazette may be the magazine. Then we have the Stamp Journal and the Stamp Collector and both of these magazines could readily be made to fit the needs of the hour.

By the way, speaking of the Philatelic Record,—have you seen the last number? It reminds me of a story. Pat had just returned from the war in which he had seen hard service and had lost a great deal of flesh. Upon his return home he chanced to meet a friend upon the street who remarked, "Pat, I'm glad to see you're back from the front," to which Pat replied, "Begorra, I knew I was thin, but I didn't think I was so thin as all that."

But here is the article referred to:—"Comparisons are proverbially odious, and it would seem that some incautious person on this side of the Atlantic has been drawing comparisons between the philatelic literature of Great Britain and that of the United States in a fashion that is not entirely complimentary to the latter.

Good people are fond of telling us that we get just what we deserve in these matters, and we are glad to see that an exponent of stamp collecting over there is able to assure us that the stamp journals of the United States are exactly what the stamp collectors of that country desire. What they require is a stamp newspaper, not a philatelic magazine, and accordingly the newspaper flourishes and the magazine languishes.

No one, of course, will find fault with a newspaper because its contents are of a different nature from those of a scientific magazine. We should not dream, for instance, of comparing the New York Herald with the proceedings of an archaeological society, to the prejudice of either the one or the other. But stamp collecting, or philately, is supposed to be a more or less scientific hobby, and we expect its nature to be reflected to some extent in its literature. A stamp newspaper, like MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, has its uses from a social and personal point of view, and it also publishes from time to time philatelic articles which we believe its readers are quite capable of appreciating; but we greatly regret that the United States does not produce more journals of the nature of the defunct American Journal of Philately or the resuscitated Philatelic Journal of America.

A Recent Purchase.

A Collection of COLONIAL and Other Stamps, containing a large number of rare and out of the way specimens.

Among a few of the better items may be enumerated:

GREAT BRITAIN, I. R. OFFICIAL, 5sh King's Head and 20sh brown of 1884, both mint; the V. R. fine used copy.

CANADA. A very fine lot, including a superb specimen of the 12d intense black, unused and used.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE, used and unused, including a very fine copy of the 1d blue error.

MAURITIUS. Several copies of the Post Paid in early state.

NEW SOUTH WALES. A fine lot of Sydney Views, etc., etc.

As well as many other rare and standard stamps, etc., etc.

LISTS OF WANTS Carefully Filled.

Selections from the above sent on application.

Important Announcement.

Regarding My Monthly Circular

Holding as I do one of the finest stocks of Colonial extant, and having made very large purchases of recent years, I have been frequently asked by my customers to issue a priced catalogue, and I propose therefore to include in my Monthly Circular, a priced list of Colonials.

This will not at the present take the form of a complete or exhaustive catalogue of Colonials, but will merely consist of a list with prices attached of the unused and used Colonials at present in stock.

The quotations will be most carefully considered, and the prices will be found consistent with fine condition, to be most moderate.

No stamps will be priced that I have not actually got on sale at the figures quoted.

The first instalment of the list will appear with the October number, published on the 26th of that month.

The Circular, enlarged as above, will be sent gratis and post free regularly to any applicant.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Toledo Stamp Co. desires the address of F. H. Gilbert, formerly of Sacramento, Cal.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Max A. 'Lesser (2), R. H. Lindman, Henry V. Blackburn, H. A. Wahlborg, Mrs. Helen R. Southworth, C. M. Breder, James F. Johnson, Marcel E. Taller, C. E. Thomas and V. Mozian.

—The Philatelic Gazette has made its bow and the new candidate for philatelic favor will no doubt receive a hearty welcome. The new paper has been freely advertised in the WEEKLY during the past month and we can frankly say that its publishers have lived up to their promises in providing us with a clean, newsy, and handsomely printed magazine, well worthy of hearty support.

—Our thanks are extended Mr. Kjellstedt for souvenir post card and list of awards from the Berne Stamp Exhibition.

STAMP COLLECTING AGAIN IN VOGUE.

We published a clipping last week under the above heading that should have been more carefully edited. At the end of the third paragraph will be found the sentence, "There it stops," and this would have been a good stopping place for us in view of the character of the remaining paragraph. It will be news to our readers to learn that "all stamps really worth collecting have been printed from a wooden 'sheet', a sheet being a piece of wood upon which the engraver has carved out a compact square of twelve or more impressions."

CHICAGO BRANCH No. 1.

(The following is a model Branch report. Will secretaries please accept the suggestion that these reports be boiled down as much as possible? We desire to publish the news and not mere incidentals that are not of general interest.—Ed.)

The 289th regular meeting of the above Branch was held on the evening of September 7th with eleven members and one visitor present. The report of the Branch delegate to the Detroit Convention was rendered; and, with thanks to the retiring President, Mr. Whittaker, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, E. M. Rosenthal; Vice President, Arild Dahl; Secretary-Treasurer, Hugh M. Clark. The entertainment of the evening consisted of remarks by President-elect Rosenthal on the 25th anniversary Committee's suggestions for the 1911 Convention, and by an exhibit of the work of the Educational Committee of the parent Society during the past year, with an outline of what is proposed for the present year's campaign. It was proposed that the exhibit be sent to the various philatelic centers throughout the country. $5.00 was voted for the use of the Educational Committee.—HUGH M. CLARK, Sec.

ABOUT U. S. REVENUES.

By JOHN W. PREVOST.

Note.—Our subscribers are invited to send in any items of interest in connection with U. S. revenue stamps of any kind. Specimens submitted for consideration will be gladly examined, and will be returned by next mail. Address, John W. Prevost, 963 Sumner Ave., Springfield, Mass.

Since my last notes appeared, there has been published by the U. S. Revenue Society, a book entitled "United States State Revenue Stamps." Mr. Bartlett, the author, has described and listed these interesting stamps in a thorough and exhaustive manner, and certainly nothing remains to be said on the subject up to the time of its publication. However, this book is to be obtained only by members of the U. S. R. S. The writer feels that the following items will be news to a large number of the WEEKLY's readers.

Lock Seals.—At the present writing, all of the serial letters from A to V have been seen except I, J, O and Q. According to a letter from the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, written to W. W. Norton, these letters have not been used on seals, at least not for the last two series.

E. R. Vanderhoof reports the discovery of an unlisted lock seal.

Black seal, green numbers, serial letter B before the number.

While on the subject of lock seals, may permission be had from those U. S. Revenue fiends to side step just long enough to describe two beautiful lock seals, which recently came into the possession of the writer? They are from Canada and very little information came with them. The first one is printed in red on white wove paper, and measures $7\frac{3}{4} \times 1\frac{1}{2}$ inches. At the left is a rectangular frame, with engine turned background and fancy ornaments at the corners, size $4\frac{3}{4} \times 1\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Across the background in colorless letters $\frac{1}{2}$ inch high is the word "EXCISE". Above this, in shaded letters $\frac{3}{4}$ inches high, is the word "SEAL-LABLE". At the right are two circular medallions with crenated borders, with engine turned ground, enclosing two beautiful portraits of Queen Victoria, $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches high. Above the head of Victoria is a serial number in blue.

The second label is slightly larger, measuring $7\frac{1}{2} \times 1\frac{1}{4}$ in. It is printed in blue. The wording in the rectangular frame reads "LOCK-LABLE" instead of "SEAL-LABLE". The frame around the head of Victoria is rectangular, with circular bottom, all with crenated edges. The serial number is in red, above the head of the Queen.

Nothing is known about the date of issue, but the blue seal has been seen used, and is believed to be current now.

From E. R. Vanderhoof comes a copy of the 5 lb. tobacco stamp, series of 1902, on which the serial number is entirely missing. This, in the opinion of several of the "cranks" is an error, as it leaves no way for the revenue collector to control the issue of that particular stamp.

In a book of revenue stamps, received from abroad, was found a poor specimen of the 25 cigar stamp, series of 1878, on that peculiar silk paper, in which the silk threads are massed in a bunch, none appearing in any other part of the paper. Until this copy was found, it was not known that this paper was used for any stamp except the 2 oz. tobacco stamp of 1878. Discoverer, J. D. Bartlett.

While in Boston lately, W. C. Stone found some cigarettes, stamped with the 20 cigarette stamp, tax 54c, surcharged in rubber stamp "P. I." (Philippine Islands). Later from New York, the same stamp was received, rubber stamped "P. I." in a different type, also with "PHILIPPINES" in full across the bottom of the stamp.

Collectors will do well to look at all packages from Porto Rico and the Philippines. New varieties are to be found at most any time on these goods.

In the Revenue Notes in No. 1004 of the WEEKLY, mention was made of the appearance of the $\frac{1}{4}$ bbl. beer stamp, series of 1909. Since then the $\frac{1}{2}$ and 1 bbl. stamps have been seen. These are similar to the $\frac{1}{4}$ bbl. and are printed in black on blue.

But from New York the writer received a copy of the $\frac{1}{4}$ bbl. stamp, which made him look up. The stamp was printed in green on blue, but still inscribed "SERIES

Valuable Information for Collectors

The proper way of completing your collection is by using our "want list system." This method is far superior than hunting over hundreds of approval selections and picking off everything that comes along.

Why not make up a "want list" of those odds and ends that you need to fill up your sets, even if the cheaper grade, and send it to us and you will receive them neatly mounted, and each stamp priced separately. We try and allow 50% discount whenever possible, and we only send out stamps in fine condition.

Send for our price and check list. It's free. Also ask for some of our printed want list forms.

compiled. Another thing which should recommend them to collectors is that new and often unnecessary issues need never disturb their equilibrium. Having endeavored to the best of my ability to prove the collectability of these stamps, and to prove their just title to a place in the collection of all English specialists, I will now endeavour to group the various places where they were used, together with a short account of the periods during which they were current. A complete list giving the various offices would here occupy too much space. British stamps used abroad can be roughly divided into five groups, viz:—

(1) THE BRITISH POSSESSIONS IN EUROPE AND THE LEVANT.

Malta and Gibraltar used British stamps from the end of 1857 till 1884. Cyprus on its inclusion in the British Empire in 1878 till the stamps were machine surcharged in 1880. Constantinople from 1857, and continues to do so, but in 1885 certain values were surcharged in local currency, Smyrna and Beyrout from 1873 till 1884, when they and Stamboul began to use the same stamps as Constantinople. As however in all these Post Offices in the Levant any kind of English stamp was available for postage, it is possible to meet stamps of a later issue than 1884 (unsurcharged) used in these places, although they are not I believe sold at the Post Offices. Alexandria and Suez ran from 1860 to 1877.

(2) THE BRITISH WEST INDIES.

The issue in these Post Offices began early in 1858 and continued to 1860. Before 1858 all letters were prepaid in cash, and after the issue of British stamps ceased in 1860 all Colonies that had not by then an issue of their own for some unknown reason reverted to their antiquated method again.

(3) THE SOUTH AMERICAN REPUBLICS AND SPANISH AND DANISH WEST INDIES.

St. Thomas being in those days the most convenient and Central Port for Central and South America, was the first to use British stamps in 1860, and as the rarity of these stamps depends not so much on the number printed as the number used, they are together with Malta, Gibraltar and Constantinople (all of which places had a big correspondence) comparatively the commonest. Two years later, 1862, Buenos Ayres, Montevideo and Valparaiso and other important towns both on the East and West Coast of South America, together with Panama on the Isthmus were added to the list followed as necessity arose in 1863, 1865, and so on up to 1873. Their use ceased on the various countries in which these ports were situated, joining the Postal Union at dates varying from 1877 to 1882. The postal rates in those days were appalling compared with the present day tariff, ranging from 1sh to 2sh 6d per ½oz, hence we have the seeming anomaly of the 1d stamp being infinitely rarer than the 1sh and 2sh issue, the last two values together with the 6d and 4d being in nearly every instance the commonest of all.

(4) BRITISH NAVAL STATIONS.

These principally consist of the Pacific and China Stations, the North American Station and Sidney, N. S. W., but as the correspondence from these offices consisted mainly of sailors letters, very little is known about them, and they are very rare indeed. The Post Offices were established in 1858 and closed somewhere about 1865.

(5) This group consists of the stamps used in the British Army in their campaigns in 1854 Crimea, 1885 Egypt and 1899 B. S. Africa.

STAMP ASSISTANTS WANTED

We desire to add to our office force two young men of good appearance and education. Some one with a knowledge of auction work especially desired. We are also in need of an expert to take charge of our approval and mail order business and shall be pleased to hear from all those desiring a position in Philadelphia and having the requisite requirements. We can offer excellent opportunities for advancement, and will pay good salaries to young men capable of doing the work. Write first, stating age, education, experience and knowledge of stamps.

PHILADELPHIA STAMP COMPANY,

PERCIVAL FARRISH, PRESIDENT,

1204 CHESTNUT STREET,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

It certainly adds a zest to one's pleasure in collecting to find that surcharges such as were deemed necessary for the "C. E. F." and Somaliland campaigns do not enter into the field of British stamps used abroad.

The first three places abroad to use British stamps were Malta, Gibraltar and Constantinople, and for these places postmarks were issued showing the initial "M" for Malta, "G" for Gibraltar and "C" for Constantinople. When however, in 1860, the number of offices was increased, it would appear from the postmarks that the authorities decided to have a distinctive mark, consisting of a letter and number in combination for use in the Colonies, and a start was made with A01. The initials of M and G gave way to No. A25 and A26. C, however, was retained till 1885, when a circular date stamp came in use. The original intention does not however seem to have been long adhered to, because after fifteen numbers had been allotted to the West Indies, A16 and A17 were given to Post Offices in Great Britain, and it is pretty evident that the numbers were used in rotation indiscriminately as the offices were opened, either at home or abroad. Thus there is no hard and fast rule by which a novice can tell the "used abroad" stamp. It is a matter of study and research. The fact that the postmark consists of a letter and a number is no guide. For instance, C51 is St. Thomas, while C50 is Sale, in Cheshire. Then again, some places abroad used just plain numbers in the customary bar cancellation, and we have 942 Cyprus, 466 Liverpool. Round date stamps were also used in conjunction with these hand stamps and the shape and sizes vary as they did at the same period in England.

The following is a list of the postmarks employed in the Colonies and abroad:—

247	Fernando Poo (since 1875).
582	Noguabo, Porto Rico (since 1874).

EDITORIAL.

Exploiting Philately.—The newspapers have been giving the philatelic exhibition at Berne an amount of space which, if it is in consonance with the importance that they attach to philately, shows that the pursuit has grown into an impressive one in their eyes. Many columns of space have been given in the aggregate to news of the successful exhibition. In one of our great dailies, we noticed that a special correspondent sent a letter from Berne on the subject of the exhibition and strange to say, it tallied in its statements so nicely with the London Chronicle's account that the WEEKLY reproduced two issues ago that the suspicious man would suspect that the aforesaid special correspondent consulted the London article rather than the display at Berne for his information. The newspapers have been telling, too, of the new violet two pence Great Britain which was about ready for issue at the time of King Edward's death and which, as collectors know, is not now to be sold to the public. One paper under the head, "Scarcest Postage Stamp," gives an account which ends with the words: "It was not placed on sale and the postmaster general has decided to destroy the entire stock, with the exception of a few specimens for King George's album, the British Museum and the postoffice museum at St. Martin's-le-Grand."

* * *

An Aside.—A reader says that a "philatelic side line" society has been organized and that he cannot understand how any collector cares to bother with these poor excuses for stamps when the real thing is available. He writes: "I respectfully suggest that you speak a few plain words on this folly." We do not agree with our correspondent who sees no justification for collecting side lines as we know that the interest in stamps does not always follow the main channel but breaks off for a detour here and there. Even though we thought side lines wholly indefensible, we should not rail at them as we do not care to quarrel with human nature. We believe that side lines have a defined place in the economy of philately and that their existence is a tribute to the strength of attraction of the stamp itself. The side show does not detract from the circus but instead it emphasizes the superiority of the main attraction. Further, a side line sometimes illustrates historical points in connection with stamps; the advertisement may be said to furnish commentary reading to the real study which is of stamps, pure and unadulterated.

* * *

An Old Book.—A book that the philatelist will find interesting is "Ocean Steam Navigation and the Ocean Post," pp. 224. By Thomas Rainey; published, 1858, by Appleton, New York. In the appendix is a valuable list of ocean steam lines and a history of the British ocean mail system,—"a system which has had the fostering care of England's far-seeing statesmen and of England's heavy purse; a system which is one of the 'open secrets' of England's overshadowing greatness as a commercial and maritime power." The routes of the different lines of mail carrying steamers provide an engaging subject for contemplation and the philatelist will recognize lines of familiar name to him.

As it Goes.—We find on a page of a trade paper that a correspondent sent us, a photograph of a letter from Egypt bearing two of that country's stamps and the one, two and five cent U. S. postage due stamps. The law is violated by these illustrations of U. S. Stamps but in all probability the publisher did not know of the existence of the statute. If the cut is seen by the governmental censor, the publisher will be warned against a repetition of the offense and he will promise dutifully to be good hereafter. We have heard of entire editions of publications that were confiscated for picturing U. S. stamps but these cases always were settled amicably, we believe, or at least without visiting undue hardship on the publishers. The stamp paper can have no excuse for illustrating a U. S. stamp and so, it is very regretful for the law. However, the law against showing U. S. stamps in picture is becoming more strictly observed as time proceeds and the breach will soon almost be unknown.

enforcing the law against the reproduction or illustrating of United States stamps. Some time ago, he received a letter from a friend with artistic leanings and who delighted to embellish with his pen and ink drawings whatever was suitable for the purpose in his estimation. He sent a letter to the correspondent who tells the story and on the envelope besides the regular stamp was a fantastic reproduction in pen and ink of the specimen. "U. S. Postage" had its place on the burlesque drawing and this legend made the production unlawful, a fact that attention was called to when the letter was delivered to the addressee in an official envelope; he was warned to notify his correspondent that he should not again commit the offense of presenting in similitude a stamp issued by the government. The authorities do not encourage art when their "postal certificates" furnish the theme.

* * *

An Old Fashion.—In days of old it was a favorite recreation for those who were given to designing to ornament their letters with pictures of stamps usually conveyed with fantastic effect; and editors in particular received such souvenirs from contributors. Sometimes, these creations were reproduced; for example, in the Knickerbocker or New York Magazine, a very worthy literary periodical of the day, a letter addressed to L. Gaylord Clark, the editor, is shown May, 1858, and on the humorously designed envelope is a good "copy" of the three-cent U. S., issue of 1855-60. Again, in the same magazine for June, 1858, there is a similarly illustrated envelope pictured, with a drawing of the three-cent stamp then current. A side line collection of old cuts of United States stamps that appeared in non-philatelic print and all labelled as to their origin would have a meaning of its own that the collector would be quick to appreciate.

* * *

Founded on Fact.—In our issue of September 17th, under the head, "A Reported Find," a clipping giving the details of the discovery of a number of five cent New Yorks, and five and ten cent stamps of 1847 appeared but because of a mistake in one of its statements, suspicion was cast upon authenticity of the item. However, the find was made and Mr. Wolsieffer of Chicago was the dealer to whom the stamps were sold; and he in turn advertised them in the WEEKLY recently.

P'raps.—A Washington correspondent writes to say that although there has been no official intimation to that effect he has some reason to believe that a change in the colors of some of the higher values of the current set of U. S. will be made. Whether this supposition is based on the second annual protest of the postal clerks in convention recently or additional information is not divulged.

NEW REPLY POSTAL CARDS.

Quotation from official circular:—

"OFFICE OF THIRD ASST. P. M. GEN., WASHINGTON, Sept. 24, 1910.

Notice is hereby given of the issuance of a new 1-cent domestic reply postal card, designated No. 6, to replace the 'D' card. It is described as follows:

The size of the double card, unfolded, is 6½ by 5½ inches, or 3¼ by 5½ inches for each half. The paper is of bluish tint, and the design is printed in bronze-blue ink. A profile portrait of General Washington looking to the left is used as the subject of the stamp on the message card, and a portrait of Mrs. Washington is the subject of the reply half, both having solid backgrounds. A circular border carries in, capital letters above the subject the words 'U. S. Postal Card' and below the subject 'One Cent.' Under the border is a ribbon bearing the names 'Washington' on the message card and 'Martha Washington' on the reply half, in small capitals. A branch of laurel extends from either end of the ribbon outside the border to a point above the numeral '1' which appears within a circle breaking the border on either side of the subject. To the left of the stamp in a single line of plain Gothic capitals is the inscription, 'This side of card is for address only,' within a panel of parallel lines, the inner line being heavier than the outer one. Above this inscription on the reply half are the words 'Reply Card' in large capital letters within a panel having a solid background. The two halves of the card are separated by a perforated line.

The new No. 6 postal card will be issued in sheets of 24 when desired in that form for printing purposes. The sheets will be 4 cards wide by 6 long, and will be packed in cases containing 6000 cards each. Requisitions should be drawn for that quantity or multiples thereof, the word 'Sheets' to be plainly written on Form 3201 opposite the item. Purchasers of cards in sheets should be advised that to be valid for postage they must be cut to regulation size."

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

We have received ample evidence that a new and moving force has proved itself in the field of philatelic publishing and Chicago now makes a contribution to the special line of endeavor that reflects much credit upon it. The United Stamp Company of Chicago has made a most pretentious addition to the division of blank albums with movable leaves; and the Marquette Album, the firm's production, marks the highest level in stamp book building, it seems to us. We have observed the rise of the loose-leaf ledger system and the first application of its principle to stamp albums. About 1890 or so, we had a stamp album made with loose leaves held in place by interlocking standards or pins; the binder was unlocked by key. From that time to the present, improvements in the loose leaf albums have been marked by enterprising publishers until now it appears that the acme of excellence and practicability has been reached in the newest aspirant for favor. From the handsome pamphlet that accompanied the two albums sent to us for review, we learn that among the claims for preference are the following: "The characteristic features of the Marquette Binder Album construction are the divided back, curved prongs and thumb catch. The sheets are held firmly in place by four arched prongs which engage four corresponding holes in the sheet. By lightly pressing the thumb catches, the divided back is opened, thus admitting of the instant insertion or removal of a single leaf from any part of the book without disturbing any of the other leaves. When the album is closed the catch locks automatically, holding the leaves securely and in good alignment." This description by the publishers is singularly clear and it tells succinctly, as well as text can, what are the salient advantages of the binder.

Simplicity of mechanism and facility of action are the strongest requirements of a binder that aims for popularity and hits the elusive mark; and the Marquette Binders evidently will make a palpable strike. They are constructed on the simplest, yet the most modern plans, and they will become a staple in the album publishing market; their merits are manifold and the practical combines with the beautiful to make the binders in question a triumph of bookish art. It speaks "volumes" for the directing force of the United Stamp Company that the firm can so successfully make its entry into a section of commercial philately that has been labeled "hazardous" by some who have fought valiantly but have been vanquished in it. The range of blank albums has been much enriched by the advent of the Marquette and that it will achieve a prominent and permanent place in the accepted works of the day is made assurance advanced mechanism and slightly appointments of the Binder.

The Binders come in two sizes and are priced from $5 to $10 each; there are 150 quadrilled leaves in each binder. The United Stamp Company is marketing the Marquette Spring Back Blank Album as well; and also, a Sunk Mount edition. The Marquette Series of Albums; published by the United Stamp Company, 1149 Marquette Building, Chicago, Ill.

We find that we have not made mention heretofore of a dainty little book, "Poland," a souvenir of the 25th annual convention of the American Philatelic Society distributed by the Stamp Collector of Columbus, Ohio. "Poland: Historical and Philatelic," compiled and arranged by Geo. K. Smith, Jr., Henry S. Adair and George W. Linn is a book in miniature so excellently printed as to invite the favorable attention of those who attend to the luxurious aspects of typography, closely and critically. The brochure contains thirty pages or so printed on one side and plates showing the map of Poland, the adhesive and the envelope impressions. The compilation has been carefully conducted and many sources of information have been consulted; the result is a well-adjusted resume of the researches on the subject. Access was had by the compilers to the various articles that have appeared from time to time in the past and catalogues from the beginning down to the present have been scanned; a feature of the work is a table of comparative catalogue prices, the leading catalogues having been drawn upon for figures. The historical sketch is very readable and the stamp section includes about all the data that could be demanded. "Poland" is a distinct and desirable addition to philatelic literature and the compilers are to be congratulated upon their labor of love. We notice that the price of the book which is in durable paper covers is fifty cents; the Stamp Collector, Columbus, Ohio, publisher.

SPECIALIST'S ALBUM

MARQUETTE MOVABLE LEAF

We are offering an album such as specialists have been looking for. Our "Baby" Marquette Album is just the thing for a collector who is specializing in a country and finds the large album too large for his use. This album is specially made so that it can be placed in a safety deposit box, or carried around with the greatest of ease. The Album is 7 1/2 x 7 bound in full leather with gilt on loose leaf plan. The leaves are of the finest linen paper, quadrille and linen stub hinges. The "Baby" Marquette Album works on the same principle as the large book. This system has proven far superior to any other made. Send for our fine Booklet on the Marquette Albums. Price $5.00 Postfree.

NEW AUSTRALIAN PROVISIONALS.

J. H. Smith, Sydney, N. S. W., sends us the following clipping from the Sydney Sun:—

"The Federal Government proposes to introduce a uniform system of stamps for postage payments. On January 1 next the present stocks of stamps in hand will be superimposed with the words 'Commonwealth of Australia'. They will then carry a letter through any portion of the Commonwealth. As soon as the stocks in hand have been used up, there will be a new issue with a Commonwealth design. A penny rate will not necessarily be introduced throughout the Commonwealth, but Mr. Fisher hopes it will not be long delayed. He stated that the introduction of penny postage within those States which at present charge twopence for country letters was hardly worth bothering about, and that when action is taken it will be in the direction of introducing a uniform minimum postage of one penny throughout the Commonwealth. He hopes this will be preparatory to a uniform charge of one penny throughout the Empire."

Mr. Smith goes on to say: "It has since transpired that the overprint may be the word 'Australia' only. There is already an outcry by philatelists at the innovation, and there is a possibility that representations may be made to the Postmaster General on the subject. It will be pointed out that there is ample time between now and the 1st January to prepare a new issue and that the extra printing of the word 'Australia' on the stamps will be an unnecessary expense.

Within the past few weeks a new issue of 2d stamps appeared, a specimen of which you have on the envelope herewith. The original wood block die was recut in some places and a fresh electro made therefrom."

ITEMS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

By CHAS. E. JENNEY.

Those interested in Siamese stamps will find a well illustrated article in the September Stamp Lover on the surcharges of the 1889-90. With their combination of native type and Arabic numerals they are a rather complicated lot. There are a great number of full-sized illustrations showing pairs and blocks of the surcharged types.

In the same number is an article on the Local Stamps of Scandinavia which besides informing us of the history and status of the various locals tells us much of the local geographic and political divisions. The "By-posts" of Norway were established in about a score of towns and districts and they issued altogether something like 300 varieties. Iceland has no locals. Sweden has a few and Denmark quite a lot. Hammerfest, the most northern town in Norway, had an interesting local. The well-known Tromso stamps have a reindeer on them.

The Postage Stamp for Sept. 3rd has a continued article on Venezuela by A. B. Creeke, Jr. There is considerable of interest to the general collector in it and the notes under the 1874 issue (with the microscopic overprint) are especially good.

A South African correspondent announces a special postage stamp for United South Africa, printed by De La Rue, of 2 1/2d value. The head of King George is the central feature and at the four corners are the coats of arms of Natal and the Cape and the shields of Transvaal and Orange River Colony. Color, dark blue. The design was executed in South Africa and some idea of its minuteness of detail may be gathered from the fact that the mottoes under the shields and arms are embodied.

The excellent and exact illustrations of watermarks that are appearing in Gibbons Stamp Weekly, accompanying Melville's article on "Postage Stamps in the Making," are worthy of being incorporated in the standard catalogue, and under their proper countries instead of at the end of the book.

In the latter journal is a section on the Rivadavia stamps of Argentina that bears evidence of careful study and authoritative utterance. This number also illustrates the new Acknowledgement of Receipt stamp of Colombia, which bears a somewhat novel design. At first glance it appears to be a set of false teeth, but on closer examination it proves to be a military execution, the platoon of firing soldiers being arranged in a semi-circle.

UNITED STATES.—Theo. J. Heyl shows us specimens of the current 1c stamp, the "O" of "Postage" being open at the top, instead of closed as the normal stamp has it.

Mr. Heyl also shows us the current 2c envelope on blue paper, the left "2" having a dash across the shank.

F. H. Webster shows a copy of the 2c of 1890, with the left cap only partially formed, while at the same time the right "2" has the upper and lower parts connected by a colorless line at the right.

Bertram Leer reports the following minor varieties: The current post card with a period between "N" and "T" of "Cent"; with a white mark between "E" and "N" of "Cent"; with a very ragged coat on McKinley's back; with the innermost oval broken at several different points, and with "McKinley" ornamented in the lower label. The current 1c wrapper with a period after "E" in "One", and large scratches down across the "C" of "Cent" in varying positions. The 2c Hudson-Fulton with a period under the Indian in the canoe. The 1c of 1909 with the upper left corner of "N" of "Cent" broken off. The 1c of 1890, with various additional ornaments.

Cleveland Bundie reports a new cigarette stamp. It is of the same size and general design as the previous issue, but is printed in dark blue on light blue paper. It is inscribed: "Series of 1910. Act of Aug. 5, 1909."

Maitland Milliken sends us a copy of the current 2c envelope, in a pronounced pink shade, like the envelopes of 1861.

J. Arthur Wainwright reports having received the current 1c wrapper, with a colored line across the colorless oval, just below and to right of the "E" in "One". Also a 1c wrapper with what might be called a break, in the plate, extending from the outside of the stamp to the inner colorless oval, cutting through the right of the "E" in "One".

Of United States, Oct. 27.

FRANK P. BROWN COMPANY,
325 Washington St., BOSTON, MASS.

1029, the "5" on 12c, and the "10 Cts" on 1 peso, both of the 1905 issue. There are four values altogether, "5" on 12c being surcharged in dark blue and the others in red. All have the name of the Islands in two lines thus: "Ilas de—Juan Fernandez." The 10c and 20c provisionals have "Cts." after the surcharged figure, but this is lacking on the 5c.

Mr. Focke reports that these stamps are being received on letters from Santiago and Valparaiso, in Chile proper, and asks the necessity of the surcharge. Fortunately we are enabled to answer this question, through the courtesy of Philip Wolff, who writes:

"Philately has influence in the Chilean Parliament as well as in that of Great Britain. The enclosed clipping is from the Valparaiso Mercurio's report of the proceedings of the Camara de Diputados of August 12: 'Regarding the stamps of Juan Fernandez, Sr. Alfonso asked if stamps of Juan Fernandez have been issued, and the object and circumstances of this issue.'

Sr. Izquierdo, Minister of the Interior, said that the Hon. Minister Sr. Tocornal had a big lot of antiquated and unnecessary stamps, which at the suggestion of some philatelists he had surcharged with the name of this island. On his part he has decreed that they serve for stamping all sorts of mail in Chile and abroad, and has had the fact communicated to the Union Postal Universal.

Sr. Alfonso said it would have been better to declare the stamps invalid.'

By the way, the reason given for not allowing the reprinting of the 20 centavos, is that they would interfere with the sale of the centenary stamps."

A. J. McKelvey reports having received a registered package from Santiago de Chile, with a block of 4 of the 5c on 12c described above, and one each of the other three varieties, proving that the surcharged stamps have been made good for postage on the mainland.

The Toledo Stamp Co. has shown us the 5c and 10c values of the Juan Fernandez set.

CONGO BELGE.—Mr. Schachne has received more provisionals which seem to have been made necessary by a change of rates. The two regular cards (10c and 15c 1909) have the surcharged numeral on the lower part of the stamp and the 10c has also the three lines of instruction cancelled by wavy lines. The 10 on 10 (Senf 411) now has a wavy line cancellation of the four lines of instruction on both cards, thus giving it a U. P. U. circulation. The 15 on 15 (Senf 5) is transformed to a local by a "5" overprinted on lower part of each stamp, and "Union P. U." on both cards cancelled by wavy lines. All cancellations and overprints are black.

Post Cards.

5 on 10c red on buff; instructions cancelled.
10c brown x 10c green; instructions cancelled.
5x5 on 15c blue x 15c brown; "Union P. U." cancelled.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—A. W. Dunning reports the following uncatalogued varieties:

Scott's No. 148, with broken "T" in "Centavos".

Scott's No. 162, with surcharge reading "Ominicana" instead of "Dominicana".

Scott's No. 162, with double surcharge.

NICARAGUA.—Louis Voss reports having Scott's No. 183 imperforate, four copies on one cover, and No. 305, also imperforate.

Hermann Focke writes: "I have examined several specimens of the recently reported Nicaragua provisional,—"Vale 10c" on 15c black of 1909, and find that the first printing of the surcharge was done in a deep, almost brown-red ink, while the later print is in a carmine to almost vermilion color. I also discovered several varieties and errors, the former as to spacing and size of letters and numeral "0", and the latter as to inverted "A" for "V" and inverted "V" for "A" in "Vale". These may, however, be due to poor printing, whereas one of the copies seems to read "Vlea" for "Vale". I have also seen a diagonally bisected specimen together with three full stamps on cover to make up the present rate of 35c for postage."

ROUMANIA.—Theo. J. Heyl shows us a copy of the 25c of 1893, with the oval containing the figures of value open at the top.

NOTES ON THE CENTER SERIES AND PERFORATIONS OF 1851-7 U. S. ISSUES.

By CARROLL CHASE, M. D., A. P. S. 3143.

A query from an English specialist in United States stamps, and an answer to the same by Mr. Luff, both appearing in the August 13th, 1910, issue of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, leads me to add such little further information, along this line, as I happen to have.

All the stamps of all values of this issue were printed in sheets of 200—two panes of 100 (10x10) side by side with a single (in one or two instances, double) vertical "center" line between

The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2's" are finely pictured. them as a guide for cutting the sheets in two before delivery to the postmasters. I feel absolutely certain that no other line than the "center" line was cut on any of the plates. The space between the two panes varied. They were either made several mm. apart, which I will call the "wide spacing," or about as close together as the horizontal spacing between the stamps themselves, the "narrow spacing."

The imperforate stamps, with the possible exception of the 24c, 30c, 90c values, were all printed from plates showing the wide spacing. See Figure 1.

The perforated stamps from these same plates that had been used for the imperforate stamps were always perforated as shown in Figure 2:—i. e., all round every stamp, but not down the center line.

The later plates, all stamps from which were perforated, were made with the narrow spacing, and were perforated either as shown in Figure 3 or Figure 4. By this I mean that, occasionally, they were perforated down the center line—Figure 3, but more frequently they were not perforated down the center line—Figure 4. All the sheets including those represented by Figure 3 were cut down the middle, this row of perforations being superfluous, and not used.

It might be added that all the stamps from the perforated sheets show perforations all the way round. There are no "straight edge" copies from any of the margins of the sheet, except those next to the center line as shown in Figure 4. The top and bottom and outside margins, showing the imprint and plate number, were always perforated.

The 3c Type I perforated is always Figure 2. The 3c Type II is always either Figure 3 or 4. The 1c Type I and II perforated is always Figure 2, and the 1c Type III perforated is either Figure 3 or 4. It is possible that Type III perforated also exists perforated as in Figure 2.

Why the sheets were sometimes perforated as shown in Figure 3 I don't know for a certainty. All the stamps were perforated, not with a comb machine, but with a machine that perforated but one direction at a time. I do not know how many rows were perforated at once, but I believe three or four or five. I suppose that it sometimes just happened that the sheet was held so that the center line was perforated, and other times that it was not. Possibly some expert in perforations can give a more scientific explanation.

MR. POWER ON PRICES.

Of some twentieth-century Colonials that are going to jump one of these balmy mornings amongst others I might mention Cyprus 2pi, King, single; Cayman 4d, on yellow; British Guiana 60c green and rose, etc. If any reader is sufficiently interested in prophecy, he will find that some five or six years ago I warned collectors to get this Guiana at $1.50; now it is $5, and I suppose in another year it will be $7 or $8 and so on.—Gibbons Weekly.

EDITORIAL.

The New Republic—The situation in Portugal has been attracting the attention of stamp students and the truth of the philatelic axiom that the stamps of a country share in the unusual or sensational interest that is concentrated on that body, is being verified. The death of King Carlos emphasized Portugal in a philatelic sense a short time ago and again the country becomes the cynosure of all philatelic eyes; the present condition is justified by the radical change that has been made in the political history of the country. Stamp collectors were attending to the King Manuel issue leisurely and seemingly were in no particular hurry to complete it; it has become apparent that these stamps are destined for a short career. Just about when the portrait of the deposed king was becoming familiar, the stamps presenting it will become eclipsed by the republican issues. It is reported that Madeira is fired with ambition to succeed to a republican form of government; and it becomes a matter of speculation just what disposition will be made of the Portuguese colonies. As changes are made the newspapers will announce them and collectors will learn of alterations through their dailies; but the philatelic editors will not be denied their meed of comment.

Poor Girl—A reader has handed in an envelope that was returned to its sender. In addition to the "Return to Writer" rubber stamp is a variation of the "Unclaimed" stamp that catches the eye. Above the word, Unclaimed, is the outline cut of a girl about ten years of age, with her hair in a braid, holding her hands over her face. She really cannot conceal her feelings at the thought that nobody claims so nice a little girl as she and she tearfully moralizes upon the meanness of the boys and others in ignoring her. Proved—The remarks on Postage Currency in the issue of October 1st attracted the attention of Frank C. Davis, Mohawk, New York, with interesting results, as proved by the following letter: "I submit the following which may be information on the subject of postal currency: General Francis E. Spinner was a resident of Mohawk and an intimate friend of Thos. Cunningham who still resides there. In the collection of fractional currency belonging to the latter, are four pieces of postal currency that were the gift of General Spinner at the time he first conceived the idea of using postage stamps in place of small money. The specimens consist of one 5-cent stamp, one 10-cent stamp, five 5-cent stamps and five 10-cent stamps. The paper to which the stamps are affixed is the stationery of the treasury department of the United States, engraved, and is two by four inches in size. The fifty cent piece is signed by General Spinner in his celebrated 'angle-worm' script. Mr. Cunningham claims that these pieces were the actual samples that were sent to the engraver to illustrate the idea that afterwards developed the postal currency." Mr. Davis is the first investigator who furnishes unimpeachable testimony to the existence of the "stamps pasted on slips of paper" that Mr. Chittenden describes in his article written in 1890 and we thank him for having certified to the actuality to-day of an issue of stamp money that was unique and of quaint, patriotic interest, but whose construction was of a character opposed to permanency.

Confirmatory—Almost coincidental with the receipt of the contribution from Mr. Davis, the following letter from Chas. E. Fisher, now at Ann Arbor, Michigan, was received: "I was very much interested in your editorial on 'Postage Currency.' It seems singular that it was only one day last summer that a gentleman in Taunton (Mass.) showed me quite a lot of this sort of currency and asked me if it was worth anything. He had the five and the ten-cent stamps and some of his pieces were very clean specimens. I have never seen any article in any paper describing the issue spoken of and I am glad that you mention it. It seems sad that currency as interesting as this should be almost entirely forgotten." Mr. Fisher's letter is nicely confirmatory of that of Mr. Davis; and it is with little satisfaction that the "coin stamps" in question are rescued from oblivion. The gentleman who called our attention originally to the article in Harper's Monthly said that numismatists had no examples of the issue so far as he knew; and it was left for philatelists to prove the issue and this was fitting, as the appeal of this currency is almost wholly philatelic.

An Old Bond—Albert Charles Stewart, Toledo, sends for inspection, a postmaster's bond that is dated August 16th, 1808. The instrument is for five hundred dollars and bind the postmaster at Cambridge, Dorchester County Maryland, to the faithful performance of his duties. The bond has a sentimental interest for Mr. Stewart as Cambridge was his birthplace. We reproduce the following clause of the bond: "The condition of this obligation is such, that whereas Edward White is appointed Post-Master at Cambridge aforesaid, Now if the said Edward White shall well and truly execute the duties of the said office, and faithfully once in three months, and oftener, if thereto required, render accounts of his receipts and expenditures, as Post-Master, to the General Post-Office, in the manner and form prescribed by the Post-Master General in his several instructions to Post-Masters, and shall pay all monies that shall come to his hands for the postages of whatever is by law chargeable with postage, to the Post-Master General of the United States for the time being, deducting only the commission and allowances made by law for his care, trouble and charges in managing the said office, then the above obligation shall be void and of no effect."

Real Aztecs—A correspondent in Mexico says that the centennial stamps issued on the 16th of September were but a small part of a wonderful celebration of the centenary of Mexico's independence. The climax of a grand succession of festivals came on September 15th, as the day was the 80th birthday of President Diaz and the day before the 100th anniversary of the great Hidalgo's insurrection against Spain. One of the processions of pageants illustrating Mexico's history from the beginning "included fifty pure-blooded Aztecs from the small State of Tlaxcala, whose governor is an Indian."

EDITOR BISHOP'S OPINION.

The 25th Annual Convention of the American Philatelic Society was held at Detroit. An important resolution was the decision to supply A. P. S. reports to all journals asking for same instead of exclusively to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, which is the official journal of the A. P. S. The decision has given umbrage to the Editors of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, and very naturally so. We have no means of judging the pros and cons of the business, but it would certainly seem that the official journal has been somewhat shabbily treated.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

Big Bargain

In a Stamp Collection Left With Us On Sale
First Check of $350.00 Gets It.

With the understanding that if purchaser is not perfectly satisfied in every way with his bargain, same can be returned within 24 hours after receipt and money will be promptly refunded, less express charges both ways.

Owner states that there are over 7300 stamps in the two volumes, cataloguing over $1800.00, no United States, owner retaining these. Condition extra good, much above the average. Collection will run 1/2 or more unused.

Claims British Colonies alone catalogue over $600.00, and that 300 of the stamps cat. at from $1.00 to $2.00 and 100 cat. at $2.00 and upwards. Nothing over $5.00.

This is a bargain for a dealer, and a great big bargain for a collector. You can sell half the collection to your friends for more money than you pay for the whole, keeping the best part for your own collection. Don't miss the chance.

If you don't agree with us on this point when you get the collection, you can have your money back for the asking. What could be more fair?

THE STAMP MARKET.

By SENEX.

The new Catalogue (Part II., 1911) is interesting, and prices therein seem to indicate that European stamps are moving up.

Portugal, 1895, 115 to 118 reis, ordinary issue, are seen to be good stamps.

A few years ago, the 13c U. S. A., 1902, was a not uncommon quotation per 100, but it now seems to be much scarcer; the 13c of 1908 is apparently scarcer still.

Nicaragua, 1903, should prove a profitable quest.

It is curious how the 50h and 60h Austrian Jubilee come to hand, usually in good clean condition, while a parcel of the 30h and the 2 kronen values do not seem to yield anything like the same percentage of fine copies. One would think that a fine specimen of the last-named should be worth all that is asked for it.

Servia, 1905 (vide catalogue), still maintain good prices. The 30 paras to 1 dinar are good selling stamps.

There are four or five items in Greece, 1901, that are worth having on hand.

Have just seen, for the first time (!), some of the Guatemalan railway stamps surcharged for postal use in 1886; these are curious, but then there are customers constantly on the lookout for the curious and out-of-the-ordinary. A page of Guatemalan surcharges should have an attraction.

The 12h Austrian Jubilee is proving troublesome to get at the right price just now; it seems the scarcest of all the values up to the 2 kronen.

The 25h Bosnia pictorial is also difficult to get in quantity.

Copies of the 100 reis Brazil Centenary of 1908, seem to be available; I have seen about a score. This is the scarcest oblong pictorial.

Quotations for middle values of European, such as the 50st Bulgaria, 1902, seem to be worth keeping a watch upon, since fluctuations in different localities allow of profitable purchasing.

Used copies of the Bulgarian Shipka Pass, and the 1907 Jubilees, will often sell at sight, without their cost being taken into much account.

Argentina, 1892, is occasionally a venture, on account of the likelihood of getting unrepresentable copies; the 30c value seems particularly hard to get in fine state. Odd copies found on club-sheets are generally finer, and these should be worth buying and putting aside. The 12c and 50c of 1889, are also good stamps to have; Argentina is a popular country and these scarcer values sell freely.

Fifty copies of the 4d Barbados, Queen's, are a bit of a burden; a correspondent in Austria will take them, however, and send in exchange some of the latest Austria Jubilees. This means a quicker realisation.

The 20c Colombia, grey-black, 1904, should be looked up in the new catalogue; it is evidently a good stamp. Since the 50c value is likely to be hard to find, the 20c should make a good tail-piece to the set of 1, 2, 5, 10 and 20c of this nice series.

The new prices for the Ecuador triangulars of 1908 occur to one as being too cheap.

This large circulation will be made possible by the purchase of 1500 orders from the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co., based upon their advertising during the past four months in the SATURDAY EVENING POST, COLLIER'S, AMERICAN BOY, Etc. Read this letter:—

St. Louis, Mo., October 8, 1910.

Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co., Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen,—We are shipping you today by freight 1500 orders received within the past few months. Many of these orders have come from high-priced advertising mediums and we hope you will get good returns from using them.

Respectfully yours,

C. E. HUSSMAN STAMP CO.

THIS IS THE LAST CALL POSSIBLE FOR ADVERTISING COPY!

The chalk-surfaced 10 piastres, Egypt, is evidently worth double the price of the plain paper variety, a point worth bearing in mind. There is also a wide difference in value between the 5 piastres of 1884 and that of 1902 (same type). The Unpaid of 1889 seem everywhere priced too low.

The 20c French, 1900, is now catalogued 6d, a figure which illustrates the comparative scarcity of this stamp. The 20c, 1902, should go higher; also the various "F. M.'s".

Crete "Ellas" up to the 10 lepta value are readily available, but where are the 20, 25 and 50 lepta values? Wholesale sets of the plain 1905 issue included the 20 and 25 lepta, but it seems this is not the case at present with the "Ellas" surcharges.

Used peso values of South American States seem a good venture; these high values often find their way into U. S. A., and some collector-dealer may have copies to spare, if one can get in touch with him. Prices have been seen for the 1 sucre values of Ecuador 1901 and 1907, and the 50c of these are also good. The 1 peso Paraguay, oblong pictorial, is another desirable stamp. Possibly hundreds of collectors are looking out for such as these.

Out-of-the-way things can be picked up occasionally in the way of Nicaragua Unpaid, Peru Express Delivery, Paraguay Dues and Officials, U. S. A. Colonial Unpaid, etc.; these are readily snapped up by a general collector who takes everything he hasn't already got. It would be interesting to get some clean used Salvador Parcel Post stamps, but perhaps not many collectors have ever seen these.

Some older issues are not easy to light upon, since new things seem to quickly take the place of the old. It is not a bad plan to lay in a stock with an eye to the years to come, where one is certain of one's purchase.—Stamp Collectors Fortnightly.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
ITEMS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

By CHAS. E. JENNEY.

In D. B. Armstrong's article on Orange River Colony in Gibbons Stamp Weekly for Aug. 13th, are described some little known Railway Official Stamps. In 1905 the values 1/2d to 1 shilling were surcharged C. S. A. R. in small block capitals in black across the centre of the stamps, for use by the officials of the Central South African Railways, to prevent pilfering by employees. They were surcharged at the Railway Printing Works in Johannesburg, in complete sheets. But the Colonial postal authorities objected to this disfigurement and their use had to be promptly stopped, after however, the authorities had permitted them to use up those already surcharged. They are very scarce used and practically unknown unused.

Later, in 1908, this company punctured its initials with small holes in the stamps, one letter in each corner.

For a time, likewise, the Natal government railways, which control a section of Orange River Colony railways, used Natal stamps perforated N. G. R. within the bounds of the Orange River Colony, until this was objected to.

This paper calls our attention to the re-engraving of the current Swiss stamps of lower value. The new stamps show the cord of the cross-bow behind the stock instead of in front of it. Careful observers must have had considerable cause for amusement at the impractical cross-bow that has been current, and which will rank with some of the famous solecisms previously committed on stamps, such as the spy-glass in the hands of Columbus. The perpetrator of this William Tell design should certainly be ashamed of himself, not only for this rank mistake but for the whole absurd design.

SPECIALIST'S ALBUM

MARQUETTE MOVABLE LEAF

We are offering an album such as specialists have been looking for. Our "Baby" Marquette Album is just the thing for a collector who is specializing in a country and finds the large album too large for his use. This album is specially made so that it can be placed in a safety deposit box, or carried around with the greatest of ease. The Album is 7 1/2 x 7 bound in full leather with gilt on loose leaf plan. The leaves are of the finest linen paper, quadrille and linen stub hinges. The "Baby" Marquette Album works on the same principle as the large book. This system has proven far superior to any other made. Send for our fine Booklet on the Marquette Albums. Price $5.00 Postfree. "Ask the man who owns one."

In the Sept. 10th issue of the same paper in Melville's splendidly illustrated paper on watermarks, we note an elucidation long needed on Russian watermarks. These have often evaded collectors through ignorance of the facts herein stated. They are not produced by the dandy roll like most other watermarks, but were engraved in recess on a smooth metal cylinder which was rolled over the soft unformed paper. A slight embossing effect was produced and the watermarks show dull white impressions of the thick numerals on the backs of the stamps.

An advertisement in The Postage Stamp of Sept. 17th develops a fact not hitherto well brought out in the descriptions of the celebrated one shilling Stock Exchange forgeries. This collector offers 30 different letterings. Our supposition was that all the forgeries had the same corner letters. A collector or dealer in this country would hardly dare thus to offer openly for sale counterfeits of our own country.

In Gibbons Stamp Weekly of Sept. 17, Charles J. Phillips announces that the Stanley-Gibbons catalogue, Part II, is about ready for delivery and that nearly 70 pages more have been added this year. The re-writing and re-arrangement of many countries will doubtless change market quotations considerably and he announces that a very large number of prices have been raised.

We are a little startled to read in his announcement of the purchase of a large collection of Oil Rivers and Niger Coast that it cost owner just under $10,000 to compile it. That one of the minor "philatelic" countries, very new and very much disregarded by collectors generally, should reach this figure is surprising. I fancy the ordinary American collector would not go over one-one hundredth of this price.

AUSTRIA.—We take the following from Ewen's Weekly Stamp News: A collector narrates in the Berliner Briefmarken Zeitung his experiences in purchasing the Jubilee issue. He resides in a small town in Bohemia and presented himself punctually at 8 a. m. on the morning of the imperial birthday, August 8. The Jubilee stamps had not arrived! He says:—"I came again—and hundreds of others, of whom I know that not twenty were serious collectors—at 9, 10, 11 o'clock. Still nothing had arrived. At last, at half-past three, the supply came. The Post Office received one sheet of 80 each of the 1, 2, 3, 6, 12, 20, 30, 35, 50, 60 heller and 1 krone stamps and 1,000 each of the 5, 10 and 25 heller. I wanted to buy them all, as I had been the first to arrive. But had I not been personally known to all the would-be purchasers, I should have been lynched! As it was, I was assailed on all sides with requests and entreaties to leave some for other buyers. Consequently I bought ten sets, but the postal official would not let me have any of the 1, 2, 3 and 6 heller separately! In half an hour all the stamps were sold out, except the 5, 10 and 25 heller which were finished on 20th August. The same thing happened at all the post offices in the neighborhood, and I imagine it was the same throughout Austria."

Considering that there were 70,000 sets issued, it is surprising how quickly they were bought up. The cheapest retail quotation yet seen is that of 6d per set from 1 heller to 1 krone, which is being advertised by a German dealer. This is more than 100 per cent. premium on face value. Whether the stamps will get cheaper remains to be seen; at present a wholesale quotation under 50 per cent. over face would be cheap.

Another correspondent of our German contemporary states that all the birthday stamps remaining at post offices have been withdrawn by official circular.

BECHUANALAND PROTECTORATE.—The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly chronicles a new 6d stamp, the current 6d of Transvaal being overprinted "Bechuanaland—Protectorate."

Adhesive.

6d orange and black.

BOSNIA.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the full set of the Jubilee stamps, with the dates "1830—1910" added at the bottoms. The colors are practically the same as before, though there are slight variations in shade on all values. Like the Austrian Jubilee series, the Bosnia stamps are improved by the addition made.

CEYLON.—According to Ewen's Weekly, the new 2, 5 and 10 rupees stamps are printed from plate 1 in sheets of 120 divided into two panes of 60, each 10 rows of 6 stamps as usual. The 10, 25, 50 cents and 1 rupee are, on the other hand, printed from a new plate, No. 2, in sheets of 240, divided into 4 panes of 60.

The 3c, 12c and 15c of the old set just received are still printed from plate 1 in sheets of 120, but if a new printing should take place it will probably be from plate No. 2.

These seven new stamps will probably have only a short life as is unlikely, in view of King George's accession to the throne, that they were printed in any large quantity.

NICARAGUA.—Hermann Focke calls our attention to an oversight by which we were led to treat as something new one of the multitude of freaks coming from this country. However, we will let Mr. Focke speak for himself, though the joke is on the editor of the chronicle.

"Frank C. Davis' report of the mysterious 5 centavos stamp of Nicaragua, surcharge 'B—Dpto. Yelaya,' in No. 1031 amuses me, and your memory seems to have been darkened by the many surcharges coming from that country, as it is not over a month that I sent you a cover with one of these creations, and you had the kindness of describing it in No. 1027. It is nothing else but the cut square stamp of the envelope of 1905 printed by the American Bank Note Co. used in an emergency, because the regular blue 5c stamps were not in evidence at the Bluefields post office. This cut square affair is sold over the counter ungummed."

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Harry Fox reports having received the new 5c orange brown, 25c violet and 30c violet and orange, all in Scott's type A14.

RUSSIA.—Offices in the Levant.—Ewen's Weekly is informed on good authority that the Mételin and Rizeh sets are at last to be issued. The issue for Mont Athos is to be changed and a correspondent states that the new overprint will be in Russian characters. The 35 and 70 piastres will not be changed, at any rate at present.

The 20 para on 4 kopeks of the ordinary Levant set (not the jubilee series) has been altered and the new 20 para has appeared.

talk of Union the suggestion was put forward that a commemorative postage stamp should be issued to mark the consummation of that ideal," says the Johannesburg Sunday Times.

"The idea was that the stamp should be issued on May 31. The Transvaal authorities took the matter up and considered various designs, which were also submitted to the administrations in the other colonies. Mr. Merriman, however, was not enamoured of the designs, so report has it, as he did not find them artistic enough. Eventually he appeared less enthusiastic about having a commemorative stamp, as it seemed that it would be impossible to have them ready for issuing by May 31.

"Subsequent to that date, however, the authorities considered other designs, and I am now informed by the Postmaster-General for the Union (Mr. W. T. Hoal) that it is the intention of the Government to introduce, concurrently with the opening of the Union Parliament in November next (and, therefore, practically in commemoration of the culminating fact of Union) a postage stamp of the 2½d denomination.

"This represents the Universal Postal Union unit of postage, and the stamp, which will be issued in advance of and apart from the inevitable general issue for the South African Union, will in no way be limited in its period of currency, although the issue is not likely to be repeated.

"The design will include a representation of the present King's head and the arms of the four provinces comprising the Union."

The Manchester Dispatch states that the stamp is of a deep shade of blue, on a white ground. The head of King George has been carefully selected from a recent photograph, giving a front view that is full of character. King George personally examined and approved the head as engraved. In the four corners of the stamp, which is about twice the size of an ordinary stamp, are miniature copies of the heraldic insignia of the four colonies now composing the Union. The designation of the stamp is inscribed both in English and in Dutch.

TONGA.—A provisional registration envelope is reported for this colony by Maury's Collectionneur, the 4d red of 1893 having the value barred and "3" printed in surcharge in black.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The Year Book of the American Numismatic Association is a handsome volume, an ornament to any library, and to the numismatist as useful as it is handsome. Full page half tones show the ex-presidents, officers for 1910, Dr. Geo. F. Heath (deceased) and convention medal and badge. The committee on year book, Messrs. B. H. Saxton, Howland Wood and F. G. Duffield have every reason to be proud of the result of their labors. "A History of the A. N. A." precedes the detailed story of the annual meet held in N. Y. City on Sept. 5. The association has 608 members.

A HARD BLOW AT PROVISIONAL ISSUES.

AN IMPORTANT DECREE OF INTEREST TO PHILATELISTS SENT BRITISH COLONIAL OFFICIALS.

By WM. WARD.

An esteemed friend on a London press agency has supplied me with the following British Colonial office order just issued to the Governors of the British Colonies by the Earl of Crewe, the Colonial Secretary. The purport of this official communication is of extreme importance to philatelists as it applies solely to stamp collecting. This new order practically kills any further issue of provisional stamps. One of the chief causes of this edict is that of the Gambia, Straits Settlements and Cayman Islands scandals, that was brought to the notice of the British Colonial office authorities by the writer. At first he had to meet with the usual official red-tape, but the continual upholding of evidence has been the means of a thorough enquiry taking place. The result was firstly the dismissal of several persons concerned from the service and the transfer of a certain Colonial Secretary to an inferior post to that which he had held, and finally the following decree which is given below:

Sir:—I have the honour to inform you that my attention has recently been called on several occasions to disputes and irregularities in various Crown Colonies arising in connection with the sale of postage stamps to persons who deal in them for purposes of trade.

2.—The more serious difficulties which have recently been experienced have been connected with issues of surcharged stamps. Attention was called to the objections to such issues in Lord Ripon's circular despatch of August 18, 1893, in which it was pointed out that surcharging should be unnecessary if proper care is taken to maintain a sufficient supply of stamps. I concur in this view, and, with the object of avoiding such issues for the future, I have decided that the Officer Administering the Government, the Colonial Secretary, and the Colonial Postmaster of the various Crown Colonies and the Protectorates should be held collectively and individually responsible for ensuring that an adequate stock of stamps is kept in the Colony or Protectorate, and for ordering a fresh supply as soon as the stock in hand falls below the amount normally required for a period of, say, six months.

3.—It will, I believe, be found in practice that no difficulties will arise if a large supply of halfpenny and penny stamps is always kept in hand. Multiples of these could always be used either separately or in combination with other stamps in the event of a temporary shortage in any stamp of a higher denomination.

4.—I find that in certain cases Colonial Governors have accepted from dealers standing orders for the supply of new issues, &c. Such arrangements are calculated to lead to irregularities and complaints, and should be discontinued. They are quite outside the ordinary functions of a Post Office, and I consider that any dealer making such a proposal should be informed that his order can only be accepted if it is for a definite supply of stamps in current use.

5.—While it is, no doubt, generally understood by members of the Civil Service of the Colonies and Protectorates that dealings in postage stamps for purposes of private profit are not allowed, I desire to impress on all Postmasters, Treasurers, or other financial officers that they will render themselves liable to grave censure if they engage in any transactions of this nature.

6.—In this connection I think it well to lay down, following the practice of the General Post Office in this country, that all officials should refuse to comply with requests to affix stamps to letters or to cancel stamps which are not affixed to letters. You will be good enough to see that this rule is adopted throughout the territory under your Government.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) CREWE.

Concerning this decree the Fortnightly says:

"The reader will at once recognise that this circular gives every evidence of having been compiled with great care and deliberation. It is evidently intended both as a reprimand for past derelictions of public duty and as a serious warning that such proceedings will not be tolerated in the future.

It is to be hoped for their own sakes that the parties concerned will take heed of Lord Crewe's circular, and thus avoid the "grave censure" with which they are threatened in the event of further trafficking in postage stamps for private profit.

That Lord Crewe has carefully and judiciously studied the whole question is apparent from Paragraph 2 alone. And in that same paragraph it is made abundantly clear that the Colonial Secretary is determined to make an end of the "Caymanising" of Colonial postal emissions. The chief officers of the Government of each Crown Colony or Protectorate are to be held "collectively and individually responsible" for ensuring that a sufficient stock of stamps shall always be kept, thus avoiding any occasion (i.e., any excuse) for an issue of surcharged provisionals.

Paragraph 3 is in the nature of friendly advice, but Paragraphs 4 and 5 have reference to dealings in stamps by Government officials, and Paragraph 6 deals with the complaisance of certain postal officials who obligingly cancel stamps to order. Against this last practice a rigid rule is laid down and colonial Governors are instructed to see that that rule is adopted throughout the territory under their government.

It is a circular which will be welcomed by all who wish well to philately, and we hope that its terms will be rigorously enforced."

The dealers of England speak very approvingly of the new order.

specialized collection ever formed of any one country. It is contained in 10 Krassa Blank Albums, made specially for the purpose.

—There is being offered through the "General Delivery," N. Y. City, four 12 pence black Canada, the owner claiming that the stamps are all that is left of a large collection recently disposed of. A singular feature of the case is that a cash deposit is wanted before the stamps are sent for inspection, and the combination of circumstances is such as to advise caution on the part of would-be purchasers.

—We have received from a New York subscriber a communication ridiculing the "characteristics" of the "re-engraved" 3c Cuba. We hold this matter in abeyance until definite information is at hand. We published the article as worthy of being reprinted and are in a receptive mood for further information.

SLIGHT CHANGES IN BY-LAWS.

In consequence of the late hour in the morning up to which the By-Laws Committee were obliged to work at the recent Detroit Convention, they overlooked two small items that should have been acted upon, to rectify which the Board of Directors have by unanimous vote made the following changes in the By-Laws:

Article VII, Section 6, has been changed by striking out the words "subscription and" from the third line of the second paragraph.

Article VII, Section 10, has been changed by making the period in the ninth line a semicolon and adding "except that the prices for examination of all surcharges as well as cancellations shall be 15 cents per stamp."

The first change eliminates the Editor from being responsible for subscriptions, and is made to harmonize the law as passed at the last convention that makes all subscriptions payable to the Treasurer.

The second change creates a new fee for experting cancellations and surcharges by the Counterfeit Detector, and is in harmony with the recommendation made by that officer in his last annual report.

For the Board of Directors,
W. H. BARNUM, Sec.REPORT OF THE SECRETARY FOR THE WEEK ENDING OCT. 8, 1910.

MINOR VARIETIES.

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT.

Supposing that you take a special interest in the issues of your own country, you will ever be on the lookout for minor varieties, or copies deviating in any way or manner from the normal. This search for minor varieties stimulates a study of your stamps as nothing else will, and it is this study, and the results it has brought about, which we have dignified with the name of philately, or which confer on philately the dignity of a semi science. Those who divide this search for the minor variety, and cry out against "dotty philately," have not been endowed with the enthusiasm, patience, and the serious mind which form part of the makeup of every true philatelist.

If philatelic study and research are simply carried out in order to find something "not catalogued," and with ultimate thoughts of financial possibilities, they are not conducted in the right spirit, and the element of commercialism will deprive the results of a considerable part of their philatelic value. The discovery of, and the clearing up of the whys and wherefores of the issue on experimental paper, were of purely philatelic interest, but the subsequent hunt for unmarketed values, to be offered, when found, at fancy prices, was of no real benefit to philately but simply a commercial enterprise. Our investment in the stamps mentioned was not, I am afraid, made for the sake of their philatelic value as the results of an interesting experiment in the government printing office, but rather with an eye to a probable future rise in their commercial values.

In our examination of the most common stamps, we are liable to meet with minor varieties. These varieties are either caused by defects in the plates or by defects in the printing. In the former case the particular cut which made the stamp impression can be located on the plate, and on every sheet printed from that plate the defective stamp is liable to be found. Such a defect, or "error," as we delight to call it, is of philatelic interest, and will have its place in a specialized catalogue of major and minor varieties. As an example of a defective plate variety I may mention the little circles found on three of the stamps on sheets of the Hudson-Fulton 2c, printed from plate No. 5394. If I remember right, these varieties were discovered by that earnest student of U. S. modern issues, Mr. C. R. Morris of Washington, D. C.

Defects caused in the printing by blotches or streaks of ink, or flaws in the paper are never found repeated in exactly the same way and are of little or no philatelic value. To search sheets or large quantities of current 1c and 2c stamps for such "freak" varieties is an interesting philatelic pastime play, and the results, mounted on an album page, are liable to interest the non-philatelic visitor more than anything else you may have in your album. To the tyro, a one cent stamp with two broad, white streaks across the stamp, caused by unfolded creases in the paper, will look far more remarkable than the experimental paper variety which cost you dollars. George Washington with a big carbuncle on his neck, and Benjamin Franklin with a black eye, are amongst the abnormalities I have found and they serve as star attractions on my vaudeville pages. Irregularities in, and the misplacing of the perforations, will also furnish items for your side show, but these, I am sorry to say, are very common "varieties." If you specialize a certain issue, I consider that anything out of the ordinary, any freak or curiosity having connection with that issue, deserves place on your album pages, but it should be distinctly separated from the purely philatelic varieties.

The other day I tried to explain to a non-collector the meaning of a title in my album. It read: "Experimental Paper Issue." During my explanations I found occasion to mention that this issue was the result of an attempt to overcome the poor centering in the perforating of our stamps. The visitor asked me what I meant with "poor centering." A reference to my page of perforation freaks made further explanations superfluous.

If you are commercially inclined, you will always have the satisfaction of knowing, that your little collection of "minor freak varieties" if unused, and picked up at face, will never be worth less than you paid, and some day you may meet with somebody who thinks the five and thirteen-cent Kamehameha III (1853 issue). (These stamps are the original dies made by the Boston engravers.) (This last sentence inserted by Giffard is not correct as the original 2c lithograph die was lost about 1862.)

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

"Under date of August 24th, 1888, Mr. Wundenberg continues upon the subject of restoration of the dies: "I should like to have the three engraved plates I sent you by mail some time since restored, and a few impressions, say 500 of each, two, five and thirteen-cent, forwarded by mail at your earliest convenience."

It is evident that the National Bank-note Company were somewhat loth to fulfill Mr. Wundenberg's order, and that the latter did not receive very satisfactory replies, as he continues his explanation under date of January 14th, 1889, and writes as follows:

"Concerning the three old dies, perhaps I have not been explicit enough, but the fact is, that during a previous administration (A.P. Brickwood's)" (Also incorrect, evidently should be Kalakaua) "the dies in question, instead of being left with yourselves, were sent for with the intention of destroying them. This was only partially done by defacing the five and thirteen-cent, but the two-cent was secreted away and this escaped being defaced, and was only lately recovered by myself. It was during this time that Mr. Whitney, then Postmaster General, made arrangements with you accordingly." (see Whitney's letter above), "but these, not being from the original die, were worthless. What I now wish to know is whether you can restore these three (3) original dies, so as to furnish prints from them, the same as the original series. I have also found circular dies of the five and thirteen-cent, of exactly the same cut as in the flat plates previously sent you, and not knowing but these may be necessary, or of use, to you in reproducing these dies, I send them to you under separate cover.

I would also like to know in what manner the two-cent stamps were reproduced in November, 1885. Was a new steel die reproduced, or were they simply woodcuts? Enclosed please find specimens of the two-cent, five-cent and thirteen-cent issue above mentioned."

The National Bank-note Company, finally, under date of March 19th, 1889, or fifteen months after the Postmaster's first application for the restoration of the dies, wrote the Postmaster General that the two-cent die could be used, and a new plate made for the same. Also that the five and thirteen-cent dies could be restored, and new plates made. That the rolls of the five and thirteen cent plates had been defaced, and were worthless for use. The Company further stated, in answer to Mr. Wundenberg's inquiries that "the two-cent stamp made by us in 1885 was engraved new on steel. It was a copy of an old stamp sent us at that time."

Postmaster General Wundenberg thereupon wrote on April 12, 1889, as follows:—

"Acknowledging receipt of your favor of the 19th of March, I thank you for information regarding the dies, etc., etc. While I am very anxious to have these dies made perfect, it must be with the distinct understanding that it is simply a restoration of the original dies; a complete new set would be simply useless, and must not be attempted. With nothing further to remark, you are hereby authorized to proceed with the work of restoring the dies in question, etc., etc."

The engravers then delivered the following quantities of stamps from the restored dies:

2c, September 6th, 1889,	7,500
2c, September 17th, 1890,	30,000
5c, September 6th, 1890,	10,000
13c, September 6th, 1890,	10,000

Further particulars regarding the above reprints can be seen in the pamphlet already alluded to. I would, however, like to correct the description given by me therein of the kinds of paper of the five-cent blue, 1853, originals, which I have reason to believe should be as follows:

- 1st, On thick white wove paper.
- 2nd, On medium thick bluish white wove paper.
- 3rd, On thin bluish white wove paper.
- 4th, On blue wove paper.

I have just secured specimens of the first two, on the original letter sheets, genuinely cancelled, and have also in my collection, several specimens of the last two, but off the original covers. Last year I saw a fine used specimen, on the thick white paper, in the hands of a prominent collector in San Francisco, but off the original cover. This specimen and the one in my collection are the only two I have seen in this direction, although it is probable there are many others in San Francisco and elsewhere."

Postmaster Hill having ascertained new plates had been made after these stamps had been on regular sale for nearly two years, had the balance on hand surcharged "Reprints" and continued the sale of them.

There are two insinuations in Major Evans' last article that should be cleared.

The two-cent lithograph on laid was issued in 1862 by Postmaster Clark, and not in 1855 by H. M. Whitney. As

OVER-PRICED APPROVALS.

Theo. E. Flick in a letter to the WEEKLY complains bitterly at the practise of certain dealers in sending out approval selections with the stamps priced much above catalog quotations in order to make an apparently cheap net price in case the entire lot be taken.

Mr. Flick sends a sample lot for our inspection, received by him from a dealer in Utica, N. Y. We quote a portion of the letter accompanying the same:

"Of all the bunco games that ever came to my notice in the stamp line, the enclosed is the limit, and should by all means be stopped. How can a beginner have any confidence in our hobby or joy out of his collecting when he finds that stamps bought had been marked double, triple or quadruple their real catalog value? The enclosed sheet sent by the Stamp Co., Utica, N. Y., catalogs 35c but is marked 88c, several 1c stamps being marked as high as 4c. Not a single stamp is marked at the real catalog value, in fact nothing is said concerning catalog value, though one would be led to think that the prices given represented catalog quotations.

"This firm is trying to work this trash off on some innocent boy collector and MEKEEL'S WEEKLY should help in stopping this class of business, for certainly no good can come from it."

The WEEKLY is certainly interested in the proposition laid down by Mr. Flick and proposes to give it attention during the coming season. One thing is certain, the columns of the WEEKLY will be closed to any dealer who engages in such unfair if not dishonest business methods.

EDITORIAL.

Portugal's Colonies.—In view of the news that China is disputing with Portugal over the border limits of Macao, a newspaper directs attention to the advisability of Portugal disposing of its distant colonies. It is represented that some of the African colonies, particularly Lourenço Marques, "the best harbor in South Africa" would be keenly contested for by Germany and Great Britain who hold contiguous territory. The Cape Verde Islands and St. Thomas and Prince Islands are accounted as being of great strategical value and as certain to be in active demand by the great powers. The Portuguese Indies and Macao probably would find willing purchasers in Great Britain and China, respectively. The paper says that the statesmen of the new republic have an enviable opportunity to rid their country of the hampering and distracting influences of faraway colonies for an amount of money that would repair the shattered finances of the nation. For sentimental reasons the colonies adjacent to the home country could be retained, although it is likely that these self-same colonies have "republican" aspirations.

An Old Notice.—In "A New Collection of Poems, relating to States Affairs from Oliver Cromwell to this Present Time," published in London, 1705, we find the following lines in a "satyr" that was written about the year 1685:

"I thought it was in vain to tarry;
But did opine it might be better,
By Penny-post to send a letter."

The first practically-conducted and successful penny post was Dockwra's (and Murray's) Penny Post which was started about 1680 and which while opposed by certain business and religious interests was strongly supported by those who soon realized and appreciated its con-

A Regret.—We wish to record our sympathy for Charles Stigerwalt of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, the announcement of whose assignment for the benefit of creditors has been heralded broadcast through an Associated Press despatch, in the newspapers, which places his liabilities at forty thousand dollars and assets at approximately the same amount. Mr. Stigerwalt while best known as a numismatist with an extensive holding of coins is a philatelist of standing, who has been a member of the American Philatelic Society for some years. He was in attendance at the Atlantic City convention where many of those to whom his name was familiar had the pleasure of meeting him. For a comparatively long time, Mr. Stigerwalt has been in poor health and to this fact we attribute the misfortune that has overtaken him. Mr. Stigerwalt has a stock of stamps that embraces numbers of some of the more popular stamps, we are told, and the disposal of them would be an event of interest. We have no basis for the expression of the hope that some equitable arrangement will be made with the creditors of Mr. Stigerwalt whereby he may continue in business, his health permitting; we may only wish that circumstances might favor him so that this end would be achieved.

Government vs. Duveen.—The newspaper accounts of the difficulty of Duveen Brothers, "art dealers to American multimillionaires," have necessarily been absorbed by philatelists in consequence of the prominence that has been given the news in the papers. Henry J. Duveen, who spends his time between New York City and London and elsewhere, is one of the great philatelists of the day; and his stamp holdings include some of the greatest of rarities. At one time, at least, he did not neglect United States issues as he had a grand lot of St. Louis provisionals. At the recent Berne exhibition, his impressive collection of Swiss stamps was awarded a gold medal and his valuable Mauritius collection was honored with a silver medal. The result of the trial of the members of the firm will be awaited with unusual interest by philatelists.

Letters from Everywhere.—The manager of the foreign division of a Chicago mail-order house, which is said to be the largest in the world, says:

"The mails from foreign lands bring us many curious things: Handiwork of strange peoples, samples of woods, gums, extracts, shells, glittering sands, and occasionally some of the precious yellow dust itself—each with its accompanying story. Coins, stamps, foreign business forms and letters in all languages keep us in touch with every nation and country. We get cable additions to orders that do not arrive by mail till months later, and twice, at least, the wires have told us not to fill orders that weeks after reached us as messages from the dead. The extraordinary purposes for which our goods are ordered are sometimes explained to us. Once a magnificent saddle was ordered as a present to an African king and intended to hold his august person at no less a ceremony than his coronation. A brass band of forty pieces, that we were earnestly cautioned must be loud, saluted the late Dowager Empress of China on the occasion of a visit she paid the great General Ma. Thirteen thousand packets of our sachet powder was one order, each of which was destined to be presented to a loyal subject by a certain prince in India. One of our windmills catches the zephyrs at Reykjavik, Iceland. Twenty-five pounds of colored beads was one order from a Jesuit mission in northern Alaska. A certain sheik near Jerusalem, through a missionary friend, ordered a large farm wagon, which we shipped on a through bill of lading to Jaffa, Palestine. Later the steamer Furst Bismarck carried in her hold a large Windsor range and a lot of saddles, to the same address. We have already told in this column about the large wagon of our make that was used in Africa to transport Theodore Roosevelt's equipment on his recent hunting tour. And so it goes. Our foreign division keeps us in touch with all the world."

This concern disposes of its stamps that are received on its immense mail by sale to dealers who at different times have been asked to submit bids on the stamps. While some of the scarcer stamps are used on mail from foreign countries the great majority are those of ordinary kinds.

DENVER, COLO., Oct. 12, 1910.

DEAR MR. WYLIE:—I am going to take your advice and resume advertising in the WEEKLY. It is certainly the best medium in this country and I regret having stopped my ads past few months, after over seven years' advertising in it.

Enclose copy for Oct. 22 issue and I will try and get new copy to you every Sat., ad to be repeated if I fail to do this. Please give me what you consider best available place and oblige,

THE 2c HAWAII.

Henry J. Crocker in the London Philatelist.

In the London Philatelist of July, 1910, you published an article on the 2c Hawaii which is slightly incorrect. The list of known copies is as follows, and I would be pleased to hear of any others:—

The Bishop Museum, Honolulu, 1 copy
The Postal Museum, Berlin, 1 " "
The British Museum, 2 copies
From Paul Collection (in Boston), 1 copy
H. J. Duveen (including the Mirabaud), 2 copies
G. H. Worthington, 1 copy
H. J. Crocker, 1 " "
M. la Renotière, 2 copies making eleven copies instead of twelve, as per your list.

I am endeavoring to get photographs of all of these and would be pleased to send you copies at the first opportunity.

I think your article will have the effect of putting us in touch with other copies if they exist, which will prove very interesting to the collectors of this country.

suggested by Major Evans; Messrs. Luff, Giffard and Clark confirm this, and in the evidence produced by Mr. Hanciau translated by Major Evans, collectors will readily see the date of issue of these stamps is not 1855, and Mr. Evans should not question it again. The letter says, "In July 1859 the Legislature passed a law requiring a postage. A temporary stamp was then printed." (A sample of which I send) "until engraved ones were made in the United States." (1862?) These are the stamps Major Evans tries to prove were issued in 1855 as claimed by Whitney. He produces the following from Giffard to substantiate his claim.

"In the pamphlet already published, I stated that Mr. H. M. Whitney gave the date of the issue of the lithographed stamps as 1855. Mr. Whitney was postmaster from 1850 to 1856, and still insists that 1855 was the correct date. I have reason to doubt this, however, as no letter bearing this stamp (of which I have seen large numbers) are dated prior to 1862."

I have since purchased the collection of H. M. Whitney and I have the letter sheets on which H. M. Whitney has written "issued in 1855." Every letter is dated after 1862. In any event, Clark ordered the stamps in 1861 and they contained the portrait of a full bearded man (Kam. IV.) who was but nineteen years old in 1855. Proof on the face of it. N'est ce pas?

The other point is that the five-cent perforate and engraved ordered by Brickwood, and placed in the engravers' hands June 22nd, 1865, did not reach the Islands until about May, 1866, as stated by Messrs. Hanciau, Luff and others and confirmed by all data produced to date and proven by the use of a provisional stamp in the meantime.

Kalakaua ordered a five-cent locally printed stamp while awaiting his requisition from the United States, and Brickwood ordered a five-cent provisional plate, also a one-cent and two-cent provisional stamp while awaiting his order placed on April 26th, 1865, for two-cent and five-cent stamps. What other explanation has Major Evans to make for these issues?

Brickwood was the first Postmaster to deal direct with the National Bank-note Company. When he ordered the new five-cent stamp and a second order for the two-cent engraved and perforated, he did not know where the Kalakaua order, which was ordered through Whitney, came from, and this almost proves when taken in connection with his 1867 letters, that he never could have ordered any of these stamps at any time if the plates were destroyed before 1868.

Major Evans states: "The three Boston dies were doubtless sent to Honolulu at the same time, and the three doubtful stamps must stand or fall together."

This opens up an entirely new field, and we will look forward with pleasure to his further demonstration of this remarkable theory, as it is one of his most interesting conclusions arrived at so far. Mr. Hanciau knew that the two-cent die which Major Evans claims was sent out with the 1853 plates was not destroyed but was placed in the archives of the Postoffice in 1869.

There is not the slightest question it was not the original 1862 die which is stated to have been found with the original 1853 type plates. When the five-cent and thirteen-cent were issued the two-cent stamp was not issued with them. We hope Major Evans will explain to collectors his statement for it will help us to unravel history of this puzzling stamp which Giffard claims was a regular issue of 1869. There are several theories regarding this.

In my book on Hawaiian Numerals I stated that my researches covered the period from 1851 to 1866 when the use of numerals ceased, and the Government was supposedly getting its regular supply of stamps from the National Bank-note Company.

The receipt of my book was so flattering, I have since made a study of the later issues, which I have published from time to time, and now if Major Evans is going to prove an order for the stamps and the return and destruction of the Whitney plates, by Postmaster Brickwood after April 16th, 1863, I will do all in my power to assist him, but he is clearly wrong in calling the Kalakaua order "Reprints."

In Stanley Gibbons Monthly—October 31st, 1895—Giffard makes a statement which seems to prove that Brickwood never ordered any of these 1853 type, but received the stamps ordered by Kalakaua and had them printed "Specimen." He says, "The overprinting was ordered by him, as a matter of fact, so that these issues might become obsolete."

A CANADIAN POSTMARK ODDITY.

BY F. G. BING.

Some time ago I received a Canadian postage stamp, the 3c red of the 1868-76 issue, bearing a very interesting and unusual postmark. A query on the subject had been inserted in a philatelic contemporary without result, but it was suggested that further enquiries might lead to an explanation of so curious a cancellation.

The stamp had been obliterated with a small thick-lined circle in which appear the words "WAY LETTER" in large type. Eventually a full account of the matter was obtained from the Canadian postal authorities, and the letter received now makes its first appearance in the philatelic press.

"POST OFFICE DEPT., CANADA.
OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE POSTAGE STAMP BRANCH.
OTTAWA, 13th March, 1908.

Dear Sir,—Replying to your enquiry on the subject, as to the object of the post office mark consisting of a rather thick circle in which are the words 'Way Letter' only, impressed upon a Canada postage stamp (3c) similar to the one you enclosed, and which I herewith return, I find on enquiry that previous to the Confederation of the Dominion of Canada in 1867, there was in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick a regulation requiring mail couriers on the coach roads to accept letters for mailing, when these were offered them at a distance of not less than one or two miles from the nearest post office, to place them in a locked leather pouch provided for the purpose, and to post them at the first post office, the Postmaster of which was instructed to stamp these letters with the words 'Way Letter'. After Confederation this postmark lingered at some of the offices in the provinces named, when it was used for general cancellation purposes, if not for its primary purpose. It has now, however, wholly disappeared. Some think it lasted up to 1887 or 1891, but I am sorry I cannot furnish you with a more definite date as to its extinction.

Very truly yours,
E. P. STANTON, Supt."

It will be seen from this interesting letter that the postmark was in the first instance applied to the postage stamps of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and it is quite possible that only upon the stamps of these two provinces does it possess its full original significance. At the same time it does not follow that the regulations under which this cancellation was in use were immediately withdrawn with the Confederation of the Dominion of Canada; and it is more than probable that the custom based upon these regulations of accepting letters from the public at a distance from a post office, and applying the special obliteration, would

SPECIALIST'S ALBUM
MARQUETTE MOVABLE LEAF

We are offering an album such as specialists have been looking for. Our "Baby" Marquette Album is just the thing for a collector who is specializing in a country and finds the large album too large for his use. This album is specially made so that it can be placed in a safety deposit box, or carried around with the greatest of ease. The Album is 7 1/2 x 7 bound in full leather with gilt on loose leaf plan. The leaves are of the finest linen paper, quadrille and linen stub hinges. The "Baby" Marquette Album works on the same principle as the large book. This system has proven far superior to any other made. Send for our fine Booklet on the Marquette Albums. Price $5.00 Postfree.

continue long after that date, as it is evident that the use of the "Way Letter" postmark was never definitely prohibited by the Canadian postal authorities, or the date of its extinction would not have been in doubt. It is, however, quite certain that only a comparatively small number of letters would be entitled to receive this special mark, and its rarity is therefore indisputable. With the publication of this explanation it is quite likely that active search will be made by collectors for further copies of the postmark, and it would be interesting to know with what result. A fairly wide field is offered, as the cancellation may obviously occur upon any of the issues of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and upon the Canadian issues up to and possibly including that of 1888-90. — Postage Stamp.

THE LATEST FROM WASHINGTON.

BY CHAS. R. MORRIS.

In a talk with the Director of the Bureau this week, he tells me that the department has given up all hopes of printing the higher denominations upon the yellow paper as has been announced. It not only could not get the paper manufacturers in line on the paper end of the proposition but also came to the conclusion that it wouldn't be a commercial success, in fact too radical a departure from long established practice. The department has, therefore, given up all further experimenting along that line.

Just when the new 12 cent will appear is not known. Every one at the post office is so busy with the Postal Savings Bank proposition that they have no time to think of anything else. It is certainly full time that the 12c came upon the scene for it will be a year the first of next month that the registry fee was changed.

A COLLECTION FOR CARNEGIE LIBRARY

We are enabled to make an announcement that will be very welcome to philatelists not alone by reason of the transaction itself but because of the recognition of philately as a factor by an institution dedicated to literature and its auxiliary branches whose name is famous throughout the world. The Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh has just purchased a stamp collection at a figure that is withheld but we happen to know that the amount while not at all sensational because of its magnitude is yet one that ensures a collection of respectable proportions. It is possible that the collection in question will be regarded as the nucleus of one that in good time will attain a size that will be in keeping with the fame of the Library; and it may be the purpose of the institution to add to it through methods that will be divulged to the public. In passing, it is to be observed that the collection acquired by the Library is particularly strong in its showing of foreign revenues. Hasten the day when a stamp collection will be deemed a necessity by every well-appointed library in the land.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—C. F. Alkire has shown us several curiosities, including the current 1c envelope with the stamp half way down the right side, and half on the front and the rest on the back. There is also included a copy of the 2c carmine envelope of 1899, the stamp appearing twice on the lower flap, and not at all on the face. Also, the 2c of 1887, with a thin, colorless line around the top, just outside of Washington's head.

J. H. Wilms has shown us a copy of the current 1c envelope, which has the inner colorless oval line broken opposite Franklin's chin, the line being widened out so as to include a diamond-shaped spot of color.

BAVARIA.—The Berliner Briefmarken Zeitung reports that it is proposed to issue a commemorative series, upon the occasion of the 90th anniversary of the birth of Prince-Regent Luitpold, and the 25th year of his regency. The stamps will bear the portrait of the Prince.

BELGIUM.—A new series of stamps, with the portrait of King Albert I is now being prepared, the engraving being confided to M. Peunens of Antwerp.

COLOMBIA.—Lemaire's Journal chronicles the peso values of the new set, the design being similar to the centavo values, though with pictures instead of portraits. The 1 peso represents an historical scene, the inscription reading "Imploro la confirmación de la libertad absoluta de los esclavos", which freely translated reads, "I ask the confirmation of the absolute liberty of the slaves". The 10 peso is also historical in character, the inscription reading, "Cambiadme, señor, todos mis títulos por el de buen ciudadano", or freely translated, "I would exchange, sir, all my titles for that of good citizens."

Adhesives.

Medellin.—Two jubilee stamps have been issued for Medellin, dated "1810-1910", and printed in four colors. The distinctive feature is a flag draped across the design.

Adhesives.

1p dark green, yellow, blue and red.

LEEWARD ISLANDS.—Champion's Bulletin notes the issue of two stamps in the new universal colors.

Adhesives.

3d violet on yellow.
5sh carmine and green on yellow.

MACAO.—Gibbons Weekly says the bi-sected provisionals noted in No. 1033 were made to deal with a shortage of 1 and 2 avos stamps, the 3 avos being used for 1 avo and the 6 avos for 2 avos. They were only in use for about two weeks. It is expected that a further surcharging of various values will shortly take place for the purpose of using up old stamps, after which there will be a regular new issue.

MAURITIUS.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 1r, 2.50r, 5r and 10r stamps recently noted. All are on multiple chalky paper.

MEXICO.—The new cards are just received from Mr. Schachne. No change except that the arms in the stamp give place to the head of Hidalgo to left.

NEW SOUTH WALES.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 2d in a new shade and on new paper, though still on chalky paper.

NEW ZEALAND.—N. Cobe calls our attention to the fact that the 2½d and 4d stamps in the current set are on thinner paper, and with a different perforation, the holes being smaller and not clean cut.

PORTUGAL.—Champion's Bulletin chronicles a new printing of the stamp for "Civilian Rifle Clubs" in blue and brown.

ST. HELENA.—Ewen's Weekly says: "The 1d value of the King Edward VII series has long been out of issue and about June of this year was followed by the 2½d. We now understand that the other values are running short. On July 12 only the following were left in stock at St. Helena: 4d, 3 sheets; 6d, 14 sheets; 10sh, 15 sheets. Of the 2½d now out of issue, only 8,160 were printed and it bids fair to become quite a good stamp."

ST. LUCIA.—Champion's Bulletin chronicles the 6d issued in the new colors.

Adhesive.

6d lilac.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 5sh in pink, with large "Postage" and perforated 12½.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—N. Cobe has now shown us used copies of the 5c orange stamp, chronicled some time since from specimen copies.

Gibbons Weekly says: "Two correspondents at Singapore have kindly sent us letters the stamps on which bear a special postmark, used, we understand, for four days only at an exhibition held there from the 17th to the 20th of August. It does not appear to us to possess much philatelic interest as it is inscribed 'Agricultural Show', but it might have been worse—there might have been an 'Angry Haughty Commemorative Stamp' of some kind, which we should have had to chronicle, and which some of our readers would have had to collect."

SWEDEN.—A new official stamp has been issued, the design being illustrated and stamp chronicled by Gibbons Weekly. The design, which is a slight, though very slight, improvement over that of the 4 ore postage stamp recently issued, is by O. Hjartsberg, and the stamps were pypographed by Yahab Bagge of Stockholm. Two other values to follow shortly, though whether they are to be of the same design is not yet known. The stamps are printed on white paper, and perforated 13.

Official Adhesives.

5 ore green.
10 ore carmine.
30 ore brown.

SWITZERLAND.—We find that an error was made in No. 1031, in regard to the the new postage due stamps; the missing values are the 3c and 15c and not the 2c and 15c. The New England Stamp Co. has now shown us the missing values.

Postage Due Adhesives.

WHAT IS A REPRINT?

This seems a simple question, and one which, at first sight, looks as though it might be answered off-hand by any stamp collector. Recent events have proved, however, not only that it is most difficult to give a correct definition of a reprint, but that it is important that an authoritative pronouncement should be made.

The subject was one of those discussed at the Philatelic Congress held last year at Gössnitz, when the following definition was formulated and approved by the delegated wisdom of German Philatelists:

"By Neudrucke (reprints) is meant impressions of stamps which have become obsolete, made from the same dies as the 'originals.'

"Impressions made for particular reasons, at a later date than the normal issues, of stamps still current or not demonetized, should be called Sondersausgabe (special issues)."

Now the essence of a definition is that it should be comprehensive enough to embrace all genuine claimants to a title and yet precise enough to exclude all pretenders; this Gössnitz effort is neither. The first paragraph should expressly state that the impressions must be made after the stamps have been withdrawn from use; this meaning is clearly inferred, but no true definition leaves anything to inference. The second paragraph points to such an issue as the United States 1869 series without grill, which was reprinted and issued in the ordinary way, but from the wording it might embrace all other kinds of reprints and does not exclude forgeries. Surely every forgery and every reprint is an impression made for a particular reason?

Another German definition, which we take from the "Normal Catalogue," is very much more to the point and, indeed, appears to admit of very little criticism. It is as follows:—

"Reprints are all prints of a stamp in any colour which have been produced from genuine dies either by an authority (Official Reprints) or by a private individual (Private Reprints), after a new design which is exclusively used for the printing of stamps has been accepted for postal use, and the old one definitively discarded.

"It is not necessary for the original stamp to have been demonetized, for some reprints, e.g., France, Marshall Island, Prussia, U.S.A., etc., were available for postage until the demonetization of the originals, and therefore occur with genuine cancellations.

"By Nachdrucke (after-prints) are understood alleged reprints for the printing of which altered (counterfeited) dies have been utilized."

The first paragraph of the above would be more explicit if it read "produced from genuine unaltered dies," the insertion of the word "unaltered" is necessary in view of what is contained in the third paragraph.

The second paragraph contains one error. As was recently pointed out by the Editor of Le Postillon, it is a popular delusion to suppose that French reprints are allowed to be used for postal purposes; it is only by the inadvertence or the ignorance of the employees that they sometimes pass through the post.

The last paragraph in the above definition errs in not expressly stating that they must be the original dies which are altered. As it stands, Nachdrucke might be synonymous with a forgery made by a private individual.

It will be noticed that, in both the definitions we have cited, the word "dies" has been used instead of "plates." This has been done designedly, as some reprints have been made which were not from the original printing plates (these having been destroyed) but from plates or stones which were made, expressly for the purpose of the reprints, from the original dies. Instances of this process are supplied by the first issue of Samoa, the 1867-68 issue of Roman States, Heligoland, and many others. Such reprints, even when made from dies which have not been altered, ought to be differentiated in some way from true reprints, which are from the identical plates which produced the originals.

There are many instances of "after-prints" (Nachdrucke) differing in the degree of alteration to which the original die has been subjected, in some cases very trivial alterations have been made while in others the tinkering has been very material. In the case of the Antioquia stamps of 1868 the original engraved dies had been defaced by diagonal lines cut into them. Efforts were made to remedy this defect, but with very moderate success, and traces of the disfigurement can always be seen on the reprints, which were printed from new stones constructed from the more or less renovated dies.

There is another kind of label which often masquerades as a reprint, we refer to the official imitations which have been resorted to by several Governments when neither the plate nor the original die has been available. The best known examples of this are the official imitations of Alsace-Lorraine and the first issue of Sirmoor. These latter were designed from an illustration in a dealer's catalogue and showed the indentations of the perforations all round. Such imitations are excluded by the terms of the definition which we have quoted above.

We will close our remarks with the best definition of a true reprint which we have yet come across. This was written many years ago by Major Evans in Stanley Gibbons' Monthly Journal and reads as follows:

"Impressions from the original plates, blocks, or stones, from which stamps were printed, taken after the issue of the stamps had ceased; impressions, that is printed not for use as stamps, but as specimens or curiosities, for sale to collectors or otherwise. A reprint, strictly speaking, should be from the identical plate, etc., from which the stamps were printed; but in the case of lithographed stamps, the original matrix of which was an engraved die, fresh stones have in some cases been constructed from that die, and such philatelic value as the reprints might have possessed has thereby been destroyed."—Philatelic Journal of Great Britain.

REPRINTS OF SPECIAL ARTICLES.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

Office of the President, Chicago.
Some of the members have remitted to the treasurer in full for their dues for the current year and in addition a sum sufficient for the American Philatelist for the same period, but without specific instructions as to this additional amount. It is assumed that the intent was to have their names entered as subscribers to the Journal; but the Postal regulations require an individual subscription in every instance. Therefore, the treasurer has been instructed to obtain from such members a distinct order in the matter, which will be done by his sending out a special letter and form to those to whom it may concern.

Notwithstanding various public speculations to the contrary, it by no means follows that second class postal rates will not be eventually secured for the American Philatelist; and those to whom the notice referred to is sent, by giving it courteous and prompt attention will materially aid the pending application and thereby serve both the society and treasurer.

NOTICE.

The attention of all members is drawn to the necessary delay in mailing out membership cards for the current year, occasioned by the tardiness of the engravers in finishing the cards and also the time taken in adopting a new form of application blank. It will save the secretary much time if members will refrain from making inquiry as to when they may expect their cards, as an additional delay of two weeks now seems necessary, but it is hoped to have all cards in the mail not later than Nov. 1st.

BRANCH REPORTS.

Buffalo.—The 14th regular meeting was held with five members present. A committee of three was appointed to arrange for a supper to be held on one of the regular meeting nights in the near future.—F. P. JAMES, Acting Sec.

—Hearty congratulations to the Philadelphia Stamp Club on the handsome Bulletin, of which Vol. I No. 1 has just appeared. Its twelve pages are crowded with matter of general interest and other stamp societies must "sit up and take notice". E. L. Green is editor and J. A. Steinmetz is associate editor. Address R 25 Drury Bldg., Philadelphia, Pa.

—R. J. Hogg sends us a clipping from the Melbourne Age, confirming the news item recently given in our columns announcing the probability of a Commonwealth issue for Australia. The stamps of the several states are to be given the surcharge "Australia" pending the preparation of designs for uniform Commonwealth stamps.

MUTILATED STAMPS NOT REDEEMABLE.

If a man had some mutilated postage stamps, some mutilated paper money and some mutilated coins and endeavored to save something out of the general wreckage, he would be inclined to the opinion that Uncle Sam is a trifle inconsistent.

In the first place he would find that his mutilated stamps were not redeemable, either at the Indianapolis postoffice or other post offices. If his coins were badly worn he would find also that they were not redeemable, though he might dispose of them as bullion. If the coins were only bent or twisted, however, he could have them redeemed, and he could have them redeemed if they had become injured in a fire without having lost any of their weight. His paper money, he would find, could be redeemed even though it had reached a stage where the ordinary man could not well distinguish just what it was.

There seems to be no explanation available, at least in this city, as to why Uncle Sam behaves in this manner. It is suggested that if he redeemed postage stamps it would be necessary to have a separate department in Washington devoted to this work. Of course, a large, warm, moist man is apt to become a trifle incensed when he discovers that a quantity of his postage stamps have become gummed together in an affectionate conglomeration, and that though he paid spot cash for those stamps he has no recourse. However, if he had invested his money in the regulation stamped envelopes, and these envelopes were mutilated by wrong addresses or in some such manner, he could have the envelopes redeemed for a certain per cent., but not for cash.

The regulation in regard to not redeeming postage stamps is an old one, and bears with it the provision that no mutilated stamps may be used in transporting mail matter. The latter provision, however, was not very carefully enforced up to within a short time ago when orders were sent out by the Post Office Department that it should be rigidly enforced, and that a stamp must not be used even though only a very small portion of it was missing. So rigid was the order, in fact, that if there are several stamps on a letter and one stamp overlaps another it destroys the carrying power of the stamp thus partly covered. Of course, part of the stamp so covered might have a small portion of it missing. But just why all this is as it seems unexplained.—Indianapolis News.

STAMP PRICES FOR THE WISE.

Regardless of the low prices quoted we will allow a discount of 5% if purchase from this list exceeds $5.00 and 10% off if over $10.00 worth are ordered.

Below we list part of our stock of stamps marked at Net Prices that will be found very reasonable. Send in a supplemental list as our ads are watched by a large number of collectors, who send on their orders by first mail, and we are likely to run short early on the choicest stamps listed. The first figure before the comma is Scott's Catalogue Number, the figure following is our Net Price. We would be pleased to receive your want list, or will send you our Net Books. We have also a fine line at 66 2/3% discount, that will be sent on request. References required. All stamps not satisfactory at price may be returned and money will be refunded. Stamps marked with a star (*) are unused, the others are the cheapest and may be used, unused or pen cancelled.

At the annual banquet and meeting of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society in Providence last February the president made fitting reference to the recent death of Alfred Dawson, who had been identified with the organization from its start and had always been an active worker in its interests. Three charter members of the society, Mr. C. F. Rothfuchs, Mr. W. I. Cox and Mr. W. G. Nightingale, were present at this meeting and all spoke of the work of Mr. Dawson and related incidents of the early days of the association. To Mr. Dawson probably more than to any other one man is due the organization of the society. Early in 1885 he gathered about him several kindred spirits with a hobby for stamp collecting and the society was formally organized February 2 of that year. The founders were J. F. Browning, John B. Calder, Charles G. Calder, W. Irving Cox, Alfred Dawson, Martin S. Fanning, Edward B. Hanes, William G. Nightingale, Charles F. Rothfuchs and George H. Wood. The early years of the society were prosperous ones. The meetings were held regularly, the officers were faithful in the fulfilment of their duties, and the members were active and energetic in promoting the interests of their organization. In those days stamps did not command the prices which they carry today. When one learns at what low figures valuable stamps were sold twenty-five years ago he is inclined to look with envy upon the collector of long-standing and to realize the tremendous advantage which he had over the modern philatelist. One of the charter members of the Rhode Island society, in his reminiscences of early days, tells of his purchase of the complete United States Treasury set for twenty-five cents. This was the regulation price at that time and plenty were to be had for the money. There are few of us, however, who value our collections so little as to want them to go as cheaply as did that of one of the Rhode Island members in the early days of the society. It was while Mr. George H. Wood was enjoying the good things at one of the annual banquets that a stranger called at his house and asked for Mr. Wood's valuable collection of United States stamps. He said that Mr. Wood wanted it at the meeting. The collection was handed to the stranger and, although energetic search was made, in which the society rendered all possible aid, it was never recovered.

It is a matter of considerable pride with the members of the Rhode Island society that the organization has never lapsed. Occasionally a meeting has been omitted because of no quorum but this has been a rare occurrence. As one looks through the record books it is not difficult to understand why the interest has been so constant and so well maintained. At frequent intervals all through the years the society has given serious consideration to the question of how it could best continue to hold the interest of its members and attract new ones. Such discussions could have but one result and they have been the key note of the society's successful existence. In 1896 it was proposed to furnish each member in good standing with a subscription to a philatelic paper. During the following four years the Metropolitan Philatelist was donated to the members and published the news of the society as the official organ. In 1900 MEKEEL'S WEEKLY was selected as the official journal and was furnished to the members from the society treasury until the ruling of the Post Office Department forbade the publishers to send out subscriptions contracted for in this way. Auctions were a prominent feature of the early meetings. The records show seven auctions held during the year 1894 which included 512 lots of stamps catalogued at $1126.38. These were disposed of for $606.18. It was customary in those days for a fraction of the proceeds, usually 10%, to go to the treasury of the society. Some of the sales were small, netting only a few dollars, while others, usually those at the annual meetings when the attendance was large, exceeded $200. Auction sales are still a feature at some of our meetings but they do not assume the proportions of the early days. An exchange department was early inaugurated to enable the members to dispose of their duplicates and add to their collections at small expense. The exchange bureau has existed, with occasional periods of inactivity, to the present time and has proven of advantage to the members.

The meetings themselves have been full of interest to the active stamp collector. Here have occurred discussions and the exchange of ideas which have tended to draw the members closer together and to extend the society's sphere of usefulness. Serious questions of philatelic interest have been warmly talked over and acted upon. At the March meeting in 1896 the society gave vigorous attention to a petition which was being advocated in philatelic circles to request the Post Master General to place on sale the Newspaper, Periodical and Postage Due stamps of the United States for the benefit of collectors. During this same year the society was active in promoting the candidacy of Mr. F. F. Olney, one of its members, for the presidency of the American Philatelic Association. Valuable papers have been contributed by the members from time to time at the meetings. Limited space permits the mention of but two or three, which will serve to show another way in which the meetings have been made of interest and help to the members. The records state that at one of the early meetings Mr. Freeman Putney, Jr., prepared and read a paper upon "Some Dangers of Our Pocket Books" which was thoroughly enjoyed. Later Mr. Dawson entertained the society with a paper upon "Native Indian Stamps". Mr. Dawson could speak with authority upon this subject for he had served in the British army at the time of the Sepoy Mutiny and had been an active collector during the campaign. He could emphasize his remarks with some personal experiences at collecting under difficult circumstances. At one of our recent meetings Mr. A. B. Slater, Jr. gave a very valuable contribution which he had prepared upon "Die Varieties of the Current 2c Envelopes."

The society holds from time to time competitive exhibitions for which certificates of reward are issued. These have brought out some splendid displays of stamps. A very interesting feature at our meetings and one which it has been the society's privilege to enjoy often has been the opportunity to examine the fine collections of many of our members. For years it was the custom to meet at the homes of the members where the collections were opened

PREMIUM OFFERS FOR NEW SUBSCRIPTIONS

It can be truly said that there is no hobby so educational, so enchanting, so profitable as the collecting of postage stamps. The above striking headline will reach thousands who have yet to learn that in worshipping at the shrine of the fair goddess Philatelia, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS is absolutely essential.

To be interested in any business or pursuit and not be kept posted upon its progress would be considered suicidal. Today every trade, every fraternal organization, every religious body has its newspaper mouthpiece and the enthusiastic ambitious spirit cries out for more enterprise in its quest for information.

For nearly a score of years MEKEEL'S has steadily, persistently pursued the even tenor of its way until it has become justly famed as the "King of Stamp Papers and the Stamp Paper of Kings." A glance at the contents of any issue will confirm its value as an exponent of philately. To induce you to become a regular reader we give you a choice of various premiums. A UNIQUE PROVIDENCE COVER IN THE COLLECTION OF B. A. WEBBER.

for inspection after the business meeting. When convenience made it expedient to secure quarters in the downtown section of the city the members continued to bring to the meetings their valuable collections for the enjoyment of those present. There are many of us who had the opportunity upon several occasions to see Mr. Hopkins' remarkable collection of early United States stamps in single specimens, blocks, parts of sheets and full sheets. It was a collection never to be forgotten and never to be duplicated. We have enjoyed the privilege of viewing at close range Mr. Congdon's splendid collection of blocks of four of the United States issue in which the different shades are carefully arranged, and seeing Dr. Welch's carefully prepared array of blocks of United States adhesives, his valuable collection of Match and Medicine stamps, his practically complete record of internal revenues and his full sets of Canal Zones which he has lately acquired. Vice President Webber has delighted the members with his unique collection of original covers. Interesting side lines have been shown at times, not the least of which was Mr. Chambers' recent exhibition of Civil War Envelopes and United States Revenue Stamped Papers. More careful attention to some of the valuable collections in the possession of some of our members is to be given in another article in this issue.

The annual meetings, held in February, at which time officers are elected, are always attended by a banquet and have been brilliant occasions in the philatelic circles of the State. At this time an effort is always made to have some valuable collection shown and an address given by noted philatelists from other sections of the country. These meetings are decidedly popular and well attended. It is necessary to mention the speakers at but few of these meetings to indicate the value and interest which they would bring to the stamp collector. At the annual meeting in 1902 Mr. George C. Capen displayed and discussed a specialized collection of stamps of Greece, said to be the finest in the country. At the 1905 meeting Mr. C. A. Howes showed his stamps of South Africa and the Chinese Treaty Ports. The following year Mr. J. M. Bartels exhibited his noted collection of Philippines and Mr. V. M. Berthold gave a masterful talk upon United States Envelopes, illustrating with his matchless collection. In 1907 Mr. L. L. Green brought us his collection of Hawaiian stamps. Mr. W. H. Colson at one of these meetings showed us some rare United States issued previous to 1847 including the Baltimore, Brattleboro, Millbury, New Haven, St. Louis and Providence Postmasters' stamps. At our last annual meeting Mr. E. G. Sawyer was our guest with his specialized collection of Gambia.

The society is in possession of a considerable library of valuable philatelic literature. For years an alcove in the Providence Public Library was devoted to philately and contained the society's books and pamphlets. A good-sized book case in the society's room contains several works of value and interest. Within a year there has been received from one of the former presidents, Mr. A. B. Slater, Jr., a large collection of rare philatelic literature.

The society has been numbered among its members many prominent philatelists whose fame has gone out beyond the bounds of our little state. Mention has already been made of Mr. Frank F. Olney, one time president of the American Philatelic Association and of Alfred Dawson, one of the founders of the society. Mr. John B. Calder, the only stamp dealer in Providence for years, was long identified with the association as an active worker. Mr. E. B. Hanes, later of the firm of Durbin and Hanes, was a charter member, as was also Mr. C. F. Rothfuchs who has recently gone to the Pacific coast, leaving a host of friends and an enviable reputation for square dealing behind him. Among our members was also Percival Parrish, publisher of the Rhode Island Philatelist, the only paper ever printed in the state in the interest of philately. A complete set of this publication is on file in the library of the society. Mr. Freeman Putney, Jr., was a member of the organization and a dealer here while in college at Brown. Mr. Sam R. Simmons, Jr. was a former resident of Providence, attending schools and college here, and has always been an interested member of the society.

The presidents of the society, in order of service since its organization, have been John B. Calder (1885), E. B. Hanes (1886-7), Geo. H. Wood (1888), Frank F. Olney (1889), Alfred Dawson (1890-91), H. W. Brown (1892), Geo. H. Wood (1893), A. B. Slater, Jr. (1894), F. E. Newberry (1895-7), W. C. Elliott (1898), Alfred Dawson (1899-1901), Frank M. Mason (1902-4), W. H. Congdon (1905), A. R. Perry (1906), Joseph B. McIntyre (1907-8), Wendell A. Mowry (1909-10). Five different secretaries, Alfred Dawson, John B. Calder, W. Irving Cox, Robert F. Chambers and George C. Arnold have given faithful notices of meetings and jealously guarded the records since the society was founded. Good accounts of the finances have been rendered by Treasurers C. F. Rothfuchs, C. G. Calder, W. C. Elliott and W. Irving Cox, who have succeeded each other in the order named. Mr. Cox has held the office of secretary or treasurer, and sometimes both, for thirteen years. He is the only one of the charter members who has been in constant attendance at the meetings since the organization, and his active interest and ready service have been important factors in promoting the welfare of the association.

The Rhode Island Philatelic Society is the oldest organization of the kind in continual existence in the United States. Its 25th anniversary was fittingly observed in February of this year and it held its 210th regular meeting this month. One hundred seventy-three members have joined the society since its organization and 51 of these are in good standing at the present time.

THE FRANKING PRIVILEGE.

Postmaster-General Proposes to Restrict It and Prevent Its Abuse.

Mr. Hitchcock intends to advocate the substitution of special official stamps and stamped envelopes for the various forms of penalty envelopes now in use in the departments and by members of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—If the plans of Postmaster-General Hitchcock are carried into effect the abuse of the franking privilege for Government mail may be curtailed. The unrestricted manner in which the franking privilege is now being used has laid it open to serious abuses, according to the Postmaster-General. While it has been impossible without a better control of franking to determine the exact expense to the Government of this practice, officials say it foots up to millions of dollars a year.

Mr. Hitchcock believes that many abuses of the franking system could be prevented and a marked economy effected by supplying through the agencies of the postal service special official envelopes and stamps for the free mail of the Government, all such envelopes to be issued on requisition and such records to be kept of all official stamp supplies as will enable the department to maintain a proper postage account covering the entire volume of the free Government mail.

Mr. Hitchcock has been introducing in the postal service during the last year methods of cost keeping similar to those employed in modern business establishments. He says that nothing has so impeded the fulfillment of his plans in this regard as the impossibility of determining with exactness how far the various expenses of the postal service are increased by the present unrestricted use of the franking privilege. He is confident that the introduction of a more exact method of dealing with this problem as proposed will prove to be of advantage in the work of placing the postal service on a strictly businesslike basis.

OUR PROVIDENCE DEALER.

F. M. MASON THE ONLY PRESENT REPRESENTATIVE OF THE DEALING FRATERNITY.

The city of Providence has furnished philately with several men who have figured prominently in the hobby from the business standpoint.

Mr. Putney, now prominently connected with the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., and Mr. Parrish, of the Phila. Stamp Co., are shining examples of successful dealers. Neither must we forget Mr. Rothfuchs, for so many years active in the ranks of the dealers and who always held a warm spot in his heart for Providence.

Recently it has devolved upon Mr. F. M. Mason to uphold the dignity of the city from the dealing standpoint, and his advertisements have been seen in our paper from week to week. Mr. Mason has been a very active member of the R. I. Philatelic Society, having served in various positions of trust, and occupying the presidency of the society in 1902-3-4. A great deal of the success attending the annual jollifications in recent years has been due to Mr. Mason's enthusiasm and energy.

The writer counts it a privilege to number Mr. Mason as one of his friends and feels sure that so long as he is spared to serve the city, philately in Providence will have an earnest advocate.

In a recent letter Mr. Mason wrote:—

"As I look back to the time when I first began to collect I realize what an influence one may exert by showing his stamps whenever there is a chance.

When I first joined the R. I. Philatelic Society meetings were being held at the houses of the members. On this particular evening we were being entertained by the late Chas. W. Hopkins, who had at that time what was no doubt the finest collection of U. S. in blocks of four or more in the country.

I had never dreamed of such treasures as he showed us that evening and at an auction held later in the evening I bought my first block, the 1c 1861.

FRANK M. MASON.

Since that time, some thirteen years ago, I have accumulated a fair showing of blocks myself.

With the U. S. in single and blocks I have also collected in the same way U. S. colonies, Canada and Newfoundland and at present while not neglecting the foregoing, I am devoting the most of my time to the English colonies."

While Mr. Mason has been a modest advertiser we feel certain that he has made his impression upon our readers and as a result has built up a good business in those lines in which he specializes.

ONE IN EVERY STATE.

Forty-Eight Postal Savings Banks on First Trial.

Clipping from J. H. Houston.

Postal savings banks will be given their first trial under the recent law at forty-eight second-class post offices of the country, one in each state, according to a decision of the board of trustees, consisting of Postmaster General Hitchcock, Secretary MacVeagh of the Treasury Department and Attorney General Wickersham.

The forty-eight post offices at which the banks are to be established have been selected, after careful investigation by the officers of the Post Office Department, with a view to making the first test of the service as thorough as possible under the limited appropriation, provided by Congress.

In their selection it has been the purpose to choose communities in which the conditions are exceptionally favorable for the development of a postal savings business. Most of the places on the list are industrial centers, where wage earners will be especially benefited by the kind of banking facilities afforded.

A large patronage of the service is expected from foreign-born Americans in those cities who are now remitting considerable sums to their native countries, usually in the form of money orders. Many of the places selected, particularly those in the west, are not adequately provided with other savings institutions.

The work of furnishing the necessary equipment to the post offices selected and having the postmasters and their assistants thoroughly instructed in the operation of the system will probably consume several weeks, but every effort will be made to have the designated offices ready to receive deposits at the earliest feasible date. It is probable that the plans devised for the new postal savings system will be given at least a month's trial in the original forty-eight offices before others are added to the list, although it is expected that the number of offices will be largely increased before the end of the current fiscal year.

The designated offices are as follows:

WANTS HITCHCOCK'S JOB.

New Yorker Would Like to Be Postmaster-General and Says So.

Clipping from MARCEL E. TALLER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—There is a resident of New York who is not afraid to ask for what he wants. He has written Postmaster-General Hitchcock saying that if Mr. Hitchcock is about to resign, as some newspapers have reported, he would like the job. In his letter he added that he was anxious to know what qualifications were required by the Civil Service Commission in electing Postmasters-General. He asked that this information be forwarded to him before any action was taken in the case.

The Postmaster-General will inform the nervy New Yorker that he has no intention of retiring at present.

Important Announcement!

Holding as I do one of the finest stocks of Colonial stamps extant, and having made very large purchases of recent years, I have been frequently asked by my customers to issue a priced catalogue, and I am therefore including in my monthly Circular, a priced list of Colonials.

This will not at the present take the form of a complete or exhaustive catalogue of Colonials, but will merely consist of a list with prices attached of the unused and used Colonials at present in stock.

The quotations will be most carefully considered, and the prices will be found consistent with fine condition, to be most moderate.

No stamps will be priced that I have not actually got on sale at the figures quoted.

The Circular, enlarged as above, will be sent gratis and post free regularly to any applicant.

EDITORIAL.

Our R. I. Special—We dedicate this issue of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY to that splendid group of working philatelists known as the Rhode Island Philatelic Society. The city of Providence, where it is located, is rich in its philatelic history and the names it has inscribed on the pages of philately are written there in indelible characters. To President Mowry, dealer Mason and the coterie of earnest workers associated with them we make our profoundest obeisance.

* * *

A Fine Article—We can readily imagine that in the year 1871, philatelic editors lingered with laudatory comment over the signal attention that postage stamps received in the columns of an important periodical publication in the month of October of that year. Harper's New Monthly Magazine, October, 1871, contained an article, "Postage Stamps and Their Origin," by James M. Chute, that extended over ten pages and was illustrated by ninety-nine wood cuts of stamps, made excellently and clearly printed. Then, as now, Harper's was a leading literary magazine and Mr. Chute's article in that publication endowed postage stamps with a dignity that must have exerted a quickening and beneficial effect on philately. Mr. Chute who was in the foremost ranks as a philatelic writer in 1871, was an author who worked assiduously, as the stamp papers before and after that year testify; he is well remembered by a former generation of philatelists. In 1871, philately in this country was not wholly disorganized by any means. There were numerous stamp papers in existence and pamphlets, price-lists and albums were produced in a number that demonstrated that the pursuit was on a foundation that was firmly grounded. New York had its philatelic society and there were a few other philatelic "centers", the most important of which was Boston.

J. U. PERKINS,

514 E St., N. E., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Not Philatelic Enough—Mr. Chute's article very appropriately was embellished with a fac-simile of the Mulready envelope as a head-piece over the two column page. The writer told of the preliminary conditions that had their fruition in the invention of Sir Rowland Hill. In the course of the article, the stamps of a majority of the countries that had adopted the convenience of stamps are referred to and a wealth of historical information about the different issues is revealed and forms a worthy setting for the illustrations. The one criticism that may be made is that nothing is said about stamp collecting or philately and that, in consequence, postage stamps are exploited alone for their suggestions and not for their possibilities as the basis for an ideal creative pursuit. Perhaps, Mr. Chute was guided by editorial advice in this particular as it is not improbable that the editor of Harper's Magazine was unsentimental enough, from the philatelic view, to discourage any attempt to recommend postage stamps in their superiority as objects of collection.

* * *

Samples—Ten illustrations of United States stamps, 1847 to 1869, inclusive, are shown and the five-cent newspaper stamp, 1865, is reproduced in its original size. Mr. Chute said: "The United States has the honor of having used the largest stamps for postal purposes in the world, known as the 'Periodical Stamps' which were used for newspapers carried outside the mails. These were furnished by the National Bank Note Company, of New York City, and were surface printed from steel plates, and not fine line engraving like the letter stamps. The three values—five, ten and twenty-five cents—bear respectively medallion portraits of Washington, Franklin, and Lincoln. They were issued October 1, 1865, and withdrawn in February, 1869, having been used only in Chicago, Illinois, and Milwaukee, Wisconsin. As but few of our readers have probably seen these gems of postal art, we give an engraving of the lowest value." Speaking of our general issues, Mr. Chute said: "The Post-office Department has received the congratulations of several foreign governments upon the beauty and workmanship of this issue of stamps." The 1870 set is under notice. "They undoubtedly are the finest set of stamps in the world, and for delicacy of engraving, symmetry of design, and general contour remain peerless. The portraits upon them are mostly engraved from standard marbles, and are wonderfully truthful in every detail."

Various—Writing in the year in which the Swiss military stamps for the use of the French soldiers in Switzerland were issued, Mr. Chute said: "In February, 1871, the Swiss government issued stamps for the use of Bourbaki's army interned in Switzerland, which freed their letters through the post. They were very simple being printed in black on colored paper, with the inscription, 'Militaires francais internés en Suisse. Gratis.'" In the closing paragraph of the article were the following words: "Postage stamps are still in their infancy, and we hardly know to what extent they are capable of being utilized. We trust ere long to see stamps used for international correspondence. International money-orders have been issued for some time, and why not international postal stamps. The idea seems to us a good one, and we trust that international stamps may be current at no distant date, thereby bringing into closer union the bonds of human brotherhood." We dismiss this striking article reluctantly for the time; no doubt it will furnish further material for us.

A Good Sign—A correspondent tells us that at the great Paris Exposition of 1867, among the British exhibits, there was one that attracted notice from the public and admiration from the comparatively few philatelists who saw it, as it is to be remembered that in those days, the philatelic world was sparsely settled. As curtains for the large windows in the spacious parlor devoted to the display of the British products, transparent linens were utilized, on which the grandest triumphs of British brains and valor were depicted in heroic size. The chief representation was a memorial to the Penny Post in the shape of a huge reproduction of the famous Mulready design, which may be described as picturing Britannia with the lion at her feet, sending the winged messengers to the four quarters of the globe, where peoples of many kinds and hues await the intelligence. The inscription on the sheer cloth stood forth boldly: "Penny Post, invented by Sir Rowland Hill, K. C. B. Number of letters in 1839, before the Penny Post, 82,470,596. Number of letters in 1866—597,277,616." The words were repeated in French and German.

Still in the Past—While dwelling in the past, we may as well make room for an interesting bit of data that evidently has been preserved as a clipping since 1871 and which is submitted by a reader: "When the Japanese empire was opened to the outside world, the first mail from that legendary country was sent to New York in a sailing vessel via San Francisco, Panama, and Aspinwall. By a coincidence a mail from China via England arrived at the post-office simultaneously, and the written ideas and wishes of these two Oriental nations for the moment reposed side by side. In their route of destination they separated, and made the circuit of the world, to meet again in our great Western city of 'mushroom barbarians.'"

THE FAMOUS PROVIDENCE LOCAL.
A BRIEF STORY ABOUT ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING OF THE POSTMASTER PROVISIONALS.

Welcome P. Sayles, who was Postmaster at Providence, R. I., in August 1846, saw the opportunity to promote the convenience of the people, and ordered a plate for a set of stamps from Henry A. Hidden, a local engraver. The plate had designs for 11 five-cent stamps for city letters and one 10-cent stamp for out of town mail. The stamps were each one and one-eighth inches long and not quite seven-eighths of an inch deep and had scroll work in the four corners, filling the space between the edges of the Five Cents.

There is a variation in the stamps, for some of them have the period, following the word cents and some of them are without it. Hidden delivered the plates to Postmaster Sayles, and some sheets of the stamps were printed in an establishment at Turk's Head, the ink being black and the paper, thin and tough, of a yellowish shade that is intensified, of course, with time. Comparatively few of them were sold, and fewer still were used. In fact, for some time after philatelists discovered the stamp, which was not until many

Their life in the Post Office was short, the stamps and the plate, done up in a bundle together were taken with him as his personal property by Postmaster Sayles when he left the Post Office, and the bundle was carelessly thrown aside in his office. There they remained for some years, until one day his nephew, the late Lycurgus Sayles, afterward a well-known member of the Rhode Island bar, happened to see them on a visit to the office. He made some remark about them, and the Postmaster gave him the plate and what stamps he had on hand. Mr. Sayles took them home, and in the course of time forgot about them. In the meantime the increase of stamps started the stamp-collecting fad, the Rhode Island Philatelic Society was formed and the existence of the old stamps was discovered. The society finally appointed Alfred Dawson and George H. Wood of the once well-known house furnishing firm of Warren & Wood of this city, both enthusiastic collectors, a committee to find the plate of these stamps if possible. They searched through the old State House on North Main Street, in the belief that the plate might be among the things stored there; they hunted through the collections of the Rhode Island Historical Society, following out a story that Engraver Hidden, who, with Postmaster Sayles, passed away long ago, had given the plate to the society, but they found nothing, although they even searched through files of old newspapers and took other means of carrying on the search. Then one day a collector happened to show to Lycurgus Sayles one of the Providence stamps.

"Why, I think I have some stamps like that," said Mr. Sayles. He found the plate and a number of sheets of stamps and easily disposed of them all. The plate he sold to a Philadelphia stamp dealer for $2500 after several handsome offers had been refused. This was almost 40 years after it first came into the possession of Mr. Sayles.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

As usual we have received in good season from Messrs. Th. Champion & Co. the new edition of the "Yvert & Tellier-Champion" catalogue. The 15th edition for 1911 follows the usual style of this popular French publication, the most noticeable feature of which is the absolutely alphabetical arrangement of all countries, states or dependencies with the sole exception of the states of the Columbian Republic and the foreign offices in China. This makes it a very simple matter to find a stamp issuing state without having to think up its political or other status first in order to locate it under some other heading. One thing that immediately struck us on glancing at the new work was the excellent quality of paper used, which brings out the illustrations and letter press very clearly. The cuts are reduced in size, but are in general very good indeed and all sufficient for their purpose. Where special attention is needed for details of varieties, these are enlarged and described; and copious notes of value to the collector are plentifully sprinkled throughout the work.

A number of useful tables are found at the beginning of the book—a dictionary of philatelic terms, table of colonies, protectorates and foreign offices of European States, a key for identifying stamps by inscriptions, devices, etc., table of watermarks and of foreign monies.

The lists of stamps are numbered consecutively for the major varieties, but minor varieties of type, of shade, etc., are sub-lettered, a plan which we think all catalogues will eventually follow. Chronological order is followed save in the case of stamps which obviously belong to one series, though issued at different dates, when they are grouped together. Illustrations of stamps are in three-quarters size, but surcharges are reproduced in full size and as exact as possible.

Besides postage stamps there are included postage dues, newspaper stamps, registered, return receipt, express delivery, "too late," official, war tax, postal fiscals, postal packets, telegraphs and official seals, many of which are now omitted from some catalogues. Taken altogether the book is an excellent one even for the collector who is not familiar with French and well deserves its popularity with American collectors. Price 80c post free of Messrs. Th. Champion & Co., 13 Rue Drouot, Paris.

KING MANOEL AS A STAMP COLLECTOR.

It is by no means generally known that King Manoel, in common with the monarchs of Great Britain and Spain, is an enthusiastic stamp collector. Such is, however, the case, the specialistic tendencies of the last of the Braganzas lying in the direction of the stamps of Portugal and her Colonies and Brazil, which as an Empire was united with the Portuguese throne. It will be remembered that in the early part of this year he presented a collection of the so-called "King of Spain" reprints of Portugal to the Royal Philatelic Society.—Postage Stamp.

THE KING OF SIAM DEAD.

King Chulalongkorn Succeeded by the Crown Prince.

The familiar portrait of King Chulalongkorn on the postage stamps of Siam (indeed this is the only portrait used since stamps were first issued in 1883), must now be displaced by another.

The King died at Bangkok Oct. 23 of blood poisoning. He had suffered for several years from nephritis.

The Crown Prince Chowfa Maha Vajiravudh was immediately proclaimed king. He was born Jan. 8, 1888, and became crown prince Jan. 17, 1895.

King Chulalongkorn, the ruler of Siam, was a most enlightened Asiatic sovereign, who profited by European education and possessed the ideas of a statesman.

He spoke and wrote both English and French and was beloved by his subjects, and by Europeans who knew him, for his amiability and urbanity.

He was born Sept. 20, 1853, the son of King Maha Mongkut, in Bangkok, the capital of Siam, and was educated by an Englishman, Capt. John Bush, and an American woman, Mrs. Leonowens.

The rapid progress of Chulalongkorn in his studies caused his father to appoint him his successor on the throne. The future king passed his youth, according to the custom of his country, in a Buddhist monastery, fulfilling the duties of a monk and at the same time preparing himself for the office he was destined to occupy.

Chulalongkorn assumed the duties of government in 1873 and he displayed in numerous ways the influence of his European civilization.

ITEMS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

By CHAS. E. JENNEY.

The English journals of the latter half of September are naturally much occupied with remarks on the new Stanley Gibbons' catalogue, Part II, just out. In some countries, such as Chile for instance, the cataloguers seem to have gone to extreme depths from which only the charge the publishers make for correctly classifying, would seem to be able to rescue us. While on the other hand, in Japan they are crawling into shallower water by eliminating many things before listed and which they have made us believe we possessed.

The October number of the Stamp Lover is dedicated to the philatelists of South Africa in honor of the opening of the first Parliament of United South Africa. It is a special number of much interest, the many illustrations attracting close attention. The cover has a fine view of the Victoria Falls.

Herbert Clark has an article on the meagre philatelic literature of South Africa which consists of but two publications.

Guy R. Crouch has a finely illustrated article on the Army Postmarks used during the Boer War, which is particularly appropriate to this number and of historic interest. The extent of the Military Post-office's task is understood by the statement that the army mails from England exceeded in bulk the whole of the mails for the other inhabitants of Cape Colony and Natal, or about 750,000 pieces per week. In view of this fact military postmarks ought not to be scarce in England. The different forms of postmarks bore variations of the legends "Field Post Office, British Army, South Africa," of "Army Post Office, South Africa," or "Natal Field Force." English stamps were of course used, except when no stamps at all were available.

John A. Ornstein follows with an article on the colorless embossed early issues of Natal, stamps rarely seen in the average collection. It is chiefly a compilation without new information, but is plentifully illustrated; owing, however, to the character of the stamps, about the only part distinct is the postmark.

Melville has the latest word about the famous Stock Exchange forged shilling stamp. Plate 6 as well as plate 5 has been found forged and the dated cancellations show a period of their use extending over a year. A curious point that has occurred to us and has not been brought out by Mr. Melville or any other writer is this; the English collector has always maintained a difference between stamps used postally and those used fiscally. Now all these stamps forged were, so far as is known, used on telegrams and are telegraph stamps, not postage stamps. It is true that the Telegraphs had been placed under the control of the Post Office but the stamps used on telegrams do not follow the message as on letters, and their manner of use is distinctly different. Therefore, should one of these forgeries be exhibited in a postage stamp collection?

We are amused at the frankness of an editorial in the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly which voices the sentiments of many silent ones. It says "The Australian Commonwealth is humbugging us. For years and years the Commonwealth has been represented to be on the point of producing a uniform issue of postage stamps, but on one plea or another the event has been postponed again and again, and at the present moment we verily believe that we are as far off a uniform series of Australian postage stamps as we ever were."

OUR RHODE ISLAND PHILATELISTS.

A FEW RANDOM FACTS IN CONNECTION WITH CERTAIN ACTIVE MEMBERS OF THE R. I. SOCIETY.

By WILLARD O. WYLIE.

Wendell A. Mowry, president of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society, was born in North Smithfield, Rhode Island, November 28, 1871. He is of good old Rhode Island stock, being a descendant in the ninth generation from Roger Mowry who settled in Providence shortly after the coming of Roger Williams. Wendell A. Mowry received his early education in the public schools of Woonsocket, R. I. and was graduated from Brown University in 1893. Since that time he has been identified with educational work and for the past twelve years has been superintendent of schools in the city of Central Falls.

Mr. Mowry's interest in philately, like that of most collectors, dates back to school boy days. Like most collectors, too, his interest has waxed and waned, occasional periods of inactivity being always followed by longer periods of active stamp collecting. Mr. Mowry states that he has been obliged to build up his collection gradually and in this very fact he feels that his interest has been more keenly maintained. For the anticipation of adding some rare specimens, followed by the occasional realization of such hopes, is, he believes, quite as satisfactory, as securing a large collection rapidly.

Mr. Mowry's early efforts were devoted to a general collection, but for several years he has given his attention almost exclusively to the issues of the United States. He has a fairly complete collection of the early Internal Revenue stamps, perforate, imperforate and part perforate. He has sought to secure the various issues of envelope stamps, so far as possible, in unused condition. His collection of early United States adhesives is fairly complete in single specimens, while the later issues are shown in unused condition in single stamps and blocks of four. He is also interested in the stamps of the Canadian provinces, of which he has a creditable collection. In securing specimens for his collection, condition has always been made a requisite, and he seeks well-centred copies free from blemish. He became a member of the R. I. Philatelic Society at the annual meeting in 1905 and is serving his second term as president of the society.

Joseph B. McIntyre has been an active member of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society for several years and was president of the organization in 1907 and 1908. He is a graduate of Brown University in the class of 1894. He has been for several years the assistant superintendent of the large Pawtucket plant of the J. & P. Coats Thread Company, from which he resigned a few weeks ago. He is largely interested in several of the leading industries of the State.

Mr. McIntyre's philatelic interests began when he was a boy. He has gathered together a considerable general collection. During recent years he has given his attention almost exclusively to the stamps of the British Colonies. The newer issues he secures complete as they appear and he is constantly improving and adding to his collection of the earlier stamps. He is not satisfied with average specimens and the pages of his collection are well filled with splendid copies of well centred stamps in the finest condition.

One of the splendid workers in the Rhode Island Society is W. Irving Cox, whose services have been freely given for the promotion of its interests. Mr. Cox in his philatelic life has gone through the all too frequent experience of disposing of the boyhood collection and later taking a fresh start.

Mr. Cox can recall paying 25c for his first Treasury set only to lament the amount necessary to replace the same when the collecting fever subsequently came his way.

George C. Arnold, the energetic secretary of the society, holds a unique position in that he is a cross between a coin collector and a philatelist. The fact is, he has a very nice collection of encased postage stamps, his thirty varieties ranging from the 1c to 12c values. He is very desirous of having the question settled as to whether the collector of encased postage stamps is a numismatist or a philatelist.

GEO. C. ARNOLD, Secretary.

George A. Streeter makes a specialty of U. S., Cuba and Newfoundland and has a fine and growing collection.

A. R. Perry has been collecting for some twenty years and his collection now numbers about 11,000 varieties, mostly British Colonies and U. S. in unused condition. He has the later issues of U. S. in blocks of four. Mr. Perry has a very fine collection of U. S. Revenues. He has Hayti nearly complete and has also specialized in King Edward stamps unused.

John A. Solomon specializes in U. S. and colonies and Great Britain and colonies. Mr. Solomon is known to fame particularly because of his great interest in precancelled stamps, and is firm in his belief that his collection has few superiors. He has written several articles on precancelled stamps and has discovered many varieties. His collection of Providence precancels makes an unusually good showing. Mr. Solomon was one of the founders of the M. P. A. and has held many offices in this and other societies.

Robt. F. Chambers commenced collecting at the tender age of six years and has been at it ever since. At first a general collector, he now limits his field to the United States with a little attention to its colonies and to British North America and France. He has several good things such as a pair of 5c Providence used, on the cover; 1c Pan American invert; and all the general issues of the U. S. in unused condition.

One or two sidelines of Mr. Chambers' are found in stamped revenue paper and Civil War envelopes, having of the latter some 1500 varieties. At present Mr. Chambers is interested in the paper varieties of the current issues, and their machine perforations.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a half-tone illustration of a beautiful cover upon which is a pair of the famed Providence Local, the property of B. A. Webber of Ashton, R. I., an interested member of the R. I. society. Mr. Webber became an enthusiastic collector in 1884 and has confined himself to the stamps of the United States.

GOOD STAMPS AT LOW PRICES!

General selections only of 19th Century issues, marked at low net prices. The general collector with from 2000 to 15,000 varieties will find them interesting and money-saving.

About 12,000 varieties in stock, including many of the hard-to-get stamps. Prices average from 1/4 to 1/2 catalogue, according to stamp and condition. (In the case of a few of the scarce values, at a less discount.)

Satisfactory references must be given. State size of collection. Would like about fifty more customers who will use from $2.00 upward if suited.

Good Value for a Collector

His particular hobby has been the collecting of stamps on the original cover, and a very fine lot has been accumulated, in which U. S. including locals, B. N. A. and Confederates are strongly represented. Mr. Webber's gem is without doubt the horizontal pair of the 5c Providence that we illustrate.

Mr. Webber is interested in the general issues of the Confederate States, pairs and strips, also has a general collection of U. S. Revenues including M. & M. He also dabbles in permits, U. S. cents (practically complete to date), state bank and Confederate bills, old deeds and documents of all kinds. We should think that our friend Webber would be a pretty busy sort of a man.

A. B. Slater, Jr., of the R. I. Society is the original "blocks of four" collector and has during the past year resumed his old time activity.

REPRINTS OF SPECIAL ARTICLES.

(We have secured a nice binder of the right size for these reprints that we will send on receipt of 30c, which just pays expense of manufacture and postage. As reprints are issued week by week they can readily be inserted in alphabetical order. This binder is Carter's Modified Multibinder made to accommodate our WEEKLY reprints and every collector should have one. If two or three can be ordered at one time they will stand handling better.—Ed.)

ARGENTINE.—Maury's Collectionneur says that a new series of stamps is being prepared to take the place of the current commemorative stamps, Jan. 1, 1911. The South American Bank Note Co. has been charged with preparing the new stamps, and will submit designs shortly.

BAHAMAS.—The Colonial Office Journal says that the 1d Queen's Staircase stamp is shortly to be issued on multiple paper.

BOLIVIA.—According to Lemaire's Journal three commemorative stamps were to be issued for Cochabamba, Sept. 14, 1910; Santa Cruz, Sept. 24, 1910, and Potosi, Nov. 10, 1910. The total number printed was 2,250,000 stamps.

BRAZIL.—The Berliner Briefmarken Zeitung reports that a 100r envelope has been added to the current series.

Envelope.

100r scarlet.

COLOMBIA.—The Metropolitan Philatelist reports having seen the 2c of the 1904 type, without imprint of printer at the bottom.

CRETE.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 1d carmine and brown, surcharged "Ellas" in blue ink, the type of the surcharge being the same as Scott's No. 58 and 59.

CUBA.—The Toledo Stamp Co. writes us: "Our correspondent in Cuba writes offering 1c Cuba new issue inverted centers. Whether there is anything in it or not we do not know but will wait until we see them."

ERITREA.—Maury's Collectionneur says that a new 15c value is being printed in Italy for this Colony, presumably in the design of the 25c, recently issued.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The London Philatelist says that the stock of 2d stamps was printed in the new design in magenta, but that with the exception of less than a dozen copies, the whole stock has been destroyed. Collectors need not regret not being able to get copies, as having never been issued they are not entitled to a place in the Catalogue.

GREECE.—Maury's Collectionneur says that the new series of stamps is ready, but that none are to be issued until the exhaustion of the old series. Commencing October 1, the tariff on single letters for the interior was reduced from 20 lepta to 10 lepta.

ITALY.—Maury's Collectionneur says that a commemorative set of two stamps will be issued next year in honor of the 50th anniversary of Italian Unity and the opening of the first National Parliament at Turin. They will bear the portrait of Cavour, who shares with Garibaldi the 5d pale olive.

NEW HEBRIDES.—The note regarding the new set of stamps surcharged "New Hebrides—Condominium", in No. 1031, was all right as far as it went, but it omitted to state that the stamps were in the new colors. Smith's Circular reprints the following list from the Berliner Briefmarken-Zeitung, presumably taken from "specimen" copies. The name "Fiji" is no longer obliterated.

PARAGUAY.—According to a local paper, the Diario, two new series of stamps have been officially authorized, and presumably are now being prepared. These comprise the issue of a regular set of postage stamps, from 1c to 3p; official stamps from 1c to 2p; postage due stamps from 1c to 1p and post cards of 10c and 25c; and a commemorative set in honor of the centenary of Independence, including 3,000,000 1c stamps, 1,000,000 5c, 500,000 20c, 300,000 50c and 200,000 75c.

PERU.—Maury's Collectionneur says that the current 10c stamp has been surcharged "Espresso" diagonally in violet. Express Letter Adhesive.

10c dark blue.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—The Colonial Office Journal says that two new values are to appear in the current set, 21c in the color of the 6d, or lilac, and 45c in the color of the 1sh, or black on green.

TRENGGANU.—According to the Colonial Office Journal, the stamps for this native state have already been printed. They are printed in doubly fugitive inks, and all above the 10c value will be on surfaced paper. The colors are according to the color scheme, the following list being subject to revision when the stamps are actually seen.

Adhesives.

1c green.
3c carmine.
4c orange yellow.
5c gray.
8c ultramarine.
10c lilac on yellow.
20c lilac.
50c black on green.
$1 red and black on blue.

SWITZERLAND.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the tete-beche stamps, recently chronicled. As previously stated these tete-beche stamps are arranged for use in the little stamp books, and thus far have been seen only on the 2c, 5c, 10c and 25c values. Though used only in the stamp books, none of them can be found in the stamp books, as will be explained below. The books are made up of leaves of six stamps, in two horizontal rows of three stamps. These leaves are all bound together at the left, which necessitates leaving a margin of white paper at that place. The sheets as printed contain 90 stamps, the fourth vertical row being left blank though perforated as usual. These ten blank places have large holes punched in them. The sheet is made up as follows: The first three vertical rows of ten stamps are normal, and have the margin of the sheet for binding. The next three vertical

SPECIALIST'S ALBUM

MARQUETTE MOVABLE LEAF

We are offering an album such as specialists have been looking for. Our "Baby" Marquette Album is just the thing for a collector who is specializing in a country and finds the large album too large for his use. This album is specially made so that it can be placed in a safety deposit box, or carried around with the greatest of ease. The Album is 7 1/2 x 7 bound in full leather with gilt on loose leaf plan. The leaves are of the finest linen paper, quadrille and linen stub hinges. The "Baby" Marquette Album works on the same principle as the large book. This system has proven far superior to any other made. Send for our fine Booklet on the Marquette Albums. Price $5.00 Postfree. "Ask the man who owns one."

rows are also normal, but have the fourth row blank for binding. These three rows of stamps would be the fifth, sixth and seventh vertical rows of a normal sheet. The last three rows, the eighth, ninth and tenth vertical rows, have the stamps inverted, thus bringing the margin on the left as with the others. In making up the books the sheets are cut between the third and fourth vertical rows, and also between the seventh and eighth vertical rows. Thus it follows that no tete beche pairs can appear in the finished books unless the printer makes a mistake in laying the sheets. These sheets are not sold to the public ordinarily, but as a special favor to the philatelists attending the Berne Exhibition, a limited number of sheets were allowed to be sold at that time.

The following was presented:

Library Committee Report for October.

Since the last report the Library Com. has received the following additions to the library by donation:—Morgenthau's 33rd Sale, priced, and 23 numbers of Redfield's Weekly, from the N. E. Stamp Co., and the current numbers of the following magazines generously donated by the publishers:—Gibbons' Weekly, Mekeel's Weekly, Stamp Journal, Berliner Briefmarken-Zeitung, Postage Stamp, Redfield's Weekly, Attleboro Philatelist, and the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain.

C. K. B. NEVIN,
C. A. HOWES,
Lib. Com.

The following application was posted: Mr. G. Carlton Russell.

The following were elected members: No. 536. W. T. McQuesten.
No. 537. Henry Ades Fowler.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. L. A. Micheloni for a donation of $70 worth of stamps to be sold for the library fund.

It was voted that the House Com. have the society represented on the directory at the main entrance of the building.

Pres. Wylie informed us that the Carnegie Library of Pittsburg, which houses the A. P. S. Library, had purchased a collection of stamps. Also that the high values of U. S. stamps were not after all to be issued on colored paper. Various members were called upon for short talks and responded, and Mr. H. F. King entertained us by interesting reminiscences of finds in Confederate locals and other matters.

Mr. Sawyer exhibited a portion of his collection of entires, Mr. Dunning a part of his general collection, and Mr. Nevin a book of his United States stamps.

A TENNESSEE STAMP ROOM.

By MISS HATTIE R. STRATTON.

Knoxville, Tenn. has a unique "Stamp Room", one of the few rooms in the world whose walls are entirely covered with postage stamps. This room is in the home of Richard T. P. McNichols. Stamps to the number of 132,568 have been used in its decorations.

When Mr. McNichols was a small boy his teacher told him that if he would save a million stamps he could send to China and buy a Chinese baby and bring it over to this country to be educated. With characteristic zeal he began collecting stamps and soon had quite an accumulation of them. Finding that his teacher had been slightly mistaken regarding the price of Chinese babies, the stamps were laid aside and for years were almost forgotten.

A few years ago, when moving into his new home, Mr. McNichols came across the box of stamps, and it occurred to him to use them in decorating his room. So interested did he, with his mother and brother, become in the work that many more stamps were procured, by gift and purchase, until the entire ceiling and walls of the room were covered with them. In the center of the ceiling is a large star made of one cent U. S. blue stamps. At the end of each ray of the star is a United States flag all in stamps, brown four cent stamps being used for the staff of the flag. Around the wall is a frieze a foot wide, of envelope stamps.

From one to two feet above the baseboard are stamps of different denominations arranged in various designs,—as banner, harp, coat-of-arms, etc.

Bargain Hunters Attention!

To close out the remains of a collection and dealer's stock that we have taken over, we have $5000 worth of stamps (mounted and priced) running from 2c each to $3.00 each, upon which we will make unusual terms.

A $50.00 selection, suitable for a general collection, containing a large range of variety, no duplicates, will be sent upon approval:—

50% Discount for the pick of the lot.
60% " if you remit $5.00 net.
70% " if you remit $7.50 net.
Or the $50.00 worth for $10.00 cash.

Above lot will be sent registered, with a large block of imperforate Alaska 2c stamp, to any of our customers. References required from persons unknown to us. Or send $10.00 deposit, part or all to be returned as you request.

WHOLESALE

We issue no wholesale list.

Our surplus is disposed of in mixtures which are much cheaper than stamps can be bought from any wholesale list.

We recommend the following:

STAMP MIXTURES

We are extensive importers of stamps from all parts of the world, and our surplus importations are all disposed of in the following mixtures.

"A" MIXTURE

50c per 1000
This mixture is very superior and includes stamps from Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, South and Central America and West Indies, between 200 and 500 varieties finely assorted. Splendid for exchange and sale.

"B" MIXTURE

$1.00 per 1000
This mixture is a grade better, quite general in its character, most of the stamps cataloguing 2c to 5c each. Each lot guaranteed to run $20.00 or over by catalogue.

"C" MIXTURE

$2.00 per 1000
A most popular general mixture, rich in Latin American Countries, from which we are heavy importers.

"D" MIXTURE

$5.00 per 1000
A very fine class of high grade stamps, each 1000 cataloguing between $50.00 and $75.00, including stamps from all parts of the world.

HINGES

The "Schuster" Hinge, per 1000, 10c; 6000 for 50c. A good peelable hinge, per 1000, 15c; 4000 for 50c.

Over the mantle is a large arch in which is the name McNichols. Within the arch is an open gate,—a symbol of welcome to all who enter the room, and on either side of the mantle is a Confederate flag. All this is done in United States stamps. At one side is a large panel of foreign stamps, the stamps of each country arranged in some design characteristic of the country from which they came. The background of the ceiling and the walls of the room not occupied by the above designs, are entirely covered with U. S. two-cent stamps. The whole work shows a vast amount of painstaking care, ingenuity and taste.

The room itself is a veritable curiosity shop, being filled with curios from all parts of the world, many of them rare and beautiful. Concerning them Mr. McNichols can tell many an interesting tale.

RHODE ISLAND PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

W. A. MOWRY, Pres.; B. A. WEBBER, Vice Pres.; GEO. C. ARNOLD, Sec., 124 Washington St., Prov., R. I.; W. IRVING COX, Treas.; JEROME FLEISCHER, Exch. Mgr.; F. M. MASON, Lib. and Chairman Auction Com.
Meetings held every third Wednesday at Room 4, 63 Washington St., Prov., R. I., at 8 P. M. Address all communications to the Secretary.

Prov., R. I., Oct. 19, 1910.

The 210th regular monthly meeting of the society was held at No. 63 Washington St., Wednesday, at 8.20 p. m., Pres. W. A. Mowry in the chair. Ten members responded to roll call, after which the records were read and approved.

Pres. Mowry reported that the manuscript, etc., prepared by the Historical Committee and himself for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY was in Editor Wylie's hands—and would be published soon, in a special Rhode Island number.

Mr. Webber reported progress, for the new Membership Committee, stating same was being prepared, and the printer's new list would be ready shortly.

Mr. Mason reported that the photograph of the old society group taken July 7, 1896, at Hauterive had been framed. Among the prominent visitors from New York, Boston, etc., were John W. Scott, J. N. Luff, A. W. Batchelder, and Henry Collins, while the local philatelists were out in force, including Frank F. Olney, Chas. W. Hopkins, Geo. H. Wood, C. W. Bowen, Alfred Dawson, J. P. Calder, Walter Blake (the donor of the old photo to the society) and others.

On motion, it was voted that the statement, "Which is sent to all members when dues are paid," in the early part of the printed constitution, under head of official organ, be struck out.

W. C. Polk of Arnolds Mills, R. I., gave an interesting talk on Side Lines. His interpretation of their relation to each other, and to the main lines, held the close attention of all present. He was given a vote of thanks.

Secretary Arnold exhibited encased postage stamps, including denominations 1c to 12c, the metallic frames containing various advertisements of the period.

GEO. C. ARNOLD, Sec.

—"Some time when a U. S. article is in preparation would you ask the writer to touch upon 1847 5c orange and 1861 24c steel blue? These stamps list $3.00 and $2.50 respectively and I venture to assert that many varieties priced ten or twenty times as much are easier to obtain and better known to collectors. Perhaps there is some question as to their being legitimate shades?"—ELLIOTT PERRY.

should be in the catalogues of 1912, as also that of the United States, "new-old" Protectorate of Liberia, and of course the Belgian stamps to be issued on January the first, 1911.

Thefts of Stamps from Letters.—It is with great interest we read of the new United States law, providing a $500 maximum fine, or imprisonment, for the theft of postage stamps off letters in transit. Here in England, we have had the law many years. If any case is actually proven, the extreme penalty is not generally enforced, being a reprimand on the first occasion, and on a subsequent one the offender is instructed to search for fresh pastures.

British Congress.—Of course it has been settled to hold the 1911 Congress at Birmingham, and it is practically arranged that the 1912 Congress will be held at London again, but this next time will be under the control of the Junior Philatelic Society. Both these Congresses can be expected to be as large affairs as the one this year at London. Whether very much work will be done, does not really matter so long as the attending philatelists have a good and enjoyable holiday. It is now quite generally understood that no proper motions can ever be brought into form by this composite body. Were the British Congresses like the American conventions, something could be successfully done, but the minds of delegates from different societies and different parts of the country work in different ways. One realizes what another does not think worth the trouble. Members from one or two kindred societies will work against proposals or resolutions of another group. The only serious philatelic work that can ever be done to promote and further our hobby is by the philatelic press, and the lay press at large.

No New English Stamps.—Some of the "not so well" informed foreign papers have spread about a report that new 1/2, 1 and 2p British had been issued. Will collectors please note that no new 1/2d, 1d or 2d stamps of either King Edward or King George have been issued, and that the latter will not appear until next year! Neither has the 2d stamp been re-engraved—a statement started by an English paper without any foundation whatsoever. The only difference is that the shade of green is a trifle darker from the first printings to 1902, but the cause of this is chiefly on account of now being on chalk-surfaced paper. No re-engraved or re-drawn type has ever been issued, and even those who say that the 2d purple, that the P. O. intended to issue, was ever prepared other than in the proof stage, are all victims of their imaginations. The British Post Office in these days would not have been so wasteful as to destroy plates, let alone printed supplies of a stamp.

3c 1861 Envelopes on Orange.

TO THE EDITOR:

We enclose clipping taken from the Philatelic Gazette, pertaining to the 3c 1861 on orange paper, which are alleged to be frauds. The clipping follows:

To the Editor of The Philatelic Gazette:

During the past few weeks a number of cut square envelopes, purporting to be on orange paper have made their appearance. All of these were on watermarked paper, something entirely unknown to all specialists of the past. The regular orange envelope of this issue (a great rarity) is printed on a heavy wove paper, not watermarked, and it is the so-called variety 8 of this die. The new discovery appeared on various die varieties known only on white or buff. The shade of ink in which the orange envelopes have appeared is not uniform, although we have seen at least two specimens where the color of the paper is remarkably well imitated. It is the opinion of the undersigned that all envelopes of this nature are artificially changed. This opinion is strengthened by the fact that the collection, in which the first of the specimens was found, contained rare cut square envelopes, purported to be on amber and cream paper, were changings of the same nature from white paper.

VICTOR M. BERTHOLD,
 J. M. BARTELS,
 A. KRASSA,
 EDWARD STERN.

We are probably the dealers who have placed these stamps on the market, and write to explain the circumstances surrounding same.

On May 7th, 1910, we purchased a large stock from a former dealer, who has been out of business for 10 or 12 years; in said stock we found four of the 3c 1861 on orange paper. While we do not claim to be experts, we had no doubt whatever that they were the real thing, and consequently had them on sale at our store, during which time we showed them to one of our customers, who lives in Harrisburg. He said that he could dispose of them, and asked us to name a price, which we did. Several weeks later, he told us that he had disposed of them to a New York dealer, and to charge the amount to his account. He did not state what price he got for them, but we heard from another source that he sold three of them at $27.50 each, and retained the other copy for his collection. After an interval of a week or ten days, he brought the stamps back, with the statement that they were originally on white paper and had been changed chemically to orange. At the time, we considered this a silly statement and since have offered two copies to another dealer, but have this day written to said dealer requesting him to return them, so that we can ascertain beyond doubt, just what they are.

The article mentions that the first of these specimens was found in a collection containing rare cut square envelopes, purported to be on amber and cream paper. We know nothing about these last mentioned stamps at all, and from this part of the article, we have still a little doubt if we are the only dealers that have these faked (?).

Although the gentlemen whose names are under the article are among the best authorities on envelopes, we still have our doubts that there is anything irregular about the stamps, and think it just possible that some new variety of paper has just come to light.

However, if you are convinced the stamps have been tampered with, we give you the authority to deface the two stamps, which we enclose for your examination, and upon receipt of an unfavorable report, we will send the other two copies for the same treatment.

We would like to have the stamps back, after they are defaced, to be placed in our collection of "Album Weeds".

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 23, 1910.

TO THE EDITOR:

While the controversy is on regarding the 20 cent Confederate 1863, half used as 10 cent, Scott's 212 C, there can be no question regarding the fact that this stamp was so used and mail stamped with it was properly delivered.

I have a diagonal half, used on a piece of cover, postmarked plainly, Savannah, Ga., in such a manner as to show conclusively that the stamp was used as a diagonal half and the letter was properly delivered. The date does not show.

At that time the South had a new government that had suddenly come into existence and it was never fully or completely organized. Every Mayor was, to all intent and purposes, absolute Governor of his city, and every Postmaster was practically a Postmaster-General of his postoffice and the conditions permitted almost anything to be done that was for the good or relief of the people and the Confederate Government legalized such acts by knowingly permitting them.

LANCASTER, PA., Oct. 26, 1910.

TO THE EDITOR:

I was shown today by a friend the editorial in the last issue of the WEEKLY regarding my recent assignment and thank you for your kind words. The Associated Press dispatch quoted was somewhat misleading. On July 27th, I was stricken down and for several days my life hung in the balance. My recovery from this attack has been very slow but now seems sure. Sick and unable to attend to business, my affairs became somewhat tangled and the assignment was made to protect my interests until I could dispose of considerable personal property. The assets are largely in excess of the liabilities which are almost entirely of mortgages against real estate. While in stamps, I am not a collector nor a dealer but rather an accumulator. I have a large stock valued at over $25,000. This will be disposed of in the near future as, on account of my health, I will dispose of everything I have in the line of coins, stamps, etc., and take a much needed vacation in an effort to regain my health.

TO THE EDITOR:

I am glad that Mr. Flick has called attention to one great abuse in the stamp business, an abuse which I am afraid is all too common. I want to speak of another practice too frequently adopted by so-called stamp dealers. Some of these dealers are advertising big variety packets of a thousand or more, and the youthful aspirant to philately is assured that to buy one of these packets is the best way to start a collection. Naturally, if he can, he buys one of these starters, and what does he get? Nothing but trash, dirty, torn, absolutely worthless. His eyes are opened, he feels that he has been buncoed and beaten. That one experience is enough for him, and still we wonder why, out of the big army of boys that start in stamp collecting, so few keep it up.

I think that the recruiting committee of the A. P. S. and others might well direct their energy towards checking this evil. Of course I do not wish to be understood as condemning the packet trade. In fact I believe, as these dealers say, that a fairly sized packet is a good way to begin collecting. What I object to is the rubbish and trash which is too often foisted upon the innocent purchaser. The dealer who is really anxious to sell stamps and build up a trade should be the first to see that he sells good goods.

EDITORIAL.

History Repeats—The suggestion made officially that special stamps be printed for the use of the different departments of the government has inspired no little editorial comment in the newspapers. The feeling is pronounced that it is necessary to correct abuses to which the franking privilege undoubtedly is subjected. In the course of one newspaper editorial, we read: "It is proposed that special stamps be printed to be issued by the postoffice department to those entitled to use them. The agricultural department, for instance, would make a requisition for those it needed. The number used during a year would indicate roughly how much the carriage of its matter had cost the postoffice department, and reimbursement would be possible and proper. Every department should pay for the mail service rendered it. If that were done there would be surpluses instead of deficits, and there would be more force to the request for lower postage rates." These are strangely familiar words; but the explanation of their reminiscent sound may be had in the axiom that history repeats itself.

* * *

The Inception—About 1863, the plan was presented to allow those who were granted the franking privilege to use the regular postage stamps to be paid for out of the contingent fund of the house of representatives. There were some who were unkind enough to say that while there would not be so many public documents sent under this system, there would be a far more extensive use of the postage stamps for other purposes. We quote a commentator of the times: "This has been clearly illustrated in some of our states where the stamps have been substituted for franking." As an aside it may be added: "In one single instance, a member from Utah, in 1858, cost the government over seven thousand dollars by the transmission of books, etc." The suggestion that stamps be used was recognized as one that was feasible, however, and with certain modifications was adopted in 1873 when the well-known departmental issues were made. The history of these distinctive stamps and the somewhat questionable results that attended their use need not be detailed here.

* * *

Always a Problem—So early as 1782, it was predicted that the franking system would be productive of abuses and from that time criticism of the plan has never been wholly stilled; the objections were based, of course, on the fraudulent application of the measure. By 1825, the volume of franked mail had become so heavy that there were publicists who denounced the franking privilege as a menace so grave as to impair the strength of the government institution. It was said that huge numbers of letters, documents and packages were conveyed covered by the franks of officials, that were written, not by themselves, but by real or pretended agents, in violation of the law and that whole sacks of similar matter which had never been handled or seen by governmental functionaries, were transported under franks that had been forged. The difficulty of proving such forgeries seemed to have been such as to multiply the infractions; and successful prosecution of offenders was rare. A statute enacted in 1825 provided a heavy penalty for the counterfeiting of an official frank. The intention of the present officers of the postoffice department as expressed in the newspaper despatches will be followed with keen interest by collectors; and if an issue of departmental stamps again is forthcoming, the specimens will be eagerly accepted by collectors.

Bad News and Good—From the issue of Gibbons Stamp Weekly dated October 22nd, we learn that it is the intention of the publishers to discontinue the paper at the end of this year when the twelfth half-yearly volume will have been completed. The statement is made that the publication of the weekly involves a loss of about $6250 a year or nearly $125 an issue; and that "it is no easy matter to find new and interesting articles to fill its pages week by week." We are somewhat surprised to learn that the maximum circulation "has never exceeded eight thousand a week" in view of the enterprise displayed by the publishers in introducing the paper on railway bookstalls in Great Britain and promoting it by different methods that could be adopted only through the influence and importance, in a business sense, of its publishers. Over the counter, the paper was sold for "one penny" or two cents. Theoretically, Gibbons Stamp Weekly was almost the ideal publication and certainly was an "artistic success;" in fact, the paper may have been a bit too ideal to meet the somewhat material considerations that must be recognized by the stamp paper that would attain a real and popular success. Our regret at the impending loss of Gibbons Weekly will be greatly tempered, if not wholly mitigated, by the coming of the Monthly Journal, which is to be resurrected; and under the guidance of the premier editor of the day, Major Edward B. Evans, will succeed to the position that it held previously, that of the best monthly publication.

Perforated Australian Officials—Our Australian correspondent, R. J. Hogg, of Sandringham, Victoria, has sent an interesting budget of particulars of the perforated Australian official stamps concerning the collectability of which there has been some controversy ever since the adoption of the plan of perforating the stamps to give them a distinctive character. The information comes seasonably as queries have been drifting in as to their status rather more frequently latterly as the stamps become the more commonly seen. As a rule, cataloguers do not list these varieties and their course in excluding them is taken exception to by some collectors who maintain that in all respects the perforated official varieties are worthy of a full meed of recognition. One catalogue has told us that the tendency during the past few years has been to suppress rather than to multiply varieties in the standard lists and it is probable that following out that idea the perforated Australian officials are not really "necessary" varieties for the general collector in the estimation of those who preside over the destinies of the catalogues.

* * *

Explanatory—Mr. Hogg has written as follows: "Having noticed on several occasions that reference has been made in your columns to individual specimens of the stamps generally known as Australian Perforated Official stamps, I propose to give a few lines on this legitimate branch of philately which is sure to gain considerably in the near future in both interest and value of the stamps when the commonwealth universal postage stamps and rates are an accomplished fact. There being no franking of official postal matter in this country, except in the postal department, the ordinary postage stamps are in use, but to safeguard the revenue these were originally surcharged O. S. and, in common with similar issues of other countries, catalogued and priced by the leading cataloguers. Of later years, a system of perforating these stamps for official use was introduced, O. S. being used for those intended for the federal departments throughout the commonwealth, and also on those for state use in Queensland, Victoria and Papua. New South Wales has a very small, 'O. S.' perforated on its federal department stamps and 'O. S.—N. S. W.' in two lines, on those used by the state department; South Australia has 'S. A.', Tasmania, 'T.', and West Australia, 'W. A.' for state use. Although these stamps are regularly prepared and issued by the postal department for official use, since the advent of this perforating, English catalogues have seen fit to ignore them. German and French publications have noted them and in Australia, collectors have given them considerable attention and our sole philatelic paper, The Australian Philatelist, has published some really excellent articles on them."

* * *

To Continue—Our correspondent continues: "These facts suggest that our so-called standard catalogues, in reality are only a list of the goods which some dealer wishes to dispose of and it points to the necessity of leading philatelists taking up the question of a standard catalogue in countries where philately is strong. Regarding the market value of this class of stamps, as they are evidently very little collected outside of Australia, their values should be, at all events under that of similar stamps of the ordinary issue, although with greater interest in other parts, this would soon be altered. Evidently, a large proportion of official postal business is of a bulky character and high values are fairly common in this state. The prices quoted by foreign catalogues are far above the true values generally and are misleading and really just as harmful as the silent contempt of their English brothers. Even rare errors do not reach anything like high prices locally, with the small demand. Besides almost every denomination of the issues of each country and varieties of perforation, and watermarks in both forms of perforation, there are known errors such as inverted, double and vertical perforations. Many of the compound perforations of Tasmania are known in this state and many of the misplaced printings of the first or small type of 'Postage' in the oblong South Australian issues were used in this way." Mr. Hogg illustrates his remarks with ten specimens that show the different types of perforations used to transform the ordinary stamps into those of official kind.

* * *

Unusual—Fred G. Fuessel, St. Louis, reports the following postmark on a one-cent, 1857, United States: "U. S. Mail, 1 Apr. 14. Lively." There are letters to the left of "Lively" but they are not legible. Even so early as 1857, the words "U. S. Mail" were regarded as the possession of the U. S. postoffice department exclusively and no private letter-carrying concern would dare use the talismanic words. It is possible that the letters that Mr. Fuessel says precede "Lively" and are illegible would be explanatory if they were known. Perhaps some reader can tell of this postmark.

cle dealing with the Great Britain stamps used abroad, giving a list of the colonies, etc., in which the stamps were employed and the postmarks. Bright & Son writes us in relation to the same and we consider their letter of sufficient importance to make the following extract from the same:—"We may point out to you, and we think you might give notice to the effect that in our Catalogue we give a full list

U. S. 4c 1902 IMPERFORATE.

By KARL KOSLOWSKI.

On Friday, the 15th day of May, 1908, a lot of twenty-five sheets, four hundred stamps in a sheet, making a total of ten thousand stamps, were sold at the Detroit Post Office in imperforate form to a Stamp Vending Machine Co. It was a consignment for two local concerns who had previously bought machines and used the two cent of the 1903 issue; but as most of their samples and circulars required four cents on each piece, and the machines only place one stamp on each piece of mail, an order had been placed with the Postmaster General at Washington, D. C. a few weeks previous through the Detroit Post Office for ten thousand of the four cent stamps. They arrived in Detroit on the aforesaid date and were turned over to the Schermack Stamp Vending Machine Co. without being opened, so that in fact nobody in Detroit saw them in imperforate condition except the employees of the Scher-mack Co. and the writer.These stamps were worked up on the same day. First the sheets were trimmed of the end and right side margins, then cut into strips and pasted together in one long strip with the left side margin bent under, and used as a hinge and with a special machine, worked on the same principal as a sewing machine, cut with the private perforation and rolled up ready for use in the mailing machine. The perforation is now known as Schermack No. 3. All this was done in my presence, and the stamps were delivered to their customers on the same day. One concern received six thousand and the other the remaining four thousand. From their places of business they were sent out on mail, mostly circulars, and as there was nothing mentioned in the stamp world about that time, they all met their fate in waste baskets, and it is safe to say that they are gone for good. It would have been an easy matter for me to get hold of some sheets and hold them for the "suspected speculation," but not being aware of their real value and thinking that there would be more where they came from, I let them pass. Unfortunately it was after I had disposed of my first collection. But not being able to resist the old hobby, a few days later I secured some of the stamps with the Scher-mack No. 3 perforation, and it is a fact that these few copies are the only ones saved in unused condition. In used condition, a few more could perhaps be found if a thorough search were made.Before going more into detail I wish to state that the stamps I had were not taken care of afterwards for the reason that they were cut close at the top or bottom, or the hyphen holes were cut too far into the stamps, in the same manner as the current two cent stamps that were worn as badges at the recent
A. P. S. Convention. I used them up and only kept out the few best ones.There are known only about one hundred of the Pan-American two cent inverts, and I am safe when I say that hardly one fourth of that number will ever be known of the four cent 1902 type imperforate, as they are in pairs and strips. The members of the A. P. S. who were present at the Convention held in Detroit in August, 1910, saw almost all known stamps of this variety.

mired by many well known collectors.
To date the known copies are well distributed among collectors and dealers, all of whom value them as a rarity.Detroit collectors have the strip of five, two pairs and three singles; one pair is cut close at the top. Of the singles, two are used, one being still on cover with the large margin on the left. A New York dealer has a strip of three, used, with heavy, black cancellation all over the strip one pair unused and four singles; of the latter, one is used, and of the unused, one is without gum. A Cleveland collector has one used copy, and one copy on cover is in the hands of a well-known collector in Vienna, Austria, making a total of fourteen lots of twenty-three stamps. There is a possibility that two more may be secured, but so far as known they have gone astray on a piece of mail matter sent to Europe.—Philadelphia

Br. No. Borneo.

Clipping from M. A. LESSER.

William Clark Cowie, who died the other day in London, was a man of notable character and abilities, whose life was full of romantic adventures. He it was who practically created the colony of British North Borneo. Had it not been for him those 31,000 square miles of rich territory would have become a possession of the United States, together with the Philippines and the Sulu Islands. He first made his way to those regions, from England, in a little steam launch, which nobody believed capable of making the voyage, and which, as a matter of fact, was wrecked several times. Soon he acquired an extraordinary ascendancy over the natives, became an "admiral," and, in the intervals of trading, had desperate encounters with the pirates, who infested the whole Archipelago. In course of time, the Sultan of Sulu, who had the utmost faith in him, ceded to him the whole of North Borneo, whereupon he organized a British company to run it.
The directors soon offended the Sultan so badly that he revoked his agreement and it required all Cowie's influence to set matters right again. A little later pirates attacked the colony at all points and again it was Mr. Cowie who, at the risk of his life, succeeded in making terms with the marauders. He built the first railroad in that part of the world and established the earliest cable connections with other parts of the world. He also was instrumental in securing the British protectorate, which definitely put the colony outside the sphere of Spanish influence."GENERAL" PACKETCONTAINS NOTA BENE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.—The first official note of the approach of Christmas appeared today when the Postoffice Department issued a warning to all postmasters that Portugal, Guatemala and Uruguay refuse to admit to their mail articles bearing nonpostage "Christmas" stamps or the adhesive charity stamps or labels. Portugal's objection, however, is limited to such stamps as resemble regular postage stamps.Great Britain, Germany, British East Africa and a host of British dependencies will admit articles bearing such stamps when the stamps are affixed to the reverse and not to the address side. Articles liable to be refused admittance will not be forwarded from the United States, but will not be returned to the persons mailing them.Incidentally, the department has issued the usual annual caution that to avoid delay in handling articles bearing Christmas stamps, to be transmitted in the international mails, the covers of such articles should bear the full name and address of the senders.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

UNITED STATES.—A. J. Hummel has shown us one of the current 2c envelopes, showing a white mark extending from the "W" of "Two" to the outer colorless oval line. The specimen was from a box discovered in the Baton Rouge, La., postoffice.

Henry Bausinger reports having found a double print of McKinley's head on one of the new post cards, the extra impression being much lighter than the other, and about 10 mm. higher.

Claude R. Mowry reports having found on all values of the current series of postage stamps a short line running from the "G" of "Postage" to the outer frame line of the oval. In some cases the line extends only half way, and terminates in the centre leaf at the end of the spray.

F. H. Webster has been studying his common United States and has found the following minor varieties, due to imperfect printing:

2c Columbian—Line joining top of right "2" to left side of oval; colored lines severing the top of both figures; both figures disfigured by colored lines in various places; colorless marks on side and bottom of ovals containing the figures, in some cases the ovals being almost closed.

1c Columbian—Colorless lines added to the bottom curves of the numerals.

1c 1890—Ovals containing the numerals partially shaded; ornaments added to the bottom of the numerals.

AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH.—The following item is from the Sydney News: "From January 1st all postage stamps within the Commonwealth will have 'Australia' printed across them and will have currency all over the continent and Tasmania. Later on there will be uniform Commonwealth stamps."

Commenting upon this, Gibbons Weekly says: "The last remark has been ancient history for some years. It is always 'later on'! As a matter of fact, we believe the work is really in hand this time. But the prospect of having every shade and perf. variety of all values now current in each State of the Commonwealth, duplicated by the addition of a futile overprint which has been quite unnecessary during the last eight years, is one that makes our blood run cold."

BAVARIA.—Mr. Schachne sends the new forms for the following cards. In the last issue there was an apparently grudging concession to the generally current idea of allowing the public the left half of the card front for a message by shortening the address lines but leaving the headlines on the upper left corner. These cards show the left half blank and partitioned off with a perpendicular ruled line. Headlines, dotted lines and stamp are of the same type as last.

CHILE.—Philip Wolff has been informed by the United States Consul at Valparaiso that two values of the new set were issued September 26. Hermann Focke reports that some of the new stamps have arrived in this country, but beyond the fact that they are oblong and printed in two colors, is unable to give us any information regarding them.

Later.—Frank C. Davis has shown us three values of the new set, and we find that there are large horizontal oblong stamps, printed in two colors, the frame being the same for all values, with pictures and not portraits in the centre. The stamps are 23x33 mm. and perforated 12. As these stamps are dated "1810-1910" they evidently belong to the promised commemorative set. The stamps are very handsomely engraved and printed, a fact which is guaranteed by the imprint of the American Bank Note Co. of New York, which appears below every stamp. CUBA.—In re the 3c re-engraved stamp, Hermann Focke contributes the following:

"The following communication comes from the 'Jefe del Despacho' at the Havana Post Office: 'No 3c stamp purple of the issue of 1899 exists nor ever existed on paper without watermark, nor has there been a second printing of the stamps, as there is still quite a supply on hand of the first printing. The only existing variety is the surcharge of 1 centavo in red, that appeared in 1902.' It would be interesting to have somebody come forward with a specimen of the so-called reissue 3c stamp that would leave no doubt as to its actual existence."

FIJI ISLANDS.—Harry Fox reports having seen the 2½d value in a single color, as noted in No. 1028.

GERMANY.—Mr. Schachne sends the changed card and the remarks under Bavaria in this issue also apply here.

4sh carmine and black.

ITALY.—Mr. Schachne reports the 10c card with changed date.

Post Card.

10c carmine on white; "10."

MEXICO.—Gibbons Weekly reports the 50c with "Oficial" surcharge.

MONTENEGRO.—Gibbons Weekly illustrates the new stamps issued in celebration of the elevation of Prince Nicholas to the dignity of king. They are evidently modelled on the Austrian jubilee series, and show portraits of His Majesty at various ages. It appears that the currency krana values being superseded by stamps bearing the value in "perpera", which is evidently another name for a similar sum.

As noted in No. 1027, the 1 para gives a portrait of Prince Nicholas in 1855, when a student in Paris; the 2 para and the 20 para, the Prince and Princess at different periods, 1860 and 1910; and the 5 para, 15 para, 1 perper and 5 perpera, the Prince at various periods, the last showing a spirited picture, full length on horseback. The other values are not illustrated. Though evidently modelled on the Austrian stamps, the ornaments, being composed of flowers, grain and leaves, give an entirely different appearance. There are two sizes as illustrated, the 2 and 20 para being large square stamps while the others are not so wide.

NYASSA.—Gibbons Weekly notes an interesting variety of the recently issued provisional 50r on 100r.

The top line of stamps of one whole sheet of fifty has escaped the surcharge "50 reis", and appears with the word "Provisorio" only. If this is, as appears likely, the only sheet on which this omission occurs, then there can only be five copies of this variety extant, and its rarity can easily be calculated.

PAPUA.—We have received the following interesting letter upon Papuan postal matters from Hermann Focke, and reproduce the same in full:

"I have received another small consignment of Papua stamps from Port Moresby under date of Aug. 5, and wish to report the following: No 6d and 2sh 6d stamps were in stock. The 2½d horizontal wmk. Crown A comes now perforated 12½. The 1d now comes in the type of the 2sh 6d and the first issue of the ½d stamp, i. e., large letters 'Papua', and vertical watermark, both normal and inverted, but the paper is the smooth, white variety used, for the stamps with horizontal wmk. and the perforation 12½ is also of the small, one might say, pin holes. This latter stamp will be a surprise to the 'Papua fiends', as it will again overthrow the idea of a one-color new issue; still it may be only an intermediate variety, and there is no telling how scarce it may become. I received both varieties perforated 'O S', also the 2½d and 1sh horiz. wmk., perf. 12½, all used on cover to pay postage."

INDEX TO VOLUME XXIII : 1909.

NOTE.—Regular features, to be found in almost every issue, are not indexed. These include Editorial, Chronicle, Queries and Comments, News Gleanings and Society Reports. Items of special importance, however, which occur under these headings, have been indexed by their subject matter. References in general are to subjects rather than in the exact form of the titles.

REPORT OF COUNTERFEIT DETECTOR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22, 1910.

Proprietary revenue stamps of the 1875-81 issue are appearing in the market fraudulently rouletted. These fakes have been skilfully produced by removing the perforations of the common variety and applying a "roulette". While the work is not particularly skilfully done it would be well for collectors to be on their guard.

Collectors of cut square U. S. envelopes are warned against used copies of the 3c 1861 purporting to be on orange paper, but which are in reality artificially changed from buff. The true orange envelope is unknown in used condition and always on unwatermarked paper, while the fakes show heavy laid lines and a portion of the watermark "U S" "P O D".

The source of these rather clever fakes is a "stamp company" in Baltimore. The orange color is a remarkably clever imitation. A number of these "rarities" have been offered to dealers and collectors during the past few weeks at prices between $20 and $30 each.

BRANCH REPORTS.

Buffalo.—The fifteenth regular meeting was held Oct. 19, 1910, at the Central Y. M. C. A. Bldg. Preceding the meeting an excellent supper was served, the balance of the evening being taken up in examining J. W. Schaefer's collections of U. S. Proofs and Stamps of recent issue. —F. P. JAMES, Acting Sec.

Philadelphia.—The annual meeting was held at the room of the Philadelphia Stamp Club at 7.30 o'clock P. M., Oct. 18th. Pres. Hahman in the chair, with 13 members present. The Secy's report of previous meeting was read and approved. The report of Treasurer was accepted. The following officers for the fiscal year of 1910-11 were unanimously re-elected: Pres., F. Hahman; Vice-Pres., Chas. Beamish; Secy. and Treas., A. F. Henkels; Sales Supt., John W. Haseltine. —A. F. HENKELS, Sec.

ITEMS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

By CHARLES E. JENNEY.

Under the sub-title of "A Double-Barreled Protectorate," is an article in the Oct. 8th Postage Stamp on East Africa and Uganda, giving a little general history, a list of the issues, and a few appertaining notes.

In Gibbons Stamp Weekly of Oct. 8th the continuation of Melville's article on Postage Stamps in the making, familiarizes us with some of the methods of stamp artists and designers and appliances of the reducing processes. Under a paragraph on Harmony in Stamp Design are full size illustrations of the 2c 1863 Jackson and the 3c 1902 Jackson representing disproportionate examples, the first being much too large a head and the latter too small.

In the same number is illustrated in enlargement an intermediate type of the Germany 2 marks Deutsch Reich. It has the Roman letters of the later issue but the sunset rays and the numerals 2 of the early or German letter type.

Considerable space in the English press is naturally devoted these days to affairs in Portugal. At this writing the King is a refugee. All the philatelic world is wondering whether we are to have a new republic, or whether a short provisional revolutionary issue will be followed by a restoration set.

In the Postage Stamp of Oct. 15th is a collection of ideas of a writer who hides himself under a nom de plume. The article is entitled "Impressions of Collecting," and embodies the most compact common sense along the topics taken up, that I have seen in print in years. I shall have to quote briefly, a sentence from each of the subjects.

"The Album. Beginners should commence with a modest album, divided up into squares without specific guide as to arrangement and the stamps placed consecutively in the squares as received. When a few thousand have been accumulated they should be transferred to an illustrated album. When a truly representative collection has been got together the specimens may be transferred to a blank album if desired.

Catalogue. The catalogues usually emanate from houses of dealers and are exhaustive priced lists, invaluable as a guide.

When is a Postage Stamp not a Postage Stamp. When a copy in mint condition bears the words 'postage and revenue.' Such a stamp cannot by any stretch of imagination be called a postage stamp and such stamps should appear in a postage stamp collection only as cancelled postally. (Here he gets in a body blow on the English colonial mint condition collectors.)

What to Collect. This depends on the pocket. A well filled one enables most varieties to be accumulated. There is not much excitement, however, in collecting under these conditions. The greatest pleasure lies with the philatelist who has a meagre purse.

Perforations. Much ado about nothing.

Watermarks. Their study has no educational value.

Postcards and Wrappers. They are certainly postal emissions and should be included in catalogues and collections."

In addition to the above subjects the following are treated: Engraved, Lithographed and Surface Printed Stamps; Paper; Shades; Surcharges; Commemoratives; Condition; in all of them the author shows much wisdom and healthy balance of thought, except, in my opinion, the last subject, wherein he advises only the collection of perfect and lightly cancelled copies. Here he displays the artist rather than the philatelist.

An item in Gibbons Stamp Weekly of Oct. 15th suggests a new idea for the suppression of speculative issues. We believe the Berne postal convention some years ago passed the necessary ruling but have entirely neglected to enforce it. The item in question states that there is trouble with the Belgium post office, as it refuses to recognize the jubilee issue of Argentine Republic, treating letters so franked as unpaid and refusing newspaper and circulars. They claim to have received no official notice from Berne of the new issue and if so they are strictly within their rights, for the postal convention ruled that no commemorative issues would be permitted in the international mails.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

H. F. COLMAN,
723 ELEVENTH ST., N. W. WASHINGTON, D. C.

U. S. ON EXPERIMENTAL PAPER.
By EUSTACE B. POWER.

To produce the impression of a sheet of postage stamps requires, under the process now used, the dampening of the paper. After the impression has been made the paper is allowed to dry, and in drying it shrinks, thus causing the badly perforated stamps so often met with. In June, 1909, the Bureau of Printing and Engraving used a new kind of paper, of which 65 per cent was pulp and 35 per cent rags. This paper is distinctly bluish in colour, and when held to the light often shows the coarse texture of the rag pulp. So much for the description. Now we come to figures. There were printed of the stamps, according to Government figures, large quantities of the 1c green, 2c Washington, and 2c Lincoln; but of the other values from 3c to 15c inclusive there was but a very limited number printed. What we know of them is as follows:—

Three cents, purple.
This stamp has just come into our possession in a limited quantity from a person residing out of the city. There were 4,000 printed—of which 100 were kept by the Government—leaving 3900 to account for. As it is now sixteen months since they were printed and put into regular distribution stock for postmasters, the chances are that every one has been used up long ago and our small stock the only possible source of supply. Price is annexed at the end of this list, and on account of the small supply cash in advance is requested.

Four cents, brown.
There were 4400 of this value; there are 100 in the possession of the Government, and as far as we know no other copies have ever been found.

Five cents, blue.
These were advertised at fifty cents each by dealers in Saint Louis, but upon inspection they were found to be merely the ordinary white pulp paper variety. The error on the part of the dealers was probably caused by the fact that the face of the stamps was slightly bluish due to a badly wiped plate. There do exist, however, genuine copies of this value on the "rag" paper. We know of one block of four and three single copies that were found amongst remittances to a mail-order house. One hundred are in the possession of the Government at Washington and these seven copies are known; but outside of that the chances are they are all gone into the waste-paper basket as used copies of a too common stamp. For the benefit of any unbeliever I am prepared to borrow from the owner the block of four and exhibit it.

Six cents, orange.
Of this value 5200 were printed, and deducting the usual 100 kept in Washington, we have 5100 to treat with. I believe 1100 were found in Chicago; anyway, all that have ever come to light emanate from the original Chicago lot. Originally sold for $1.00, the stamp has gradually risen to $1.75, its present price. The orange ink falling on the blued paper forms a very marked contrast to the ordinary variety on plain pulp paper.

Eight cents, olive.
Four thousand were printed, and with the exception of the 100 in Washington, we have so far seen or heard of no copies of this value. Probably they have all been used up, or may lie in some stock of a postmaster, as since the registration rate has been raised to ten cents fewer stamps of eight cents are used.

Ten cents, yellow.
Four thousand were issued. I was the original finder of this value, and that by the merest accident. It was on a Saturday afternoon that I went over to the General Post Office for a supply of 10c stamps. It was in the spring, and the electric lights were burning at the stamp window. I bought four sheets of 100 each, and discovered when I reached my office that 200 were on the blue paper. Needless to say there was some tall scampering back after more, but without result. These 200 copies were sold for $1.00 each, and were cleaned out in twenty-four hours. A party in New Jersey has lately advertised this stamp at $5.00, but of his supply or quantity I know nothing. There are 100 in Washington.

Thirteen cents, sea-green.
Four thousand of this value were printed, so that, deducting 100 in Washington, we have 3900 available. I have never seen a single example of this value, although I believe some one in a small town in Illinois reported its existence. As the plate of this value is often poorly wiped, I would prefer to see a copy before actually chronicling its existence.

Fifteen cents, pale blue.
Again 4000 were printed—leaving us 3900 to find. This value is perhaps the hardest of all for an amateur to decide, as the pale blue tint of the ink neutralizes the usual striking blue of the paper. The value turned up in Cleveland and was marketed by a collector in that city; whether he has any now I do not know. Our copies are all more or less badly centred, and many of them have a straight edge.

EDITORIAL.

No Tax—A reader, who, judging from the following, found a prescription written on an old United States envelope, inquires: "Will you kindly advise me through your paper whether druggists' prescriptions would be likely to have any U. S. postage or revenue stamps of value affixed thereto? I refer to the period between 1863 and 1883 or thereabouts. Would the government consider at that time a prescription on a U. S. envelope as being the tax paid? What was the schedule of charges for this revenue in the period mentioned?" We searched the revenue schedules of the Civil war period and found no reference to prescriptions in the stamp or "C" schedule; but there are other reasons for the statement that no tax was to be rated by stamps or otherwise charged on the prescriptions in question. In an index of the revenue laws of 1866, the explanations are made: "Medicines compounded according to formulas in pharmacopoeias, &c., exempt," and "Written recipe, or prescription of physician, exempt."

* * *

He Found Some Stamps—Another subscriber wrote to complain that he had access to a lot of documents that had been executed during tax times but found that on many of the papers there were no revenue stamps. He said that the instruments drawn up by the city of which he now is an officer were the ones without the revenue stamps, while those made privately bore the specimens. While looking over an appendix to the internal revenue guide of 1866, we chanced upon the following as explaining the condition reported by our correspondent. Under date of December 29, 1864, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue decided that state and city securities were exempt from stamp duty.

* * *

Cancelling Revenue Paper—While the "Guide" mentioned in the preceding paragraph is before us, we shall quote a ruling of the department of June 23rd, 1865, that will be of interest to collectors of revenue stamped paper; and the following is a refutation of the claim made by a writer in speaking of a certain revenue stamp impressed check of the Civil war period that it was impossible to obtain it without cuts as it was required that the impression be mutilated, by law: "All stamped paper is cancelled whenever used, and the use of the paper by filling the blanks or attaching a signature, is equivalent to the ordinary form of cancelling an adhesive stamp by writing initials and date upon it. The entire paper is regarded as a stamp, and of course no part of it can be 'cut out' or separated from the remainder, and retain any value as a stamp. Any portion cut and attached to another paper is worthless, and such use of it is prima facie fraudulent."

* * *

Be Neighborly—Philip Wolff, Cambridge, Mass., addresses us on the subject of cultivating cordial relations with philatelic Pan-America and in the course of his remarks he speaks of the difficulty of arousing in this country any sustained interest in Latin America. He continues: "In consequence of ignoring these peoples, they seem to have an antipathy to the Americans of the north and only in Chile is friendliness for us apparent. In the South American stamp papers it is very disappointing to never see a Yankee name among the advertisers; it is almost always London and Paris dealers who occupy the trade columns. As it is probable that our dealers can make more money in this country than in the south, the case will have to rest. As Spanish, as a language, attracts students who succeed in acquiring it, let those collectors who write it establish philatelic connections with collectors in countries that are included under the Pan-American classification." Mr. Wolff has sent us a list of the comparatively few papers published and we shall print it in the next issue.

* * *

It Is Here—The new edition of the catalogue that is recognized as the standard of America is all the more warmly welcomed because of its arrival earlier than usual in the year. The advent of the volume, almost coincidental with the opening of the season, is a happy one and a stimulus is given philately at the time when it is most appreciated. The check to fullest activity that was so regrettable in some of the past years is removed and philately should now swing forward at a good pace.

* * *

They Trip—We respectfully hint to those great newspapers whose editors so sapiently discuss the suggestion that special stamps be issued for the purpose of correcting franking abuses in the various departments and elsewhere that the "idea" is "not at least novel" or "refreshingly original;" it is not even "new" or "an example of modern ingenuity." Editors, consult the stamp album.

* * *

All Around the World—We are rather impressed to see in the South China Morning Post, Hong Kong, October 1st, NASSAU STAMP CO., Ltd.

1910, a column headed, "Stamp Chatter, by 'Surcharge.'" The inference is that this stamp department is a regular feature of the paper and in the issue that has been kindly sent us by General H. H. Bandholtz, U. S. A., we find a dissertation on the Earl of Crewe's circular to the British colonial postmasters forbidding them to indulge in speculative practices; in our issue dated October 15th, the text of the statement is given. "Surcharge" calls attention; and justly, to the creditable record of Hong Kong; all the surcharging "was done because of fluctuations in exchange or alterations in postal rates." The only issue that might be challenged on this score was the single jubilee surcharge on two cents to celebrate the fiftieth year of the existence of the colony but the lapse, if one insists upon calling it such, was so slight that it merely loaned emphasis to the commendable record of the colony in the broader sense. In the estimation of some, a stamp column in the South China Morning Post may be deemed a novel condition but others will regard it, merely as indicative of the universality of philately.

* * *

Coming—A correspondent says that China is developing "superbly" and that it will not be long, if the present rate of advance continues, before it will have high rank among the progressive powers. The Imperial Chinese Post is increasing in usefulness and the extension of its services is causing the discontinuance of some of the foreign postoffices maintained on its soil as well as opening up new territory in a postal sense. China is rubbing its eyes and it will not be long before it is fully awakened; and enterprise is now being shown in the conduct of its postal department.

* * *

Coat-of-Arms—The Union of South Africa, comprising the Cape of Good Hope, Natal, the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony, in a legislative sense, has been granted armorial ensigns and supporters, and the following paragraph from the royal warrant, is descriptive of the national emblem, on which each of the colonies in the federation is represented:

KNOW YE therefore that We of our Princely Grace and Special Favour have granted and assigned and do by these Presents grant and assign for The Union of South Africa the Armorial Ensigns following, that is to say: Quarterly per fesse wavy First quarter, gules a female figure representing Hope resting the dexter arm upon a rock and supporting with the sinister hand an anchor Argent, Second Quarter, Or Two Black Wilde-

MARQUETTE MOVABLE LEAF

We are offering an album such as specialists have been looking for. Our "Baby" Marquette Album is just the thing for a collector who is specializing in a country and finds the large album too large for his use. This album is specially made so that it can be placed in a safety deposit box, or carried around with the greatest ease. The Album is 7 1/2 x 7 bound in full leather with gilt on loose leaf plan. The leaves are of the finest linen paper, quadrille and linen stub hinges. The "Baby" Marquette Album works on the same principle as the large book. This system has proven far superior to any other made. Send for our fine Booklet on the Marquette Albums. Price $5.00 Postfree. "Ask the man who owns one."

THE STAMP MARKET.

By SENEX.

Siam appears to be especially popular just now; most sellers seem to have a lot on hand, and in two places at least, they are quoted by the thousand. It had occurred to one that the Satang surcharges might possibly turn out to be "rising goods," since they seemed to be of the nature of provisionals; in this matter we must "wait and see."

It appears that there are not always enough copies of the 25 bani Roumania, 1906, upright design, to make complete sets of. Sets are frequently seen advertised minus this denomination. Here is possibly a good shilling stamp.

The new Austria Jubilees, of 1910, are evidently going to be scarce; local dealers' prices for used copies of even the 5 and 10 heller values are pretty high—though they may come down. Cancelled sets can be had, however, at a price that seems to be something of a "standard" quotation. Postally used copies should often be provided by philatelists in their correspondence from now on, and a scant supply may be obtainable in this way. Perhaps such items ought to be worth double-face.

A Continental firm announces higher prices in future for the drachme values of Greece, 1901. Therefore, no longer may we expect to see the old 1dr of this issue priced at its one-time figure of a few pence per copy; also it seems not improbable that one or two drachme values of Crete may go higher presently.

The 8c and 10c Canal Zone of the 1909 issue, seem a trifle more plentiful than were their predecessors of the 1906 set. As the big canal grows the world looks on, and the stamps of this narrow strip of territory grow in popularity.

The 25c Indo-China of 1907, also seems more readily accumulative than its forerunner of 1904; increasing trade may perhaps be responsible for this, but it would be kind of the traders to use a few more of the 20c value. I see the 35c of 1904, is now catalogued 1s 6d; according to accounts it seems it was not in use for much longer than a year.

The 2s 6d Lilac, Queen, British, is 6d on the Continent; the 5s rose, is 9d. Other prices observable are: 5 dollars, China, 1897, £3; 10 gulden, Holland, 12s (our English catalogue price); 25b, Roumania, 1906, upright design, 9d; 60 lep, Greece, 1896, 9d; 5 piastres, Egypt, 1872, 1s 9d; Chinese pictorial, 1909, 8d per set.

Presently, we shall probably be able to get the new Bosnia of 1910, 2 to 10h, at 1d or 2d per stamp, and perhaps, the 20h at about 3d—judging from current rates.

Montenegro, 1910, are already on sale; they seem a beautiful series.

I should like to quote the prices asked for used Austria of 1910, but the figures might conflict with the prices of some of our home dealers; suffice to say they are "pretty stiff."

The demand for British Colonial King's Heads is apparently spreading to the Continent. As some sort of a set-off against this, many British collectors are interested in current French Colonial and old German States. And this reciprocity is a good thing. Some British philatelists collect British only; in this (so think we) they perhaps betray something of "our insular mood." Foreign sorts comprise a very wide and delightful field.

Where a dealer goes to the expense of a half-page advertisement, he naturally fills the space with bargains, or with goods that are likely to sell readily at the prices offered: yet sometimes one sees such an advertisement (abroad) offering scarce old Europeans at prices which we might consider very dear in England. Again and again the conclusion is forced upon one, that there are many stamps that are cheap at the very top prices we ask for them over here.

A shilling seems to be the usual price in America for the 1 dollar, 1909—same as our catalogue figure.

The 5 gulden, Holland, seems a popular offer just now, at about two shillings per copy.

Belgian Congo, 1909, have gone up considerably in price since the set for 1910 has appeared. The 15c of the former issue is very noticeably dearer.

Buying Bosnia 1906, is something of an excitement on account of the varieties of perforation, but only two or three copies per hundred seem to turn out to be otherwise than normal.

There is a good demand just now for the higher values of all pictorial European.

Argentine, 1910, may be cheaper presently.

Denominations that are gradually falling out of use are an interesting study. It is not a bad plan to pencil-mark such items in the catalogue.

Passing historical events are almost sure to have some influence on the stamps within the arena of the scene of action. Let the philatelist study well what the nations are doing.

Knowledge is power, therefore study the catalogue. Make notes. Interesting figures occur in stamp journals relative to the number of copies issued of some desirable stamp; occasionally these are worthy of being transferred to the margin of one's catalogue. They may be useful later on. And so on.—Stamp Collectors Fortnightly.

INCREASE IN POSTAGE RATES.

Recommendation by Pres. Taft to Apply to Advertising Pages of Magazines Only.

Clipping from HUGO KUENSTLER.

Newspapers will not be affected by the proposed increase. The average haul of newspapers is only 300 miles, while the average haul of magazines is 1,100 miles.

WASHINGTON.—President Taft and Postmaster General Hitchcock have reached an agreement on the recommendations the President will make to Congress regarding a change in the second class postage rates as affecting magazines and other periodicals.

Taft will recommend that the magazines be required to pay the present rate of one cent a pound on all reading matter and a much higher rate, to be determined subsequently, on the advertising ing pages. Each magazine will be required to send a copy of its current issue to the Post Office Department each week, or month, as the case may be. There the publication will be dissected. The reading matter and the advertising sections will be separately weighed and the amount of postage computed by the number of magazines sent out.

Hitchcock told the President today that the plan separating the reading and advertising matter in the magazines is entirely feasible, and he believed it to be the proper solution of the problem. The hauling of magazines in the mail has proved costly to the Government, and both the President and the Postmaster General believe it has entered largely into the deficit shown each year in the Post Office Department. This deficit has been largely reduced in the last year, a saving of $11,000,000 having been reported as a result of economies put into effect by Hitchcock. The adoption of a new rate for the magazines, Hitchcock believes, will entirely wipe out the deficit and put the postal establishment on a self-sustaining basis.

President Taft is looking forward to a one-cent rate for letter postage and hopes to recommend it before he leaves the White House. He hopes also to back up his recommendation with figures and estimates which will show that letter postage at this rate still will yield a profit to the Government.

The establishment of the proposed new rates as to magazines, the President believes, will do much to bring about the one-cent postage plan. At the same time he thinks the magazines will be compelled to pay only their just share in the postal expenses.

722 Chestnut St., PHILADELPHIA, PA.MR. PUTNEY IN A NEW FIELD.

The Scott Stamp & Coin Co. is sending out a circular announcement to the effect that Mr. Putney November 1 retired from the active management of the Company to take up with a flattering offer from a financial publishing house in N. Y. City. Mr. Putney has been with the firm as its manager for the past four years and has conducted its affairs in a very capable manner.

Mr. Putney's new work will be that of sales manager of the Moody Manual Co. of New York. He will for the present devote a portion of his time to the business of the Scott Co., remaining on the board of directors as well as being secretary of the American Collectors Co.

Mr. Putney is very reluctant to leave the Scott Co. just at the present time, but his own personal interests demand that the step be taken. We feel certain that the cordial well wishes of a large circle of friends will follow him into his new field of labor.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Bertram Leer reports having found three Albinos in a packet of the current 1c wrappers. He also reports having seen a new stamp vending machine, which sells four 1c stamps, or two 2c stamps, just the ordinary perforated varieties, contained in a capsule, for 5c.

Henry MacConnell shows us a 1c St. Louis permit, upon which has been placed a 2c stamp precancelled "St. Louis—Missouri," in two lines. The matter is further complicated by the fact that the stamp is perforated with six large holes at the right, and imperforate on the other three sides.

AUSTRALIA.—According to Ewen's Weekly there is some doubt as to whether the stamps of the various Australian states are to be overprinted, "Australia," but one thing seems to be settled, that the stamps of each state will be good in all states, pending the issue of the Federal series. This will commence from Jan. 1, 1911.

BARBADOS.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 2d and 1sh values in the new colors, previously chronicled.

BELGIUM.—A correspondent informs Ewen's Weekly that the new set of stamps will be issued Jan. 1, 1911. The low values will have the Arms of Belgium, while the higher values will have a portrait of King Albert. A new value, 40c, is to be added to the series.

CHILI.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us another value in the Commemorative set, chronicled last week. The centre shows the Battle of Chacabuco, the frame being the same as in the other values. We are also indebted to the E. B. Cookson Co. for specimens of the new stamps, also for several specimens of the Juan de Fernandez stamps.

Adhesive.

GIBRALTAR.—The 4sh value has now appeared in the new colors, a copy having been shown us by the New England Stamp Co.

JAMAICA.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 3d and 6d on chalky paper, no other changes being noted in the stamps. A correspondent of the Stamp Journal says that a new series of stamps is being prepared for the Island, at least one of which will have a portrait of King Edward, which has not previously appeared on any Jamaican stamp.

NEW ZEALAND.—Gibbons Weekly says that the 3d and 1sh values of the current set have received the official overprint, and are now in use.

NORTH BORNEO.—The $5 and $10 stamps of 1893 have been issued with "British—Protectorate" surcharged in two lines in red. The New England Stamp Co. has shown us these stamps.

PORTUGAL.—A report is printed in the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly, to the effect that the entire stock of stamps, of the Carlos as well as the Manuel type, is to be almost immediately overprinted with the word "Republica."

TRANSVAAL.—The 1/2d has appeared in a new shade of green, a copy having been shown us by the New England Stamp Co.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

In a beautiful dress of maroon the Standard Catalog for 1911 reaches us for review. We do not need to say anything in connection with prices, as these will receive the early attention of practically every reader of the WEEKLY, to whom this catalog is an absolute necessity.

No less than 824 pages may be found in the work, the typographical appearance being of a high order and a marvel of cheapness, considering the amount of labor represented. It is supplied at the same price as last year, paper covers 30c, cloth 65c. By mail 10c extra.

The following "editorial" matter will prove of sufficient general interest to bear reprinting:

"Chalky" Papers To Be Dropped.

When first listing these chalky paper varieties in the 1908 edition of our catalogue, we stated that we were doubtful as to the wisdom of the step, and if experience proved the interest in these varieties a passing one, we reserved the right to omit the classification in future editions. Three years' experience has shown that the limited market was highly artificial, and the varieties themselves have proved of practically no interest to the great majority of collectors. Unless the present season brings a remarkable change in this state of affairs, we shall drop these chalky paper varieties from our next edition.

Spread of Stamp Collecting.

It gives us pleasure to report a continuance of the new wave of stamp collecting interest noted last year. The increase in the number of collectors has occurred not only in this country, but to an even greater degree in Europe. This is probably due in part to the greater publicity being given to stamp matters in the newspapers, especially the widely published fact that the present King of England is owner of one of the finest collections in the world, while many other leading and well known men are enthusiastic philatelists.

The new demand has shown itself particularly in the old issues. The early issues of nearly all countries, in fine condition, are rapidly disappearing from the market, and 'nice things' are bringing constantly higher prices.

Prices in This Catalogue.

To follow the market we have been compelled to raise many quotations, particularly on old issues. As previously stated in recent editions of our catalogue, however, we are adhering to our policy of keeping quotations down, rather than attempting to go ahead of the market. It is possible that many prices in the present catalogue will prove too low, even before the active stamp season is well begun, but we believe such a state of affairs more healthy than highly inflated catalogue quotations accompanied by ridiculous discounts.

United States Stamps.

We may emphasize again that the early United States stamps in really fine condition are becoming exceedingly hard to secure. In fact, a collection of U. S. stamps in such condition as would be called 'fine' for the stamps of many other countries whose issues are not so badly centered and heavily cancelled, is to-day almost impossible to obtain. We have been obliged to raise quotations to a moderate degree on many of the issues of this country, but it is possible that some quotations will have to be raised Excluded Varieties.

Our present policy of excluding from the catalogue, as far as possible, purposely made errors of hand-stamped surcharges (the possible variety of which is almost limitless) is now so generally understood and has been received with such general favorable comment, that it requires no further explanation this year.

CERTAIN BRAZIL PERFORATIONS.

By CHAS. J. PHILLIPS.

During my visit to Rio de Janeiro I purchased a mixed parcel of Brazilian stamps, collected from all parts of the country, and numbering some 300,000. The contents of this parcel included the issues from about 1893 to 1908, and I have had the whole of the stamps carefully sorted in Rio, and I think that collectors of this most interesting country may like to know how very rare certain varieties of perforation are shown to be.

The following numbers are those of our new catalogue for 1911:—

Cat. No.	Perf.	No. found.
1894	12½ to 14, 20r.....	2 in 30,000
242	" 200r.....	7 " 29,000
243	" 300r.....	13 " 3,300
273	" 12½ to 14, 200r (thick pp), 8 "	29,000
350	1899 9 x 11½, 20r.....	16 " 30,000
352	" 200r.....	30 " 29,000
358a	1900 12½ to 14, 200r.....	36 " 20,000
	This 200r is not yet catalogued.
367a	1900 12½ to 14, 100r.....	24 " 28,000
	This 100r is also not catalogued in Die II.
370	1905 12½ to 14, 200r.....	23 " 20,000
370a	" 12½ to 14 x 11 to 11½, 200r 4 "	20,000
	This last 200r is also not catalogued.

These few figures will serve to show collectors how really rare some of these varieties are; the prices, instead of being 2s 6d to 10s each, ought to be several pounds each.

I might also mention that it has cost us considerably over £20, in labour alone, to sort out this parcel of Brazilian stamps, and I really think that collectors, who sometimes complain of the prices asked by dealers for rare varieties of perforation or rare types of a common stamp, should bear in mind the tremendous labour and expense that the dealer is put to in finding the rare little varieties.

The more I study the stamps of Brazil, from the first issue to the last, the more interesting do I find them, and there are indeed many, many problems still to be worked out in the issues of this country.

Perhaps in the future we shall find a "Hausburg" or a "Bacon" who will devote a few years' study to the issues of Brazil, and evolve order out of chaos.—Gibbons Weekly.

"LAID" PAPER.

Every collectors knows, or should know what ordinary laid paper is and how it is manufactured, but there is a so-called "laid" paper, found in connection with certain colonial stamps, that has always been more or less of a mystery. The only explanation of these varieties hitherto published is that they were unintentionally caused during the process of printing, but in a letter to The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly, Mr. Irwin Faris has, I think, found the solution to the mystery. Mr. Faris expresses a doubt as to the existence of the 2s New Zealand stamp of 1902-7 on ordinary laid paper. Says he:

"I have during several years past endeavoured to obtain a copy of the reputed 2s, laid, but none of the dozens submitted has been on genuine laid paper. At first sight, and if examined on a flat surface they appear to be such, especially in the margins, but when held to the light the lines disappear, proving them to be superficial."

Mr. Faris then gives a very feasible explanation as to the cause of this "laid" paper as follows:

"The cylinder of a printing machine is always covered with some yielding substance in the nature of a pad, such as felt, rubber, etc., which at the point (or, rather, line) of contact prevents the metal cylinder from damaging the type or plate. This pad is termed a 'blanket.' Years back, numerous experiments were made in 'blankets' of almost every conceivable kind, with a view to improving results in half-tone printing for which the ordinary kinds were not altogether suitable. Many of these blankets were of wire, some being—

"A. Frames with vertical or horizontal wires.

"B. Frames in the form of a brush (similar to a large hair-brush with fine, flexible wires).

"C. Frames of flexible steel.

"In half-tone printing dry paper is used, but for engraved plates the paper is 'damped' (saturated with water) before printing, and therefore becomes impressed with whatever design the depressions or protrusions in the blanket form, but such impressions are not sufficiently deep to show through the paper when it is held to the light. I consequently believe that blanket A is responsible for our so-called laid paper; blanket B for the pin-prick marks noticeable on many of the soft Waterlow issues, and blanket C for the 'ribbed' paper (of the Waterlow kinds) in the colonial prints of 1898-1900, and which many collectors considered varieties."

It may be asked, if this is the correct solution, Why do these "blanket" marks only show on some sheets and not on others, when it is reasonable to suppose that all were printed on the same machine? Possibly some sheets are extra "sensitive," owing to an excessive amount of damping, but whatever the cause, I think there can be little doubt that these "laid" varieties are due to pressure during the process of printing. This also applies to surface-printed stamps, when the paper is not damped, such as the Ceylon 2r 50c of 1872-80, and other varieties well known to specialists as existing on a so-called "laid" paper.—Gibbons Weekly.

REPRINTS OF SPECIAL ARTICLES.

(We have secured a nice binder of the right size for these reprints that we will send on receipt of 30c, which just pays expense of manufacture and postage. As reprints are issued week by week they can readily be inserted in alphabetical order. This binder is Carter's Modified Multibinder made to accommodate our WEEKLY reprints and every collector should have one. If two or three can be ordered at one time they will stand handling better.—Ed.)

H. N. MUDGE, Pres.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

At the Detroit Convention, General Coolidge offered a resolution to have a badge manufactured and placed on sale by the manufacturer to members of the association. The following design was submitted by General Coolidge:

(The little points on the outside of the globe of the design, show the line of the division of the blue and red.)

In the above design, the lettered band is half blue and half red, with the letters composing the words "American Philatelic Society" in gold or silver. The center, representing the Pacific Ocean, is white, and the continents on each side of the ocean are in gold or silver.

Suggestions of changes or new designs are invited by your Board of Vice Presidents, with a view of securing a design which will be acceptable to the majority of our members. When the design is selected, members will be advised where they can be purchased and for what price.

243 books retired (priced $4,141.60), 997.38

Balance on hand Sept. 30, 1910, $4,632.79

Within the past few days, numerous requests to be placed on circuit have come in from members, and we are glad to state that books are going out rapidly, promising a good season for the Department. We would especially call the attention to those who have never availed themselves of the privileges of the Sales Department, to its great value and to the fine and large selections of stamps which we are enabled to place before those desiring same. We also urge upon the members having duplicates that they purchase books of the Sales Department, at the price of 5c each, fill them and send in for circulation. If prices are reasonable and the condition of the stamps good, excellent sales are sure to result.

The following reports of sales made during this first quarter of the Association year by Branch Managers have been made:

13 Ross O'Shaughnessy, San Fran., Calif., 6.44
14 E. J. Crawford, Fresno, Calif., 4.67

As in the past, we may state that Branch Managers will receive 2½% in cash at the end of the Society year (June 30, 1911) for sales made through them provided the total reaches at least $200.00 for the year. In addition to the above cash compensation, the Sales Superintendent offers prizes in stamps for the four best results: 1st, $10.00; 2d, $5.00; 3rd, $3.00, and 4th, $2.00 Scott's catalogue value according to want list of the 19th Century.

Once more, we call attention of the Branches not having appointed Managers to the advisability of doing so at an early date, in order to secure the benefit of the large number of books which are in circulation. Particulars will be furnished upon application.

Respectfully submitted,

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322, Tremont Bldg., 7.30 P. M.

BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 12, 1910.

The 236th (regular) meeting of the society will be held at the Club Room on Tuesday evening, November 15th, at 7.30 o'clock.

There will be a competitive exhibition of Portuguese and Spanish Colonies, the former being especially timely in view of the recent political change in the mother country, and the prospect of stamp changes to follow. Collections may be left with Mr. E. F. Sawyer, 30

School St., or at the N. E. Stamp Co., 12 Bromfield St.

A special exhibition of the fine collection of Mauritius belonging to Mr. Geo. H. Worthington will be a feature of the evening.

The following candidate for admission will be voted upon:

Mr. G. CARLTON RUSSELL.
Those remaining in town for the meeting will find companionship at the Crawford Café, 13 Brattle St., about 6 p. m.

C. A. HOWES, Sec.

IMPORTANT!

It is due time for 1910, and some of the members are advised that there is a membership card awaiting them at the Treasurer's, 771 Hancock St., Wollaston, Mass.

OUR ENGLISH LETTER.

By WM. WARD.

New British Stamps.—I hear from an official source that the new stamps will not be issued until May next year. With one or two exceptions the colors will remain as before, and a couple of new values are likely to make their appearance. The style of design will be of the "simple" kind, not dissimilar from the new 7p gray black, which, by the way, is unobtainable at many postoffices,—postmasters being informed that no further printing has been, or will be, made. There is little demand for this stamp and postmasters will not fill in on their requisition forms, preferring the old conservative way of a six penny and one penny to make seven pence!

Discontinuance of Gibbons Weekly.—Mr. Phillips of Gibbons Stamp Weekly has decreed that the current volume shall be the last. Mr. Phillips says that the journal did not pay and that it never got to the greater circulation of some of the Continental stamp journals. How can he expect a circulation in Great Britain equal to that enjoyed by Senf Brothers' Journal, which he quotes? The latter paper circulates not only in the German Empire,—with four times as many collectors as in Great Britain, if not more—but in Russia, Italy, Austria, Hungary, Balkan and Scandinavian States and Holland. For some time Gibbons Stamp Weekly has not contained matter that appeals to the general collector. The best days of Gibbons Stamp Weekly were enjoyed under the editorship of Messrs. Nankivell and Phillips and provisionally under Percy Barnsdall. The former left in order to run a journal of his own; the second, a brilliant philatelic writer, ceased work on leaving the firm of Gibbons. A philatelic journal, like any other, must contain copy that appeals to the mass. There are many stamp periodicals that are trade journals and if Mr. Phillips ever thought he could run a profitable one for his firm, without the necessity of up-to-dateness, smart ads and special offers, he has now seen his mistake. Had G. S. W. been under the regime of the Gibbons' Broadway Branch, I guess that it would not now, in its sixth year, be ceasing publication because "it didn't pay".

That Newfoundland Set.—This is a fine example of English typographical, or lithographic, art! The directors of the American Bank Note Company must be gnashing their teeth at this excellent of their fine work! Even the native lithographers of Bogota would be insulted at the issue.

Philately in the English Newspapers.—Many English newspapers are running special philatelic articles in their columns. These are written mostly by philatelic writers, and besides creating a deal of interest, are really proving to be the cause of recruits to our hobby. This month's (October) issue of the Stamp Collector has a very fine article on "The Penny Post", which was taken from the Manchester Evening News, the first great British daily to occasionally give philatelic articles. Though many may think that the subject of the "Penny Post" must by this time be worn threadbare, the article in question is perhaps the best that has ever been written. It goes to prove that the origin of penny postage owes its success to the advent of free trade in Great Britain more than anything else. It deals with the great Cobden, one of the founders of free trade, and of Birmingham, which in those days was not predominated by those poorly balanced minds that fear a German invasion. No one should be able to realize the benefits of free trade better than the American stamp dealer. Today he can buy stamps where he will and sell cheaper to his customers and compete successfully against the European dealer. Those old established American dealers who remember the days of a duty on stamps for collections would never be likely to care for those days to come back. It is the same in all business and trades—protection helps a minority and throttles a majority. Penny postage between Great Britain and the States is purely on account of "blood". But it has bound Great Britain closer than the old Colonial days.

The U. S. S. A. Stamps.—This has nothing to do with the great Republic. It is the title of the new special 2½p stamp of the United States of South Africa, issued to commemorate the unification of the British South Africa Colonies. It may be of interest to note that

H. F. COLMAN,
 723 ELEVENTH ST., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C.

TWENTIETH CENTURY MAURITIUS.

By D. B. ARMSTRONG.

Known as the "Star and Key of the Indian Sea," Mauritius lies some 500 miles to the east of the island of Madagascar, and rather more than 1,000 from the nearest point on the African coast.

It has a total area of 705 square miles exclusive of its dependencies, and a population of 375,385, largely composed of Indian and Chinese coolies, who are employed in large numbers on the numerous sugar plantations which the island contains.

Mauritius is a Crown Colony and is administered by a Governor, assisted by an Executive Council of five members, a Council of Government, and a local Legislative Council. Most of the white inhabitants are of French descent, and French is chiefly spoken.

The following small groups of islands in the Indian Ocean are dependencies of Mauritius: Rodrigues, Diego Garcia, and Chagos.

Mauritius is chiefly notable to philatelists by reason of its first issue of postage stamps, known as the "Post Office" Mauritius, which are among the rarest and most famous postage stamps extant.

Stamps first issued September 21st, 1847. Entered Universal Postal Union April 1st, 1877.

Imperial Penny Postage adopted. ? 1902.

The first postal emissions made by this colony during the twentieth century took the form of four additions to the series in the current Arms type which made their appearance during 1901.

1901.

Design: Arms of colony as above. Wmk. Crown C A (single). Perf. 14. Value in second colour. Dates of issue appended in brackets.

1c, grey and black (August, 1901).
 2c, dull and bright purple (July, 1901).
 4c, purple and carmine on yellow (1901).
 15c, green and orange (July, 1901).

Owing to a recent reduction in the postal rate to Great Britain and also for use in the prepayment of the registration fee, the want of a 12 cents stamp was keenly felt in the colony, and in order to temporarily meet this requirement, until a supply in the permanent type could be obtained from England, a provisional stamp of this value was extemporized, by overprinting the 18 cents of the issue of 1895 with the value "12 CENTS," in figures and words, in two lines. This stamp was surcharged locally, and placed on sale on January 24th, 1902. It was overprinted in panes of sixty, ten rows of six, the top three rows of which, and also No. 24 in the pane, had a single bar cancelling the original value, whilst the remainder had two such bars.

On some of the stamps a slight variation in the space between the figures "12" and the word "CENTS" may be found, which measures in some instances 4½ millimetres, instead of 3 only as in the normal.

January 24, 1902.

Provisional issue. The 18c of 1895 surcharged "12 CENTS" in two lines, with one or two bars obliterating the original value, in black. Design: Arms of the colony. Wmk. Crown C A (single). Perf. 14.

12c on 18c, green and ultramarine. About 30,000 copies are said to have been issued.

In the summer of 1902 the colonial authorities of Mauritius decided to amalgamate their Postage and Revenue stamps and to issue in future a single series available for either fiscal or postal use. To this end a new series of stamps was ordered from England, of which all values were to be partially printed in doubly fugitive ink as a prevention against cleaning, and in the meantime, pending their receipt in the colony, certain of the current stamps were overprinted with the inscription "Postage & Revenue" to signify that they might be employed for either of these purposes.

In this connection also the following official communication was issued:

"The public is hereby informed that stamps heretofore used as postage stamps only, as well as further issues whether surcharged or not with the words 'Postage & Revenue' may be used for Postage and Revenue purposes.

(Signed) "L. S. R. DU VERGE, Acting Receiver-General.
 26th June, 1902."

The stamps overprinted with the above inscription were of the values 4, 6, 15, 25, 50 cents, and 2r 50c respectively, and belonged to various issues. The 4 and 15 cents were of the issue of 1900 and the 6 cents that of the year previous, these stamps all bore the design of the Arms of the colony. The remaining denominations had for their design the head of the late Queen Victoria, enclosed in various frames, and were of the issues of 1879-83.

They were surcharged locally in half-panes of thirty, excepting the 4 cents, which was overprinted in complete panes and had the side margins removed. Movable type was used, and that none of the best, for, though there are no important varieties, instances of broken and misplaced letters are frequent. All except the 4 and 6 cents were issued on July 7th, 1902, these two stamps following on the 16th of the same month. A second printing of the 4 cents only was made about September. The reason why the lower denominations of 1, 2 and 3 cents did not receive this overprint was that there was no fiscal duty for which they could be employed, the separate revenue series which these stamps replaced having contained no stamp of a less value than 4 cents.

July 7th and 16th, 1902.

Stamps of 1879-80, 1883, 1899, 1900, overprinted "Postage & Revenue" vertically, in two lines, in black, reading "Postage &" up on the left, and "Revenue" down on the right-hand side of the stamp. Wmks. Crown C C. and Crown C A (single). Perf. 14.

 6c, green and rose-red (180,000).
 15c, green and orange (256,500).
 25c, olive-bistre (73,560).
 50c, green (54,540).
 2r 50c, brown-purple (8400).

On September 22nd of the same year a further provisional stamp was issued. There being considerable stocks on hand, amounting in all to about 69,350 copies, of the large 36 cents Pictorial stamp, which was issued on May 23rd, 1898, in celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of the late Queen Victoria; and there being now little or no demand for that value in consequence of a general reduction in postal rates; it was decided to overprint these remainders with the value of 12 cents and so use them up, this value being much used.

This was accordingly done, the sheets being divided into blocks of thirty, ten rows of three, without side margins, and surcharged "12 CENTS" in two lines, in black, in type similar to that employed for the 12 cents on 18 cents listed above, with a long black bar through the original value tablet.

Three distinct types of bar are to be found, which were distributed over the sheet as follows:

Single thick bar in one piece. Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 25, and 28.
 Thick bar in two portions. Nos. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 19, and 22.
 Two parallel thin bars. Nos. 15, 17, 18, 20, 21, 23, 24, 26, 27, 29, and 30.

PHILADELPHIA STAMP COMPANY,

PERCIVAL PARRISH, PRESIDENT,

1204 CHESTNUT STREET.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

September 22nd, 1902.

Provisional issue. The Jubilee stamp of 1898 surcharged "12 CENTS" in two lines, in black, with a bar obliterating the original value.

12c on 36c, orange and ultramarine (60,350).

Again there are no important varieties of surcharge, though there are some instances of broken type, etc.

The first values of the new Postage and Revenue series, the 8 and 12 cents, were issued on July 16th, 1902, and were followed at intervals during the next two years by ten other stamps of various denominations in the same type. The design employed for these stamps was that introduced in 1895 for the postal issues of Mauritius, and included the Coat of Arms of the colony. This consists of a shield with four quarterings, on the two upper of which are emblazoned a Sailing Ship and three branches of Sugar Cane, symbolizing the industry and overseas commerce of the island, whilst in the lower quarterings appear respectively a Star and a Key, having reference to the motto of the colony, which appears in full in the original Latin on the Jubilee stamp of 1898 "Stella Clavisque Maris Indici" ("Star and Key of the Indian Sea").

For the rupee values a new plate was prepared, of similar design, but larger, and having the Arms displayed on an elaborate background, and the inscription "POSTAGE & REVENUE" added in ornamental scrolls on either side; the lower value stamps bearing no indication of the purpose for which they are available. According to The Colonial Office Journal supplies of stamps in this design, with the duty labels left blank, are kept in stock at the local Treasury, the values being printed in locally as required. The sheets of the cents values contain 120 stamps, in two panes of sixty side by side, each of ten rows of six, and those of the rupee denominations consist of a single pane of sixty only, five rows of twelve. By error a supply of the 4 cents, amounting to 1,213,440 copies, sufficient to meet a whole year's demand, was printed in green and violet, whilst a first printing of the 5 cents, amounting to 19,000 stamps in all, was issued in lilac and violet on buff, rendering it liable to be confused in a poor light with the current 2 cents, printed in the same colours on white paper. The second supply therefore had the value inserted in black.

EDITORIAL.

Up to the Moment—In the old days, the post-office department was accused of being slow to adopt progressive measures but the present administration by no means is to be taxed with unenterprising. According to an Associated Press despatch, permission has been granted to A. J. McCurdy to carry the United States mails by aeroplane from "the outgoing trans-Atlantic liner Kaiserine Auguste Victoria to the New York post office," Saturday, November 12th, when that vessel is fifty miles at sea. A later telegram says that the Pennsylvania is the liner selected as the base of operations; it is to sail at noon and the flight is to begin about 3 o'clock. It is said: "McCurdy will carry a special mail pouch filled with letters written on light weight paper. His take-off is to be from a plank runway eighty-five feet long, extending out over the stern of the ship." The post-office department received an offer to carry the mails by "flying-machine" from an ingenious citizen so early as some time in the late '40's but it did not avail itself of the offer.

Postal Notes—A reader who sends for inspection a postal card of the current type with an impress of the McKinley head at either end has an oddity in the specimen only for the reason that the card is cut in the ordinary size. Had the card been of abnormal length, it would be assumed that it had been cut from a sheet of the cards as furnished to printers. Some years ago, "freak" cards made from the large sheets were circulated from several sources and were accepted for a time by uninformed collectors as legitimate "errors." The new one-cent domestic reply card, known as No. 6, is to be issued in sheets of twenty-four for printing purposes; and each sheet will be four cards wide by six cards long. The department cautions those who buy the cards in sheets to be careful to cut the cards to regulation size; otherwise they are invalid for postage. We believe that this is the first reply-card to be printed in sheets for the accommodation of large users. We learn that paper-stock troubles have curtailed the production of the new ordinary cards. Captain Brian, the deputy public printer, says: "Paper is a peculiar substance. One roll will work all right, the next will curl up when the postals are printed, and the third will again be O. K'd and all from the same batch at the mill. Like ox-tail soup, if paper is not properly seasoned, it is simply spoiled." The contractor has encountered many disappointments in producing the exact grade of paper demanded by the authorities.

* * *

The First One Cent—The English specialist in United States issues whose inquiries concerning plate-lines on the sheets of the 1894 type and the lines on the sheets of the three-cent, 1851, elicited important information from several of the more advanced of our keen students of United States stamps, notably Mr. Luff, Mr. Morris and Dr. Chase, addressed us some months ago, on the subject of the types of the one-cent, 1851, as follows: "Types I and II come from two different transfer rolls (Nos. 46 and 47), though both are from the same original die." Mr. Luff in his 'Postage Stamps of the U. S.', p. 68, I have been told that both types were on the same plate. 1. Is this so? and if so, (2) In what proportion to one another were the two types used on the same plate? 3. Can you say which plate or plates showed both types?"

Fact and Theory—The queries were referred to a collector for whom the one-cent, 1851, has a strong attraction and who for some time has been gathering and studying the stamps. He has been kind enough to send us notes on the queries with the request that we "string them together and apologize for his delay in sending the information, if it deserves to be called so." We do both. "Both types I and II, 1851, (1857-60) were on the same plate. I have no pair, strip or block, showing types I and II together, in the 1851 issue but types I and II of the perforated variety, se tenant, are available. In this connection, type III is not considered; for the sake of simplicity, it is eliminated, having been caused, vide, Luff, by not 'rocking' the transfer roll, 'sufficiently far,' thus making it a plate variety of type II. It will not be argued, of course, that types I and II of the perforated one-cent do not prove the existence, when in unsevered relation, or the printing of types I and II, imperforate, from the same plate. As to what proportion to one another were the two types used on the same plate, I cannot say, neither can I tell which plate (or plates) showed both types. One may say that the ratio of type I to type II was small, indeed. The one-cent has not been plated, although it may be suspected that attempts to reproduce the scheme are under way. There is no sheet of the one-cent intact, including type I among its stamps, of which I know; and I have no record of type I, with marginal plate number. It is possible that this data will be supplemented by your readers.

Scarce—As Mr. Power says in his book, type I, 1851, when really unused is a great rarity, and in used condition, it is a stamp that is not easy to find. The owner of a used copy showing scrolls completely and plainly may well take pride in his possession, while even the specimen with the curls moderately distinct is scarce enough. Type I, 1851, is best appreciated by the rather more advanced collector and he is the one to know how elusive it is; and if it were a straight stamp or the sole representative of the design, the price quotations on it would be sky-high. As it is, the stamp enjoys only a fraction of the full demand that many other United States stamps claim, and yet there is nothing modest about the rating that is given it today. The cataloguers have the stamp advance in the latest edition of the book.

* * *

Probably the First—New York's great fire of 1835 destroyed building covering an area of fifty acres on which the most valuable business edifices of the city had stood; and among them was the Merchants' Exchange, Wall Street, in which the post-office was located. After the fire, the post-office was installed in the Rotunda, City Hall Park, but its distance from the business centre made it advisable to establish a letter delivery in the new Merchants' Exchange. The merchants paid two cents extra on each letter and one cent on each newspaper and the amount collected paid the letter-carriers' charges. It becomes apparent, therefore, that so early as 1836, what to all intents and purposes was a private post was in operation. Greig's City Post was organized in New York on January 1st, 1842, and it is asserted that Hale's post was established "at a still earlier date, but did not use stamps." Unless the "earlier date" of Hale's post extended back to 1836, the public-spirited merchants of New York may claim the credit of having been pioneers in this regard. However, the times were "panicky" and not a few firms collapsed owing the letter-carriers various sums, in some instances so much as one hundred and fifty dollars, it is said. As much of this money was never paid, the debtors were "irretrievably ruined," according to the chronicles of a historian.

—The advt. of the Ararat Stamp Co. the past two weeks contained a mistake in that "stamps" was used in connection with the 1897 Charity stamp of New South Wales. This was misleading, though any student of philately would readily note the error.

AEROPLANE MAIL.

Jos. A. Steinmetz Writes Us From Hamburg-American Liner via Air Route.

The WEEKLY possesses a unique letter just received from Joseph A. Steinmetz. The circumstances under which the letter was mailed were related in last week's paper, though the steamship "Philadelphia" was substituted for the "Kaiserin Auguste Victoria." This certainly marks a departure in the despatching of mail matter.

The envelope contains the inscription "Aeroplane Mail" in bold letters with two other explanatory lines reading:—"Hamburg-American Line at Sea, via Air Route to United States." An interesting feature in connection with the envelope is that it is postmarked "Rutherford, N. J., Nov. 13, 1910."

The letter from Mr. Steinmetz will be of interest to our readers and we greatly appreciate his kind remembrance of the WEEKLY.

AT SEA, Nov. 12, 1910.

Dear Mr. Wylie: If this letter reaches you it will be one of the most interesting methods of delivering mail since the Siege of Paris, when the French Army sent out their dispatches by the Balloon Post over the lines of the invading German Army.

This letter has been carried in an aeroplane by J. A. D. McCurdy, Aero-naut, under special contract between Mr. Glenn M. Curtis and the Post Office Department, granting permission to anyone who so desired to send letters from the deck of the Hamburg-American Line Steamship "Pennsylvania" en route to Europe and about 50 miles at Sea off New York on Saturday, November 12th, at Noon.

Yours very truly,
Jos. A. STEINMETZ.

SPECIALIST'S ALBUM

MARQUETTE MOVABLE LEAF

We are offering an album such as specialists have been looking for. Our "Baby" Marquette Album is just the thing for a collector who is specializing in a country and finds the large album too large for his use. This album is specially made so that it can be placed in a safety deposit box, or carried around with the greatest of ease. The Album is 7 1/2 x 7 bound in full leather with gilt on loose leaf plan. The leaves are of the finest linen paper, quadrule and linen stub hinges. The "Baby" Marquette Album works on the same principle as the large book. This system has proven far superior to any other made. Send for our fine Booklet on the Marquette Albums. Price $5.00 Postfree. "Ask the man who owns one."

SOMETHING NEW IN U. S.

We are informed that collectors of United States stamps are to be treated to a surprise party in the shape of a new watermark. It is to consist of the letters single lined instead of double lined as at present. The letters will remain the same as heretofore, and there will be one letter to a stamp.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

ITEMS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

By CHARLES E. JENNEY.

In a reprinted article copied from an old magazine of "Forty Years Ago" by the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly, appears this rather startling information: "We may remark here that the head on the Chileans, so long concluded to be that of Columbus, turns out to represent Don Ramon Freyre, a celebrated democratic leader, director of the republic in 1823. The word Colon over the portrait gave rise to the absurd idea of the depicting of the great navigator; but we have every reason to believe that it simply implies that letters from Chili are sent across the isthmus of Panama to Colon, generally called Aspinwall, in due course of transit to the eastern world." This theory seems quite untenable, but on the other hand it seems unlikely that the portrait is that of Columbus, for it is totally unlike any known representation of him. Cannot some Chilean philatelist stop collecting Juan Fernandez surcharged pesos long enough to throw some new light on this subject?

Speaking of the Portuguese situation, the S. C. F. thus philosophizes: "One is sorry for Manuel but it is doubtful whether Manuel is sorry for himself. He is coming to England to live the quiet life of a country gentleman in the sweet vicinity of Wood Norton. Free from all fear of knife or bomb or pistol, he will be able to settle down quietly and soberly to his stamp album, and we shall even hope to see him assisting occasionally at the meetings of the Royal Philatelic Society, a society which already owes him a debt of gratitude for a most generous gift of Portuguese stamps. After all, no philatelist wants to be bothered with a crown!—unless it be a large crown, perf. 16." How about Edward VII?

From the Postage Stamp of Oct. 22nd, we learn that Germany is following the suit of the United States by installing printing presses that will print their stamps in strips for rolls for the stamp vending machines. So we may look before long for German part perforates and imperforates.

We are surprised and disappointed to read in C. J. Phillips' Topical Notes that Gibbons Stamp Weekly is going to be discontinued at the end of the year. But the disappointment is tempered by the information that the Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal is to be taken up again. The reason given for this move is that the Weekly is too expensive an experiment, besides burdensome to keep supplied with good new matter. He states that the maximum circulation has never exceeded 8,000 copies a week, and that the publication involves the loss of about $6,000 a year. This seems rather large to us. We should suppose that each large nation could support one weekly stamp journal.

Mr. Phillips states that he believes the Germans read more philatelic literature and that he has authority for the belief that Senf's fortnightly publication has more than twice the circulation enjoyed by his own paper.

Gibbons Stamp Weekly reports a discovery in the Jamaica shilling value, in which the S of Shilling either through design or through scratching in engraving, resembles the $ sign. It was first found on the CA issue and after being searched for was later found on the CC issue and the pine-apple issue, proving to the finder that one and the same plate had been used in printing all three issues and that no other plate has ever been used.

DEPARTMENTAL FRANKS AND PAID PERMITS.

BY PERCY MCG. MANN.

That a collection of Paid Permits is every bit as interesting as the collecting of precancels must be admitted, because the permits actually paid postage, whereas the precancels simply cancel the stamps used to pay postage. The comparison can also be made between the departmental franks and precancels. The franks carry the mail matter, whereas, as before stated, the precancels merely cancel the stamps. Now the whole matter rests in the manner in which these things are collected. It is admitted that the precancelled stamps can be soaked from covers without injuring the value of the stamps and that they can then be mounted in an album making a display of a collection. But to collect permits and franks in an entire state would be too voluminous an undertaking. Take envelope stamp collecting. There are many collecting them cut square, and no doubt many collecting them entire, but we believe there are more collecting them in the cut square condition than entire.

It has been suggested by a collector of permits and franks to collect and mount them as follows: When the cover bearing the permit is received, take the cover and cut out the Paid Permit like you would cut a cut square envelope, then cut out the business card or return card in the same manner. First having measured the size of the cover, whether it is envelope or wrapper, make a note of the size, and then mount the Permit and the Card, making a note of the date received and the size of cover or wrapper. In this way you can form a very nice collection of a side-line, and you will find it very interesting. Treat the departmental franks in the same manner.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Charles A. Jenkins has shown us specimens of the current 2c envelope, with a colorless line starting from the lowest point of the front of the bust and running perpendicularly downward as far as the bottom of the "O" in "Two," and thence in a diagonal direction to the right, through to the outside of the design. The varying shape and position of this line shows that it was a defect in printing and not a crack in the plate.

BOLIVIA.—The current 20c stamp, Scott's No. 86, has appeared in a new color, Hermann Focke having shown us a specimen in blue and black instead of violet and black. The centre has apparently been retouched.

Adhesive.

20c blue and black.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—Ewen's Weekly reports having seen the current 6d stamp in pale purple instead of dark lilac.

CHILE.—No further addition to the new commemorative set has been shown us this week, but we are indebted to Hermann Focke and Jack Newton, Jr., for specimens of the values previously chronicled.

COLOMBIA.—Champion's Bulletin gives the following as the quantities printed of the commemorative stamps: 1/2c, 200,000; 1c, 606,000; 2c, 1,600,000; 5c, 460,000; 10c, 35,000; 20c, 25,000; 1p, 8000; 10p, 8000; 5c AR, 8000; 10c registration stamp, 50,000.

Manizales.—Champion's Bulletin chronicles a provisional stamp for this city. It is typeset, with such rules and fancy border as might be picked up in any country printing office. The inscriptions read, "Correos—Urbanos.—1/2 CV.—Manizales," in four lines, between plain rules.

Provisional Adhesive.

NEW HEBRIDES.—La Circulaire Philatèlique quotes a letter from the Postmaster, Port Vila, stating that the first supply of New Caledonian stamps overprinted "Condominium" had then just arrived but was not yet in issue. Moreover it comprises only the values 5c, 10c, and 1f, so that it is rather doubtful whether the values 25c and 50c will be issued at all elsewhere than at the Colonial Office in Paris.

PORTUGAL.—The London Daily Telegraph says:

"There has been a considerable demand in the London stamp shops for the current series of Portugal. Although the stamps bearing the portrait of King Manuel are still in use, very few of the dealers have been able to secure supplies adequate to the popular demand. An event of such importance as the late revolution must always forecast a change in the postage stamps of any country, and collectors who have hitherto neglected to procure the stamps hasten to fill the blanks in their albums in case they should be quickly superseded.

I learn from a Portuguese correspondent that the expected change in the stamps of Portugal will be introduced as early as possible. The stamps now in use, all of which bear King Manuel's portrait, will be overprinted with a Republican inscription. The overprint will read 'Republica' simply, and it is likely to be introduced in a few days. The Manuel stamps thus overprinted will serve as a temporary convenience until a regular Republican issue can be put in circulation. The stamps of the various colonies of Portugal will be similarly overprinted at an early date."

ROUMANIA.—The Timbre-Poste announces that a series of stamps is shortly to be issued to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the University of Jassy. The actual date was Oct. 26, 1910, but the issue of the stamps has been put forward until May, 1911. The stamps have been designed by M. Nizer, the Roumanian painter, and represent personages and scenes connected with the University. The values will be 1, 2, 5, 10, 15, 25, 40 and 50 bani.

RUSSIA.—Offices in the Levant.—In order to use up the remainders of the 5k stamps of 1889, on horizontally laid paper, the stamps have been surcharged diagonally, "20 Para," in blue.

THE 6c NEWFOUNDLAND GUY ISSUE.

We have received the following information from Mr. A. C. Roessler: "For some time it has been known that the current 6 cent Newfoundland of the John Guy issue would be a good buy. Rumors to the effect that this particular value would be cornered have been going the rounds on Nassau St. for several weeks.

It is now reported that the stamp is no longer on sale. In fact, as proof, it may be stated that a local dealer sent for 100 sets, and upon receiving the shipment, found 60 Guy and 40 Cabot 6 cent stamps. If other rumors are to be believed the stamp is 'protected and there will be no more issued, the 6 cent Cabot being pressed into service.'"—Phila. Stamp News.

STAMP CARD COUPONS.

The Washington Shirt Company of Chicago is giving each purchaser of goods amounting to one dollar or more, a coupon or ticket entitling the holder to a chance in a drawing for an automobile. The tickets, duly numbered, are those stamp cards that were fully described in the WEEKLY months ago, and subsequently offered for sale by an advertiser at twenty or twenty-five cents a set; the necessary printing is on the blank or reverse side. Philately is being well advertised in this way and the firm shows great enterprise (from our viewpoint) in selecting the stamp cards as coupons in the contest. The philatelic equation would be complete if some collector would win the auto.

It was in the first setting, the one with blue dividing lines in sheets of 12, that the error with inverted head occurred—probably in the first printing of all. It is sometimes imagined that the error was one occurring once in a sheet. This would, of course, mean that one of the transfers was placed upside down on the stone—an error that would be detected and corrected at once. On the other hand, it would be quite a simple matter to place one or more of the sheets upside down in printing the second impression, for such mistakes occur even now-a-days, and occasionally elude the vigilance of the checkers, whose duty it is to throw out abnormal sheets. It is thus more than probable that the Indian error was caused in this way, and the fact that two copies were discovered, used on the same envelope, is strong evidence in support of this theory.—West End Philatelist.

CONSULAR FEE STAMPS.

By J. DELANO BARTLETT.

Prior to November 1st, 1906, the U. S. Consulates in foreign countries made a book record of the service done by them, as well as a book account of the fees collected. It was found that some of the records were not accurately kept and that many of the fees found their way to the pockets of the Consulates, instead of the treasury of the United States.

A new schedule of service fees of Consulates was adopted and went into effect November 1st, 1906. (This schedule was amended December 21, 1906, and June 7, 1909) and ordered that stamps to the total value of the fees collected should be affixed to the document. There are several duties which the Consulate is required to do without fee and there are 36 duties requiring a fee, which are grouped as follows:

7 stamps all of the same design, printed in different colors, was issued in 1906 for the use of the Consulates, which are roughly described as follows.

Rectangular stamp, size 22x19 mm., double line frame border, "American" in straight line above, underneath of which is "Consular Service" in curved line. Central ornamental oval containing value in figures. "Fee stamp" at bottom. Perforated 12, on white wove paper.

$.25	green
.50	carmine
1.00	violet
2.00	brown
2.50	dark blue
5.00	red brown
10.00	orange

The stamp has the appearance of being on tinted paper in the color in which the stamp is printed but this is due to improper wiping of the plates. It will be noted that there is no fee that requires the payment of 25c, therefore the 25c stamp is used entirely in combination with other values to make up the odd fees.

I might add that these stamps are listed in "Forbin's Catalog" with only the $2.00 priced. My collection contains all values except the $10.00.—The Stamp Journal.

COMMUNICATION.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

YONKERS, N. Y., Nov. 7, 1910.

TO THE EDITOR:

In the philatelic literature for years the question of color charts or standards has been mentioned from time to time but as far as I know nothing has been accomplished.

Recently I had occasion to look up a chemical question in connection with dye-stuffs and I believe the matter of a color standard has been solved. There has recently been published (by John Wiley & Sons) Mulliken's "Identification of the Commercial Dyestuffs", which contains some color charts which seem to me to be a solution of the philatelists' color difficulties. I find that the three charts can be purchased separately for $1. The directions for their use are contained in the book but possibly the publishers could be induced to print them separately and sell the charts and directions for $1 or less if enough were taken.

GERMAN LOCAL CATALOGUE.

A correspondent addresses us: "What, if any, catalogue gives a list of German local stamps? I have a Stanley Gibbons catalogue of a dozen years back, which illustrates and prices very fully the local stamps of Russia, Norway, Sweden and Denmark. I have a fair-sized collection of German locals but in the absence of any list I am in doubt as to how to properly arrange them." Through the courtesy of a reader, we are enabled to say that a catalogue of German local stamps is published by Carl Sternheim, Schoeneberg, Berlin, Germany, at two marks and fifty pfennig. Since the suppression of the private local posts in Germany some years ago, the private local stamps seem to be disappearing from the surface and requests for information regarding them are received comparatively infrequently, nowadays.

REPRINTS OF SPECIAL ARTICLES.

(We have secured a nice binder of the right size for these reprints that we will send on receipt of 30c, which just pays expense of manufacture and postage. As reprints are issued week by week they can readily be inserted in alphabetical order. This binder is Carter's Modified Multibinder made to accommodate our WEEKLY reprints and every collector should have one. COLUMBIA 1904, 5 & 10 PESOS

A short time ago we offered these two high values in mint condition at $5.00 per set (catalogued $21.00). We have since learned that the supply of these two high values is much smaller than at first anticipated; and we shall, in a short time, raise our price to $7.50 per set which still is very cheap.

We have a few more sets available at

$5.00 Per Set for the next thirty days. After that, our price for these two scarce stamps will be

$7.50 Net.

ABOUT U. S. REVENUES.

By JOHN W. PROVOST.

Note.—Our subscribers are invited to send in any items of interest in connection with U. S. revenue stamps of any kind. Specimens submitted for consideration will be gladly examined, and will be returned by next mail. Address, John W. Provost, 963 Sumner Ave., Springfield, Mass.

The State of North Carolina evidently found its stamps for illuminating oils unwieldy, for a new stamp has come to hand, of the same general design as the previous issue, but the stamp has been reduced in size from 226x98 mm. to 123x60 mm. Up to date only the 1c value has been seen, printed in the same color as previous 1c stamp, black on white.

On Feb. 25th, 1910, the State of South Carolina imposed a tax of 25c per ton on feed stuff. The law was to go into effect on May 1st. The Commissioner of Agriculture rushed an order to a lithographer for the necessary stamps. They appeared on time, but a grave error had been made, and the money value on the stamps was for a tax of 20c per ton. The Commissioner refused to issue the stamps in that condition, and the entire stock was destroyed. The plates were returned to the lithographer, who cut out the money value from the lower border, and a temporary supply was printed from the plates in that condition, and new plates were ordered prepared at once. The stamps printed from the mutilated plates were in use only one month. The number printed was small of any of the values, but of the 5 and 10 lb. stamps, there were but 100 of each. Three of the values were printed in tete-beche.

South Carolina Feed Stuff. Tax 25c per ton. Size 45x26.

5 lb. black on white.
(Same tete-beche.)
10 lb. black on white.
25 lb. brown on white.
(Same tete-beche.)
50 lb. black on white.
75 lb. violet blue on white.
100 lb. carmine on white.
(Same tete-beche.)

Some time in the latter part of May, the corrected set appeared. The size was reduced to 42x24 mm. The colors and lb. values remain the same, but the proper monetary value was inserted in the lower frame work of the stamp. And it is an odd set of values, namely 5/8 mill, 1 1/4 mill, 3 1/2 mill, 6 1/4 mill, 9 3/4 mill and 1 1/2 c.

This information was obtained from J. D. Bartlett, who is the owner of the only existing tete-beche pair of the 5 lb. provisional issue.

The following tin foils, Series of 1910, are to be added to the list as published in No. 1032 of the WEEKLY:

B. Payn's Sons, Golden Strawberry, 1 oz. gold on bright.
Shields and Son, Sweet Cavendish, 1 oz. gold on bright.
P. Lorillard Company, Peerless (Dark), 1 oz. blue on bright.
Amer. Tobacco Co., Navy, 1 oz. blue on bright.

On the 1 1/2 oz. Navy there occurs a very curious error. The stamp has been changed so that the amount reads 1 1/2 oz., but the rest of the foil remains unchanged, and the old reading, "One and two thirds ounces", in full letters, still remains. The error has been pointed out to the printers of the foils, and will undoubtedly be corrected for the next printing. It remains to be seen if the error is to be a rarity.

Mr. Lawrence writes that he has seen a used copy of a hitherto unlisted foil of the Series of 1875.

Lane, Allen & Co., Golden Light, 5th District. N. Y. Gold on silver.

That this foil should just come to light shows the possibilities to the collector of the "Side Lines" in U. S. Revenues. Chronicled for the first time after 35 years.

The Report of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has been received by the editor and its perusal caused him some surprise. It had been the opinion of most collectors that there would be no provisional surcharges for the Series of 1910, but on page 26 of the Report, the following stamps are shown to have been surcharged:—

GIBBONS MONTHLY CIRCULAR

12 MONTHS FOR 12 CENTS

When we received nearly one thousand requests for our letter about the special printing of U. S. stamps on bluish experimental paper it set us thinking. Especially so since dozens of collectors made it a point to ask us to be sure and advise them if we had any other special news in the future. Therefore, we are now going to mail, every month, an eight page circular which we hope to make complete with all kinds of special information about U. S. stamps, New York stamp gossip, changes of price, what to buy and when to buy it, and other valuable information.

TWELVE NUMBERS FOR TWELVE CENTS

If you are a member of the A. P. S. or have written to us within the past year, don't ask for a sample as you're sure to receive one. We are mailing

Twenty-one Thousand Five Hundred Sample Copies to our full card index

There are still a few collectors in America who imagine we are high-priced specialists—these are the fellows whose twelve cents we want the worst, so drop us a postal card, giving your name and address and gently whisper "sample circular."

MR. JEWETT ILL.

We have been seriously handicapped during the past few weeks by the severe illness of Mr. Jewett, our printer, and to this cause must be attributed the delay in the mailing of the paper. During this time Mr. Jewett has been unable to give little, if any, attention to the WEEKLY and the loss of his services has been keenly felt. He is now on the mending hand and we trust will shortly be able to perform his usual good work on the WEEKLY.

Few people comprehend the difficulties in making up the forms of a philatelic publication, especially a weekly newspaper, and the work has gone along so well in Mr. Jewett's enforced absence from the office that we feel in duty bound to make this public acknowledgment of the efficient services rendered by Mr. Burke, who is associated with the Jewett Printing Co.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Changes—A letter from Washington tells of the adoption of the U. S. P. S. watermark in thin single line capitals and from the Philatelic Gazette we learn that some of the stamps with new watermark have been distributed; the paper with the single-lined capitals withstands shrinkage better in the "wetting down" process in the course of printing than that with double-lined watermark. The post-office department regards the change of watermark as an informal one and as a small detail in the manufacture of stamps. Our correspondent tells of the success that has crowned the production of the postal savings bank stamps and the stamp for official correspondence on the subject of postal bank business. He reminds us that some time ago, he said that the wish to make the stamps slightly was due in great part to President Taft's interest in postal savings plans. While nothing is being said about impending changes in U. S. stamps at the department, yet, our informant says, the enterprising officers may have plans maturing that will take collectors by surprise, when, suddenly, they are put in operation. The present set of officers are "live men with large ideas," we quote.

* * *

A Real Error—On the six-cent of the Newfoundland Guy commemorative issue, the "Z" in "Colonization" is shown reversed; the end of the horizontal top stroke points to the right instead of the left. In later printings of the stamp, the "Z" is righted and it follows that the authorities were conscious that an error had been made; and it has been corrected. When our attention was called to the reversed "Z" in Colonization, it was thought that it might have been intended for an angular "S" of an unauthorized, even if not unprecedented, design. A reason for this belief was that on the two-cent issue of the Guy set, "Colonising" is spelled with an "S" instead of a "Z." The reversal of the "Z" in Colonization in subsequent printings of the six-cent indicates that an error was made in the stamps as first made, in the estimation of the authorities.

* * *

Glad Tidings—The Associated Press despatch, dated New York, November 18th, telling of the purchase in Europe of $50,000 worth of stamps by Archer M. Huntington of New York, son of the late railroad organizer, C. P. Huntington, makes most pleasant and interesting reading to collectors. Mr. Huntington's activities in coin collecting and his presentation of the edifice used as a club-room by the numismatic society in New York are well known.

* * *

Confession—We now come to one of the most painful annals in our history. The hope that our friends would forget the existence of Parnassus Penflip has not been realized; shrewd readers protest against the conspiracy of silence that would have Parnassus Penflip as its victim. In stentorian tones they ask, Where is the great Penflip? and it would be folly to ignore the swelling cry any longer. Parnassus Penflip has done the deed of shame. It may be remembered that being out of cash at the moment, we tendered Penflip last August our three months' note in payment for his literary services. The note has become due and merely because we could not pay it, Parnassus Penflip has set the dogs of war on us; in other words he has sued us. When Parnassus sent his convention notes to us by express, C. O. D., we reprobated his exhibition of distrust by refusing his work; pity, rather than anger, was felt for him. In return he has no tolerance for us; perhaps he does not think that it hurt us worse not to pay the note than it did him not to obtain the money. While we grant that Parnassus Penflip is not restricted by the laws that govern ordinary individuals by reason of his insuperable genius, yet even he cannot hope to get blood out of a turnip, or, rather, money from a philatelic editor.

Penflip in Rebuttal—Since writing the preceding paragraph, we indited a dignified letter to Parnassus Penflip saying that while we could not emerge from the depression that his insults caused us, for many a day, under the regular order of things, we should strive to throw off the incubus if he would withdraw his suit and call accounts square. Seeing how deeply we were wounded, Penflip agreed to the proposal and so, the score is now settled. Any doubts that we have expressed of the transcendent genius of Parnassus Penflip are hereby withdrawn and further, we subscribe readily to the statement that Penflip is not all brains; he has a heart and, we say, long may it beat. In this connection we call attention to the following words that appeared in B. L. T.'s column recently in the Chicago Tribune: "Exaggerated simplicity is as tedious to contemplate as exaggerated luxury, and no more impressive than the collecting of postage stamps." The remark is made in the course of a criticism of Tolstoi by Mr. Taylor who has been called the brightest newspaper paragrapher in the country. Formerly, when B. L. T. "railed" against stamp collecting, we had but to call Penflip's attention to the libel on his beloved pursuit and B. L. T. would be trounced verbally until he was a pitiable specimen. Probably, B. L. T. fancied that he now is secure because of Penflip's silence for some time past, but behold his confusion and chagrin, when Parnassus Penflip rises to say: "It is evident that Taylor seeks to vituperate stamp collectors for the purpose of slurring me but the poisoned darts of this penny-a-liner fall harmlessly on the shining armor of philately. Does this scribbler in his egregious conceit think that what he mouths will have any effect but to prove the reverse of his statements? The baleful braying of this brainless blot on humanity may be music to his own auricular appendages but it is senseless sound to us philatelists." Very pretty sentiment.

* * *

Worthy—The first "unadulterated" King George stamp, 2 1/2 pence dark blue, Union of South Africa, is a beautiful example of engraving and artistic effect. There is a wealth of detail in the design which is arranged in a remarkably well-balanced manner, and to accommodate it all without crowding, the stamp is made large. The central design, portrait of King George, is a most excellent one; it is expressive and engaging; and we assume it is life-like. The first stamp depicting the new king is a most striking one and meets all expectations, while its significance will be recognized by all collectors.

THE NATIONAL YOUTH,

Early At Work—Chicago has begun the work of preparing for the 1911 convention of the American Philatelic Society by appointing a formidable list of committees to take charge of the manifold arrangements attending a meeting of the character that the Chicagoans have in mind. Already the finance committee has held its organization meeting and has successfully begun its campaign of cash capture. A deep suggestion reposes in the celebration of the 25th anniversary services of both the American Philatelic Society and the Chicago Philatelic Society in the same year; and Chicago is not unmindful of the necessity of making the convention of the national organization one in keeping with the importance of the meeting.

IMPRESSIONS OF A NON-PHILATELIST.

Translated by G. C. CUENOD.

(Mr. Cuenod submits the following translation of an article that appeared in the Gazette de Lausanne, giving the impressions of a visitor at the Berne Exhibition.—ED.)

One is blue, the other is yellow. One bears the inscription "ONE PENNY", the other, "TWO PENCE." Some forty years ago, they were worth a mite, nowadays, each one is quoted at $10,000.00. Consequently the public opens large eyes to contemplate that wonder. Its first attention, when visiting the International Philatelic Exposition, is to run to the Mauritius.

After seeing them he steps further, satisfied but shaking his head. The blue Mauritius and the yellow Mauritius are not obliterated. They are very neat and show the picture of delightful little Queen Victoria, with her hair tied in a knot over the back of her head. I do not know whether the philatelists have taken notice of that hair dress, anyhow it is not for that reason that the stamps are worth $10,000 each.

Should somebody doubt that the small, blue Victoria and the small, yellow Victoria are each equal to a small fortune, the presence there of a detective, standing constantly in the hall where these rarities are shown, is a living and significant objective lesson.

Try to examine more closely the Mauritius, put your hands on the glass showcase that protects them, take the measure of the thickness of plates, look furtively aside and you will instantly be watched until you leave the place. The little Queen is well watched.

If there were no police there, the philatelists themselves would take the job. They live, practically, in the rooms of the Bernerhof where they have carefully arranged innumerable, immaculate and faultless collections that appear to me so clean that the exhibitors must have taken away from them every bit of dust. Philately must develop wonderfully the taste for minute details and careful examination.

You know what a good philatelist is studying; varieties of paper, watermarks, perforations, cancellations, more or less worn plates, all these make him happy. This you can observe at the Berne Exposition, and it is not the least interesting part of this Exposition which is worth to be thoroughly visited, but the distant noise of the battle does not allow us to stay longer in the quiet and peaceful sanctuary of philately. We must leave for the great army manoeuvres, and limit ourselves to this short mention of the International Manifestation of the Postage Stamp.

NEW PORTUGAL SET.

Chas. M. Brown informs us that the reported surcharge of the 1910 issue of Portugal with the word "Republica" is an assured fact. The surcharge is in red on the 2 1/2, 5, 10, 15, 25, 50, 75, 80, 100, 200, 300, 500 and 1000 reis and in dark green on the 20 reis. The surcharge is printed diagonally, reading up.

Mr. Brown is informed by L. B. Mason that these stamps were placed on sale Nov. 1. The letter enclosing them is postmarked Nov. 5 and carriage is paid with a 50 reis unsurcharged.

THE STAMP MARKET.

By SENEX.

Everybody seems to be wanting the current stamps of Portugal, and of course the dealer must bestir himself to attempt to comply with the demand; but there is just the possibility that it may be wise on the part of the customer to wait awhile. When the prices of the stamps have become settled, they may prove to be not so very much dearer than they were, and may possibly be even cheaper than they are at the present moment. However, this is only one man's opinion, to be taken for what it is worth.

In an accumulation of current Danish West Indies, the 25 bit is found to be fairly plentiful, the 15 bit much scarcer, and the 20 bit scarcer still.

I have moved up the prices of my recent Siam, especially the 1909 surcharges; possibly some of these may prove to be worth more than the prices that have hitherto obtained.

Quotations for used Argentine, 1910, are gradually coming into view; these should be worth looking out for.

The demand for middle values of Austria Jubilees continues; to many sellers these stamps are now within reach at prices that attract. The 1908 Austrian Levant is another series that sells well.

Lower values of the Cuba pictorial, 1910, are obtainable in quantity, and presently we may expect the 3c, 8c and 10c to come within reach.

Sets of nine Persia, 1908, (1ch to 1kr) are found to sell like ripe cherries.

The 50c and 1 peso Mexico, 1899, seem to be slightly cheaper to buy than they were.

The 8c, 10c and 25c Panama, 1906 (without overprint) seem to me to be scarce; guessing, one would think that these should go much higher eventually. Mixed lots of the Panamas contain far too few of them.

Some used Montenegro, 1910 are on sale on the Continent; possibly these may become as popular as the pictorial Bosnias.

The 5c and 10c pictorial Martinique, now obtainable in used condition in some quantity, are an acquisition to the seller of cheap attractions.

Madagascar, 1908, is another good series to have, but it does not seem too easy to get used copies of more than one or two of the denominations.

Abyssinia is frequently enquired for. This may be because (a) the Abyssinian page comes first in the album, and blank spaces at the forefront of a collection are not a cheering view; or (b) because these stamps never seem to be ever worth less than what one gives for them.

Persia, 1902, type-set, are often fearfully difficult to wash off the envelope; often the paper is stronger than the stamp. The 10ch of Persia, 1906, does not seem easy to meet with; the 13ch is a grand stamp.

UNITED STATES.—As noted in the "Flash" report last week, an important change in the stamps of the United States is already underway, and specimens of the current stamps with the new watermark are liable to be found any day. The announcement of the new watermark came as a complete surprise, as the Philatelic Gazette says, "like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky." From the same paper, we draw the following information regarding the stamps with the new watermark, for it is indeed true that collectors must provide room for a complete new set of postage, postage due and special delivery stamps. The last week in October printing was commenced on a new paper showing a totally different watermark. While the letters "USPS," one for each stamp, have been retained, the style has been entirely changed and is now a single lined Gothic letter, instead of the double lined Roman letter in use since 1895.

All stamps printed since the last few days in October have been on the new paper, and some of these have already been sent out to smaller offices which have sent requisitions for only small supplies. It will be somewhere near Christmas before the old stock of 1c and 2c stamps will be exhausted, and not until then are the new stamps likely to be put into general circulation. Of course, the new watermark will be found on all stamps printed in large sheets of 400 subjects, which will also include the special delivery stamps. It is not contemplated to issue the 50c and $1 stamps with the new watermark, as these are printed in sheets of 200. There is still a good supply of these values on the old paper, and they will be used up before new ones are printed. It may be two or three years before it will be necessary to print any new supplies of either of these denominations, as the stock in the vaults is quite large for stamps so little required. It is therefore probable that the 50c and $1 of the current series will never appear with the new watermark.

No 30c postage due stamps have been printed for about 10 years, while the 50c of the same set is rarely required, therefore these two stamps may not make their appearance on the new paper for a long time to come, if at all. Two new 400 subject plates have recently been made, one for each of these two stamps. As the Postoffice and Bureau officials do not regard the change in watermark with the same importance as do philatelists, no record is kept of the dates when the stamps are first issued. It will be left, therefore, to those interested to hunt for all information regarding the first appearance of each value. We trust our readers will be on the lookout for the appearance of the new stamps at their local postoffices, and will give us prompt notice of the same.

H. A. Fletcher has shown us a specimen of the current postcard, with what is practically a double printing, the stamp appearing at the left as well as at the right of the upper part of the card. Mr. Fletcher also shows us a card, which has no stamp at all, the frame bearing the directions being placed so far to the right that the extreme end is missing. Both of these cards were bought at the postoffice in the regular way.

Conrad Garst shows us the 5c of the 1898 issue, the blue Grant, with the watermark sideways.

Mr. Eldredge also shows us a curious permit. It was originally printed as Permit No. 192 of Chicago, Ill., with value 6c. This permit was obliterated by cross rules set closely, and an entirely new permit printed below, the number, type and city being the same, but with the value changed to 7c.

CHILE.—We are indebted to J. B. B. Smith and Philip Wolff for a view of the complete set of the new Chile commemorative stamps. We have previously noted the 2c, 5c, 10c and 20c values, but we now give the whole series together, as a convenience to our readers:

50c olive green and black; Carrera Monument.
1p yellow and black; Statue of San Martin.
2p rose and black; Portrait of Gen. Blanco.
5p green and black; Portrait of Zenteno.
10p purple and black; Portrait of Admiral Cochrane.

GABON.—Le Timbrophile de France says that the Colonial Minister of France has ordered the suppression of the stamps of Gabon, recently issued, and their replacement, by others of the same types, bearing the legend, "Afrique Equatoriale Francaise," in place of "Gabon."

GERMAN COLONIES.—About 150,000 used stamps of the various colonies cut from old forms stored at the General Post Office in Berlin were offered at auction. They included 1300 China $1 and 1500 China $2, the former partly without watermark; German S. W. Africa, 3300 1m, 1660 2m, 210 3m and 50 5m and other useful lots. There are also 300 German 3mk and 1300 5mk.

HANOVER.—An event of considerable importance to those possessing stocks or collections of old Hanover stamps is announced by the German Postal Museum, says Ewen's Weekly.

The German Post Office has for a good many years been utilizing all the remainders, proofs, essays, etc., and even used stamps off money order forms, surplus "specimen" stamps and so on, in order to form for its museum a general collection of the stamps of the world, its duplicates being exchanged with dealers for other stamps required. No money has been granted for this purpose, the museum having to rely solely on such waste stamps. The collection so formed is said to be a very good one, including even the Post Office Mauritius.

Amongst the remainders now being offered are thirteen entire sheets (120 stamps each) of the rare 10 groschen, green, catalogued by Scott at $15, unused and used. All the sheets are damaged, about one-third of the stamps being torn or creased and others here and there discolored from the red gum. They will be offered in five lots of two

The 1859 issue is imperforate; that of 1864 rouletted.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—It appears that the 6c of the Guy commemorative series is distinguished by two errors, the first being in the inscription, "Lord Bacon," below the portrait, which should have read "Sir Francis Bacon," as he was never entitled to the title of "Lord." The other error was in the word "Colonization," in which the "z" was reversed. The Postage Stamp says that the first consignment of stamps sent out contained this error, but it was soon discovered and corrected, presumably on a new transfer, for the stamps were printed by lithography. The first consignments must have consisted entirely of the errors. How many sheets of the errors were printed is not yet known.

PERSIA.—We reproduce the following translation of an official certificate from the Postage Stamp. It gives the history of the recent 1c and 2c shahi surcharged stamps and proves their purely speculative nature.

Having created 500 sets of wholly unnecessary stamps and issued about 20 sets to constitute them postage stamps the Postmaster-General and his friends have presumably purchased the rest themselves. The face value of the set of 17 is 28 shahi or about sixpence (12c) at the present rate of exchange. The 480 sets would thus cost £12 ($60). The retail quotation for a single set on the Continent is 340 francs. Thus more is being asked for a single set than the face value of the entire issue amounts to.

The Director-General of Persian Posts undersigned, certifies.

1. That there were supplied to the Administration of Persian Posts, under the supervision of the Netherlands Government Inspector, by the firm of J. Enschedé & Sons, of Haarlem, five hundred sets of stamps, imperforate, but gummed, of the series of 1907, decreed by Mohammed Ali Schah, comprising seventeen values in the set.

2. That all these five hundred sets of stamps amounting to 8,500 imperforate stamps were created by the surcharge, some 1 chahi, and the others by the surcharge 2 chahis.

3. That only 325 of these stamps were sold to the public in November last, and served to frank regular correspondence.

Given at Téheran, May 1st, 1910.

The Director-General of Posts,

(Signed) MOLITOR.

N. B.—1. The clichés of the 1907 series have been destroyed; another new printing of the stamps of that issue is impossible.

2. The steel dies which were used to make the above surcharges have been defaced.

Given at Téheran, May 2nd, 1910.

The Director-General,

(Signed) MOLITOR.

PORTUGAL.—We are indebted to the Frank P. Brown Co. and to the New England Stamp Co. for specimens of the new surcharges on the King Manuel set, the former having shown us two of the low values and the latter the complete set from 2½r to 1000r. The stamps are surcharged "Republica" in bold faced capital letters, diagonally, reading up. All surcharges are in red, except on the 20r, which is in dark green. A correspondent of the New England Stamp Co. says the surcharged stamps were placed on sale Nov. 1 but that he had to fight to secure the filling of his order several days later.

We learn from the Deutsche Briefmarken Zeitung that the first Republican issue appeared nearly a month ago. The Republic was only established on Oct. 5, and a week later the 10 reis postcard was overprinted "Repubblica," hand-stamped (it is said, at the mint, without official decree) in red diagonally across the stamp and again across the Royal Arms.

Dr. C. Antonius contributes to the Berliner Briefmarken Zeitung an article on the philatelic aspect of the revolution. He says that there were large remainders of the Don Carlos issue and that they are being issued until exhausted, with the result that even at the present time many values are still in use and the Don Manuel issue is only supplied at the Post Office counter if specially requested. Consequently in used condition some of the Manuel series are likely to prove very scarce and as collectors will have to fill up with unused specimens, the latter also may soon be taken off the market and become scarce. In answer to the question, whether to collect the set used or unused, Dr. Antonius recommends the collector to take what first comes to hand and be thankful!

RUSSIA.—Offices in the Levant.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 20pa on 5k, vertically laid paper, chronicled last week.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—According to the Postage Stamp, the new commemorative stamp of the Union of South Africa was issued on Friday, November 4, in London and in South Africa, the date being that on which the Duke of Connaught, representing His Majesty the King, formally opened the Union Parliament. The portrait of King George is full face, within an oval border inscribed in English and Dutch "Union of South Africa—Unie van Zuid Afrika." Above is the Imperial Crown, and at the top angles are the Arms of the Cape of Good Hope and Natal, and in the bottom corners the Arms of the Orange Free State and Transvaal. The date 1910 figures below the portrait frame, and at each side the face value 2½d appears in white figures on a coloured oval surmounted on the left by the word "Postage," and at the right by the Dutch equivalent "Postzegel." The stamp is engraved in tailedouze printed on paper watermarked multiple rosettes, and comb-perforated 14.

Adhesive.

2½d blue.

URUGUAY.—Philip Wolff has shown us a new provisional from this country, the 50c of 1901 having been surcharged "Provisorio—5—Centésimos—1910" in four lines, the first being curved and the "5" in very large type.

Provisional Adhesive.

5c on 50c carmine; black surcharge.

THE WHY OF THE NEW WATERMARK

In reply to your letter of November 16, you are advised that the watermark in the postage stamp paper now being produced is composed of smaller letters than formerly and the change is made to increase the strength of the paper and give it a more uniform thickness.

Respectfully,

A. M. TRAVERS,
Acting Third Assist. P. M. Gen.

NOTES ON BISECTED PROVISIONALS.

be found reading upwards or downwards.

This famous, bisect was issued locally, and was perforated vertically down the centre by a machine gauging 11½ to 13, also the label containing the original value was cut off. The sheets of the 5sh value consisted of 48 stamps, printed in four rows of twelve, so accordingly there must have been 96 surcharges in the setting. There are a large quantity of minor varieties of this provisional, differing mostly in the shape of the "I" and the size of the "D."

The first mention in the philatelic press of these "splits" was in the American Journal of Philately for April 20th, 1878, while a little later most of the stamp journals chronicled its appearance with such comments as "very peculiar," "a novel and ingenious idea" etc., etc. This bisect (a and b) had a very short life, being in circulation (as far as can be ascertained) from about March 20th to April 12th. These dates do not pretend to be correct, but they are based on the earliest and latest postmarked specimens known.

Collectors should beware of some dangerous forgeries of this Barbados "split."

British Central Africa.—Owing to a shortage of 1d stamps in 1895, the High Commissioner for B. C. A. authorised the bisection of the 2d sea-green and vermilion denomination. The stamps were bisected diagonally (cut). The authorization was given to the postmasters at Blantyre, Chiromo and Zomba. This provisional was only in use for two days, and as only 50 "splits" are said to have been used, it is a rarity.

Canada.—In January 1899, there was a shortage of 1c and 2c stamps, so the use of bisecteds was resorted to:

"1" in blue on ½ of 3c.

"2" in violet on ¾ of 3c.

The above were divided vertically and surcharged over figure.

From all accounts these two "splits" originated from one Post Office, where the supply had run down and the postmaster had to supply the values required as above.

These "splits" must have been in use for a good time (although very rare) as a correspondent of the Montreal Philatelist received a letter franked with the half (?) of a 3c, postmarked January 9, 1900. This gentleman wrote to the office of issue for an explanation and received the following reply:

"Cross Road, Country Harbor,
April 17th, 1900.

"Dear Sir,—Your enquiry re stamps to hand. At the time you mention the 2c postage was given us so suddenly that I was about out and all my neighbour P. M. were also out; and as I could only charge the public 2c I could not afford to put on a 3c stamp so cut 3c and 5c to about even the thing and sent them along. Three or four days' letters were mailed in this way, but I do not know where they went to.

Yours very truly,

E. S. SWEET, Postmaster."

In reading the above it appears that there must be a mistake somewhere, as Sweet says the bisects were only in use for four days. This being the case the date January 9, 1900, must be at fault, and probably an error for 1899.

Dominica.—The Philatelic Record for December 1882 contains the following notice under above heading: "Messrs. Theodor, Buhl & Co. send us specimens of a provisional Halfpenny adhesive. It is of primitive construction. The current One Penny Stamps are divided vertically, not perforated, and each half surcharged ½ in small black numerals."

In the same journal for January 1883, appeared another notice:

"In addition to the provisional Halfpenny, which we described last month, Messrs. Theodor, Buhl & Co. send us a second variety, consisting of the One Penny, divided as before, and each half surcharged ½ in red. We presume that the former surcharge was found to be too minute, for the numerals are now 4 mm. high." 4 mm. is a mistake, as type 1 was 4 mm. high. The first of these two splits i.e., the one surcharged in black, was issued on November 25th, 1882, and was used for only a short period, hence its rarity. There are some interesting varieties of the overprint on this half stamp, the overprint being known inverted, while pairs are occasionally seen with the overprint tete beche.

Type 2, or the red overprint variety, was issued some days after type 1, the most noticeable alteration (barring the colour of surcharge) being the size of the overprint, which in this case was much larger. This variety was in use for some months, and consequently is comparatively common both used and unused. Type 2 exists inverted, but this is the only variety known.

The surcharging was done in both cases with a handstamp, applied twice to each stamp. The dividing of the stamps was performed as under: each vertical row of labels was divided down the centre at the post office and then was put on sale. The immediate result of this proceeding was that unsevered pairs could not exist, except the right half of one stamp attached to the left half of the other.

In March 1883, a third bisected provisional put in an appearance. This time "Half-penny" was printed across half of the 1d in black. The surcharging in this case was erratically done, as the overprint is sometimes reading upwards and sometimes downwards!

This stamp was also overprinted by a handstamp, measuring about 14 mm. in length. In April 1883 the new ½d adhesive arrived, making the above "split" obsolete.

Falkland Islands.—In 1890 the following official notice appeared:

GOVERNMENT NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that on and from 1st of January next, letters posted for Great Britain, India, and the Colonies will be charged at the rate of 2½d, the single rate, instead of 4d as hitherto. Until the arrival of 2½d stamps, the 1d stamp, cut in two diagonally, may be used for ½d stamps, * * *

By command,

(Signed) Fred Shedden Sanquinetti,
Aq. Postmaster.

The postage to the United Kingdom, India, and the Colonies being reduced from 4d to 2½d per half oz. necessitated the use of a 2½d stamp, but, unfortunately, stamps of that denomination were not issued, neither were there any adhesives of the face value of ½d. To meet the demand it was therefore imperative to have a ½d value, so, accordingly, the 1d claret was surcharged "½d" twice by a handstamp and then divided. The GOVERNMENT NOTICE gives an illustration of how it required the stamps to be bisected, i.e., from top right hand to bottom left hand corner. The handstamp was somewhat carelessly applied to the adhesives, however, so it is not infrequently that the bisection occurs from top left to bottom right.

It will be observed that in the NOTICE no mention is made about the "splits" being surcharged "½," so it is quite likely that originally the surcharge did not exist on the bisecteds, but was added at a later date.

In 1891 the 1d was issued in brown-orange, so when the claret 1d ceased to be used some of the brown-orange hue stamps were overprinted and bisected—these latter are rare. The date of issue of this "split" was March (the end), 1891, and they were used steadily until stopped by a NOTICE on January 11th, 1892.

A very interesting fact is that in the case of the brown-orange stamp the surcharge was sometimes applied after the stamp had been stuck on the envelope, as specimens are said to be known in which part of the surcharge is on the stamp and part on the envelope!

The Government Gazette for December 17th, 1891, contained the following: "December 10th, 1891.—A supply of ½d and 2½d stamps have been received; no further issue of the Provisional Half penny stamps will be made.—(Signed) SANGUINETTI."

There are some prominent errors of this surcharge known—(a) double surcharge, (b) inverted surcharge, (c) sideways surcharge.

Grenada.—This interesting colony issued two bisected provisionals, and, like Dominica, the difference in them lies in the sizes of the two surcharges. In the case of these "splits" the value is not surcharged, but instead the word POSTAGE, as the stamps which were bisected were fiscals.

In January, 1883, the 1d fiscal stamp (sent to the colony in November, 1881), was taken and surcharged POSTAGE twice diagonally, which overprint in each case reads upwards, while the stamp was bisected between the two overprints. This provisional had a very short life as the surcharge was considered too large to be struck twice across the stamp, so a second and smaller surcharge was soon ordered to displace the above. The large-sized surcharge measured in length 16½ mm., while the letters were 3½ mm. in height. The printing of this large type was badly executed; as in the word POSTAGE, letters are constantly found badly out of alignment. The smaller overprint soon followed the larger one, the dimensions of the surcharge in this instance being 16 mm. long and 2½ mm. high. The word POSTAGE is, as before, printed across the stamp twice diagonally, but the words are now reversed as regards each other, the upper one reading upwards, whilst the lower one reads downwards. The second variety of overprint was evidently in use some time, as it is much more common than the large overprint, but, nevertheless, it is by no means a bisect which is seen every day. A strip of 6 sold some time ago fetched, I believe, about £22.

Jamaica.—In November, 1861, the Government Gazette of Jamaica authorised the bisection of the 1d blue of the first issue. Prior to 1871, a ½d denomination was very rarely required, so the authorities, having issued a decree as stated above, made no attempt to have ½d stamps supplied until the new issue of 1871. The "split" was not surcharged in any way, it was simply divided diagonally and thus used.

Montserrat.—Prior to 1883 the lowest postal rate was 1d, but in that year certain postal reforms and alterations occurred which made it necessary to have a ½d stamp. A new supply of values (in which was included a supply of ½d stamps) had been ordered for the colony from Messrs. De La Rue & Co., but this consignment did not reach Montserrat until 1884. To meet the demand of the public in the interval, the 1d red stamp was permitted to be bisected and used as a ½d stamp. This bisected stamp is occasionally seen surcharged with a small "½"—such surcharge is entirely bogus.

Nevis.—In 1883 a supply of ½d stamps was ordered in the Postal Union colour for the colony of Nevis. This supply apparently did not arrive until late in the above year, so it was found necessary to issue a provisional ½d stamp in the meantime for use as the demand for the value was becoming pronounced. Accordingly in September, 1883, the current 1d lilac was bisected vertically, each half being previously surcharged NEVIS in Roman capitals and "½d" in black or purple aniline ink. The surcharge may be found reading upwards or downwards.

Varieties are known with the surcharge printed doubly on each half, and, furthermore, the surcharge exists on halves of the 1d lilac, overprinted REV-ENUE, and used postally.

Without being rarities, all the above are difficult to find, especially in an unused state.

Niger Coast.—In the matter of issuing provisionals, Niger Coast is very much to the fore, and even bisections have played an important part in the history of Niger Coast adhesives.

REPORT OF EDUCATIONAL COMMITTEE.

In the next auction catalogues to be distributed by the United Stamp Co., P. M. Wolsieffer and H. M. Clark, respectively, there will be a circular from the Educational Committee that shows that it is the intention to press closely on the admirable work already accomplished by this publicity. The committee is fortifying itself in a position to continue the work so ably conceived and executed and from the circular in question, we quote: "In order to accomplish greater results it is necessary that the liberal financial support extended in the past be continued during the coming season. An untold amount of publicity can be secured (thereby enhancing and maintaining the market value of your stamps) if every one, collector or dealer, would send to this committee a maximum contribution of but one dollar. Your cordial support is earnestly solicited." The Secretary-Treasurer is Iver R. Johnson, 2214 N. Rockwell St., Chicago, Ill.; the other members of the Governing Board are A. Roterberg and P. M. Wolsieffer, Chairman.

BRANCH REPORTS.

Detroit—Meeting of Nov. 22 was held at the home of Dr. W. L. Babcock, with President Coolidge presiding. Fifteen members present. It is proposed to create a branch of associate members without voting power of those caring to join the Detroit Philatelic Society, but living outside of Detroit. An unanimous vote of thanks was tendered to the Detroit Museum of Art and to Director Griffith, for the use of the Museum and his personal attention during the American Philatelic Society convention.

Chicago—The 291st regular meeting was held on the evening of Nov. 9th with sixteen members present. The following applicants were admitted to membership: Dr. B. Grant Jefferis, Jas. Hardy, Fred W. Wittemeier, Dave Taussig, and Samuel Leland. Applications were received from Edw. H. Buehler, Melville Leighton, Axel Johnson, Geo. Dunton, C. Staub, Arthur C. Burch and Wm. H. Gardiner. The secretary was instructed to send copies of edited minutes of meeting to such philatelic publications as may request them. The entertainment consisted of exhibits and talks on minor varieties, followed by a stamp drawing.—HUGH M. CLARK, Sec.

Branch 21—Branch 21 has continued to meet fortnightly and the attendance has been excellent, giving evidence that philately in Columbus is in a healthy state. A committee is now at work on plans for the celebration of the 100th meeting and of the 4th anniversary of the organization of the Columbus Collectors' Club. The first meeting in December will be on the 18th of the month and will be held in the club's new room, Red Lion Hall, 337½ South High St. The club has the exclusive use of this room and it will be open at all times for reading, study or recreation.—GEO. K. SMITH, Sec.

The following was elected a member:—
No. 538. G. Carlton Russell.

The President appointed Messrs. Aldrich, Sawyer and Barker as the Entertainment Committee for 1911.

The President called for short talks from those present which was responded to most happily by Mr. A. F. Stone of W. Johnsbury, Vt., and also Messrs. Greene, Fowle, Russell and others. Mr. Chas. H. Stone announced the issue of a new watermark in the U. S. stamps.

The exhibition consisted of Mr. Carpenter's fine specialized collection of Portuguese colonies, which is almost complete, and the magnificent collection of Mauritius belonging to Mr. Geo. H. Worthington. What with two 1d Post Office on cover and a single 2d on piece of cover, to say nothing of the Post Pairs in all states of the plate and plated in this condition too, it seems hardly necessary to mention the later issues. This exhibit was indeed a treat such as few can show us. A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Worthington.

MAILS FOR PITCAIRN ISLAND.—We have received the following from the Secretary of the General Post Office:—"An opportunity of communicating with Pitcairn Island will shortly be afforded by his Majesty's ship, Algerine, which will proceed to that island from Valparaiso, Chile. Letters and printed matter can be sent to overtake the Algerine at Valparaiso, and should be posted so as to leave London not later than the morning of December 9; but parcels should be posted in time for despatch to Valparaiso in the mail made up at Liverpool on the morning of November 17. The rate of postage to be prepaid on letters is 1d per oz. and on newspapers and other printed matter, ½d per 2 ozs. Parcels on this occasion should be prepaid at the rate applicable to parcels for Chile—namely, 2s for a parcel not exceeding 3 lbs. in weight, 3s for a parcel exceeding 3 lbs. but not exceeding 7 lbs., and 4s for a parcel exceeding 7 lbs. but not exceeding 11 lbs. They should be specially addressed to the care of the officer commanding his Majesty's ship, Algerine, at Valparaiso."—London Times.

COLUMBIA 1904, 5 & 10 PESOS

A short time ago we offered these two high values in mint condition at $5.00 per set (catalogued $21.00). We have since learned that the supply of these two high values is much smaller than at first anticipated; and we shall, in a short time, raise our price to $7.50 per set which still is very cheap.

We have a few more sets available at

$5.00 Per Set

for the next thirty days. After that, our price for these two scarce stamps will be

$7.50 Net.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—The establishment of postal savings banks throughout the United States, though the plan adopted by the Government is lacking in certain popular features, which have contributed very materially to the success of similar institutions abroad, touches philatelists, in that two official stamps and an official envelope will be issued for the use of the postal savings banks, as at present planned. All correspondence connected with the administration of the banks is to be franked with a special official stamp, and it is said that stocks of the two stamps have already been printed and are being held in the vaults of the Bureau, awaiting orders from the Postoffice Department. The stamps are the same size as the regular postage issue, printed on the current watermarked paper, from plates containing 400 subjects, says the Philatelic Gazette. There is no portrait or special design, the principal features being the inscription on a finely engraved background of scroll work. "U. S. Postal Savings" appears at the top, with "Official—Mail" in the centre, in two lines, and at the bottom "Two Cents", with figures of value in each of the lower corners. Of this stamp, which is in black, there has been printed 2,082,400 copies, but they will not be on sale to the public, and there will be some difficulty in securing unused specimens. Probably the above will be all that will be printed on paper with the old watermark.

Another stamp, very similar in design to the above and printed in the same manner, is a 10c value which is to be used by the public in the savings bank books. The color is deep orange, the inscriptions reading "U. S. Postal Savings" above, with "10" in large numerals in the centre, and the word "Cents" at the bottom. Of this stamp, 5,306,000 copies have been printed on the paper with the old watermark.

In addition to these two stamps there is to be a series of four official envelopes for the postal savings banks, the stamp being the same on both sizes, which will be Nos. 7 and 9. Both will appear on white and manila, the white being the regular watermarked paper of the current series, the manila being the heavy kind used for the 2c wrapper. The stamp will be printed in carmine, the inscriptions reading "U. S. Postal Savings" at the top, "Official—Mail" in two lines in the centre, and "Two Cents" at the bottom, with a large figure "2" between the two words.

We are indebted to W. S. Dochterman for specimens of official cards from Iowa and Kansas, intended to be attached to bags of feeding stuffs, showing that they have been inspected, and the required tax paid. The Kansas card is dark blue, the tax being 1½c per 100 pounds. The Iowa card is on ordinary manila tag stock, the tax being 1c per 100 pounds.

J. O. H. Pendleton has a freak envelope of the current series, No. 5 white, which has two embossed stamps, neither being in the proper place. One of these stamps is embossed on the outside, but has no color, while the other has plenty of color but is embossed on the inside of the envelope.

It is definitely announced from Washington that none of the postage stamps are to be printed on yellow paper, as was announced some time since, but this does not mean that there will not be changes in the colors of the high value stamps. Plates were made for the new 12c value, a year ago, it is reported, but it is now stated that there will be no issue of a 12c value in the current design.

We understand that a new reply post card has been issued, but we have not yet seen a copy.

We have been shown by Chas. R. Morris specimens of the new watermarked stamps 1 and 2c values. They seem to be spaced a little differently than the previous issue and Mr. Morris writes that some stamps have no watermark.

impression of the 12c and 1p of the 1905 issue, which up to now have been only in the hands of the speculators and have been never regularly issued to the public. Whether the second impression can exactly resemble the first is questionable; we shall see."

Mr. Wolff also reports having received the 15c value in the new commemorative series, recently chronicled.

Adhesive.

1sh black on green.

HONG KONG.—The Postage Stamp chronicles the current 1c brown stamp on multiple paper.

NEW ZEALAND.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the current 6d stamp, perforated 14x14½.

PAPUA.—Philip Wolff sends us the following letter: "Dear Mr. Kidder—I have just received from Port Moresby the following stamps, which I think have not yet been chronicled: 1d, 2½d, 4d and 6d, all with large 'Papua', perf. 12½, small holes; Crown A upright. The registered letter sent me was prepaid with a postmarked to order 2 shillings 6 pence stamp, and no other, punctured 'O.S.'. Half the postmark was on the stamp, but no part of it shows on the letter. Probably never before has such a thing happened in philatelic history."

Gibbons Weekly has been shown the current ½d and 2d, with a small flaw making a projection from the lower point of the sail. Both stamps come in the same position on the sheet, so this is presumably a mishap to the new central-design stone without the "rift" variety.

PHILIPPINES.—We have received the following letter from Theodore Siddall, enclosing specimens of the 6c, 10c and 30c values, in new shades: "The new colors of the 6, 10 and 30 centavo stamps are out, and are on sale here, having appeared a couple of days ago. I suppose the 6 and 10c will be classed as shades only by the know-it-alls, as they have done with the 2c and 4c that have already appeared; but if you will compare them with the new U. S. and then with all the shades of these values that have so far appeared you will see that there is a real difference and not of shade. The 2, 4 and 10c never did run much to shades, but there are plenty of shades of the 6c, as is to be expected with a purple stamp."

Adhesives.

6c dark purple.
10c dark blue.
30c pale ultramarine.

PORTUGUESE COLONIES.—Ewen's Weekly says that the stamps for all the Colonies are being overprinted "Republica", though it is not known how many stamps with portrait of King Manuel are likely to be so treated.

RHODESIA.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the new set of stamps issued November 11, by the British South Africa Co., for use in Rhodesia. The stamps were engraved and printed by Waterlow & Sons, the portraits being by Downey, and differ materially from previous issues. They bear the portraits of King George and Queen Mary, the consent of His Majesty having been specially given in view of the visit to Rhodesia of His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, as the representative of His Majesty. The stamps are of large size, like the Quebec Tercentenary series, the words "British South Africa—Company" appearing at the top in two curved lines, with the values in figures and letters in small ovals in the upper corners. The values do not appear in words anywhere on the stamps. The lower part of the stamps is divided into two parts by a slender pillar, with ornamental capital and base, the portrait of the Queen appearing at the left and the King at the right. The portraits are not framed, and the background shades off into the shading of the frame in such a way as to produce a soft and pleasing effect, and sometimes a distinct color where the two join. All but the four lower values are in two colors. They are printed on paper watermarked rosette.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—We are indebted to A. C. Roessler for a specimen of the new stamp issued to commemorate the opening of the first Parliament of the Union. It is certainly a handsome stamp, though we note that some of the English papers are criticizing it because the name of one of the states appears as "Orange Free State" instead of "Orange River Colony". The reason, however, is not difficult to find, as what might seem appropriate for a recently conquered colonial province might be highly objectional for a state which becomes one of the sovereign parts of the "Union of South Africa".

URUGUAY.—We are indebted to Dr. L. A. Micheloni and H. Cormack for specimens of the new Uruguay provisional noted last week. Dr. Micheloni says, that the stamp was issued in Montevideo October 6, 1910. The Postage Stamp says 300,000 copies were printed.

ANNOUNCEMENT

TO THE PHILATELIC PUBLIC:—

I have entered the business of dealing in high grade stamps, and respectfully solicit your patronage.

My stock, which was further enhanced through the purchase of the entire stamp business of H. A. Blackwell, is probably one of the most complete of its kind in the country. The business will be confined, almost exclusively, to the approval trade. Selections sent out against satisfactory references or a deposit, if unknown to me.

—A paragraph in the Boston American announces the death of Solomon Berliner, formerly U. S. Consul at Teneriffe, Canary Islands. He was for many years an active stamp collector.

—We have received the first number of the Gibbons Stamp Circular. It will be issued monthly at 12c per year, the cost of postage. The introductory word tells us that Mr. Power will supply the "ginger", so that we may be assured of a lively publication. With its news features and special bargains, the Circular will no doubt have a large circulation.

—Chas. W. Rosenbaum submits a clipping from a San Francisco paper which states that Archer M. Huntington, son of the late Collis P. Huntington, has just returned from Europe with "a strong-box full of rare stamps". The article goes on to say that Mr. Huntington now has one of the largest collections on this side of the Atlantic. He was prepared to pay a duty of several thousand dollars upon his stamps and was surprised when the customs officials informed him that stamps were not dutiable.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Mrs. A. A. Doolittle (2), E. B. Cookson, G. Wood, Marcel E. Taller.

EDITORIAL.

Here and Coming—A wonderful vista of new issues is entrancing the collector who is partial to novelties and he will be most pleasantly engaged in keeping abreast of the developments of the day. Following the new Union of South Africa stamp, a beautiful set from Rhodesia has appeared showing both King George and Queen Mary. In a circular sent out by the British South African Company, it is said: "The stamps differ materially from previous issues in that they bear the portraits of their Majesties, the King and Queen, the consent of his Majesty having been specially given in view of the visit to Rhodesia of His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, who enters Rhodesian territory today as the Representative of his Majesty. The stamps upon which the word 'Rhodesia' appears for the first time as an integral part of the stamp are principally in two colours." The "Republica" surcharges of Portugal tell their own story. All indications are that the scene will be shifted frequently and sometimes suddenly on the new issue stage for some time to come.

* * *

Type One—A correspondent says that George R. Tuttle has a superb strip of three of the one-cent blue, first design, United States, on the cover, two of the stamps being of type I that was mentioned at some length in the issue of November 19th. It is shown that type I existed side by side on one plate at least, as the two examples to which our attention is called are described as with "full scrolls under line and also in corners," although on the right side of the second copy of type I, the scrolls are comparatively indistinct, we are told.

* * *

Awaiting Confirmation—A Continental paper is authority for the statement that the new two pence, violet, Great Britain, head of King Edward, of which the whole stock had been destroyed, according to official assurance, is to be had for about five dollars a copy. This is the stamp that has been described in the newspapers as being of the greatest rarity, or practically non-existent in consequence of the action of the British authorities. While the statement of the paper may not be absolutely convincing, yet there must be some tangible basis for the declaration that is made. We predict that the government will make some pertinent inquiries if it is found that the stamps are actually in philatelic circulation.

* * *

A Hit—To all appearances the news item sent out by the Associated Press telling of Archer M. Huntington's purchase of $50,000 worth of stamps while in Europe was an advertising ten-strike for philately. The item was printed in the evening papers dated November 18th and the results were instantaneous, almost. Seemingly, the item appealed to non-philatelists particularly, as it has been called to our attention by many of them who are willing to dismiss it as a topic for conversation only after due deliberation and discussion. As showing the value of a touch of "human interest" in an item of this kind, the sentence "Mr. Huntington was prepared on his arrival to pay a duty of $12,000 on his stamps and was disappointed when the customs officials informed him that stamps were not dutiable," usually is mentioned and with varying comment. The despatch could not have been improved upon in some of its phases had it been ordered and prepared by a philatelic bureau of publicity.

Pushing Philately—E. E. Hecker, Lyons, Iowa, writes: "Some time ago, I wrote a letter and it was published in the WEEKLY telling of my desire as one of the trustees of the Clinton Free Public Library to have placed on the shelves of the library, books on stamps and stamp collecting. There were a number of responses in the way of donations of books and pamphlets from different persons, whose names as donors will appear in the next annual report of the library. As showing the progress made in fulfilling our philatelic ambition, I enclose a clipping from the Clinton Advertiser; the arrangement of the philatelic section is the work of A. L. Schuyler, Clinton, Iowa, assisted by our capable librarian, Miss Mulaney. I am very much encouraged over the beginning that has been made." The article written by Mr. Schuyler and published in the Clinton Daily Advertiser is a fitting representation of philately and it includes as an appendix a list of the philatelic books and pamphlets in the library; though the philatelic section is still a modest one, it is not without importance. Here is an excerpt from the article and the quoted paragraph is about as concise and yet complete and compact a catalogue of "advantages of philately" for the boy, as we have seen for many a day: "Beyond this knowledge of geography, history and world political changes, the boy as he develops into the man learns many things in detail, variations of the printers' and engravers' art, the texture and manufacture of papers, the finest gradations and distinctions of colors,

Glad to Oblige—We have been asked to give space to the following announcement. Postmaster-General Hitchcock in his annual report will urge congress to authorize the delivery of parcels weighing so much as eleven pounds, on rural delivery lines; this is the weight limit for international parcels post. In other words it is proposed to try a sample of the parcels post before the plan is proposed for adoption nationally, as may be gathered from the following recital:

"This form of service, it is maintained, can be conducted with little, if any, additional expense to the government. It will not require the appointment of more carriers, for those already employed have the necessary equipment in the way of horses and wagons to distribute the parcels as well as the ordinary mail.

A rural parcels post of the kind proposed, if successfully conducted, probably would lead the department to attempt a more general system. Mr. Hitchcock believes, however, that before the parcels service is extended to the whole country definite information should be obtained as to the nature and volume of business to be handled.

He accordingly urges that, in conjunction with the experiment on rural routes, a further inquiry be authorized by Congress in order that the department may be in a better position to develop the system on conservative lines. He recommends that a special appropriation for the inquiry be granted at the coming session."

Not Probable—St. Helena is to be abandoned by the British government if the reports that some of the newspapers are circulating may be given credence. The "solitary island" is a charge instead of an asset to the crown and its revenues are decreasing, it is said. It is very unlikely that St. Helena will be cast adrift from the British Empire; it is a "solitary isle" true enough and not very productive but then there are Asuncion and Tristan d'Acunha islands as more striking examples of splendid isolation. Furthermore, industry is being encouraged in St. Helena, a government lace school having been established there, with gratifying

BRITISH FORGERY 10s GREY GREEN.

BY FRED J. MELVILLE.

We have been shown copies of a forgery of a stamp of Great Britain, exceedingly dangerous in character, inasmuch as it is practically identical in design, paper, watermark and perforation.

The forgeries, which have been shown us by Messrs. Bridger & Kay, are imitations of the 10sh grey green of Great Britain, watermarked anchor (No. 135 in the catalogue of Stanley Gibbons, Ltd.). The forgeries have lately been offered to Messrs. Bridger & Kay, who, on examination, found them to be very deceptive forgeries. They tell us that they were offered them in good faith, but they understand that they came originally from Italy.

The forgeries are printed on genuine watermarked and perforated paper obtained by discharging the color from some fiscal stamp of which there are several that can be so utilized.

Apparently the design is reproduced by some photographic process, as Messrs. Bridger & Kay state they can find no actual difference, save that the appearance is more scratchy and blurred than the genuine, probably owing to the paper being absorbent after the chemical treatment necessary to remove the original design of the fiscal stamp.

The white parts are, if anything, slightly thicker and more prominent, especially on the head, and the corner letters are also larger than on the genuine stamp.

The letterings on specimens Messrs. Bridger & Kay have had are DF—FRD and EB—BE.

The postmarks which are also well forged are "Kensington, B.O., Young St., S. W., Ju. 19., '82" and "York St., Manchester, Sp. 18, '83".—Postage Stamp.

The first split to appear was the 1/2d on half of 1d purple, issued on September 3rd, 1893. The adhesive used to provide the required 1/2d value was the 1d purple of Great Britain overprinted BRITISH PROTECTORATE OIL RIVERS. The provisional surcharge "1/2d" was applied twice to the stamp diagonally with a dividing bar (bottom left to top right) in red ink. The sheets of 120 stamps (ten rows of 12) were surcharged in horizontal rows of twelve at a time. The first row on the sheet was done in violet ink, but as the colour blended too much with the stamp, the remaining rows were printed off in red. It is said only four sheets of this provisional were overprinted.

Of the remaining provisionals issued I cannot do better than quote Mr. Daun's remarks in Africa: Part III:

"Owing to the dearth of Half-penny and One Penny stamps at Opobo and Old Calabar during the months of May to October, 1894, recourse had to be made to provisional stamps of these values. A sheet of the One Penny dark blue stamps of 1893 had the stamp bisected vertically at Opobo in May, 1894, and each half surcharged '1/2' in red in upright figures, thus making 120 Half-penny stamps. A second sheet of the same One Penny stamps, but this time of the light blue colour, was also similarly treated in August of the same year at Opobo, making another 120 provisional Half-penny stamps.

As there were no more of the One Penny blue stamps in stock and as Half-penny stamps were still required at Opobo, a sheet of the One Penny vermilion stamps of 1894 was surcharged '1/2' in the same way as before described, except that the surcharge was printed in black-blue or violet ink, and that part of the stamps were divided diagonally instead of vertically. A further 120 Half-penny stamps were thus created, and these appear to have lasted until the month of October following, when on the supply of this value again becoming exhausted at Opobo, a second sheet of the One Penny vermilion stamps were surcharged '1/2'.

In June and October, 1894, the stock of One Penny stamps was for the time being completely used up at Opobo, and in order to provide stamps of this value, half a sheet in June and a whole sheet in October were taken of the Two Pence of Issue I (Oil Rivers 2d), and the stamps were bisected vertically and each half was surcharged with a numeral '1', this making in all 300 provisional One Penny stamps. Nearly the whole number had the surcharge struck in vermilion with the numeral '1,' measuring 12 mm. in height, but some of the stamps apparently were surcharged in carmine with a small numeral '1,' which measures 4 3/4 mm. in height. Only two specimens are known of this variety, one of which is from the top of a sheet, and it has the postmark distinctly over the surcharge."

As the numbers printed were in no case very large, all the above "splits" are rare and seldom seen.

Pahang.—In 1897 this state issued some very primitive bisecteds, which consisted of the value being surcharged in manuscript and then initialed "J. F. O." The last three letters stand for John Fortescue Owen, the district TreasurerJ. W. SCOTT at Kuala Lipis, where the provisionals were issued.

The 5c blue was the adhesive which underwent the surcharging and bisecting, the denominations required being a 2c and a 3c. Red ink was employed, except in very few cases where the surcharging was done in black. A point worthy of note is that the surcharging was applied as required. So it is not uncommon to see a whole 5c unsevered surcharged 2c on one half and 3c on the other!

Prince Edward Island.—The issue of 1861 for this island consisted of only three values, so it is not surprising to find that recourse had to be taken to the use of provisionals. The values required were a 1d value and some combination to make up the 7 1/2d rate. The former was obtained by bisecting the 2d rose, whilst the latter was made possible by bisecting the 3d blue and using it in conjunction with the 6d stamp, or else two 3d stamps. Both these splits were sanctioned by the Government Gazette, and, as few passed through the post, are very scarce. The stamps were "split diagonally."St. Christopher.—In March, 1865, the stock of 1/2d stamps ran out, with the result that the 1d rose was overprinted "Half-penny" twice diagonally and then bisected. The surcharge was printed in black, and was irregularly executed, as sometimes it was found reading downwards as well as upwards, while in length it varies from 14 to 15 mm. The "split" is fairly common—for this class of provisional—being catalogued at 4sh 6d or 15sh for an unsevered pair.St. Lucia.—In 1892 (early) the stock of 1/2d stamps ran out. To supply the demand the 6d lilac and blue stamp of 1887 was bisected vertically down the centre, each half having previously been overprinted "1/2d" in black. This split is by no means rare, as a fairly large quantity were used. There are two varieties of the "d" in "1/2d," while another variety shews no fraction bar in "1/2."St. Vincent.—The two bisections of this colony seem to possess a particular fascination for collectors, as they are almost invariably snapped up at once from dealers' stockbooks, and at auction competition is also keen.

On account of the supply of 1d stamps becoming exhausted in the latter part of 1880, it was found necessary to issue a provisional. Accordingly, the 6d blue-green was taken and surcharged "1d." in red, while the stamp was perforated by a machine gauging 12 vertically down the centre. The surcharges were applied in large bold type, the effect of the red upon the green stamp being distinctly effective.

In the following year (1881) a decree sanctioned the use—for the first time—of a 1/2d denomination. As appears to have often been the case, the authorities only began to think about the supply of 1/2d stamps after, or at the time, the decree was issued. In the meantime the necessary value was supplied by surcharging a quantity of the 6d yellow-green stamps "1/2d." in red (two on each stamp). The adhesives were then perforated 12 vertically down the centre, and were much the same to look at as the previous bisected provisional.

The 1d "split" is much the rarer of the two, being catalogued (unused) at £7, or an unsevered pair £18. The second half-stamp can be obtained for about 35sh, unused, or £3, used.

Tobago.—Like St. Vincent, this colony also issued a 1d provisional surcharged on 1/2 of 6d in 1880 (November). The surcharging however, differed, as in this case it was written in pen and ink (black). The stamp was then cut vertically down the centre. The "split" is a rare one, being worth about £6 used.

From the above list it will be seen that the British West Indies had a particularly strong affection for the bisected provisional, as the B. W. I. are responsible in the above list by far the greater portion of the authorized bisects or splits.

Several of the B. W. I. colonies mentioned above have, moreover, at various times made use of unsanctioned bisects, although in this branch they can scarcely be considered such hardened sinners as the British North American Colonies!—*Stamp Lover."GENERAL" PACKET

JAMAICA, AMONG THE LLANDOVERIES.

By ASTLEY CLERK.

(Reprints of this article will be made uniform with the series advertised from time to time. These reprints fit into the black album wherever needed and are supplied at 5c each. We furnish a neat binder for 30c which covers actual cost only.—Ed.)

You are a stamp collector, reader? If you are the sort I hope you are, then come with me and let us wander for a little while amid the beauties of Llandovery.

"Llandovery," I can hear you say in much surprise, "surely the most uninteresting part of the (philatelic) world to go to, a positive waste of time."

You may be a stamp collector, my friend, but you are most certainly not a philatelic student; and, in my opinion, the mere collecting of anything without attempting to gain information about it and from it is a bald pastime. Hence I classify stamp collectors under three headings: (1) the money-maker, whose only object in collecting is a monetary one; (2) the individual whose pride lies in stating how many "thousands" he or she has in their collection; and (3) the person who studies the collection, and tries to gain from the stamps as much knowledge as is possible. Reader, I do trust that you are included in the third division? If not, then make all speed and get there, for that is where the pleasure and profit of philately are to be found.

One more question, however, before I go farther. Can you tell me where Llandovery is? "In Wales," you reply rather indignantly. Ah, well! wiser than you have thus answered, and like you too are wrong; for Llandovery, philatelic Llandovery is in Jamaica, on the historic north side of the island, among the pastures and pimento groves of St. Ann's, "the Garden of Jamaica." After leaving St. Ann's Bay, the traveller journeys westward along a road that kisses the seashore all the while, passes through Richmond sugar estate, and enters that of Llandovery; and not far from the roadside and close by a vine-covered millhouse he will come to the waterfalls seen on our Jamaica Penny Postage and Revenue stamps of 1900 and 1901. The falls are at all times beautiful, but especially so during our rainy seasons, for then the flow of water is heavy and dashes over the rocks with a thunderous sound, while the cool white spray flies in all directions, like coffee blossoms dropping from the trees and blown here and there by the wind. Often the river suddenly and unexpectedly rises—caused by the rains which fall in the mountains.

The red and original Llandovery was introduced to the public on the 3rd May, 1900, when the following official notice appeared in the columns of the Jamaica Gazette:

"Stamp Office, 2nd May, 1900.
"The following is a description of a new design of One Penny Postage and Revenue stamps which have been put into circulation on the first inst.:—
Colour . . . Carmine.
Shape . . . Rectangular.
Design . . . A view of Llandovery Falls.
"E. Jordan Andrews,
"Stamp Commissioner."

The stamp had been long promised, and somewhat tardily commemorated the entrance of Jamaica into the circle of the Imperial Penny Postage, which took place on the 24th May, 1899, the birthday of her late Majesty Queen Victoria, as she was designated in our official documents, the "Lady Supreme of Jamaica." It was most fiercely attacked, for, although the view certainly illustrates one of the many aspects of Xaymaca, the land of wood and water, yet the size, some said, required an extra large tongue; the colour was pronounced inartistic; the very name of the Falls was said to be distinctly misleading, as it carried the reader away from Jamaica to the principality of Wales; it was asserted that the general design was so made as to defeat the attempt of forgers, on the assumption that no forger yet born would be ingenious enough to copy such a monstrosity; and the watermark, Crown CC sideways, unstopped the seven vials of wrath. What a howl of indignation arose when it was discovered that the label was so watermarked, not because of the unnatural position of the letters as on account of the letters, "CC," themselves. Newspapers and their readers protested against their use; "Crown CC," wrote one editor, "signifies Crown Colony," a system of government that had done little of good and much of harm for our island. It was pointed out that our Tobacco stamps, issued about the same period, but for a long time now withdrawn, also bore the hated letters, and the question was asked, "Was the watermark just an error, or a deliberate act?" Little as these two letters are, and hidden away as they may be, yet they were the means of arousing our people to a fever heat of excitement. Years have passed by since then, and the mystery has been simply and satisfactorily explained; and, as far as the watermark is concerned, it is now acknowledged that the authorities meant neither harm nor insult by using the "CC," but as the Llandovery were larger than our ordinary stamps they had to be printed on the Crown CC paper used for the large-sized high values of other colonies.

At the time many people believed that this first issue was but the forerunner of a series illustrative of our scenery, but, if the Government ever contemplated it, the outcry against its crude design and large size evidently made them drop the idea.

The Llandovery were printed in two colours—carmine in 1900 and black and carmine in 1901—the designs differing slightly, as will be seen on close comparison. The second issue had a movable centre, so as to permit the double printing—the former were sarcastically dubbed "Red Flags," the latter "Blackboards," one newspaper writer avowing that each time he placed a 1901 stamp on an envelope he thought he was in school again and standing before the blackboard.

Both issues are among our unified stamps, and were required to do duty on postage and revenue matter, but as a receipt stamp the later issue was a decided failure, as black ink would not show clearly upon the black picture, hence their withdrawal.

If you will look right above the "rv" you will see what looks like a man with his right hand slightly raised, and a broad-brimmed hat on his head. This has been most seriously stated, locally at least, to be Sir Henry Blake, Governor-General of the Island at the time the photo of the Falls was taken; but Dr. James Johnson, who took the picture from which the design of the stamp was afterwards copied (without his leave), assures me that neither Sir Henry Blake nor any one else was there at the time, and that the supposed man is but a rock standing out of the waters. This story, however, may have had its origin in the legend connected with the place. Tradition has it that some four hundred years ago, when Jamaica was but a young Spanish colony, a son of lordly Spain fell in love with the daughter of an Arawak Cacique (or chief)—his love was not returned. Opposition but inflamed his passion and aroused his determination, and he swore by the Holy Virgin to win his love or die. One day, when the clouds hung low and black, and the rain was damp in the air they met—the Spanish Don and the Indian maid—on the banks of Llandovery, close to the then gently murmuring stream. His eyes, as he saw her, laughed with the triumph of victory; he leaped forward, seized her hands, bent low and whispered in her ear. Like a startled cony the maiden raised her head, and with the fire of fear and hate pouring out of her beautiful eyes, she threw a glance of scorn at him; then, suddenly, wrenched her hands from out his grasp and sprang, before her purpose dawned on him, into the midst of the stream. He, manlike, and mad with desire, leaped after her, but at the moment a roar broke on his ear, and as he looked up the river he saw a mountain of water rushing down on him—he saw her too smiling triumphantly at him and yet calmly awaiting the coming flood of waters; he saw when she was caught up and flung against the rock (seen) in the middle and higher part of the stream, and then he turned to fly; but too late, for the waters were on him, they caught him in their cold embrace, they bore him down into their chilly depths and swept him over the rocks to the death which he had sworn to meet if he should lose her. The rock above the "rv" is said, by the Indian legend, to be the Spanish lover's remains.

Both the Llandovery, one colour and two colours, were printed only in sheets of sixty stamps; of the former there were but two printings, according to a schedule sent me by Messrs. De La Rue and Co., at the order of our Government. The first is dated July 10, 1900, 64,768; the second February 4, 1901, 28,150.

There is some difference between the printers' first date (July 10) and the official authorization (May 2) of these red Llandovery, a difference of over two months—probably January 10 was intended to be written. Although these two printings total only 92,918, and despite the fact that Messrs. De La Rue and Co. are unquestionably the most careful stamp printers known in the world, yet these stamps show a fair amount of variety in watermarks, a peculiarity not so frequently found among the black and carmine stamps of the following year. In the ordinary stamp, which I designate in my private catalogue as No. 40, the Crown is to be found at the left-hand side and the letters "CC" (reversed when looked at from the back of the stamp) at the right. But I have a sheet of sixty in which the watermark is inverted, that is, the Crown is at the right and the letters (as before) at the left.

This variety I list as 40 V, and in every hundred duplicates you will usually find five or six of these errors. Then comes variety 2, the reversed watermark (which I list as 40 B); in this the Crown is at the right, as it should be, but the letters read the right way when looked at from the back. Variety 3, to which I refer as No. 40 D, and call the "inverted slip-block watermark," shows the letters at the right (reversed), and the Crown below them at the left, the paper having been placed in the press too much to one side.

It would be interesting to find a sheet of this variety, as, I would presume, the right-hand margin edging would be watermarked with the letters, while the margin on the left would contain the missing Crown. But the rarest of all these errors is the combined inverted and reversed watermark, which I list as No. 40 E, where the Crown is at the right, and thus becomes inverted (vide No. 40 V), while the letters read the right way, and thus become reversed (vide No. 40 B).

In 2200 duplicates of the carmine stamps I found the following errors of watermark:

110 inverted,	(40 V)
56 inverted slip-block	(40 D)
11 reversed,	(40 B)
and only 2 inverted-reversed,	(40 E)

The two-colour Llandovery (blackboards) were issued in the following year. The official notice is found in the Jamaica Gazette of the 26th September, 1901, and reads thus:

"Stamp Office, Kingston.
"25th September, 1901.
"The following is a description of the new issue of One Penny Postage and Revenue stamps which are to be put into circulation on the 25th inst.:—
"Colour—Black centre and carmine border.
"Shape—Rectangular.
"Design—A view of Llandovery Falls.
"E. Jordan Andrews,
"Stamp Commissioner."

REPORT OF COUNTERFEIT DETECTOR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10th, 1910.

On page 384 I stated in my report that certain U. S. cut square envelopes had been artificially changed from buff to orange which had been sent out by a "stamp company" in Baltimore. I desire to state that the firm referred to was not the well known Chesapeake Stamp Company. The statement is made to avoid any possible misunderstanding.

NO. NIGERIA TWENTIETH CENTURY.

By D. B. ARMSTRONG.

In 1900 the territories in Western Africa, formerly administered by the Royal Niger Company, were acquired by purchase by the British Government and transferred to the control of the Colonial Office, the purchase price being £856,895. The southern portion of these territories was annexed to the old Niger Coast Protectorate, and created a new Crown colony under the title of Southern Nigeria, and the northern portion established on a similar basis and christened Northern Nigeria.
Stamps first issued March, 1900.

A first consignment of postage stamps bearing the King's portrait, for use in Northern Nigeria, was received at Lokoja, from the Crown Agents in London, on May 28th, 1902, and was placed on sale on July 1st following. At the same time the remainders of the Queen's Head series on hand at the General Post Office were withdrawn from use and destroyed, but the up-country post offices were permitted to retain their stocks, which were used up in the ordinary manner. The new stamps were printed from Plate "I" of the De La Rue, Postage and Revenue, general colonial keyplate, and, save for the fact that the head of King Edward VII replaced that of the late Queen Victoria, show no great difference from the similar series of Queen's Head stamps issued in 1900.

July 1st, 1902.

King's Head design, inscribed "POSTAGE & REVENUE." Wmk. Crown CA (single). Perf. 14. Name and value in second colour. Typographed by Messrs. De La Rue and Co. in London, in sheets of 120, two panes of 60, ten rows of six, with plate number "I" in white on a solid disc of colour at all four corners of the sheet; the panes surrounded by continuous Jubilee lines in the same colour as the body of the stamp.

1/2d, lilac and green.
1d " carmine.
2d " yellow.
2 1/2d " ultramarine.
5d " chestnut.
6d " violet.
1s, green and black.
2s 6d " blue.
10s " brown.

This series remained current until 1905, during the course of which year it was superseded by one of the same design having the Multiple Crown CA watermark. Included in this series is a stamp of the enormous face value of £25, which though issued in the colony as far back as April, 1904, remained for a long time unknown to philatelists, and was not included in the catalogues until 1906. Although this stamp is printed from the same key-plate as the remaining values of the current series, and, being inscribed "POSTAGE & REVENUE," is doubtless available for postal use if required, it seems improbable that it can have been issued in response to any existing demand for such a denomination for postal use, especially in view of the fact that Northern Nigeria is not a gold-producing country, and does not export any articles which could very well be despatched by registered mail; its use is in all probability confined to fiscal purposes, such as the transfer of deeds and titles of properties, concessions, etc.

1904-5.

Design, etc., as before. Wmk. Multiple Crown CA. Unsourced paper. Dates of issue appended in brackets.

1/2d, lilac and green (October 20th, 1905).
1d " carmine (August, 1905).
2d " yellow (October 20th, 1905).
2 1/2d " ultramarine (October 20th, 1905).
5d " chestnut (October 20th, 1905).
6d " violet (October 20th, 1905).
1s, green and black (October 20th, 1905).
2s 6d " blue (October 20th, 1905).
£25 " red (April, 1904).

Seven values have so far been issued on chalk-surfaced paper, as follows:—

1906-9.

Design, watermark, etc., as above. Chalk-surfaced paper. Dates of issue appended in brackets.

1/2d, lilac and green (October, 1907).
1d " carmine (December 5th, 1906).
2d " orange (June 13th, 1908).
5d " chestnut (February, 1909).
6d " violet (May 6th, 1907).
1s, green and black (April 23rd, 1907).
2s 6d, green and blue (June 9th, 1909).

The two lowest denominations have recently made their appearance printed in single colours, in conformity with the regulations of the Universal Postal Union.

1910.

Design, etc., as before. Single colours. Wmk. Multiple Crown CA. Unsourced paper.

1/2d, green (April 15th, 1910).
1d, rose (January 30th, 1910).

THE NEW WATERMARK.

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT.

To specialists in United States issues as well as to the advanced collector, the advent of the new single line watermark will prove a source of renewed interest. Ever since the Bureau of Engraving and Printing introduced the double line U. S. P. S. watermark with the issue of 1895 the watermark feature has proved very monotonous with the exception of the discovery of two values of the issue mentioned which were found printed on paper watermarked for the Internal Revenue service. With reference to watermarks, the postal issues of the United States were ranged in two great groups: without and with watermark. We knew that everything issued after 1895 was watermarked, and that was all there was to it. The joys of the collector of British Colonial stamps were denied us. While he revelled in his CC's and CA's, his singles and multiples, and lived in an atmosphere of benzine and happiness, the U. S. specialist used his benzine cup as an ash tray and wearily scanned the growing catalog columns which followed the single heading, "Watermarked U. S. P. S."

A change has come, a new factor has entered into American philately. Now it is double line or single line watermark if you please. There is no escape. If you have recognized and collected the watermark varieties of British and British colonial issues, you cannot very well go back on your own country, and it is safe to predict that the double and single line U. S. P. S. will receive your full and cheerful attention.

At the time of writing I received the first installment from Washington, consisting of the 1 and 2 cent values, and it was with rare pleasure I placed the two blocks in the benzine cup and saw the odorous drops of the volatile liquid bring to light a departure from a monotony of 15 years' duration—a new watermark. It means so much to the philatelic mind. An entire issue is becoming obsolete and a new chapter has to be added to the history of American philately. It will include all the regular postage stamps, postage due and special delivery stamps, perforated and imperforate, partly perforated, and automatic machine perforations, all watermarked single line U. S. P. S.

Looking backward, you will probably find that your "Series of 1908" has been neglected. Everything was right at hand, ready to be picked up at your leisure, but from now on the available supply will become more and more limited, and when the post offices are sold out, the opportunities of "buying at face" will cease. There is also the possibility of some of the values becoming comparatively scarce. When an entire issue becomes obsolete it is a natural result that some values or some shades will be found more difficult to obtain than others.

The advent of the new watermark is of little or no importance to the Post Office Department and consequently it is safe to predict that no records will be kept by the officials of the dates of issue of the various values on paper with the single line watermark. It is for us philatelists to collect and record the data necessary for the future history of the new watermark issue. Judging from the time blocks of the 1c and 2c values were mailed to me by my friend, Mr. Chas. R. Morris, of Washington, D. C., who has the opportunity of getting a "first whack" at everything new, I would guess Nov. 23 as the date of issue of these two values at the Washington Post Office. The plate numbers on the blocks at hand are No. 5325 on the 2c, and No. 5441 on the 1c. There is no difference in shades from recent printings. The paper on which the 1c is printed shows a decidedly "laid" effect, even more so than was the case at one time with the 13c of series 1902. As these "worn blanket" varieties were fully explained at the time they are not liable to cause any further "laid paper" excitement.

The new single line watermark should serve to further stimulate the interest in U. S. issues and I would not be surprised to see the signs of a renewed activity on the part of American collectors.

The specialists in U. S. can be trusted not to overlook their opportunities, and the merry hunt is already on. We have helped to boom the British Colonial ACTIVITY IN ST. LOUIS.

 On Tuesday evening, Nov. 22nd, the St. Louis Stamp Collectors' Society gave a very successful entertainment in this city, the occasion being a public stereopticon lecture on the postage stamps of the world, kindly loaned by the Chicago Philatelic society. The event had been widely exploited, not only by the individual "boosting" of the society's members, but by the daily press, by cardboard posters displayed in public places, and by means of very artistic printed invitations, which had been freely distributed.
 The lecture was admirably delivered by H. A. Diamant, the well-known Canal Zone specialist, and a member of the St. Louis Society. That his efforts were appreciated and enjoyed, was evidenced by the complimentary remarks from both philatelists and lay visitors. Walter Bain, as president of the society, made a brief prefatory address and then introduced the speaker of the evening, who entertained his audience for an hour and a half with his breezy talk on stamps, accompanied by almost one hundred colored pictures on the screen.
 At the conclusion of the lecture, President Bain, in a few closing remarks, announced that souvenirs would be distributed to all in attendance before leaving the auditorium. The souvenirs were packets of stamps, which had been kindly donated by one of St. Louis' enterprising dealers, and which are hoped to form the nucleus of many a new collection in the city, though every visitor was impartially provided.
 The attendance for the evening was extremely flattering. The auditorium of the Cabanne Library, with a seating capacity of several hundred, was the scene of the entertainment, and "standing room only" served as the ushers' welcome to late arrivals. As one of the daily papers expressed it, "Nearly all the stamp-collectors of St. Louis were present," but there were also collectors from Kansas City, Detroit, and other places, also a goodly number who were not collectors at all, but who probably will be, henceforth. Several new applications for membership in the society were promptly tendered.

 Without doubt, the affair was a complete success from every angle of vision, and cannot but lead to a creditable advancement of philately in this city, as well as of philately at large. St. Louis is still on the map!

A WORD TO PAID PERMIT COLLECTORS.
 BY A. C. WHELAN.

I think a great many permit collectors are laboring under a misapprehension in regard to these labels. Every little while I notice in the new issue column a lot of space taken up by someone reporting a new find in "paid permits".
 As I understand it, a "1c paid" or whatever "paid" is printed on a wrapper means what it says only after the post office has accepted it in the mails. When a firm sends the permits they send a great many at one time that weigh within the price printed in the permit. They are counted by or under the supervision of a post office clerk and are paid for in cash at so much a piece. If the firm should want to send an extra copy it would not be convenient to take it to the post office and have it counted and then pay the price of the permit. They would put a stamp of the proper denomination on the article and send it as they would any other piece of mail.
 Then again a firm might have a lot of wrappers or envelopes printed say "2 cents paid", and after putting the catalogue or other printed matter in it, they might find that it would only take 1 cent to carry the article; then they would have all the wrappers printed over "1c paid", at the same time blotting out the original 2 cents, or they would put a one-cent stamp on each piece, thereby killing the permit. The same thing would happen if the article should cost three or four cents; print them all over or put a stamp of the proper size on each wrapper.

To the point, a permit is not a permit until it has been counted and accepted by the postoffice for the value printed in place of a stamp. The whole idea is

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

PRINTING OF 5 AND 10c 1959 PHILIPPINES.

By MAJ. F. L. PALMER.

Due to the recent purchase of a full mint sheet of the 10c (Scott's No. 11) of the Philippines issue of 1859, my attention has lately been focussed upon a problem which I find myself unable to solve satisfactorily without aid, viz:—the setting of the 5 and 10c of this issue in the various printings. As this question would also interest other specialists in these interesting stamps of our "farthest frontier", and as the needed data may be in the possession of other collectors or of dealers having large supplies or of those members of the Philatelic "Old Guard" who have wisely kept scrap-books of information published in the past, I am emboldened to appeal to them, through the columns of your valued WEEKLY, in the hope that each may give me, in a similar manner or through personal correspondence, such information as he may possess for the general good of philately as well as for my own information.

In order that it may be understood just what information is needed and its bearing on the matter at issue, it will be necessary to summarize the information already available, before stating the results of my researches in this direction. According to "The Postage Stamps of the Philippines":—The 5c has been noted in sheets of 56, 130, and 192 stamps, and the same variation may be expected of the 10c. Each group of four is separated from its neighbor by a dividing line except in the sheets of 130 where it is omitted." Also:—"Stamps surrounded individually by a frame appear to be from the edges of sheets where they were used singly in perpendicular strips to fill out the requisite number of stamps which varied with different printings." In speaking of this issue Mencarini, who is generally very accurate, says that these same sheets contain stamps not in groups of four varieties but single and each surrounded by its own separate frame; he says definitely that this is true of both the 5 and 10c. These single framed stamps are very rare, however; I have never seen the 10c in this form, and have seen but two copies of the 5c, one of which is in my own collection. And it may be added here that, as will be seen later, these stamps cannot be obtained from the vertical strips used to fill out the margins of sheets, as these latter come in vertical pairs and do not have the necessary margins outside the frame.

My studies have resulted in a belief that there were at least three different printings of the 5c, and may have been a fourth; that there were at least two printings of the 10c, but probably no more; and that all of these printings were from four lithographic stones (on which the values were changed for printing the 10c) which were arranged as follows (the various stones being numbered 1-2-3-4 and the three groups representing the three different printings):—

LONDON'S NEW POST OFFICE.

The removal of the work of the General Post Office from its old quarters in St. Martin's-le-Grand to the new building in King Edward street was practically completed on Monday morning, when the sorters and postmen did their work in the new premises. At noon the Postmaster-General (Mr. Herbert Samuel) received a number of distinguished guests in the hall of the public office in King Edward street. He adverted to the circumstance that the late King laid the foundation-stone of the building five years ago, and said he had it in command from King George to say that he would have been glad to open the new Post Office in person had not the period of mourning precluded ceremonies of State. The new office in the country and one of the finest in the world. He went on to refer to the enormous amount of work that would be done in it, and to the gigantic growth in the business of the General Post Office since the opening of the old building in 1892.

THE NEW BUILDING.

The public office is the largest of its kind in the country, measuring 152 ft. by 52 ft., with a counter running the whole length. The sorting offices demonstrate the remarkable extent to which time and labour-saving appliances will be used. The aim of the architect has been that the stream of letters shall flow from east to west throughout. Under the public office in the eastern portion of the building is the posting room, into which falls the correspondence posted in the King Edward street letter boxes, and letters posted in the Newgate street boxes are brought hither by a cable conveyor. All correspondence for London and abroad is taken to the ground floor in baskets by means of a band conveyor, while the correspondence for the provinces, which is dealt with at Mount Pleasant, is automatically conveyed to the departure platform at the west side of the sorting office. The whole of the ground floor of the sorting office block, measuring 300 ft. by 185 ft., is devoted to the requirements of the East Central district. Here the posted letters are arranged in order for stamping on the "facing" tables, on which running bands are placed. At the end of the table is fixed the electric stamping machine, by which means the stamps on 700 or 800 letters can be obliterated in a minute. Subsequently the work passes into two main divisions. In one of them the correspondence for the 12 daily deliveries in the East Central district is prepared, and in the other letters for all other parts of London are dealt with, direct despatches being made to every chief district and sub-district delivery office in London, of which there are 108, for every delivery throughout the day. The first floor is entirely devoted to the treatment of correspondence for the Colonies and abroad. Upon this work about 900 officers of all grades are employed, about four million articles being despatched weekly. In the foreign section there are more than one thousand post-offices for which direct bags are made up. The second floor contains two large rooms for storing the accumulation of foreign mail bags awaiting despatch and for paying the wages of the Sorting Office staff. Kitchen and refreshment room accommodation is provided on the third floor, while two miniature rifle ranges are to be installed on the flat roof.

In removing the earth and debris for the lower floors of the new building a considerable portion of the old London wall was laid bare. It was necessary to demolish the greater part of this, but a bastion at the western angle has been preserved. A concrete enclosing wall and roof have been constructed, and the bastion may be inspected by the public.—London Times.

THE TRENTON PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

By ALVAH G. CLARK.

The Trenton Philatelic Society is fast outgrowing the swaddling clothes of infancy and becoming quite a good sized boy, so to speak. This child of Philately is near three years old and is growing rapidly.

At the annual meeting of the society held Oct. 8th the officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Edmund S. Jamieson; Vice President, Theodore G. Kitchin; Secretary, C. H. Gibbs; Financial Secretary, William B. Housel; Treasurer, Alvah G. Clark; Librarian, R. E. Johnson; Sales Manager, Edmund A. Andrews.

The 50th meeting of the society was held Nov. 26th at the office of the Vice President, Theodore G. Kitchin. Secretary Gibbs exhibited part of his general collection and Sales Manager Andrews his collection of U. S. and Colonies and Netherlands and Colonies. Mr. Taylor had some very rare Hawaiians, Newfoundlanders and others on view. At the end of the session the members adjourned to Hancock's dining parlors where they celebrated the 50th meeting.

The Printing Committee has the new stationery and application blanks ready for distribution and the Sales Manager showed the new circuit books. The society furnishes free to all its members, either or both of its two kinds of stationery. One is of letter size with a panel at the top, in this panel and to the left is the seal of the society and "Member of Trenton Philatelic Society" fills in the remaining space. This is printed in black on white paper and is very pleasing in effect. Then there is the note size paper with just a small seal printed in a rich seal brown at the top centre of the paper and on the back flap of the envelopes.

The sales books are the cream of the printers' art and have a very fine arrangement. In fact an old well known collector who is acquainted with the books of all societies and a member of many societies, pronounced them "the finest sales books of any society."

One of the new and up-to-date features of this society is that you do

UNITED STATES.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 1c and 2c stamps of the current issue, with the new watermark, and in an imperforate condition. The new watermarks are issued on an entirely different plan from the old one. Counting across the full sheet of 400 stamps there are only 18 letters in the top row, 19 letters in the second, 18 in the third, and so on, alternating down the whole sheet. A similar plan has been followed in spacing the rows vertically, and consequently there are very few stamps in the sheet that have the watermark placed normally. In some stamps it only appears at the extreme edges of the paper, though we were unable to find that any stamp was entirely without trace of the watermark. It might well be called a multiple watermark.

We are also indebted to Frank B. Eldredge for specimens of the new watermarks on the 1c and 2c values.

Frank B. Eldredge has shown us several new things in permits, including Boston, No. 285, changed for a 5c to 6c, by overprinting a large "6" by a hand stamp all in black; Chicago, No. 625, changed from 2c to 1c, both the original and the overprint, 1c, being in red; Boston, No. 177, changed from 3c to 4c, the original being in black and the overprint in red; St. Louis, 11c, covered by a regular 10c stamp.

Frank B. Eldredge reports having seen the following new precancels: Scott's No. 323, precancelled Racine, Wis., reading down, type of first issue, known as No. 1.

Scott's No. 323, precancelled Brockton, Mass., Campbell, Sta. C. No. normal and normal double, type 1.

Scott's No. 323, precancelled Lexington, Ky., reading up, known as type 6.

Scott's No. 323 precancelled Fort Wayne, Ind., normal, known as type 2.

BECHUANALAND.—In regard to the 6d noted in No. 1033, the following letter from the Resident Commissioner's office, Mafeking, will be of interest. We copy it from the Stamp Collector: "The Transvaal 6d stamps overprinted 'Bechuanaland Protectorate' were obtained for revenue purposes, but as they are printed 'postage and revenue' and there is no Government Notice in force stating what stamps are available for postal purposes, they can be legally used to prepay postage in the Protectorate. The issue consisted of 1500 stamps, and they were first sold in December, 1908."

BOSNIA.—According to the West End Philatelist a most interesting discovery has been made in the pictorial stamps of Bosnia, which proves the existence of a number of varieties hitherto unknown. The new variety consists in the perforation which, in each case, gauges 10 1/2 on one side of the stamp, thus proving that the old 10 1/2 machine, which was used for the previous issue, must have been temporarily put into service. The varieties found are as follows:

FRANK P. BROWN COMPANY,
325 Washington St., BOSTON, MASS.

BRAZIL.—Gibbons Weekly warns collectors of the existence of a very dangerous forgery of the 180 (reis), sloping figures issue. It is described to us as printed from an engraved plate or die, and as having a specious appearance of being an impression from a somewhat worn plate; the details, however, will not stand careful comparison with those of the original. This is believed to be a comparatively recent issue.

The Diario Popular announced under date of Oct. 17, that two new stamps were to appear Nov. 15, the values being 600r and 10,000r.

The 200r Pan-American stamp is reported to have been placed in use again.

All the above were genuinely postally used and not cancelled to order, being found among a parcel of many thousand stamps from the correspondence of a large bank.

COLOMBIA.—As noted some time since the current 10c registration stamp of the Centenary issue showed an execution scene. This stamp has been withdrawn from use, following on representations made by the Spanish Minister at Bogota, who protested against the inscription, "FUSILADOS . . . POR ORDEM DEL GOBIERNO ESPANOL." The history of the incident is as follows: Morillo and his Spaniards besieged Cartagena by land and sea. After an heroic resistance for four months, the defenders found themselves at the end of their resources and endeavored to escape by sea. Scarcely four hundred succeeded. Morillo entered the town depleted of two-thirds of its inhabitants. He re-established the Inquisition, and instituted a military tribunal to judge the "brigands" who had taken refuge in the surrounding country. They were enticed into the town under promise of a general amnesty, and were shot in a body on February 24, 1816. A very discreditable proceeding, which the Spanish authorities were naturally anxious to treat as "bygone."

CRETE.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 10, 20 and 50 lepta and 1d postage due stamp, surcharged "Ellas" in the square Gothic letters.

GIBRALTAR.—Morocco Agencies.—The West End Philatelist reports having seen the 20c of 1898, London print, with double surcharge.

INDIA.—Holkar.—Gibbons Weekly reports having seen the 1/2a stamp of 1904, with the overprint "SERVICE" in a fresh variety of type. It is evidently from a different fount of sans-serif letters, which are thinner and most of them narrower than before, and the word thus appears to be more widely spaced; the "s" and "c" are more open; the "e" is considerably narrower; and the "r" is of quite different shape, having a straight, sloping tail, instead of a curved one.

ITALY.—The Gazette Ufficiale announces the impending issue of a 10 lire stamp, to be printed in green and red. This value will also be overprinted for each of the offices in the Levant.

COMMUNICATION.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 30, 1910.

Editor MEKEEL'S:

Sir: Some time ago I wrote you in reference to the "Ser. el" errors, Jamaica Arms type. I have heard it said that this error exists on the following stamps, viz.:

Single CA, 1/2d, 1d, 2 1/2d, 5d.

Multiple CA, 1/2d, 1d, 2 1/2d, 5d.

In my collection I have the following: Single CA, 1d, 2 1/2d, 5d; multiple CA, 1/2d, 5d. Have any of your readers ever seen the 1/2d single, and the 1d and 2 1/2d multiple?

BENEDICT PRIETH.

JAMAICA, AMONG THE LLANDOVERIES.

A fresh plate, in two parts, was struck for this issue, and it will be noticed that the red line, which in the 1900 issue divided the picture from the frame, and really formed two thin white divisions, is wanting in the 1901 issue, which appears with but one white line or division. According to Messrs. De La Rue's schedule there were six printings of this stamp, extending over a period of two and a half years, thus:

July 4, 1901	29,818
Oct. 11 "	48,970
March 26, 1902	48,286
Dec. 18 "	18,000
April 21, 1903	39,350
Nov. 27 "	77,500

Making a total of 261,924 stamps. My readers need not, however, depreciate this or the former issue because of the large totals, as more than 50 per cent. of each were used on receipts, and at least 10 per cent. of the balance were destroyed in the fire of January 14, 1907.

Much more care was apparently taken in putting the paper into the press, for among 26,213 black and carmine I found only 80 with inverted watermarks, which I have listed as 41 V, the variation being similar to 40 V, and 43 reversed, which I call 41 A, similar to 40 B; while I could discover only 10 inverted-reversed, which I mark, 41 K, similar to 40 E. The slip-block 40 D, does not appear at all among the black and carmine, the nearest approach to it which I have come across being copies with a half of the letters falling on the under stamp. (Inverted, reversed and misplaced watermarks are not, as a rule, considered of much importance by philatelists; and when the watermark is sideways, as in these stamps, it seems evident that its position is equally correct, so far as the design of the stamp is concerned, whichever way it appears. We may gather, however, that the normal variety here has the Crown towards the left of the stamp, and when it is in the contrary position it may be said to be inverted. The letters "CC" should, no doubt, read the right way when the stamp is looked at from the face; when they are to be seen in that position on the back the stamps may be said to be printed on the wrong side of the paper, but the surface of the paper is, presumably, exactly the same on both sides.—Ed.) Although the watermark varieties of 1901 issue are not as numerous as those of its predecessor, yet the stamp shows some curious and interesting varieties, due to defective "register" of the two impressions, none of which is it possible to find among the red Llandoveries.

Some of these show a more or less wide white space at top or bottom of the central picture; others a space at right or left side, and others again show a space at top or bottom and at one side also; the opposite side of the picture in each case, of course, overlapping the carmine frame to a greater or less extent. In a block of sixteen which I possess the defective centring is very noticeable in the last row of stamps, but grows less and less so in each upper row, until when the top row is reached the stamps are all well centred.

These white spaces are found in different dimensions, but I have found several varieties in which they are very pronounced. (We fear that to the great majority of philatelists these varieties would not prove of much interest; they are, as a matter of fact simply defective, badly centred impressions.—Ed.) There are also shade varieties in both issues; besides the black centre and carmine frame, we have in the 1901 issue: (a) a distinct grey centre; (b) a black centre with a decided ruby frame; in the 1900 issue: (a) dull carmine (I use the word "dull," as it most aptly describes the marked difference between this shade and the recognized carmine); (b) a very deep carmine.

Years ago I heard of a "LLANDOVERY FALK" variety, with "k" for the "ls," and in the Philatelic Tribune of November, 1908, I noticed fifteen copies put up for auction sale and tenders invited, NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS WANTED.

The Governing Board of the Educational Committee will be pleased to receive from readers of this publication clippings of general philatelic interest from the daily press or magazines. Many acceptable and really good articles are published but once and then forgotten.
These can be used in many sections by metropolitan and country newspapers, alike. Please write the date and name of publication upon each clipping and send to the Educational Committee, P.
O. Box 20, Chicago, Ill.

The 59th regular meeting was held Nov. 9. Sixteen members and one visitor were present. John W. Grim applied for membership. The following names were placed in nomination for officers for the ensuing year: Pres., W. A.
Johnson; Vice Pres., F. B. Wheaton;
Sec., J. F. Engle; Treas., R. Wysong and T. R. Hungerford; Supt. Auctions, Wm. Sahn; Supt. Exchange, T. R.
Hungerford and M. Whitney, Jr.;
Librarian, C. R. Morris, A. N. Caudell and T. O. Mainwaring; Governing Board (four to be elected), R. Daskam,
Geo. L. Toppan, Maj. P. C. Stevens,
Prof. M. Whitney, M. G. Metz, F. A.
Loeffler, A. N. Caudell. The evening was pleasantly spent in the exchange of stamps. At the next meeting, December 13, the annual election of officers will be held and membership dues for 1911 will be payable. All officers are requested to present written reports. Let us have a large attendance at this meeting.

Our Regular Issue of December 31

This number of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS will be the Most Widely Read Issue of Recent Years and for a stamp paper will have an enormous circulation.

9500 Will be Printed and Mailed

It is not an easy thing to obtain a profitable extra circulation for a stamp paper.
"Names" are easily procurable but active stamp collectors only fill the bill on our extra editions. We have just obtained:—
1st—1500 addresses from a well known dealer whose identity we cannot reveal.
2nd—2400 addresses from the E. J. Schuster Co. of St. Louis, whose advertising in recent months has been very extensive.

THIS MEANS AN EXTRA CIRCULATION OF GREAT VALUE.

How Much Space Can You Use December 31?

NEW YORK, Dec. 1, 1910.

In the absence of both President and Vice President, Mr. Levy acted as presiding officer and called the meeting to order at 9 P. M. with 13 members present. Applications for membership:
Wm. B. Sprague, 54 William St.; Daniel
H. Greenberg, 243 East 18th St.; Samuel Greenberg, 132 Essex St. New member: Dr. Kaidanz, 243 East 18th
St. An invitation from the St. Louis Stamp Collectors' Society to attend a stereopticon lecture at their club rooms was received with thanks. The reading of a chapter entitled "The Physiology of Stamp Experts", from the book "Behind the Scenes of Philately", which was most ably rendered by H. M. Lewy, and contained an invaluable fund of information, was very heartily appreciated. The author has promised to treat us to another chapter in the very near future.
Scott's Catalogue for 1911 was donated to the library by the secretary. The society extended a vote of sincere thanks for the donations.

At the annual meeting to be held on December 15th, the following matters, which are of vital importance, will be acted upon: The election and installation of officers for the coming year; the annual financial statement and report of the retiring officers for the year 1910; and last but by no means least, the competitive exhibition of Hawaiian Islands.
The manager of the Stamp Bourse, having reported that about 200 books have been sold and that about 15,000 stamps are now in circulation, states that he is ready at all times to explain the workings of this most admirable feature, and is desirous of receiving inquiries regarding same.

DEATH OF DAVID M. HUNT, JR.

We are informed of the death of David M. Hunt, Jr., A. P. S. 3511, formerly manager of the Warner & Swasey Co. of Cleveland, O. Mr. Hunt was instantly killed at Yale, Mich., Saturday, Nov. 26, when an automobile in which he was riding was overturned.

He was a member of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland, joining the society in January, 1909. He was a native of Boston and had amassed a very fine collection which was stolen in about 1896. During the past two years Mr.
Hunt had gotten together another fine collection, specializing in United States and British North America.

Mr. Hunt was educated at Harvard, where he won distinction as an athlete.
He won his "H" on the varsity football team and was a catcher on the college baseball nine. He was thirty-six years of age.

THEREIN LIES OUR STRENGTH.

INDEPENDENT STAMP CO., CHICAGO, ILL.
3637 MAPLE SQUARE AVENUE.

in the capacity of musical director was largely responsible for its success, and he was ably assisted by Messrs. P. L. Pemberton, and F. F. Lamb, respectively the publisher and editor of the Philatelic Journal of Gt. Britain, who are untiring in their efforts to promote the welfare of this old-established Society.

The Overflow of the Strand.—The Strand has always deserved its title of "Philatelic Avenue," but the visitor to London on philately bent must look farther afield before he can exhaust the philatelic possibilities of the metropolis. In Fleet Street one finds Messrs. Bridger & Kay, Harmer Rooke, H. F. Johnson, also the Stamp Lover office and the meeting room of the Junior Philatelic Society, Chancery Lane, at the junction of Fleet Street with the Strand, harbours Messrs. C. Nissen & Co., Plumridge & Co., The Stamp Trade Protection Association, and the offices of the British Philatelist and Stamp Collectors Fortnightly, while the premises of Messrs. P. L. Pemberton in Holborn, facing the end of Chancery Lane, must be included on every philatelist's "line of route."

Postal Reforms.—England is to have halfpenny postcards at last. At present it costs 3/4d to buy a single 1/2d card although a reduction is made for quantity, but the new contracts for producing postal stationery are so advantageous, states the Postmaster-General, that next year we are to have stationery at its face value. This reform comes very late in the day, but will be none the less welcome, and it should lead to a greatly increased use of stamped stationery. At the same time, stamp booklets are to be sold at the face value of the stamps they contain, and here I think we score over foreign countries, some at least of which make a charge for binding. They do in the States, don't they?

Another General Election is upon us, and the Post-office has just distributed the writs with a promptitude that it would be difficult to equal. Early on the day of prorogation the provincial writs were placed in charge of the Post-office, enclosed in envelopes of a special type, containing instructions to the Postmasters in the towns concerned. Here they waited a sign from the Crown office, which was given immediately on receipt of the Royal Proclamation. They reached every part of the United Kingdom the next day, and the postmaster delivered the writ in person to the returning officer. So the fight has begun in earnest.

IN AUSTRALIA.

The Penny Postage Bill, lately introduced in the Federal Parliament by the Postmaster-General, which provides for penny postage throughout the Commonwealth and to the United Kingdom, beginning next year, has passed both Houses.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

ITEMS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

By CHAS. E. JENNEY.

The Stamp Collector's Fortnightly of Nov. 12, in its biographies of "Philatelists of To-day" has Mr. L. Harald Kjellstedt for its subject. The versatility of Mr. Kjellstedt is well known to American collectors. Born in Sweden, located in Scranton, Pa., and doing business in Oakland, Cal., he is somewhat of a cosmopolitan.

An interesting article in the same number is "Postal Arrangements during the Siege of Paris," relating particularly to the balloon post. I notice in one of our December auction sales, a copy of a balloon postcard used in 1870. The information in this article would well compliment the item in anyone's collection.

The editor of Gibson's Stamp Weekly and Henry J. Crocker, have become engaged in a controversy over certain Hawaiian stamps, or reprints, which is verging toward the acrimonious, on one side at least. We have not followed either side carefully and are not posted enough on Hawaiians to form an opinion as to which is right; but both gentlemen seem equally positive in their views and both equally disinclined to give way an iota. In the November 19th issue, Major Evans disputes each and every claim made by Crocker to establish the so-called reprints as a legitimate issue. An amusing feature is that whereas in the May 28th number, the Major had his last word and politely suggested that Mr. Crocker say no more about it, now, at the end of his later remarks appears the parenthetic (to be continued)—evidently to the bitter end.

The Philatelic Journal of Great Britain has an article on the Niger Coast Protectorate in its issue of November 20th, more interesting, we should judge, to English than to American collectors.

Several of the English publications call attention to the error in the 6 cent new issue of Newfoundland in which the z of Colonization is reversed. One might look for just such child's work (a piece of sheer ignorance) in a set of stamps of such crude engraving.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

THE WILLIAM STAMP COMPANY,
120 Leadenhall Street, LONDON, E. C.

—The collection of John R. Stanton is shortly to be sold at auction by the Nassau Stamp Co. of N. Y. City. Mr. Stanton began collecting about thirty-seven years ago. This collection was stolen and a second begun, which was sold to Mr. Gregory of Gregory and Ballou. During 1905 Mr. Stanton became interested in stamps again, purchasing the collection of W. C. Stewart, and the additions made to it were such that it bids fair to be one of the best collections to be dispersed this season.

—A prospectus announces "California Night's Entertainment", a book of poems by Chas. E. Jenney, the well known philatelist and philatelic writer of Fresno, Cal. His "Scenes of My Childhood", published in 1900, is a book of verse highly commended by the daily press, as well as by writers of national reputation.

—A. C. Roessler sends us an advertisement from the Xmas Cosmopolitan in which a Georgia business firm advertises the Chinese coronation set at 50c per set or twelve sets for $5.00. A good profit, certainly. The Cosmopolitan also has a page filler dealing with the new King George set for Great Britain.

—"Has there been any change in the ink used for printing our current postage due issue? Formerly the color dissolved at the least touch of water, but last week a 2c was accidentally put to soak with a lot of our ordinary 2c, left half an hour or more, and then emerged not a whit the worse for its long bath. I thought the occurrence so unusual as to be worth mention."—AMY L. SWIFT.

SHEET DIAGRAMS.

BY L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT.

The construction of what may be called sheet diagrams of U. S. current or earlier issues is nothing new, but I take for granted that many specialists have overlooked this feature and have thereby missed a very interesting hunt for suitable specimens. As is well known, the postage stamps of the United States are printed in sheets of 400 stamps divided by a vertical and a horizontal cutting line into four panels of 100 stamps each. As the large sheets are cut into panels and perforated and delivered to the postmasters as sheets of 100 stamps each, we are unable to obtain the full size sheets of 400 stamps. But even if this was possible, the sizes of our albums would prevent us from making a satisfactory hand sides. Stamps marked c show horizontal guide lines at top or bottom and margins outside the perforations at right or left. Every stamp marked d must have guide lines at top or bottom and along the right or left sides. Where wide spacing is shown, such spacing naturally indicates 8 intervening rows of stamps. Such a diagram could not be made up from stamps taken from one sheet because, of two stamps placed on each side of a guide line, only one could show the guide line, and a straight line edge without guide line could easily be supplied by clipping the perforations. Thus it will be understood that every stamp on our diagram which is placed adjoining a guide line must show that guide line.

display of a whole sheet or even of a panel. The next best thing is to make up a diagram which will indicate the arrangement of a sheet. The accompanying illustration shows a method of displaying such a diagram on the album page. The dotted lines indicate the guide lines or cutting lines on a full sheet. Our diagram is constructed by the collecting of the corner stamps of four differently located panels. The stamps marked a must show top or bottom margins and vertical guide lines along the right or left edge according to position. The stamps marked b show margin outside of the perforations at top or bottom and along the left or right

For a collector who is not chummy with the stamp clerk at his local post office, it takes quite a time to collect the 16 specimens necessary for a diagram of this kind. It took a friend of mine, who sells the current 1c and 2c stamps in his drug store, nearly 10 weeks to find the stamps necessary for a diagram of a sheet of 2c stamps. When it comes to used stamps, or higher values, the difficulties will naturally increase.

These sheet diagrams make a very nice appearance on the album page, and the hunt for suitable specimens is sufficiently interesting to gladden the heart and whet the appetite of any ordinary collector.

CONTRACT FOR 18,500 LINES.

Upon page 8 will be found the particulars of the greatest advertising contract this paper has ever written. It represents a big sum of money—the like of which we have never received before from a single contract and which no stamp paper in the world can parallel. We make this brief mention of the fact and shall be pardoned if in the next WEEKLY we refer to it more in detail. We have large plans for 1911.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

A Good Move—The WEEKLY has decided that it is remiss in its duty in not providing the beginners in philately, who are boys and girls usually, with reading matter designed especially for their interest and instruction. This conviction has come slowly; it is the result of closely observing conditions for some years past, and the recognition that will now be extended the "boy collector" is based on a proposition that in practice may redound to advantage on all sides. Back of it all, the assurance stands that such a course will aid philately in its broadest sense. To a great extent, the boy collectors take care of themselves and hew out their own philatelic destinies; in fact, any "coddling process" that strikes a false note in the sensitive ear of the boy is detected and he is apt to repudiate the whole measure. A stamp paper devoted solely to beginners does not receive support in any commensurate way for reasons that become apparent under analysis. The other extreme is represented by the paper that avoids as a matter of policy the insertion of pabulum for the primary class. While the WEEKLY is neither in the primer nor the algebra class, yet it has been lacking in attention to the beginner; and this delinquency now is to be remedied.

The Plan—It is our intention to give the beginner a special service and assign to him each week, a reasonable allotment of space. The boys' department will be wholly dedicated to the beginner who will be stimulated to encompass the fuller development of philately by the encouraging precepts and precepts that will have their place in the section. Thus, in one sense, the beginner will have a paper of his own in the larger setting of the WEEKLY; at the same time, as heretofore, he will have for his consideration the other columns of the paper and while they may be cast in too technical a mould for his ready understanding of the subjects of which they treat, yet he will not despair of soon being enabled to comprehend the deeper meaning of philately through the fostering aid of the beginners' department. The young collectors' space will have its fixed position in the WEEKLY; regularly, the boy reader may turn to it with a feeling of proprietary interest. Our older readers will not begrudge the room that it is calculated will be occupied so well as to greatly strengthen that most important support of philately, the young collector.

* * *

A Postal Phase—In his admirable paper, the Messenger, Geo. J. Carter tells of a label with the wording, in eleven lines: "This letter was detained in the Post Office at St. Louis, Mo., on account of the non-payment of postage. One who realizes how important it may be to have letters forwarded immediately has placed the necessary stamps upon this letter. To repay him, please send postage stamps of equal value, addressed to 'Good Will,' St. Louis, Mo." Several years ago, we described this St. Louis label and also one of somewhat similar kind that was used at Baltimore, if we remember rightly. As we were attracted to these semi-postal incidents of a rather remarkable decade in this country, 1870-1880, information accounting for the existence of these striking little pasters was sought. It was known that they were used in the earlier '70's according to the stamps and markings on envelopes that bore them. The philanthropist who introduced the method was a St. Louis gentleman, who by reason of the delay in forwarding a letter to him that inadvertently was not stamped by his correspondent suffered a grievous loss. In order to spare others possibly an affliction arising from the same contingency, he planned his work of noble character, even though based on a matter of a few cents, in each instance. The disappointing part of this story now comes and it has not been given before by us. We have been told that even the generous spirit of the benefactor was wounded by the lack of gratitude of almost all who were favored. The remittances that were to discharge the postage paid out by "Good Will" were so few, comparatively few, that the unresponsiveness chilled his enthusiasm; and the convenience was discontinued. The same fate befell the other examples of this beautiful form of friendliness, we suppose.

that a Director of Posts be appointed; "the idea is to make the Director of Posts a long tenure, if not a permanent, official, and to employ a man of eminent business ability. He would be given a salary almost as large as the $12,000 a year, which the Postmaster-General receives."

Founded on Fact—From G. Wood, Oakland, California, we have received a copy of the Bombay (India) Guardian, dated October 8th, 1910; and he calls our attention to the following interesting recital that had place on the first page of this "Christian weekly newspaper circulating throughout India and the east." "In the course of an address delivered at Melbourne, the Commonwealth Public Service Commissioner made some interesting statements regarding the history of the growth of the postal system of Australia. 'It was in 1810 that the first post office in Australia was set up on rocky ridge above the waters of Sydney Cove, and Mr. Isaac Nichols was authorized to repair on board vessels that came, take away the mail matter, and distribute it to the owners, for which he received at first one shilling a letter, which was soon after reduced to 8d for every English and 4d for every colonial letter. . . . There were no internal mail services, letters inland being sent 'as opportunity occurred,' whilst town letters were casually delivered to the 'more respectable inhabitants' of Sydney.' . . . In the year 1838, was one of the most interesting episodes in all postal history, viz., the issue in Sydney of the first postage stamps in the world. It is true that they were not exactly the same size as at present. In fact, they were the size of foolscap, which means that the stamp was printed in the middle and a very large margin was left to fold over and enclose the article that had to be sent. Up to this time the carriers had to collect cash for every letter they delivered, which was so slow, that for some time previously the question of prepayment of postage had been mooted. In England it had been remitted to a committee of inquiry, but before anything definite was done there, the idea reached Mr. Raymond (appointed Postmaster-General in 1829), who at once saw its advantages, and promptly submitted to the Governor of the day, a sample of one of these stamped covers designed by himself, intended for sale to the public. The Governor, Sir George Gipps, tersely minutes 'Let the experiment be tried,' and thus it came that Australia led the world in the issue of postage stamps, which were brought into use in November, 1838, though not adopted in Eng-

Philatelic View—These early letter sheets of New South Wales are known to philatelists and their date of issue is recorded as November 1st, 1838; and envelopes "sold by the Post Office" are listed as well as the letter sheets. The design was circular and showed the British coat-of-arms, with "General Post Office" above and "Sydney—New South Wales," in two lines below. The impression was a colorless embossing on various papers and the value was one penny, although it was not indicated on the stamp. While naturally, New South Wales is proud of its early adoption of a form of prepaid postal convenience, yet there is no general disposition to qualify the credit awarded Rowland Hill for the invention of the adhesive postage stamp.

THE HANOVERIAN FIND.

(In our issue of Nov. 26 Mr. Kidder in his Chronicle gave the particulars of the recent find of Hanoverian stamps, together with statistics. The editor of the London Philatelist discourses concerning this matter in the following interesting manner.—Ed.)

The issues of Hanover with the head of King George V (of that country!) have always been deservedly popular with all European collectors; they contain numerous pleasant philatelic varieties, such as marked shades, brilliant colouring, perforations, and red and white gum; hence a specialized collection of this issue will always be a pleasing sight to those philatelic eyes that delight upon variations of colour and effective designs upon genuine old issues. The issue moreover, embraces one of the standard varieties of the German stamps accepted by every collector, i. e., the 10 groschen, green. This stamp has always been fairly scarce, and has enormously risen in value, while for unsevered pairs, used or unused, we ourselves, in common with many another, have often had to loosen wide our purse-strings. We remember to have even heard of one collector who was credited (let us hope wrongly) with the inability to pass any fine copy, and who, it is stated, was the possessor of hundreds of this stamp. The discovery of some 1500 specimens will be naturally a disturbing influence upon those who have accumulations as well as collections. We hear, however, that large portions of these stamps and of the other values are stained by the action of damp on the red gum, and that therefore, probably not one-half will be found "in mint condition." If, therefore, these part sheets of the 10 groschen are divided into the popular "blocks of four," they will only suffice to render some 200 Philatelists happy, and will not materially affect the general body of collectors. The violet-rose shade of the 1 groschen is even now an underestimated stamp unused, the contrary being the fact as regards its present estimation of 25 marks used. It is but a few years since that this stamp was plentiful at a tithe of this figure. Unused, however, in pairs or blocks, it must be rarer than the 10 groschen; but it is even more than doubtful if any of this particular printing will be found in the Berlin auction. Of the remaining varieties found, the shades are less marked, and the greatest interest lies in the two varieties we have referred to.

This discovery of these stamps was quite unanticipated until effected some months since, their existence having been entirely unsuspected, and we are informed that the entire stock was found in a disused attic at one of the large centres of population! This carelessness has been probably productive of the damaged condition of the specimens through the action of damp; but, on the other hand, the oversight will undoubtedly be the means of presenting to the German Postal Administration a sum of money enormously in excess of what it would have received had the oversight not taken place. In any case, the discovery, after half a century, of these interesting reminders of the pre-German Empire period cannot fail to evoke a wide-spread excitement in German philatelic circles, and will probably result not only in adding to the gratification of existing collectors, but be a means of inducing new recruits to join the philatelic army.

THE STAMP MARKET.

By SENAX.

By degrees the 5c Canal Zone, 1909, "reading down," seems to be giving place to the 5c "reading up," in mixed lots. Both are dated 1909 in the catalogue, hence it seems that the former variety has not run for any very great length of time.

Of Siam, the 9 atts blue and the 5 atts scarlet appear to be a bit scarce.

It seems we are not likely to see many copies of the 12c Chili, 1905; a Continental quotation for a mint copy is 9d (nearly). However, it may be presently possible to get this stamp with the surcharge "Islas de Juan Fernandez" upon it. Hooray!

Roumania, 1903 (post-horses) is a dear set. The 15 bani, black, is evidently worth more than it is priced over here.

Middle values of almost all U. S. A. pictorials seems to be steadily going up as the years go by.

The new set for Colombia promises to be popular, and may lead many collectors to a deeper appreciation of the earlier issues of this country.

Just now there are a lot of unused South Americans about.

The 13 chahi, Persia, 1906, imperforate, is a glorious blue stamp, and I fancy it exists in no great profusion.

Quite a number of collectors seem to be hoarding up the current 7d British.

Argentina, 1910, are magnificent when you come to close quarters with them; they should be selling everywhere like ripe cherries. In fact no up-to-date dealer should be without them.

It is astonishing what a market there is for second quality copies—at half price of course. A stamp is a stamp, and if it is cheap it will sell.

I am constantly protesting against the sundry little tricks practised by some collectors when purchasing, and it is not a bad plan, if you can afford it, to "drop" a customer of this type, and to reward the faithful payers with a gift.

As the weeks go by, Austria, 1910, seems more and more likely to be a good investment.

Pictorial French Colonials, above the 10c value, continue to be difficult to obtain; a postcard from my correspondent this morning announces his inability to supply.

The 50c pictorial, Cuba of 1907, seems cheap at its catalogue price.

Bolivia, 1909, are dear to buy as yet.

Sucre, sol, and peso values of South American States are good things to get where possible.

Abyssinian stamps are often to be met with from a French correspondent.

ly collected in quantities by Europeans in those islands, are often met with in large lots in European towns.

Nice new stamps to get may be the 6c Guatemala, 1909; Persia, 1909, 13ch, 26ch and 1 kran; Hayti, 1907, 7c; Cuba, 1910; Austrian Levant, 1908; current Luxemburg, above 10c; Honduras, 1907; Canal Zone, etc. The 1 dinar, Servia, 1905, is a nice stamp to have.

With regard to new issues, many people seem to gather them to keep, instead of gathering them to sell, and this makes them dearer for the time being.

The scarlet Austrian Postage Dues on chalky paper are gradually giving place to the varieties on unsurfaced paper, and one or two denominations of the former may in consequence prove a trifle difficult to meet with. The 30h value may take some rounding up, and even the 2h does not seem over plentiful.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered. If personal reply is wanted enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IN GREETING.

We feel that it is no more than right that our large contingent of boy readers should have a portion of the WEEKLY that they can feel is all their own. We have so many subscribers who will appreciate information concerning the elementary principles of philately that we make no apology for devoting this page to their interests.

Since the first of September, several hundred boy subscribers have been added to our subscription list, on short term subscriptions, and the receipt of several communications in the past week or two is the cause of our taking this step.

In discontinuing their subscriptions at the expiration of their trial term our young friends write, "Discontinue your paper. It is altogether too deep for me." "Please do not send your paper any longer. You make too hard work of stamp collecting;" etc.; etc. It is our desire to reach these boys and show them that however deep and however difficult stamp collecting may be, there is an ample recompense for all the effort and energy necessary.

We shall secure an editor for this department and earnestly urge our young subscribers to use this department in any way possible for their edification and enjoyment.

—THE MANAGING EDITOR.

OUR STAMP STUDY CONTEST.

What do you know about this stamp? What can you find out in addition to what you know? This contest is open only to readers of the WEEKLY under 20 years of age and replies must be received by January 3, 1911. We shall publish one or more of the winning entries and offer the following prizes:—1st. 400 all different foreign stamps; 2nd. 300 different foreign stamps and 3rd a book on U. S. stamps.

This contest will give you an incentive for studying this particular stamp while at the same time it will give you practice in expressing your thought.

HOW TO HINGE A STAMP.

By J. M. BARTELS.

Stamp hinges have been in use for many years and are now indispensable to every collector. There are a number of different makes upon the market, each one claiming special merits. However, certain qualities are essential and none of them should be found lacking in a hinge which aspires to philatelic favor.

The paper should be rather thin and exceedingly strong. The gum, which is the main thing, should be chemically pure and consist of several coatings. It is also very important that it should be peelable, so as to be readily removed from stamp or album without tearing or leaving fragments of paper behind.

It is rather astonishing to find how few people know the proper way to mount a stamp in the most practical manner. It is particularly desirable that great care should be used in hinging unused stamps which have the original gum. The mistake most frequently made is the covering of too much of the back of the stamp, instead of just as much as is necessary to hold it firmly in place. It is not necessary for a hinge to be long, but it should be fully half an inch broad. Not more than three-sixteenths of an inch of the length of the hinge should ever cover the back of a stamp, especially when it is unused and has the original gum. In order to fasten the hinge to the stamp, take the stamp into the left hand, moisten one end of the hinge, then press it firmly against back of stamp near the top, the hinge covering space before stated. Having done this, proceed to bend the hinge just below the perforations. Finally, wet a portion of the other much larger end of the hinge, then place stamp in the place designed for it, see that you get it exactly straight by adjusting it with the fingers of the left hand, and not until you have done all this should the final act of pressing it down with the right hand be done. When these few hints are carefully observed, one very soon acquires such practice in mounting stamps that it can be properly done without any loss of time. The specimens will always look nice and straight in the book, and if a fair sized hinge is used, they can be remounted once or twice without having to use another hinge.

It is the practice generally to bend the hinge slightly below the upper edge of perforations, as it looks much neater than to have a portion of the gum and hinge showing above the stamp; however some collectors prefer the latter method as the perforations are better protected and not exposed to the risk of being broken off by frequent inspection of the back. The latter method is especially preferable when stamps are mounted for exchange circuits, as every collector has to look at the back of the stamp before he decides to take it.

The use of stamp tongs cannot be too urgently commended for the handling of stamps. No matter how clean the hands may be, if a stamp has been handled with them about twenty times it is bound to show the effects of it. Many collectors and dealers carry their tongs in their pockets with the same regularity as they do their watches.

A FEW BEGINNINGS.

There is an old saying to the effect that the cage should be prepared before the bird is caught. This holds good in stamp collecting. As soon as possible, upon the possession of the few stamps that start your collection, get a good album—one which has printed spaces for the stamps and in which you can tell exactly where the stamp belongs. The so-called "Beginners' Albums" are, after all, not so valuable at this stage, as they do not give "our amateur collector" what he really most needs. For instance, they do not tell what other stamps comprise a certain set, and often do not illustrate all the types. A blank album should be used only by the advanced collector.

Every collector should own, too, a catalogue. With its aid, he can study his stamps more carefully and may discover varieties which, without it, he might never have found. Viewed in this light the catalogue is a money saver. Indeed, persons have often been compelled upon the purchase of a catalogue to buy varieties of stamps which they had already owned, but had traded as duplicates. In addition to his album and catalogue, every collector should provide himself with a good magnifying glass, a millimeter scale, a perforation gauge and a watermark detector. These appliances assist him in the study of his stamps by disclosing many different varieties and, again save him money.

Now for the stamps themselves. In collecting, if you have the time and the money, collect generally, if not, some particular country, or set of countries, and specialize. Even if a general collector it is well to have some certain country to whose stamps you pay especial attention. Be sure to free all stamps from any paper which may adhere to the back and in mounting use very thin hinges. The lack of neatness in some collections is almost painful. Often the stamps are not evenly mounted; often they have paper sticking to the back, and oftener yet they are torn or soiled. Avoid all these faults. Arrange your collection neatly and you will increase its beauty fifty per cent.

The New Regulations Designed to Correct New Issue Abuses.

By courtesy of ALBERT C. STEWART.

1. The Additional Regulations made by the Governor in Council the 10th day of August, 1909, are hereby repealed.

2. The amount received from a dealer or other person for the purchase of stamps, shall be brought to account in the Post Office Cash Book on the same day that it is received.

3. The sums received from each Dealer or other person shall be placed to the credit of his account in a book to be called the "Stamp Dealers Subsidiary Ledger," and the stamps supplied shall be entered to his debit under the dates of the transactions.

4. The Stamp Dealers Subsidiary Ledger shall be balanced at the close of each financial year. Balance Sheets shall be made out from this ledger at the end of each quarter, which must agree with the balances shown for the same period under the head "Remittances for Stamps" in the principal ledger of the Department.

5. The orders or requisitions for stamps received from Dealers shall be submitted to the Colonial Secretary, and these, on being approved, shall be executed in the order of their receipt.

6. A foil or list showing the numbers, denominations, and values of stamps supplied shall be enclosed with the stamps to the Dealer or other person.

7. No standing orders for the supply of new issues of stamps shall be received and orders shall only be accepted for a definite supply of stamps in current use.

8. Should it be impossible to supply at the same time all stamps requisitioned for, then the unused portion of the remittance shall be returned to the Dealer or other person giving the order.

9. No information as to new issues of stamps or contemplated changes in stamps shall be furnished to any Dealer or other person.

10. No obliteration or cancellation of stamps (whether of old or present issue) shall take place except in the ordinary course of correspondence transmitted through the post.

11. Should, however, addressed envelopes, letters or any postal packet whatsoever bearing stamps of a sufficient value to cover the payment of postage be received from a dealer or any other person with the request that they be posted by the Postmaster, and no infringement of the postal laws or regulations in connection with the same, would be caused thereby, the article or articles may be posted singly and transmitted in the ordinary course of the post.

12. It shall not be permissible for the Postmaster to affix stamps to envelopes or other postal matter, with the object of having them cancelled.

13. After the stamps have been supplied and forwarded to the Dealer or other person, the responsibility of the Postmaster shall cease.

14. Any stamp or stamps, whether of present or old issue forwarded to the Postmaster with a request for exchange shall be returned to the sender with a statement that such exchange is not permissible.

15. These Regulations shall come into force on the 10th day of October, 1910.

Made by the Governor in Council this 20th day of September, 1910.

Clerk of Councils.

LATEST FROM AUSTRALIA.

By J. H. SMYTH.

It was stated last month (September) that all the Australian State stamps would, after the 1st of January next, be overprinted "AUSTRALIA." Members of the Victorian and Sydney Philatelic Societies considered that this was needless expenditure, and would put philatelists to some inconvenience. The Secretaries of both Societies wrote to the Postmaster-General to that effect, with the result that in the House of Representatives on Thursday, the 13th October, the Postmaster-General announced that from that day stamps now used in the various States would be valid for all postal purposes within the Commonwealth, and added: "State boundaries no longer exist so far as this matter is concerned. This, of course, does not apply to rates, which for the present will not be altered. But any stamp issued by any State may be used in any other State. In order to commemorate the occasion, every member of the Commonwealth Parliament will be presented with a full set of Australian stamps."

The day after, namely, the 14th October, I ascertained from the chief clerk of the Sydney office that instructions had been telephoned through from the Central Administration, Melbourne, the previous day, to have an order sent round to the officials in accordance with the above statement, and I took the opportunity of passing through the post a number of envelopes bearing the stamps of different States with the object of having them obliterated on the first day of the new order of things.

There is a strong disposition on the part of the present Government to break down State identifications, or, in other words, to bring about "unification," and the new departure is a step in that direction. It is impossible to say how long State stamps will be used promiscuously, but it is anticipated that by the 1st of May next year a Commonwealth series will have appeared.—Gibbons Weekly

Announcement is made that in over 100 newspapers of the larger cities will shortly appear a Burroughs article on Liberia. Arrangements have been made to supply original copies of this article for distribution to readers of this publication for the use of their local newspaper. Illustrations in the form of a flat matrix about 4x6 inches in size will be forwarded only to those applicants who specifically state that same can be used. Absolutely no charge is made for this service, which will be continued monthly or until our fund for this purpose is exhausted. This is a grand opportunity to work up enthusiasm among the lukewarm collectors of your locality.

Applications should be made as soon as possible to

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The regard that we have felt for Whitfield King & Co.'s Standard Catalogue of Postage Stamps since the appearance of its first edition eleven years ago is fully sustained in the latest edition, the eleventh, which was received some weeks ago but has not been mentioned heretofore. As is well known to older collectors, Whitfield King's catalogue was the first of the important and pretentious catalogues to adhere to simplified lines; in fact, it was published primarily for the purpose of providing a vade mecum for the collector who would dismiss the frills of philately. The simplicity of the catalogue is based on a sanity of treatment Biggest Advertising Contract Ever Written!

We have in years gone by written several large advertising contracts for advertising space including three for 10,000 lines. Two of these contracts were with the New England Stamp Co. and the third with the Holton Stamp Co. We have just concluded a contract with a big western stamp house for no less than

18,500 Lines to be Used During 1911

The amount involved represents without a doubt the largest sum of money ever offered any stamp paper in the world for a single block of advertising. Further particulars concerning this contract will be made public in an early issue.

New Advertising Rates Effective Jan. 1, 1911

Last spring we announced a slight increase in our advertising rates, such becoming effective on all new business May 1. December 31 all advertising contracts will have expired and all our advertisers will be on exactly the same footing. Our flat rate is now 15c per line (instead of 12c) and for the service this paper is able to render, it is the cheapest stamp advertising in the world. The WEEKLY is not an experiment, it is an established fact.

OUR SPECIAL NUMBER DECEMBER 31

Immediately on receipt of this issue prepare your copy for Dec. 31. Our edition will run over 9000 copies and will be one of the best numbers we have issued.

MEKEEL-SEVERN-WYLIE CO., Boston, Mass.

that compels respect even for the partisan of "varieties".

Perforation and small varieties are not recognized but with the elimination of these, there are nearly five hundred pages in the present catalogue, exclusive of the publishers' announcements; and the feature that was commended so highly at the time of its adoption, a pronouncing vocabulary of names of stamp issuing countries, is retained. The cuts of stamps illustrating the text are one-quarter the size of the originals; the type impressions are plain and the paper of fine quality.

We believe that many collectors temperamentally are opposed to the exploitation of minor varieties and they will find comfort and satisfaction in collecting according to the suggestions of the catalogue. Aside from the merits inherent in the catalogue and those acquired with each succeeding edition, the popularity of the catalogue under notice is being augmented by the great number of new issues that are making their entry. It is the belief of some observers that the more straight varieties there are to engage the attention of the collector, the weaker becomes the inclination to attend to the small variations in stamps. From the preface of the catalogue, we take the following statistics concerning the number of postage stamps issued up to date that come within the scope of the catalogue: "The total number of stamps issued to date as included in this catalogue is 23,404, of which 6,984 are apportioned to the British Empire and 16,420 to the rest of the world. Europe has issued 4,905, Asia 4,532, Africa 5,252, America 5,164, the West Indies 1,861, and Oceania 1,660."

THE 5c AND 10c 1859 PHILIPPINES.

By MAJOR F. L. PALMER.

(It was our intention to use this entire article in our issue of Dec. 10 but a portion of the copy became misplaced. To do full justice to Maj. Palmer we now print the MSS. as submitted and any of our readers who are able to render the author any assistance are urged to write him at 514 Peachtree St., Atlanta, Ga.—ED.)

Due to the recent purchase of a full mint sheet of the 10 Cs. (Scott's No. 11) of the Philippines issue of 1859, my attention has lately been focussed upon a problem which I find myself unable to solve satisfactorily without aid, viz.:—the setting of the 5 and 10 Cs. of this issue in the various printings. As this question would also interest other specialists in these interesting stamps of our "farthest frontier", and as the needed data may be in the possession of other collectors or of dealers having large supplies or of those members of the Philatelic "Old Guard" who have wisely kept scrap-books of information published in the past, I am emboldened to appeal to them, through the columns of your valued WEEKLY, in the hope that each may give me, in a similar manner or through personal correspondence, such information as he may possess for the general good of philately as well as for my own information.

In order that it may be understood just what information is needed and its bearing on the matter at issue, it will be necessary to summarize the information already available, before stating the results of my researches in this direction. According to "The Postage Stamps of the Philippines"—The 5 Cs. has been noted in sheets of 56, 130, and 192 stamps, and the same variation may be expected of the 10 Cs. Each group of four is separated from its neighbor by a dividing line except in the sheets of 130 where it is omitted." Also:—"Stamps surrounded individually by a frame appear to be from the edges of sheets where they were used singly in perpendicular strips to fill out the requisite number of stamps which varied with different printings." In speaking of this issue Mencarini, who is generally very accurate, says that these same sheets contain stamps not in groups of four varieties but single and each surrounded by its own separate frame; he says definitely that this is true of both the 5 and 10 Cs. These single framed stamps are very rare, however; I have never seen the 10 Cs. in this form, and have seen but two copies of the 5a, one of which is in my own collection. And it may be added here that, as will be seen later, these stamps cannot be obtained from the vertical strips used to fill out the margins of sheets, as these latter come in vertical pairs and do not have the necessary margins outside the frame.

My studies have resulted in a belief that there were at least three different printings of the 5 Cs., and may have been a fourth; that there were at least two printings of the 10 Cs., but probably no more; and that all of these printings were from four lithographic stones (on which the values were changed for printing the 10 Cs.) which were arranged as shown on the following page (the various stones being numbered 1-2-3-4 and the three groups representing the three different printings):—

In the settings as here given, the figures 1, 2, 3, and 4, in the stones represent the four normal varieties, and in the order in which they occur in the normal block. The symbol O is used to indicate the stamps filled in on the margins in vertical pairs, as the definite types used (and in what order) are not now known to me. The x indicates the believed position of the stamps individually surrounded by frame.

The settings of Stones 1 and 2 are definitely known; a sheet of the 10 Cs. from Stone 1, is in my own collection, while a full sheet of the 5 Cs. from Stone 2 is in the collection of a very well known collector of Cleveland, Ohio.

It will be noted that the only difference between Stones 1 and 2 lies in the vertical strip on the right; in Stone 1 the two upper pairs are of types 1 and 3, while in Stone 2 one pair is of 1 and 3 and the next lower is of 2 and 4; in other words, in Stone 1 the two upper pairs are of 1 and 3 and the two lower are of 2 and 4, while in Stone 2 pairs of 1 and 3 and 2 and 4 alternate downwards. Stones 3 and 4 are theoretical; that is they are not definitely known to be so arranged, but the arrangement is inferred from known facts and to ac-

PHILADELPHIA STAMP COMPANY,

PERCIVAL PARRISH, PRESIDENT,
1204 CHESTNUT STREET, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

In the absence of such direct information great light may still be thrown upon the subject by indirect information derived from blocks, strips, etc., which may be in possession of other collectors or of dealers. For example:—a normal block from a corner at the right of a sheet and with full margins on two sides would prove that, in some setting, neither horizontal nor vertical strips nor individually framed stamps occurred at that end and side of the sheet. Similar blocks from the left side of sheet might be from Stones 1 or 2, and would not aid us therefore. In fact no aid would be derived from any stamps of blocks which could be from Stones 1 or 2 except a large block of the 10 Cs. (or vertical strip from margin) proving such stamps to come from Stone 2, any block or strip containing 3 of the 8 stamps in the vertical strip would identify the stone from which printed.

No single stamps would be helpful, except those framed individually, and these only as to identification of the type thereof.

For purposes of study, and to obtain proof as to these various settings, I would be greatly obliged to any dealer or collector who will loan me any full sheets, large blocks, blocks of four or strips, of either the 5 or 10 Cs., showing any varieties or arrangement not found in Stones 1 or 2 as given above. The following are especially desired:—Blocks, of any number of stamps, containing stamps framed individually. Blocks of any size, from corners of sheets and with best margins possible. Blocks of any size, from top or bottom of sheets, with full margins and showing use of horizontal strips, especially if blocks contain duplicated types. Vertical strips of 3 or more stamps from marginal strip at either side of sheet, especially when in blocks. Same for horizontal marginal strips. Also, of course, any other abnormal varieties, preferably in block.

It will, of course, be understood by all concerned that all stamps loaned me will be most carefully handled and preserved while in my possession, and will be returned as promptly as possible and by registered mail or express as may be desired, all expense connected therewith being paid (or refunded) by me. If the stamps sent are offered for sale, I will return check or stamps without delay.

I may add that I am a member of the A. P. S. M. P. A., and Boston Philatelic Society; should further assurance of reliability be needed, I am well known to Messrs. Luff, Toppan, Bartels, Parrish, and many others prominent in philatelic circles.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—From a clipping just received by favor of Maitland Milliken we note that the Western Union has arranged its night letter service so that correspondence may be despatched from any part of the United States for an ocean mail within a few hours of the sailing time of the steamer. This means that practically a week will be clipped from the time necessary for a letter to travel from San Francisco to London or from New York to Yokohama. In addition to the usual telegraph rate 5c extra for postage will be charged.

—Watkins and Steele of Chicago, Ill., will shortly issue "Stepping Stones to Stamp Collecting" by Julian T. Baber, the well-known contributor to the philatelic press. The book is designed to promote stamp collecting, particularly with the younger class of collectors.

—Clippings acknowledged with thanks from Herman W. Boers (2), Marcel E. Taller, Maitland Milliken, J. H. Massey and Hugo Kuenstler (4).

CORRECTION GLADLY NOTED.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12, 1910.

TO THE EDITOR:
If you will notice our ad for Dec. 10 you will see that the printer has made an error, changing "buying from" to "from buying". Will you kindly look up the copy sent you for that date and see who is to blame?

We should appreciate a correction through the columns of the WEEKLY, as our ad reads like a comic column as it stands. The books are not so bad that we care to advertise the fact; indeed, many say that they are the best they have ever seen.

ILLINOIS STAMP COMPANY,
WM. BLOSS, Mgr.

CONTRACT FOR 18,500 LINES.

The WEEKLY has made a contract with the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. to use 18,500 lines of advertising during the year 1911. This is the largest contract ever made by the WEEKLY and represents the biggest sum ever offered for a single block of advertising of this character. We shall make further reference to this remarkable transaction in our issue of Dec. 31.

By SENEX.

Small wholesale offers of used Bosnia, 1910, are becoming a more frequent occurrence, but this can scarcely be said of the Austrian, 1910, no cheapening of which seems to be apparent up to the moment of writing.

The Manoel series of Portugal seem to have gone up considerably during the last week or two. The cry is for used copies, and doubtless many a stamp gatherer wishes he had made a hoard of them while opportunity afforded.

Since the 1d black, British, is going up, what should there be to hinder a similar rise in the case of the 20c black of France, 1849?

A Continental advertiser will take space in a stamp journal to advertise the Boris issue of Bulgaria at 6d per set, just as one sometimes sees the pictorial issues of U. S. A. offered in similar fashion.

Since it is rumored that the current Greek stamps will become obsolete at the end of the year, there may be wisdom in keeping an eye on the 30 and 40 lepta values. The same denominations of the 1901 set now seem to have a good value.

There is a temptation to buy recent Siam now, without minding the dearth of them.

Shall we get very many of the "Juan Fernandez" stamps over here, or will the majority of them be absorbed in the American Continent? Someone says there are about three-quarters of a million altogether.

The wholesale merchants seem to want a good price now for used Madagascar of 1904, which stamps seem to be fading from the horizon in any great quantity.

I had an idea that used German Colonials were worth from 25 to 50 per cent. above face value, but in one place I see items of these that have dropped to the face value level, though this may be but temporary.

Twenty-five and 50 lepta Greek dues are accumulating by the hundred.

The kran values of Persia, 1908, somehow, do not seem so plentiful as the same values of some preceding issues have been.

I have just seen illustrations of the new stamps for Chili, 1910; they will be popular with the pictorial stamp collector, being of attractive size, shape and workmanship.

I can't understand why the 20h Bosnia, 1906, is dearer to buy than it used to be some time back; probably the demand is found to exceed the supply.

The world of buying and selling goes on as usual, and it is a difficult matter to write about, for fear of upsetting the calculations of either buyer or seller. To quote a certain price for a given stamp, and to print the same in the pages of a popular journal, is a proceeding that calls for some judgment and discretion, lest the quotation should clash with the opinions or interests of any subscriber. Hence the absence of actual figures in this column, save on rare occasions.

It is a good sign that the market is full of buyers of small lots to sell again, which means that there is trade about. With the writer, the same attractive lines sell over and over again: Pictorial French Colonial, attractive European sets, South American, including Canal Zone, with a voluminous and pro-

There are countries that do not readily sell, but such cannot be named here; the reader, no doubt, could draw up a list for himself.As to buyers, they are of various sorts and classes. There is the "easy" buyer (of small lots), and there is the "keen" buyer. The former buys largely, the latter is a more limited plunger. Some people only buy bargains. A very small buyer is, perhaps, scarcely worth the trouble involved in correspondence, but it is to one's advantage to attend assiduously to the wants and wishes of the buyer of parcels of considerable value, and secure his perennial attachment by letting him have goods at the lowest prices and in the best condition.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.THE FIRST UNIVERSAL PENNY POSTAGE.

Some of our readers will appreciate this sample stamp study. The subject under consideration is the New Zealand 1p carmine:—

The stamp is carmine, the color selected by the Postal Union for all penny stamps. On the shore stands New Zealand, a tall and graceful female figure, clad in classic flowing robes, her hair streaming in the fresh breeze that is blowing over the Southern Seas, over which she is gazing. In the background, faintly outlined, is seen Mount Egmont's snowy, tapering peak. With her right hand New Zealand points across the sea, on which a steamer is conveying her tidings of goodwill to all the nations of the earth. Her left hand pointing earthwards, grasps a caduceus, Mercury's winged rod entwined by two serpents, the symbol of swift communication and commerce. Thus is indicated the despatch of her mails by land and sea. The globe behind her typifies the world-wide extent of her correspondence. In a ribbon above are the words "New Zealand," in one below "Universal Postage." The value, "one penny" appears in a broad band at the foot. The stamp is bordered by ornamental scrolls, while each top corner is occupied by a circle enclosing a six-pointed star. The designing and printing of the stamp were entrusted to Messrs. Waterlow & Sons, Limited. They have produced, if not a very striking stamp, at all events a thoroughly graceful and artistic one.

RE NEW WATERMARK.

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT.

In reply to an inquiry, addressed to the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, if the side margins from sheets with the new watermark will have the watermark only in every other space, and if it is possible that some of the stamps may have no watermark, the Director kindly states:

"It is possible that there may be a blank margin on a sheet of stamps, with the watermark only in alternate spaces, but it is not possible that any stamps will be printed without bearing some portion of a watermark, although it is possible that the portion of the watermark may be so small as to be not readily observed."

A BUSINESS CHANGE.

Eugene Klein, who has for some time been associated with the Philadelphia Stamp Co., has resigned his position and will open a fine suite of offices in the Empire Bldg. for the conduct of a stamp business under the name of Eugene Klein, Inc.

Mr. Klein will use a one-eighth page space in our issue of Dec. 31 and will take regular space thereafter in which to come in contact with the readers of the WEEKLY.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—J. Arthur Wainwright writes as follows: "I have just received a 1c stamped wrapper showing a break extending from the outside oval nearly to the inside colorless oval between the 'E' and 'N' of 'Cent'. Also the 'E' of 'One' is so heavily printed as to do away with the central branch and form an almost perfect Greek 'S'. All the letters are thick but the numerals of value are a trifle thinner than those with thinner letters. I have written you before about lines on wrapper stamps and all these varieties come from Providence, R. I. I also have a block of eight 1c stamps, current issue, where a crease in the paper causes a line to run from the back of the lower right hand stamp, diagonally through the next higher left hand stamp, just touching the corner of the third right, cutting through the back of the third left and then through the head of Franklin, fourth, left, just behind the eye."

C. F. Alkire shows us some oddities, including 2c green envelope of 1887: (a) with cap over "2" and white dot below the figure; (b) no top of "C" of "Cents."

W. E. Whitnall calls attention to a slip made in No. 1039, where the 5c of 1898, with watermark sideways, was mentioned as an oddity. Mr. Whitnall reports the 3c of 1895 and the 6c and 10c of 1898 with the same peculiarity. The watermark is put in the paper simply to make counterfeiting more difficult, and the post office officials do not care whether it is normal, inverted or sideways.

In this connection, it may not be out of place to thank our many correspondents for their kindness, and to express our satisfaction that so many of our readers are studying their stamps. We would, however, sound one note of caution; many of the varieties recently brought to our notice, are mere defects in printing, and therefore are not likely to get into the catalogue. Please bear this in mind in sending us the result of your studies; and above all, keep on studying.

Frank B. Eldredge sends us another batch of precancelled stamps, including the following:

Scott's No. 323, precancelled Lexington, Ky., over a Cincinnati, Ohio, Paid Permit.
Scott's No. 323, precancelled Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, reading up; Type I.
Scott's No. 323, precancelled Elkhart, Indiana, normal; Type IV.
Scott's No. 324, precancelled Augusta, Maine, normal and inverted; precancelling done with ordinary circular and package cancelling stamp; Type I.
Scott's No. 324, precancelled Lyons, N. Y., reading up; Type I.

AUSTRALIA.—Word has come from the Commonwealth, to the effect that no overprint is to be placed on the stamps of the different states, but all are to be used indiscriminately in any state. The differing postal rates, however, are not to be changed for the present.

ECUADOR.—We are indebted to Hermann Focke and H. Cormack for specimens of new fiscal provisionals from Ecuador. Mr. Cormack sends us four fiscal stamps, surcharged with "Timbre—Patriotico—1910" in three lines, the stamps used being the 2c of 1905-1906, 10c of 1901-1902, 10c of 1905-1906, and 20c of 1901-1902. The latter is surcharged "Timbre—Patriotico—1/2—Centavo." All surcharges are in red. Mr. Cormack says that these "Patriotic" stamps were issued on the eve of the then apparent war between Ecuador and Peru. Two of the specimens sent by Mr. Cormack are postally used, and one is on the original cover.

Mr. Focke sends some provisionals, also made by surcharging fiscal stamps, the 5c green of 1907-1908 being "Bienio—1909 y 1910" like Scott's Nos. 376 to 380, with dates changed, in black reading up, and the 20c slate blue of 1905-1906 being surcharged in three lines "Correos—Cinco—Centavos," like Scott's Type A44, in black, also reading up. Both surcharges are in oval frames and all have been used for postage.

HONDURAS.—Hermann Focke has shown us some new provisionals from Honduras, which with all her political troubles, seems to have run short of certain values of postage stamps. For some time we have noted that split provisionals were being used, but now three provisionals have been created by overprinting the 20c ultramarine of the current series. This overprint is in a large heavy type, roughly printed, possibly with a rubber stamp.

Provisional Adhesives.

PHILIPPINES.—Theodore Siddall sends us the 12c and 20c in the new colors, which in this case are not shades, but distinct colors. The perforation of these stamps is very bad, though the printing is well done, as usual. This leaves only the 8c, 16c, 26c and 2p to come out in the new colors. It is understood that the 10c Special Delivery is not to be changed.

NO MORE RECRUITING AT PRESENT.

The managing editor of the WEEKLY has been honored with the appointment as chairman of the recruiting committee of the U. S. Revenue Society. Were we to serve any organization in that capacity, we would certainly serve the society in which our membership is Number 1 but the fact is we don't want any more recruiting honors excepting such as come to us in building up the mailing list of the WEEKLY.

We shall not soon forget our reward in laying open our mailing list in the interests of the A. P. S. We could not have worked harder for the society had we been paid a salary. And in return, in the interests of "harmony" and in defiance of all sense of justice and the expressed will of the membership, Redfield's Weekly, by having an earlier day of publication, gets the official matter into the mails twenty-four hours ahead of the WEEKLY.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered. If personal reply is wanted enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WANTED!

We want the boy readers of this paper to take possession of this page and feel that it really belongs to them.

We want to know your difficulties and if it's possible we will straighten things out to your satisfaction.

We want to make the WEEKLY so valuable that you won't need any other stamp paper.

We want suggestions as to what you really need in order to make this page attractive and valuable.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

OUR STAMP STUDY CONTEST.

What do you know about this stamp? What can you find out in addition to what you know? This contest is open only to readers of the WEEKLY under 20 years of age and replies must be received by January 3, 1911. We shall publish one or more of the winning entries and offer the following prizes:—1st. 400 all different foreign stamps; 2nd. 300 different foreign stamps and 3rd a book on U. S. stamps.

This contest will give you an incentive for studying this particular stamp while at the same time it will give you practice in expressing your thought.

AN INSTANT SUCCESS.

We have heard of successes and immediate successes but the "boy's department" we shall have to dub an "instant" success. Tuesday morning's mail gave us tangible evidence not only that the new move is appreciated but that the Stamp Study will be warmly contested. The chord we have struck is indeed a responsive one!

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

VARIOUS AIMS OF COLLECTING.

By C. E. SEVERN.

In telling the new collector just how to enter the philatelic field it is perhaps best to discriminate a little in the "raw material." New collectors may be divided into classes, first the boy who "just collects" and whose only apparent desire is to "get more than Bill Jones has" (and it must be said that some of the older collectors occasionally show a very similar trait), and second, the more earnest and thoughtful collector, be he boy or man, who takes up the pastime for what pleasure and instruction he may derive from it. We do not wish to belittle the boy of the first type for he often becomes one of Philatelia's steadfast adherents, but it is for the individual of the second type, naturally, that we are writing, as he is generally glad of advice and help in making a path for himself in his new field.

In a way, the path of the beginner is made easier now than it was years ago. Of good catalogues and hand-books there is an abundance; the commoner forgeries are much less numerous than formerly, for collectors have grown wary and counterfeiting now requires so much skill that it does not pay the counterfeiter to imitate any but the higher-priced stamps; dealers upon the whole have become better informed and more scrupulous, realizing that their own interests are identical with those of their patrons, and thus the beginner is much less exposed to fraudulent impositions. Moreover, the flood of new issues has become so large that it costs no great trouble or expense to get a respectable start on the way of the collector. On the contrary, things in another way have become harder for the beginner. The field has become so large that he soon becomes appalled at the magnitude of the task; the catalogues are so full of minor varieties, of watermarks, of papers, of perforations, that the beginner becomes discouraged at the idea of having to learn all these. It is often claimed, and with a show of reason, I admit, that this superabundance of material keeps new material out of our ranks.

USING A BLANK ALBUM.

A correspondent writes:

In arranging stamps in a blank album how is it best to mount incomplete sets? Should space be left for the missing specimens, or should there be a consecutive mounting of those already acquired, necessitating the insertion of "late arrivals" as addenda, so to speak?

Gauging our course by personal taste we would give no hard and fast regulations for proceeding in the matter. We should exercise a judgment that at times would dictate that spaces be left and again, that they be not, according to circumstances that are always present in connection with an issue. However, we rather favor the unbroken line of specimens on the page of a blank album, but care must be taken not to overcrowd the page. The stamps on a leaf, if not placed together too closely, will allow, by rearrangement, of the incorporation of late comers at the expense of a few peelable hinges and little, if any, marring of the clean page.

TAKING CARE OF STAMPS.

By C. E. SEVERN.

Use care in the selection of your specimens. Better a blank space than a torn or heavily cancelled stamp, or one with the perforations partly clipped off or otherwise damaged. In some cases of great varieties, this rule will not hold good because one is glad to get some of them in any condition, but this class is small, and with the great majority of stamps, particularly the low priced ones, there is absolutely no excuse for any but fine specimens. If the collector takes pride in his stamps, which means he will be careful in collecting, he will find it to pay in the end.

Care should be used in removing paper from the backs of the specimens before mounting them, pulling off hinges, etc., as stamps are often damaged in this way. Most stamps can be soaked, preferably in hot water, and dried on blotting paper; but a few like Russians, early Bulgarians, current United States due stamps, China 1885 issue, recent British and British Colonial stamps having green in their coloring, and stamps printed on "chalk-surfaced" paper are affected by water and should not be immersed in it. A piece of wet blotting paper against the back until the adhering paper is damp enough to remove, is the best way to treat them. Of course mounting is only to be done with hinges, and care should be taken not to soil the stamps or page when it is done.

SHERIFF'S SALE

By virtue of a writ of execution issued out of the City Court of the City of New York, in the action of Warren H. Colson, plaintiff, against Walter Clarke Bellows, defendant, JOHN S. SHEA, Sheriff of the County of New York, will sell, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the auction rooms of the Sheriff's Auctioneer, Daniel Greenwald, No. 50 Howard St., in the Borough of Manhattan in the City of New York, on Wednesday, the fourth day of January, 1911, at half past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day,

Walter Clarke Bellows' Own Set of Campeche Stamps consisting of a 5c, 25c and 50c stamp.

An opportunity to secure at YOUR valuation what are said to be among the rarest stamps in the world; of a rarity comparable with that of the Hawaiian Missionary stamps.

QUERIES AND COMMENT.

Edited by C. E. SEVERN.

Our readers are cordially invited to ask the editor for any information desired concerning stamp collecting. Should a personal reply be desired kindly enclose postage. This department is for the beginner as well as the advanced collector. Address, C. E. Severn, 721 Oxford Bdg., Chicago, Ill.

Mr. de Lachasse, San Francisco, has written: "I have just received from a friend living in Paris, a ten centimes stamp of the present issue, whose color instead of being the usual vermilion-red is exactly the color of the orange of the 30 centimes; and that, to such an extent that placed side by side, the values only tell 'which is which.' Is it an error?" We must infer that the stamp mentioned by our esteemed correspondent is a changeling. Nothing has been said of a 10 centimes in orange in the French papers, we believe; and in view of the fact that red may be changed into orange, the changeling theory must be adhered to in the absence of proof to the contrary.

S.:—In 1859, the rates of postage from America to Australia were as follows: British mail, via Southampton, not exceeding half-ounce, 33 cents; British mail, via Marseilles, quarter-ounce, 39 cents, half ounce, 45 cents; by private ship from New York or Boston, half-ounce, 5 cents; by Bremen or Hamburg mail, via Marseilles and Suez, quarter-ounce, 50 cents, half-ounce, $1.02; by Bremen or Hamburg mail, via Trieste, half-ounce, 55 cents; prepayment of postage required in each instance. (2) The letter rate to Canada in 1859 was 10 cents, up to and not exceeding a half-ounce in weight, when the distance was 3,000 miles or under; when over 3,000 miles, the charge was 15 cents; prepayment optional in either case.

F. D. B.:—This reader says: "I have in my collection, an 1887-92 half-penny used, Great Britain, on blue paper. Will you tell me if such a stamp was ever issued by the government?" It is safe to say that the half-penny on blue paper was never issued by the British government; the issue of stamps is a matter of careful record and it is beyond the bounds of possibility almost to claim that such a stamp was accidentally issued. Undoubtedly, the paper of the stamp was colored in some way after it was issued.

T. R. N.:—Your 2-cent bank check, civil war revenue stamp, with postmark may have some curious interest but has no philatelic standing as the authorities prohibited the use of revenue stamps for postal purposes. (2) We shall not say that your initialed 2-cent stamp, 1895 issue, is an old issue that was treated by one of the initialing machines since the government allowed the use of these specially marked stamps but as such specimens could easily be made, no added value attaches to the stamp.

R. E.:—According to Gibbons Stamp Weekly of October 15th, the 1908 official stamps, with hole punched in them, are the stamps regularly used; but, however, collectors can "obtain from one to four sets of the stamps without this disfigurement by direct application to the Director-General."

Beginner:—It is suggested that you read the "Hints to Collectors" in the Scott catalogue, as all your questions are answered in this instructive preface. In case you have no catalogue, we do not hesitate to advise you to buy one, now that the new edition has appeared recently, as aside from its value as a guide to stamp prices, the catalogue is replete with information in the form of notes and explanations. (2) We have no list of foreign readers who desire correspondents in the United States.

E. L.:—The WEEKLY proved many years ago on evidence that was considered unimpeachable evidence that at least one of the denominations of the Philippine "Aguinaldo" stamps was used to a limited extent for postage. Some cataloguers do not recognize the stamps of the insurrectos for what they and many others deem good and sufficient reasons.

W. N. N.:—United States stamps that are not listed imperforate in the catalogue cannot be proved as having been issued originally imperforate unless a pair be produced: (2) The three-cent, 1861, was issued in sheets of two hundred stamps; one hundred stamps were at either side of a blank central margin and after the stamps were cut into sheets of one hundred stamps each, they were sent to the postmasters.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 13, 1910.

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to know if any one besides myself has had unsatisfactory dealings with Chas. H. Smith, of Smithton, Pa., A. P. S. No. 3085. On Sept. 20, 1909, I sent him a lot of stamps and, except a postal from him in Nov. 1909, saying he would return them soon, have been unable to get any reply.

In June, 1910, I placed the matter in an attorney's hands and they, through correspondents in his vicinity, endeavored to collect the bill but were unsuccessful, tho he promised to settle.

Besides being an A. P. S. member, this man is the express agent in his town and has posed as a stamp dealer. I would like to hear from any one interested.

BRANCH REPORT.

Detroit.—The 23rd regular meeting was held at the home of S. E. Heineman, Dec. 9. Fifteen members and one visitor, Ed Bridgeman, present. By-laws amended, that members joining the D. P. S. and living outside of the city be associate members and have no vote. J. E. Scott was duly elected a member. Mr.
Schmalzreidt reported that the Auto
Company had settled with the four A. P.
S. members hurt in the accident during the convention. S. E. Heineman read a request for subscriptions to the educational fund and made a few pointed remarks on that subject, requesting at least a dollar from each member. The Secretary was instructed to send a letter of condolence to the family of David Hunt, Jr. Mr. Hunt was killed in an auto accident Nov. 26. Next meeting December 23 at the Hotel Tuller grill room as guests of Messrs. Bowen and Rice.—
C. F. HEYERMAN, Sec.

then I admit that Mr. Clark is correct, but I would like to call his attention to the fact the Boonton Collectors' Association is two years old. Further, I do not think that the T. P. S. is first in importance in N. J. Here are some facts about the B. C. A.

It was founded Dec. 20, 1908. In March, 1910, it was granted a charter as Branch No. 1 of the M. P. A.

In September, 1910, we held the first and only Stamp Exhibition ever held in the State of N. J. At the same time we gave the lantern slide lecture of the Chicago Philatelic Society, the lecture being delivered by J. M. Bartels of New York, formerly of Boston.

The next convention of the Metropolitan Philatelic Association will be held at Boonton, N. J., some time in August, 1911. It may be remarked in passing that the other candidates for the honor of holding the next M. P. A. convention were Buffalo, Detroit and Cleveland.

25th MAIL AUCTION

BIDS CLOSE JAN. 15, 1911

Stamps are sold by the lot. Bids must be made in multiples of five. No bids accepted for less than 5c. Stamps in average condition, and used, unless otherwise noted.

Successful bidders notified immediately after the sale closes. Stamps promptly forwarded to our regular customers, with whom we have had satisfactory relations, or to those who file satisfactory references. Others must forward cash in advance.

No lots sent on approval, but stamps may be returned within three days if not found to be in accordance with description.

No charges made for buying, but postage and registration are always extra and must be forwarded with remittance. Some of our friends have recently overlooked this matter, but hereafter it will be strictly enforced.

No bids accepted for unused lots for less than face.

Nos. 1 to 49 are in fine condition, and constitute one of the finest lots we have ever had the pleasure of including in our Mail Auctions. Liberal bidders will find this a rare opportunity to get some gilt edged stamps for their collections.
